IDAHO POWER'S CONTENTION

The Idaho Power company is defending its attitude toward the opening of its books to the public and in reply to its critics generally, says that it would welcome a comparison of its rates with those charged by other companies in other states and that it has vainly tried to get the public utilities commission to consider the matter from this angle. It contends that its rates are extremely reasonable and that it would provide just if given a chance.

If this is the case, the Idaho Power company has and should apply for the same, leastly, that The Times has insisted that the Southern Idaho Light & Power Trust's association has and should use, namely, an appeal to the supreme court should satisfactory adjustment not be made on rehearing.

Nobody who is worth shouting words the Idaho Power company to lose anything through confiscation; A lot of people are not satisfied with the present rate as fixed by the public utilities commission. The power company seems to be dissatisfied also. Everybody has confidence in the supreme court's fairness. Whether satisfied or not, there is no appeal from its decision. Under the circumstances, it would seem as if the thing to do would be for both the company and the association to get a rehearing from the commission and if not satisfied, then to carry it to the supreme court for final determination.

It is too bad for the Idaho power company to be suffering through the perversity and obstinacy of the commission in refusing to allow it to prove its case. Still, if it does not appeal to the supreme court, the light and power boards should unless satisfied with the decision of the commission on rehearing.

BONUS TO SILVER PRODUCERS

Score one for the silver miners of the country. The Pitman bill this time is to be re-enacted. The Pitman bill fixes the price where the government "must" pay for the silver. It sets in minutes at one dollar an ounce. "The price" to anyone who may offer silver, is 65 cents an ounce, and much is sold at that price, but not to the government which seems to feel called upon to pay the silver producer the bonus, a fixed price that insures a profit to the producer.

Apparently that act of congress, fixing the price of silver to the producer is in all ways, is good business for the producer, but if that act is right then why, by all that is holy, is it so wrong, so illogical, so economically wrong, to fix the price of wheat to the producer so that he too can make a profit?

Mind you no attempt is being made to state that it is logical to fix the price of wheat to the grower so that the government will guarantee a profit, but it is said that it is just as logical to fix the price of wheat, insuring a profit, as it is to fix the price of silver to the producer guaranteeing a profit.

The government performed that good act for the silver miners and producers during the war, enacted the Pitman act making a guaranteed price of silver of one dollar an ounce. At that time the government had a good many silver dollars in its vaults. England wanted silver to send to India. This government offered its silver dollars and the offer was accepted at something around the 65-cent price per ounce.

The government had to replace the silver, of course, in order to issue the silver dollars in order to back the paper silver certificates and in order to replace the silver had to buy it, of course. The Pitman act was passed, which fixed the price to the government at the dollar-per-ounce which was then more than it was worth. The miners and silver producers prospered. The Pitman act expired by limitation but that would never do. The mining interests had it re-enacted. It would not do for the silver producers of the country to produce without a profit. It is not war time but the producers need, or want, the extra profit and will get it.

According to the way of thinking it must be all right, at least congress thinks so, but when the farmer and wheat producer asks for a bonus, or for a guaranteed price for his product, which is produced at a loss under present conditions, the logic, according to congress, is all wrong; the principle is unsound, it is not good business.

In this way does the bonus business march on. When the silver producers have unloaded it will be the turn of some other over-stocked industry to get a guaranteed fixed and set out to the government. Fine business for all but the real producer, the food producer, the farmer. He gets his but in some other way.—Idaho Falls Times-Register.

The trouble with the farmer is that he has to dig up to help pay for the privilege accorded the other fellows who get more than the market price paid by normal demand and this cuts his profit. By normal demand would be both parties in 1878, and by the republican party in 1896 would fight the money of the world and incidentally help the silver miners permanently which the present system of subsidy will not do. The word bonus is not quite applicable in this case; subsidy is the proper term to use.

The farmer needs no subsidy or fixed price if monopolistic practices are taken from the market and the government will not subsidize or fixed price will help him permanently unless this should be done.

EX-SHERIFF ANDERSON GIVES TANLAC CREDIT

Man Who Held Public Office Over 27 Years Says Medicine Restored His Health and Strength Years Ago And Has Helped Keep Him Well.

"I got a hit in the winter of 1914, when I was 50 years old, but not until, however, in view of what it did for me, the high tribute paid the famous medicine a few days ago, by Hon. Archie B. Anderson, ex-sheriff of Harris county, Texas, who resides at 1505 Austin St., Houston.

"Mr. Anderson is unquestionably one of the best known and most popular men that ever held public office in this country and he is a man of high character and high standing in the community. He has been elected sheriff of Harris county for 12 years, and was elected chief of police of the city of Houston. He had occupied this office for a short time when the sheriff of Harris county died and Mr. Anderson was then appointed by the Commissioner's Court to serve out the unexpired term of office. He was honored with reelection as sheriff several different times and served the people in this important office for 15 consecutive years. Before resigning, he was all run-down and had no appetite. I had the worst form of indigestion and could not eat fried foods or pastries and I was losing weight rapidly. I got on the stomach which frequently caused severe pain. I was only helped with the worst sort of narcotic pills and finally seemed to help me only in a temporary way, until I took Tanlac.

"Then I read the statement of a Georgia sheriff, who had been victim of trouble like mine. I just felt like I ought to go on by taking Tanlac, and it has done just more for me than I expected. I felt better after the first bottle, I did a new letter and different man to me. I never felt better in my life than I did after taking Tanlac. And although five years have passed since I have discontinued use of my pills, my health has continued good and I am as well as a dollar to this good day. I am a complete endorsement of Tanlac because it does the work and does it well."

has perhaps gone a little stronger than some would care to do but the evidence is there. Last December, the 25th, to be exact, Mr. North purchased 120 head of sheep from the state of Texas. These were lambled February 6th. Last Sunday he delivered fifty-five head of sheep and the rest were sold for a total of $11,400, possibly $10,000. The lambs averaged eight to ten pounds from a shrink of three per cent. Mr. North, figure it out.

So far Mr. North has received $11,400 for sheep and wool sold, and he expects to deliver another head more lambs, which will probably bring his total up to $11,600, possibly $11,800.

Mr. North, figure it out.

Mr. North, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Denney of Paul, is lying in his home, the victim of an unaccountable accident, the thumb and all the fingers of the left hand with the exception of one finger of the little finger blown away, one eye seriously affected and a flesh wound in the abdomen. This is the toll of a bright, energetic little fellow who was investigating a cap that he had found.

The accident occurred at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, while with his pet wood-brother, Boyd, was playing in the yard at their home. Mr. Denney had just stepped into a neighbor's house a few minutes when a terrific cap, as a shot, brought Mrs. J. M. Riley, neighbor, who told him to follow the one child with a mangled hand and the other little fellow screaming.
