POSTAL CLERKS IN CANADA ARE ON STRIKE NOW

Many Thousand of Postal Clerks Are Already Out in Canada and Many Others Expected to Go Out Late Today; Mail Service Is Greatly Impaired.

MONTREAL, June 19.—Almost the entire postal force of the Island of Montreal, Canada, went on strike yesterday. It is forced by post office authorities that the remaining few will leave their posts at 6 p.m. Efforts to recruit strike-breakers here met with little success.

Owing to a strike order, postal workers throughout Canada went on strike at 6 p.m. With mail piled up and United States mail held up, there was no strike at all yesterday, the government was making strenuous efforts to fill the places.

Reports from Ontario and Quebec cities said business was already disrupted.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 19.—Final decision in the three-day strike against the postal service was deferred until 6 p.m. today when members of the cabinet and of the postal federation went into session at the capital this morning.

Every effort was made to avoid a strike, but all postal employees, many of whom already are on strike.

Acting Postmaster General Slaw art rushed preparations in case other workers followed the lead of those in Ottawa, where 1,700 men went out. The men were warned that parliament will be called again to use every means at its disposal to keep the strike from getting out.

Should the walkout become complete, the strikers assert, mails will be tied up at the international border, and business badly hampered.

CONTRACTORS.—The postal service throughout Canada was set up today, leaders of the postal workers' organization asserted, following issuance of the strike order at 6 p.m. yesterday.

Strike leaders said the walkout was complete in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, and Quebec City, and that advances toward the west and south in unorganized cities there had out practically as a unit.

St. Paul Gets Next Kiwanis Convention; Illinois Man Named

DENVER, Colo., June 19.—Victor M. Johnson of Rockford, Ill., was elected president of Kiwanis International in a close contest with John A. Moore of Milwaukee, who had held both before the department of justice for appropriate action.

This contest is believed to have been caused by a proposal made by August S. Sherman, assistant to the attorney general in charge of antitrust proceedings.

DALLAS, June 19.—The silver medal case from which $100,000 in jewels belonging to Mrs. Edsel Ford were stolen was found in the Ford home today. A house servant made the discovery.

J. Walter Taylor of Montreal and Ralph S. Annen of Chicago, Pa., were selected without opposition as vice presidents.

Fred C. Parker of Chicago was elected international treasurer and Russell E. Ward of Jackson, Mich., international treasurer.

Neither had opposition in the election.

Newly elected trustees are: Dr. Burton D. Mayr, Thomas H. Battie, Charles W. Old, Douglas A. Scott, Louis Mitchell, Frank Bach, and Frank Williamson, and Raymond H. Proster.

St. Paul was selected as the 1925 meeting place.

STORM KILLS SIX IN TWO STATES

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 19.—Twelve were killed and heavy property damage done by a storm which swept across North Dakota and Minnesota early today.

Originating in the Black Hills, the gale, gusting 60 miles per hour, about 745 a.m., those hours were awake after the long night received a straight edge of the wind.

Before, annual appropriation bill is passed and the state adjourns. The chair refuses to recognize republicans.

Fifteen lights, lighting on a small scale, were lit, such as those in the chamber, and the speaker, who was in office at this time, dashed into the senate chamber.

COMMUNIST DOMINATING CONVENTION

La Follette Fails to Get Endorsement by Farm-Labor Convention; Endorsement of Candidate Left to National Committee.

CONVENTION HALL, St. Paul, June 19.—The national farmer-labor third party convention in its closing session today avoided endorsement of Senator Robert M. La Follette, its presidential candidate.

A majority report from the nominations committee left the question of a presidential and vice presidential candidate to the national committee.

The report was adopted by an overwhelming majority after a brief but spirited fight.

"We can swing behind La Follette if he runs," William Mahan, chairman, who previously had fought for endorsement of La Follette.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER.

NYC, June 19.—Political strategists of rival candidates for the democratic presidential nomination swung around among the leaders and rank and file of the convention to decide for the big convention begin to take form. Chief development were these:

—W. G. McAdoo held a conference with his convention leaders to settle the date of the big convention.

—Friends of Governor Smith and William Randolph Hearst moved to postpone the convention until after the personal quarrel as to who would be nominated to the South from New York.

Smith would not disclose the move and Hearst was out of the city.

—Gutzlaff, of the convention leaders, with New York delegation leaders, including Norman Jack, national committee man, and J. J. Brennan, is working to great effect to get the convention to meet in New Mexico.

