ROSETTA BEFORE AND AFTER SHE MET CICERO POLICEMEN

Left—Doretta Duncan at theatergoers knew her before her encounter with Cicero (III) police. Right—Rosetta after the fight.

(By Dr. D. RICHARDS)

CHIAGO, July 12.—Even a breakaway from a police officer can't stop the story of Roberto's little tiff with the law in Cicero. Rosetta and Vivian, the two brothers, were out for a little drive. A policeman stopped their car for a traffic violation and made them to the side of the road.

The chief of police instructed the party to have been drinking. That made Roberto angry.

Cicero isn't getting a word of sympathy from any of his officers.

They even refused to drink with the king of Spain in his London debut party for his son.

The king lifted his glass and asked Cicero to drink. We'll see what he does.

"Night, an' wot," he said, "you may che dead tomorrow. But we refused, and we always refuse."

July the lambing of the Mormon people in the Great Salt Lake valley began with a program in the morning at the tabernacle in Burley and in which all members of the church residing in the Burley stake will participate.

Rims and Tires

If the car owner, after belting in the wheel, finds his tires trouble to hold their tread, it is best to clean the tire with a sponge and then wire the car especially along the beads, he will do much to prevent the formation of rust.

NORTHWEST RETURNING TO

business has been thriving better since the first of July than in four years.

We are extremely fortunate in the northwest in having every prospect for a big crop at a good price. Drought has been recognized throughout the country as a serious agricultural situation.

Northwest farmers will be able to liquidate their stocks and have a net back on an even keel and the northwest will enter a new era of business prosperity. Land values will be high.

"Ficks will be selling at $10 a hundredweight in a short time and can't wait longer."

"We are at the threshold of a marketing situation that occurs only twice or three times in a lifetime—a bumper crop selling at a good price."

Explains Hot Springs

This source of the heat of the hot springs in Arkansas is believed to be the great mass of igneous rock intruded in the earth's crust by volcanic agency. It is believed that the water is heated by contact with this heated mass, probably ascending through fissures toward the surface, where they meet cold springs which are heated by the vapor.

THE POWER RATE ORDER

The action of the public utilities commission, which after a long delay, ordered the Idaho Power company to show cause why a straight cut of 10 per cent. should not be made in rates will meet with popular approval. It would make the company a very popular institution should it gracefully yield. This, however, is hardly to be expected considering the fight it made for higher rates recently. The company claims that it is getting less money under the present than under the previous rates. The Southern Idaho Light & Power Users' association disputes this but even if true it misses the point, since, it is claimed, the company sells juice outside the state at a lower rate than inside and thus this discriminates against Idaho users. These are things that the commission will have to consider should the company refuse to reduce rates as requested. The action lays the foundation for a determination of the whole matter legally unless the company should yield, since it gives grounds for appeal to the supreme court, which in case of dispute, has the final say. Much credit is due to Capt. E. M. Sweeney and his assistant, C. S. Hunter, for the manner in which they have pushed the interests of consumers.

THE VETERANS' PLANK

The following is the luxuriously awaited veterans' plank of the republican platform:

"We reaffirm the admiration and gratitude which we feel for soldiers and sailors...."

The republican party pledges "a continually and increasing attitude for all those suffering any disability as a result of service to the United States in time of war. No country and no administration has ever shown a more generous disposition in the care of its disabled or more thoughtful consideration in providing a sound administration for the solution of the many problems involved in making intended benefits fully, directly, and promptly available to the veterans."

The confusion, inefficiency, and maladministration existing heretofore since the establishment of this government agency has been cured and plans are being actively made looking to a further improvement in the operation of the bureau by the passage of new legislation. The basic statute has been so liberalized as to bring within its terms additional beneficiaries. The privilege of hospitalization in government hospitals, as recommended by President Coolidge, has been granted to all veterans, irrespective of the origin of disability, and over $50,000,000 has been appropriated for hospital construction which will provide sufficient beds to care for all. Appropriations totaling over $1,100,000,000 made by the republican congress for the care of disabled evidences the unmistakable purpose of the government not to consider costs, when the welfare of these men is at stake. No legislation for the benefit of the disabled soldier proposed during the last four years by veterans' organizations has failed to receive consideration."

This is certainly a more amazing piece of bunk than was ever penned before in a political document. There is not a word of appreciation or gratitude for what the men of all wars have done for the country; how they have sacrificed that other men might get rich; how much they have endured for their country's sake. The World war veterans were so recently in history that the chairman should have been acquainted with all that they did for the country, but they were treated by only a little more courtesy and consideration than the veterans of the Civil war and the Spanish-American war. There is no hint that if the men of the Civil war had not given themselves so lavishly and unselfishly to defend the Union there would have been no Union today, and President Coolidge might have been a representative in a little congress of New England and not the president of the United States. There is no suggestion that if the Spanish war veterans had not given themselves so spontaneously and heroically the United States would not today be the great and wealthy power that she is.

Even the allusion to the World war veterans is pernicious, for the admission that there has been "confusion, inefficiency, and maladministration" existing up to the time that the present plank has been cured.

The allusion to the extension of hospitalization has a bitter tone because of the terrible amount of graft that is charged against those who were instrumental in the execution of the nation's benefice. That appropriations totaling over $1,100,000,000 have been made for the relief of World War veterans grates harshly on the ears of Civil War veterans, whom the president denied one hundredth part of that sum by the veto of the Bursum bill.

The statement that it was the unmistakable purpose of the government not to consider cost when the welfare of the veterans was at stake is a hollow mockery, the veritable heating of coals, in the light of the president's veto of the Bursum bill when presented to him. The writer of the resolutions has a fine taste for irony, though his English is execrable when he says, "No legislation for the benefit of the disabled soldiers proposed during the last four years by veterans' organizations has failed to receive consideration." "Consideration" is about all they have received. The veterans' plank has about 1000 how-to-kill words, of very bad grammar, and wasted logic. It says nothing that can give
