U. S. POLOISTS ARE FAVORED TO WIN TILT

America Rules Favorites Over British Invaders As Time Approaches for the Meeting Between the Two Crack Teams.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—American polo four, which will defend the international challenge trophy at Meadowbrook, L. I., next month, rates favorite in the early betting over the teams from the British Isles.

But for man, as well as pony, our team looks to be sufficiently stronger to warrant optimism that the cup which started on a series of trans-Atlantic voyages in 1886, will rest a little longer on these shores.

While the American internationalists may not be the strongest aggregation this country ever has put in the field, they are far short of human perfection in their play, aggressive hitting and riding.

The team, as it probably will play the field, is: No. 1, Eric Pellegrin;

California, No. 2, Thomas Hitchcock;

Illinoian, Watson Webb; back,

Devereux Milburn.

Three of these poloists—Hitchcock, Webb and Milburn—are veterans of many an international challenge; Pellegrin, however, is a newcomer.

He was born at the difficult No. 1 position a fixture, looking ready to lead the attack, together with the hard-hitting Hitchcock.

Tommy is a particularly gifted player in world society. As No. 3, Webb earned his place after a struggle. Milburn has no peers as a "back."

The British team is strong; the American one stronger.

It is to be hoped that the crescendo of popular interest—should he fast and worthwhile, the Prince of Wales is on his way to watch, and there are practically no tickets to be had.

With his become a democratic sport, in England since the war, before only those who were members of the club could watch, now, anyone, who paid the admission ticket, can do so. The fact that this is something to "gaze" at, something the British poloists would never have thought of doing before the war and now, is a great plus.

Most of us, if not all, have clients made rattling gold polo players, and some of our best polo players "unexpectedly" turned out to be bootleggers.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's hero—Charley Grimm, Pirate first baseman, triped in the ninth inning and drove in the run that broke the tie and helped beat the Giants, 4 to 2.

After losing the first game 8 to 4, the Athletics went 11 innings to beat the Tigers, 8 to 7, and pulled off Cobb's team out of first place.

The Yankees crawled back into first place by taking a double header from the Browns 1 to 0 and 2 to 1 behind the good pitching of Peacock and Bush.

Ruth got one hit in seven times at bat.

Bunched hits in the first and sixth innings gave the Indians a 5 to 1 victory over the Senators and moved them up a place to fifth position.

The Red Sox took a double header from the White Sox 0 to 4 and 4 to 1, and moved from the cellar into seventh place.

CHURCH TEAMS MEET TONIGHT

The Baptist baseball team of Twin Falls, K. C., will be here to play this evening as an entertainment feature of the big church picnic today at which a large number of church people are expected to be present.

Both teams are composed of the drivin' players and both feel certain of returning home with the emblem's seal dangling from their belt. Though only a friendly game, some genuine fireworks is looked for as there is keen rivalry between the two teams.

BUHL TRIUMPHS OVER BLUES IN PECULIAR GAME

Buhl defeated Twin Falls 5 to 1 at Buhl last evening in a game featuring some home runs and heavy hitting, including pitches for hits home, held the blues to two hits and the score was never in doubt. The Grays cut to Flynn in the third with two runs following this success with two more runs in each of the next two innings.

Second Baseman Muller of Twin Falls gave the players and fans a nice treat by chipping in a bitter armful of dirt from his home town of Buhl into the hole of Mrs. Helen Miller, the national and Olympic champion of the West Side Tennis Club today at Forest Hills.

Miller, who is the defending champion of the national tennis tournament, was the first to enter the court and she said, "I am glad to see you boys are still here." The girls followed her, and the Grays were the last to leave.

FOOLING THE FARMER

By CARL VROEGHAN, Former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture
A lot of political forecasters and their flusters are finding themselves but they are not in the mood of fooling the farmer. The farmers all know that the recent rise in the price of grain is the result, not of an act of congress nor of an act of God, but of an act of God, namely, a crop shortage in Canada, Europe and elsewhere.

Indeed, present grain prices are an indictment of the present administration. They demonstrate the ease and despatch with which the prices of farm products could have been similarly raised at any time during the past three years by the simple expedient of disposing of our surplus crops abroad.

The unusually low prices of 1921, '22 and '23 were caused by a slight over-production resulting in a small surplus of grain.

Instead of passing "The Farmers' Relief Bill" in 1921, and thus employing a federal export corporation to dispose of that surplus to the best possible advantage, all that republican statesmanship has been able to do during the past three tragic years has been to stall, to dither and to fence, until the accident of unfavorable weather conditions finally brought the farmer a measure of relief. Such an attitude is in a par with that of a city council that would refuse to provide fire protection to its citizens on the grounds that each household should look out for himself, blindly trusting to luck that in case of a general conflagration the windows of heaven would be opened to put out the flames.

— Could any more damning indictment of the bankruptcy of republicanism be imagined than is involved in the fact that, during the past three years, more help has been given to the cotton farmers by the hell weevil than by the present administration, and more help has been given to the grain farmers by a spell of bad weather than by all the republican congressmen and senators put together.

Republican politicians are emphatically prophyesing that a higher grain price will cause the farmers to forget the three years of wholly unnecessary pauperization through which they have just passed, and to vote the republican ticket as usual. These political forecasters gravely under-rate the farmer's intelligence. Farmers know that the value of American farm products shrank over four billion dollars in 1920, over eight billion dollars in 1921, over sixteen billion dollars in 1922 and over five billion dollars in 1923, below the 1919 level, a total deflation of approximately twenty-five billion dollars in four years. In the face of this stupendous shrinkage the recent rise in the price of grain looks to the farmer accidental, belated and too temporary, to cause them to forget the past four years of demonstrated republican incompetence and callous indifference to the tragedy of the farmer.

Moreover, most farmers realize that even though grain prices skyrocketed twice as high as they are today, in the railroads, the middle men, and the tariff protected manufacturers were still to be coaxed and subsidized by paternalistic class legislation, and allowed to profit on the farmer practically without limit as at present, it would not matter how much money the farmer made; it would promptly be taken away from him.

Probably the most important task before Davis and Bryan during the coming campaign will be that of gaining the support of enough of the six or seven million disaffected republican farmers and farmer-wives west of the Alleghenies to carry the election. Fortunately they can do this without making any promises they cannot fulfill, without feigning radicalism they do not favor, and without resorting to the patently dishonest republican device of taking both sides on vital campaign issues.

As during the campaign they come out, as I have every assurance they will, for a concrete, practical and economically sound program of agricultural rehabilitation along the lines laid down in the democratic platform, millions of republican farmers and farmer-wives gladly will follow their leadership, offering them their best chance for speedy relief from an intolerable situation.

The farmer has four imperative major requirements, none of which conflict with the legitimate interests of any other class:

(1) foreign markets for his surplus crops, (2) lower freight rates on the bulk, dry commodities that he sells and buys, such as hay, cotton, grain, lumber, coal, fertilizer and agricultural implements, (3) an agricultural system of handling and credit that shall be well adapted to the needs of agriculture as is our present system to the needs of business, and (4) government encouragement in the necessarily slow process of building up a system of operative marketing on a sound financial and economic basis.