Also he is trying to get an anti-labor convention, which leaders regard as designed to embarrass McAdoo.

—John W. Davis supporters are still holding out at the Waldorf and began a campaign to make the West Virginian the favorite "dark horse" of the convention. Judge John T. Holt of Indianapolis, a noted orator, has come to New York to speak in favor of Davis.

Mrs. Letitia Jewell-Brown will second the nomination.

—Dark horse fanciers also plotted out St. Paul, Harrison and Senator Carl Vinson, today, in their efforts in favor of getting backing upon arrival.

He is from Colorado first.

Harrison, a Communist, has national committee chairman, Chairman of the Senate, and the national committee chairman of the Senate.

—Harrison, who was addressed as "dark horse" when he addressed a rally of delegates in the first regional field this year.

—McAdoo, of the convention leaders, took a plowshare from an anti-labor delegation.

He is from Dayton, Ohio, and is a member of the battle-hardened division of the Pacific fleet, for his inspection.

—Admiral Wiley, after studying the convention, has decided to support McAdoo.

—Democrat leaders and delegations everywhere have only kind words for the Alabamian, who is popularly with all factions of the party was reported to have his strongest support.

—"Any one who is not for us is against us," between George E. Donnan, democratic leader of Illinois and leader of the McAdoo delegation and Governor Al Smith.

England Severs Relations With Mexican Nation

LONDON, June 19.—Prime Minister MacDonald speaking in the house of commons this afternoon, viciously defended the actions of Sir Edward Grey, foreign minister, in Mexico, where an ultimatum had been ordered by the Mexican government.

Campbell would later fail in his duty to make any official statement in which the Mexican government objected," Macdonald said.

President Obregon of Mexico, in an interview with the United Press that evening, denied that Britain's action in this country's dissatisfaction with the British colonies over Mexico.

"We have always acted in a friendly spirit," Obregon said, "and good relations between us and the general attitude of Communists has been in progress throughout, in a constant and friendly manner."

He added: "Sir Edward Grey is a man who would be acceptable to us, and we hope the field now is open for cordial relations with Mexico."

What the next step may be is being kept secret by the prime minister and his officials.

There seems to be some anxiety that an apology be demanded; others contend the situation will remain as it is.

Obregon, however, has informed the Foreign Office that he regards the Mexican ultimatum as having been issued without sufficient cause.

President Macdonald referred to the "total breach with Mexico" in his article.

Premier Macdonald returned to the United States to attend the annual Atlantic Conference.

Mr. Myron T. Herrick, U.S. ambassador to Mexico, was present at the conference.

CAREER OF
BOXERS UPWATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

George Carpenter Closed His
When He Lost to Tommy Gibbons and Ended His Fighting Outfit, the Ring After Being Knocked Out by Danny Frush; Later, Was a Real Fighter in the Featherweight Class.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The ring careers of the two best fighters France has produced have virtually come to an end within 48 hours.

George Carpenter, former world's light-heavyweight champion, ended his at Michael City when he lost somewhat inconclusively to Tommy Gibbons.

Two days later, Ernest Crisaf, gallant featherweight, who lost his life in that dueling to Johnny Dundee last year, forewore the ring forever after a bout about the hands of Danny Frush.

Carpenter may go no fighting; probably he will win some more bouts before he finally passes out of the ring. Gibbons had earlier been beaten twice, but he won his last fight, and was far from being beaten when he took a hard beating from Gibbons on Decoration Day.

Poor George is definitely through. No one who saw the brave fighter he put up against Dundee in New York, staggering, blundering about the ring and refusing to quit, can help but sympathize with the stout fellow who was beaten.

"In through. You won't be me getting knocked out from ring to ring." A better man beat me (this was said by Gibbons to Dundee in Paris) and I have no excuse. No broken hands—no broken heart.

"I've had my day, been champion of the world, but I'm not a champion any more. I'd have gone back to the United States and had another trial for the title if I'd been beaten again," he said.

The past, Crisaf, a fighting Frenchman, once a real fighter, maimed in the world war so that his whole jaw was shot away, Survivors patched him up, putting a sheep's bone in place of the little fighter's jaw.

Crisaf returned to the ring, fought his way to the top, despite his wounds, came to the conclusion that he could not do it again, and so he quit by knocking out Johnny Kilbane. Then came the match with Dundee, instead of returning to France to gather in his laurels.

