Fluctuations in interest returns on the bonds of matrimony would bear constant and profitable study.

The power company and a minority report of the public utilities commission, say that the electrical rates are far too low. The Southern Idaho Light & Power Users' association says they are far too high. The majority of the commission says they should be cut 10 per cent. This furnishes enough divergence of viewpoint to make it interesting for the federal court.

New traffic rules are causing perturbation in many cities. Adjustment of the revolutionary changes caused by the automobile is a slow and difficult process, and the end is still remote. Meanwhile, even makeshift expedients should be borne with patiently until a better solution is found.

NUGENT VOTED RIGHT

It is gratifying to know that in the fight on the price plan, John F. Nugent, former United States senator from Idaho, and present member of the federal trade commission, voted against this pernicious monopoly principle. President Wilson, in appointing Nugent, knew his man. The idea of compelling consumers to pay more at the point of manufacture than at a distance is one that is widely practiced. American trusts, beneficiaries of a protective tariff, have given low prices to foreigners and held them up in this country. The whole principle is wrong. The fair trade laws of Idaho are against the practice and the anti-trust laws of the nation are also against it. The steel trust will appeal, but it ought to lose.

MR. WHEELER TO THE RESCUE

The LaFollette campaign took on a new aspect yesterday when the honor of being the independent candidate for vice president was accepted by Senator Barton K. Wheeler, the Mountain democrat who so recently declared himself against John W. Davis and in favor of the Wisconsin colon.

When the Montana split the Davis banner he asserted that he would decline the nomination, but bigger men than he have changed their minds.

Wheeler appears to be an admirable running mate for LaFollette in that both are of the same type and of similar tendencies. But that qualification, if it can be called one, is also a drawback for the following of the two men are in the same states. In other words, it does not appear at the present time that Wheeler could draw heavily in any state that LaFollette does not now seem to control.

Montana, Wheeler's home state, is now too enthusiastic about its junior senator, if reports from that section can be taken as an indication. And it is extremely doubtful if he can poll enough votes there to carry it for LaFollette.

Wheeler's work in the senate in connection with the oil scandal drew him no little publicity, but not of the same type that Senator Walsh received. He did excellent work but his tactics brought down on his head more abuse from those of the republican faith than ever Walsh received.

At any rate, the campaign will be interesting with the Coolidge administration receiving the brunt of all the attacks.—Nevada State Journal.

WHAT IS A PROGRESSIVE?

Lack of discrimination in the use of words today as in the time of Jefferson, places the term "progressive" as an invariable antonym of the word "aristocrat" when used with reference to society. There is absolutely no such conflict in meaning. The Standard dictionary gives three definitions of the term "aristocrat," only one of which, and that the third, is an antonym of the term "progressive." Ancestrally speaking, Jefferson was an aristocrat, as stated in the Times yesterday. On the other hand, Hamilton, the young West Indian, of whom it is truly said "his parentage is uncertain," and who was so poor that at the age of 12 he earned his own living, was called, and is today called and rightfully, aristocrat, from a political viewpoint. Jefferson in the meantime had earned for himself by his confidence in the people the right to be called a democrat, and a progressive and as pointed out, the fact that not merely his early training and his necessity, but his employment as an attorney for the wealthy classes of Virginia did not in any way militate against his progressive tendencies.

Regardless of ancestry or party affiliation, those whose acts are characterized by making, or tending to make progress; advancing as a "progressive movement," etc., are entitled to be called progressives regardless of what their ancestry or political affiliation may be.

Hence The Times, in arguing that "if John W. Davis comes out squarely for the principles set forth in the democratic platform which W. J. Bryan says is the most progressive ever put forth by a great party," and advocates these principles with the ability it is conceded he possesses, "especially in view of his record in congress, he will be entitled to be classed as a real progressive, in fact, is sound, in etymology and in truth.

KEEPING WELL

SUNLIGHT

DR. FRIEDBERG'S CHARTER

WE ARE just beginning to appreciate the value of sunlight as a health producer.

The ancient people worshipped the sun, which they recognized as the source of all energy and life. Modern science is proving what the ancient civilizations believed.

King Tut has had more front teeth pulled in his two years than any living man. His name is known today better than as many people are ever heard of him while he was alive.

The Greeks took sun baths regularly. The Romans knew that sunlight is of benefit in heating, acids and infections and in maintaining health. Thus, the Roman historian writes that the agricultural Romans kept their children by taking an hour's sunlight every day.

When civilization moved from southern to central and northern Europe, people wore heavy clothing and lived in houses and forgot the value of sunlight.

Dr. Hoffer of Switzerland reports remarkable cures of tuberculosis in children by the use of sunlight.

Lo, Grace, medical director of N. Adams Memorial hospital at Derry, N. Y., gets wonderful results in bone and skin tubercles by undressing the children and keeping them in the sunshine and fresh air.

Even in winter the children wear nothing but overalls to keep their feet dry and caps to protect their heads and ears.

Dr. Lo Grass says, "With the exception of one or two isolated hospitals we are neglecting the greatest of all healers, the sun. Our eyes are cast down, whereas healing is from the sky."

Sunlight kills disease germs in a short time. The more sunlight we have on our bodies will be.

Exposure of the skin to sunlight lowers blood pressure, increases the depth of respiration, dilates the blood vessels and brings the blood to the surface.

The number of blood corpuscles is increased, as well as the power of retaining disease.

This remedy must be used with common sense. A sunburn is just as injurious as had as any other kind of burn.

Don't go out the first day the lightning comes, or the first day the sun is in the sunlight. Don't try to get the tan in a few days of summer vacation that should have accumulated all through the year.

