ANTHRAX KILLS MANY PEOPLE AND ANIMALS

Contagious and Malignant Febrile Disease with Carbuncular Swellings, Otherwise Splenic Fever, Ravaging Several Districts of East; Relief Is Asked of Nation to Fight Its Spread.

At least 20 persons and 10,000 head of livestock were dead today from an epidemic of anthrax which is sweeping Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi.

State, federal and local officers combined to despatch efforts to check the scourge, which is reported spreading with alarming rapidity.

Nine farmers and more than 5,000 animals was the death toll in 12 stricken centers in Arkansas alone.

Governor Whifford of Mississippi sent for federal aid when reports of the deaths of eight persons and 5,000 cattle were received at the executive office. Federal and state farm experts were rushed to the plague-stricken sections.

In Tennessee an anthrax conference was called by officials of the state to organize for a fight on the plague, and telegrams were sent to Washington requesting emergency appropriations from congress.

Federal authorities meanwhile are fighting the disease with limited supplies and funds. Milk from infected herds is destroyed, and strict quarantine measures have been adopted.

In 28 counties in Mississippi the animals were reported dying faster than they could be buried. Nostrums refused to bury the dead animals for fear of contaminating the disease.

In Arkansas, dead animals and the wagons on which they are moved are required to be burned. All persons capable of administering anti-toxins to the animals have been pressed into service.

The disease is spread by the dead carcasses through flies, dogs and vultures, according to authorities, who are making a complete survey of the situation in the three states.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 20.—

"Twenty persons, mostly negroes, and 10,000 cattle have been reported dead in Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi from anthrax. An additional government expert has been rushed to Mississippi where Governor Whifford reports 100 cases of anthrax and 200 dead cattle. No signs of the scourge ending.

Telegrams appealing for an immediate federal appropriation as well as instant medical aid have been sent by state and federal authorities. Senator McKeithen of Tennessee, called for an emergency appropriation to check the spread of the disease. Similar telegrams were sent by the anthrax conference held at the chamber of commerce here yesterday.

Authorities in local communities are fighting the spread of the disease as far as limited funds will permit.

CANDIDATES READY WITH THEIR TALKS

Effort of True Love to Laugh at Parents Came to Life in Colorado Springs, Hoping for Home.

MONTROSE, Colo., July 20.—A romance and a ride raving that of Young Lovelorn came to an unhappy end yesterday when Sheriff Sam Phillips and a posse took Lovelorn into custody and the girl back to her parents.

But while it lasted it was a romantic ride. The boy, Fred Wayman Wols, 19, of Pueblo, followed the fancies of his sweethearts, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swerling, a distance of 300 miles, and when the opportunity came, left them at the first chance he had.

He returned home to the girl he loved. Mr. and Mrs. Swerling, however, had objected strenuously to the attention Wolk was paying their daughter, Gladys, and when the young man refused to give up his infatuation, they were forced to recommend that he started on an overland trip to California, taking his daughter with him.

Wolk and the girl planned otherwise. Wolk passed from Wols to the girl in a restaurant in Colorado Springs, received an ascending nod and Wolk prepared for the abduction.

In the Blue River canon near this city Wolk, with his gun and automobile, overtook his intended love. While he held them at bay with his gun, Gladys climbed into his car and the two started for the nearest mining town.

Instead of a minister the sweethearts ran into Sheriff Phillips and his posse. A telephone call from the father had done the trick.

Now the daughter is back with her parents, and the girl to California continues. Wols was released this morning, after promising to be good, and is on his way back to his home in Pueblo.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's Address Practically Confirmed While Coolidge Has All Blocked Out Waiting the Final Touches.

(By Percy H. Scott) DARK HARBOR, Maine, July 19.—The second speech officially completed John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee packed his bags today preparatory for leaving for New York tomorrow. He is rested and ready, for the campaign, which he hopes will end in his election.

The acceptance speech will be delivered to the printers soon after Davis reaches New York.

No callers were able to visit the popular darkie, Davis planned to do this afternoon and will dine quietly with friends tonight.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's Address Practically Confirmed While Coolidge Has All Blocked Out Waiting the Final Touches.

(By Percy H. Scott) WASHINGTON, July 20.—President Coolidge today officially completed his speech, which the press selected which the republican party will emphasize in its campaign.

The notification ceremony August 14 will launch the campaign. The address carried-by-radio will be the keynote upon which hundreds of campaign speakers will harp during the contest.

Mr. Coolidge, it is understood, will make no new or startling pronouncements, will explain his analysis of the situation as originally outlined in a general way by the platform adopted at the republican national convention.

"Tax reduction, economy in government and efficiency in administration" virtually heads the official motto of the republican campaign.

Kaiser Still in Exile; Report of Violation False

LONDON, July 20.—A report in circulation in Berlin, says the "Examiner" Telegraph that the ex-kaiser has now at sea aboard an Atlantic liner.