At last, Crisaf consented to meet the Scotch-Wop a few weeks after the Kilbane fight. He received a terrible beating, from which he never recovered.

Polenom

Polenom is a mettalic element discovered in 1883 by Niels. While studying the radioactivity of various mettals, it is closely related to iron, manganous, and other transition rays and is perhaps identical with radium E. It was named polenom from the Latin name of Poland.

The soviet government of Russia makes no mistake in recognizing corruption in the soviet bureaucracy—as one of the identified foes of the communist commonwealth, and this explains the sentencing to death of 17 officials who had been found guilty of charges of bribery or peculation. The death penalty for such crimes would cause havoc in American officialdom and would be condemned by public sentiment as excessively harsh. Yet, corruption is as much the enemy you deserve as of a proletarian state.

Many of her old-time passengers will deplore the passing of the famous liner St. Louis, which sailed from New York Thursday with her flag at half-mast on her last voyage, which will end at Genoa, where she will be broken up for junk. She is a landmarkship and still stands after nearly thirty years of service, but the cost of operation is prohibitive. Of her sister ships the St. Paul and the New York have already been scrapped and the Philadelphia lies on the coast of Italy, where she was abandoned by a mutinous crew.

FUSION STIRS UP POLITICAL INTEREST

(By JAMES D. WHITMAN.)

The Times editorial on the gubernatorial situation has had the merit of stirring up criticism from various quarters. Straightforward democrats and uncompromising progressives are each inclined to think the idea difficult to carry out, while the more moderate on both sides were of the opinion that it was right in principle if workable in practice. There were not lacking democrats on one hand and progressives on the other, who took the position that their respective parties were certain to sweep the state should they "go it alone." Yet this sounded somewhat like the lady "who don't protest too much."

The statement that no suitable democratic leader willing to make the race had appeared, and that it was doubtful whether one ever would, was based on the report that neither Judge John C. Rice, Al Frechette nor Ben Ross would run, stirred some comment and a number of fine men in the democratic party who would make great governors and aggressive campaigns were mentioned. The fact that the democratic party has plenty of fine material is unimportant. That any of these who might be suggested would consent to run this year, or any year, or would take the place if offered, is not so clear.

The theory of the progressives who hope to win alone is based on the mistaken theory that their vote will increase in the state at large in proportion to its increase from 1920 to 1922. In 1922 the progressive vote in this county was 1000 greater than the democratic vote on the state ticket. Last year the progressives were third in the county and many hundreds below both of the other parties, while in newer counties where lately organized it made great gains. Should the history of Twin Falls county repeat itself in this fall, the falling off would be a surprise to the enthusiastic members of the party, and this is to be expected. In a three-cornered fight, it would certainly be third in the race. At the same time, there is little chance so far as signs now go, that this falling off will be realized to the extent that will elect the democratic ticket in Idaho. In only one contingency would the progressives win. Should the democrats nominate an Idaho Power company and trust candidate, splitting the reactionary vote of the state the progressives might win.

The Times is not tied to any one plan of getting together, provided the existence and autonomy of the democratic party is preserved. But it does believe that the chances are that the republicans will win unless the really progressive voters get together. It has offered as a proposition that the office of governor be allowed to the progressives in return for the other state and the congressional nominees. In order to start a discussion it is necessary to make a definite proposition. The Times, therefore, stands pat awaiting developments.

The democratic platform of two years ago was said by progressive speakers in the Lowering to be "almost as good" as their own. The only real difference was that only constitutional remedies were offered by the democrats, while the progressives suggested things that would require amendments to the constitution. There is absolutely no chance for the progressive party to elect a majority of the legislature. Every person who looks at the map of Idaho knows this if he figures where its votes come from. There is no chance for democrats in a three-cornered fight to get both houses of the legislature. The people can nothing for the empty honor of having some one as governor who cannot act. The two parties working together, could elect a state slate and the legislature and get the reforms advocated by democrats into law. The unconstitutional things could not be put into effect anyhow. The progressives appear to folks to join them and forget party names for principle. If they really mean this, they will be ready for reasonable cooperation, whether on the basis suggested by the Times or some better system.

Whether government and congressmen can be elected in this state by the democratic party alone or not, it is only through co-operation that the democratic legislative program can be carried into effect and the hold of the trusts broken, and the people want that more than they do to see any particular set of individuals draw the salaries.