Get the good effects of the sun without the bad effects. Get outdoors every day all the year round, especially in the winter, and get the benefit of the heating and stimulating effect of sunlight—the source of all life.

WHY CONFINE THESE TERMS STRICTLY TO POLITICS?

WATER PACT INTERESTING BOISE FOLKS

BOISE, Idaho, July 26.—Settlers on the Boise irrigation project, the largest government irrigation project in the United States, are now giving their time and attention to the matter of entering into a new contract with the government.

Dr. Edward Mead, federal commissioner of reclamation, has been here for several days holding conference with the settlers who are somewhat divided in regard to the terms of the contract that was perfected in Washington and brought to Idaho by United States Senator William E. Borah, Senator Borah returned in Washington after the adjournment of congress in order to secure some relief for the settlers who were having failed to give this call though every possible appeal was made to this body to take action.

A Conference Held
After a conference with President Coolidge and the secretary of the Interior it was decided that the required relief, at least in part, could be given under the terms of the Pitt-Rivers and accordingly a new contract was negotiated. The question is especially in the minds of the settlers themselves. They have been holding a series of meetings discussing the terms. One faction contends the contract entirely satisfactory and they are prepared to close with the government. Another faction, however, is not satisfied and has made this known through a report which points out the following objections to the contract.

First—If the contract is signed it would be for the purpose of securing immediate relief which can't be had without the contract.

Second—No one even thinks he would be able to pay in 1925 according to the contract, therefore the signing of the contract would be the act of a lie.

Third—To sign the proposed contract would give grounds for refusing to grant further relief because congress would believe that the settlers do not want to do and could do what he had agreed to do.

Fourth—No contract should be signed which does not provide funds for completing the project.

With a penalty on delinquent payments of one per cent per month and for a sale of the land and water right after one year of delinquency. This penalty is more drastic than the penalty for delinquent taxes and should not be accepted.

Sixth—The proposed contract and other provisions for the shutting off of water after a delinquency of one year.

INTIMIDATION IS CHARGE OF

A fellow officer said he mentioned the incident to a number of persons all this however, before he wrote down the particulars.

The sick beds of Leopold and Lueb and the graying and partly bald heads of the three attorneys were sprung together while they read the official report. Gordon made to the chief of police on his investigations.

Jacob Frank, father of the victim who had been sitting alone, just one chair removed from the slayer, walked over and joined a group of newspapermen. He sat there chatting and laughing, making comments on the case of Nathan Leopold, Sr. was in his customary place about ten feet from his son. The fingers drummed nervously on a straw hat his forehead was creased in grief and he kept his eyes on the floor most of the time.

Joseph Welsch, a general hanger on the scene where Leopold purchased the glasses which led to the arrest, identified the prescription for the glasses given Leopold as also the spectacles. The defense today placed the behavior of Leopold and Lueb under two of the leading defense attorneys, the able and brilliant Edward Glynn, New York, formerly attached to Sing Sing prison, Dr. Healy of Boston and the London Foundation has not an opportunity to watch the boy's actions in court. These actions probably testified of the justice.

"When was it told you that if he appeared before a friendly judge he would get off with life?" Darrow asked.

"This was after the confession," the witness replied.

"Head it," Darrow commanded and Gordon peered over his notes.

"I asked him what his defense would be and he said he would abide by the law of his native and adopted country. He said if he appeared before a friendly judge he would get off with life."

ably will be called to the attention of the court by the prosecution.

Pratt and Lueb grouped themselves with two of the defense attorneys examined some of the notes. They held whispered conversations and published out incoherent entries.

Gordon went over a mass of short-hand notes to show Darrow how he reviewed his memory on some of the conversations.

The undertaker's supply dealer making the "skeletal throat" ascribed to him by Gordon. Darrow also made it known that he regarded as an "attempt to intimidate the court" by the witness when he said that Leopold told him that if "I was brought before a friendly judge, I can get off with life."

Darrow took Gordon step by step over the conversations the witness had with Leopold on the day the house of the defendant was searched.

By showing that Gordon trusted several important excerpts from his conversations with Leopold to memory, Darrow hopes to nullify consideration.

SUFFERED SINCE YOUNG GIRL

Woods Failed to Express Benefit Received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Texas.—"I would sooner express how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For many months I would have cramps and headache, and I felt like I was freezing to death. I suffered in this way from the time I was a young girl, and all my doctors said was 'operation.' For months I had a 'green' feeling all day, and when night would come I felt like I was freezing to death. I had my druggist recommend me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband and he bought four bottles. I have taken every bottle and I think I have a right to praise your medicine. Mrs. J. B. Holladay, 221 E. Marshall Street, Greenville, Texas.

For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women from girlhood through middle age.

It is a dependable medicine for troubles common to women. Such symptoms as Mrs. Holladay had are relieved by correcting the cause of the trouble, or made by druggists everywhere.

Joe K. Says:

"I've been my experience that the people who think that they are all the right side, and that the rest of the world are only 'the other side' are usually 'chick' under the knife."

Life Jobs
"Well, John" said the eminent personage, who was now an invalid, "who is it I wish to see now? My biographer?" "No, your caseworker," replied the butler, "Mr.
Hobbs." "Ah! Almost the same thing. He's at work upon my life, too!" Philadelphia Record.

MARKETS

GRAIN REVIEW.
CHICAGO, July 26. Grain viewed higher on the hard trade, but lost with wheat ruling into low ground on the crop.

No new developments out here in the wheat pit to cause any special buying. The price advance merely reflected the market's sense of urgency in view of the crop.

Expect sales today aggregated 500,000 bushels with foreign buying paying the full price.

Shortage of Canadian growing was justified the export is high.

Provisions closed higher.