DOUGH, July 20.—Runners that former Emperor William had left exile return here and was aboard an Atlantic liner were fully false, today, the spokesman of the ex-kaiser in his usual habit to day and following his customary walk, eating exercises.

HERIOT WILL QUIT THE RUHR ON AUGUST 15

French Prime Minister Yields
Important Point in Negotiation.

According to Reliable Informations; Gets Priority Rights for France in Return for Compensation.

LONDON, July 20.—Under pressure from an American-British banking group, the French yielded to demands for a separate action plan. Prince Heriot proposes to offer military occupation of the Ruhr on August 15, according to reliable information from unimpeachable sources today.

This is regarded as the turning point in the negotiations between the two countries, which now only awaits a formal offer from France to this effect before sojourns aboard the machinery of the experts plan.

The Anglo-French proposal is being accepted with some difficulty by the Germans.

CRIMINAL COURTROOM, Chicago, July 20.—Chief Justice Attorney Day may place Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, leaders of the "air" and "navy" in the dock again in the trial of the "Ruhr" case.

Gov. Carter C. Campion has turned and reassured his position after the state attorney, Maxine

Mathews, told him that the Settlement of the misunderstandings of the Milner Lowlift Irrigation company, as indicated by the election Saturday, is another step toward the harmonizing of things in southern Idaho. It is one of the best of the smaller projects in this state.

O

The big district board in deciding to proceed deliberately, and with caution in the sale of the bonds for the American Falls district in order to get the most satisfactory results is to be congratulated. The people want the district, but they do not want to overlook anything essential in getting it.

O

The city administration in taking steps last evening to make the city park a community meeting place by voting to provide benches and tables, useful as well as ornamental, is one of the most hopeful signs of the times, and the council in this matter is going the right way.

O

Arrival last evening of 17 carloads of material for track laying at Rogerson and its immediate departure for that town indicates the rapidity with which this work is being pushed. Trains will probably be running as far as Contact this year, and will reach the connecting point at Wells early next year. Twin Falls is in a position to become a great center and its people should awake to what is happening and get busy.

O

BORAH, THE AUTHOR

"Oh, that mine enemy might write a book," is a quotation often used and may now be applied to "American Problems" by Senator William Edgar Borah, by those who think that the position of the senator is wrong. On the other hand, his friends will welcome the volume issued by Duffield & Co. of New York. There is nothing new in the work, as it consists of 22 speeches, some long and some short, delivered by Senator Borah and covering a number of years. That the eloquent senior representative from Idaho in the upper house has many admirers goes without saying, and these will be glad to have on hand a volume containing a varied collection of his best orations and addresses. The work is edited by Horace Green. The first address is "Lincoln, the Orator" delivered November 9, 1911, and the last "Shall the Constitution Be Nullified?" delivered October 15, 1933.

O

ONE GOOD SCOUT SUCCEEDS ANOTHER

The retirement of one active scout leader to give place to another, as happened when Donald McLean for business reasons stepped out and his place was taken by Thomas M. Robertson, who has a long record of active work in behalf of the organization:

It was Mr. McLean who revived the scout movement in Twin Falls in 1922 after it had almost gone out of existence in the city. After re-establishing the Twin Falls troops, Mr. McLean was instrumental in forming the Twin Falls local council and subsequently the Snake River Valley council.

The scout camp in Shoshone basin is largely the creation of Mr. McLean's ingenuity; he conceived the plan, and supervised the building of the big mess hall at the camp.

He thus established the camp which has become such an important institution in the scout work of the district, and the success of this year's camp is largely attributable to his efforts, according to local scout officials.

O

THE DIRECT LEGISLATION PLANKS

(By JAMES D. WHELAN)

The sweeping innovations suggested by the democratic platform in proposing an international agreement that was should only be declared by a direct vote of the people except in cases of actual invasion, and in promising to submit the league of nations pact to a direct vote of the American people, will have the effect of causing a more intensive and intelligent understanding of the intention of the men who drafted the constitution than is now the case.

We have heard it said repeatedly and emphatically in this city by those who are more or less students of law and history that plans for direct legislation are violative of the constitution. The same persons who say this, also emphasize the principle that the courts of the country should be respected in their decisions, a principle with which the writers agree. But the critics of direct legislation fail to see that the courts, state and federal, have held when asked to set aside provisions for initiative, referendum and recall, that such provisions do not violate the provision of the constitution which guarantees all states a republican form of government. In other words, the courts have held that states permitting the operation of direct legislation still have a republican form of government. Now, if the decisions of courts are "right" and should be respected, the argument that direct legislation is contrary to our form of government is false. On the other hand, if this particular criticism of direct legislation is false, then the courts are wrong.

The truth is that at all times, prior to and after the adoption
