Four Die When Train Hits Auto

CRANFORD, N. J., Aug. 21.—Four persons were killed when the Philadelphia Express of the Central railroad ploughed into a motor truck near here today.

The driver and a passenger of the motor truck and the engineer and one passenger on the train were killed.

The train was said to have been traveling 60 miles an hour.

The locomotive and first two cars of the train were derailed.

The announcement that the country schools will open September 2, will make many kids repeat as much of the "Mehuchah Lays" as may have been memorized, if the old theory regarding the wives of children on the subject still hold out.

The country feels better after the fine general rain Tuesday evening. It did a great deal of good by setting the dust which had covered things during the long dry spell and made everything appear fresh for the guests who will be here next Tuesday.

Before the campaign is over our friend Congressman Addison T. Smith, will probably point to the fact that Mars may have a corn crop of at least twenty-one billion bushels as an evidence of the beneficial effect of a protective tariff on the American farmer's prosperity.

Twin Falls should feel proud that it is one of the 100 communities selected out of 750 which sought the $2000 appropriation of the Harmon foundation in New York for municipal playgrounds and that it is on the preferred list of 30 chosen from such 100. The first condition of eligibility is that the community have 2000 or more inhabitants and that it show an increase of 30 per cent for the past ten years. Much of the credit due for the organization of the local recreational association is due Barton E. Morse, who has been tireless and effective in his labors in its behalf. The committee on by-laws, appointed to draft the rules required before the appropriation can be made consists of Charles W. Dwight, Mrs. T. E. Jochen and Miss Jessie Frazer and will get busy at once.

DAWES' WRONG VIEWPOINT

General Charles G. Dawes, a man of personal honesty from his point of view, has the wrong viewpoint, judged by the standards of democracy. His lofty contempt for a proposed referendum on debate concerning the League of Nations betrays a spirit of contempt for the popular voice that is far from the ideals of Jefferson. But after all, this is not the greatest sign of reaction contained in his brilliant and defiant address. In discussing the democratic ticket, there runs the assumption that because John W. Davis is an attorney, was employed by certain big interests in a strictly legal way, he must needs, thereafter forever favor their views and fight to maintain their privileges. It seems inconceivable to him that the employer and employed should and normally do maintain the attitude of exact exchange of mutual service. The employe works for the employer whether as lawyer or coal heaver, because he finds it good business to do so. The employer hires the man whether as attorney or ditch-digger, because he makes a profit by retaining him. The obligation is mutual and when the exchange of the labor for money takes place, all obligation ceases. Now Dawes does not at all grasp this simple fact. He assumes that the man who earns wages is under perpetual obligation to the employer forever thereafter, and therefore, he assumes that Davis is a conservative because he was employed as attorney for large interests. Nor does he assume that he was under any obligation to labor because he formerly served laborers. The extent of the obligation seems to depend on the financial status of the employe, if one may judge from the tenor of the address. His horror of the possible election of Charles W. Bryan would be amusing, if he were not a candidate for a similar place.

This attitude leads to aristocracy and eventually to autocracy. And in the long run and not a very long run that autocracy leads to disaster. At times in the past a really great man like Charlemagne arose interested in furthering the cause of humanity and did great good for a time, but as surely as the system of autocracy established was perpetuated, it invariably resulted in worse conditions than those remedied.

BILLING WELLED IN "ARIZONA EXPRESS"
If you want thrills the most old fashioned kind of public entertainment that you used to enjoy when you were a kid, go to the Orpheum Theatre. There Lincoln J. Carter's latest cinematic melodrama, "The Arizona Express" opened today. It is melodramatic up to date in the most modern person.

of expression for this type of entertainment since the old Greek master made it famous. Carter is the uncrowned king of melodrama and certainly he has employed a vivid imagination with excellent effect in this production. The story concerns chiefly a young mail clerk, a wealthy banker, his ward, an adventuress and her criminal partner. Carter has taken these characters and wove them in a plot which runs the gamut from the plot to rob the bank to a transcendental pursuit in which "The Arizona Express" crashes over a treacherous into the ether.

The picture is billed as "an honest melodrama" and that is what it is. It will stir you one genuine thrill after another, staked incidentally and entertainingly.

KEEPING WELL

WHAT IS APPENDICITIS?
Dr. PHENACOLINE IT CURES
"CURE OF THE DAY"

ONE of the favorite subjects for jokes on the part of our present-day humorists is appendicitis. According to these gentlemen, appendicitis is a recently discovered disease which was invented for the purpose of giving surgeons a remunerative occupation. Appendicitis, it happens, kills the newspaper humorist, "that our grand parents never had appendicitis." These young hugglers, they do not as people do nowadays, but they did, of it, in the majority of cases they never got well to tell the story. Appendicitis is as old as the human race. Ituffer found evidences of it in the Egyptian mummies of a thousand years before Christ. Ever since man gave up an exclusively vegetarian diet and began to walk upright on his hind feet he has had appendicitis. But he doesn't call it that. The disease of fifty years ago called "bilious colic" or "inflamed" of the bowels." They knew there was something wrong going on in the patient's abdomen, but they didn't dare open him up to find out what the trouble was, because they knew that if they did the patient would die from the operation, while if they let him alone he might get well.

So they gave him opium to deaden the pain and he either got well or died, although the great majority of cases he died. About forty years ago Professor Rehn of the University of Leipzig, Germany, due to minute facts. Sir Joseph Lister, an English surgeon, found out how to keep those germs out of wounds so that they would not die. This was the beginning of modern surgery. As soon as the surgeon could open the human body and close it up again without killing the patient, it was found that what had been called "inflammation of the bowels" was often due to an inflammation of the appendix, a little glove-like portion of the intestines, which we inherited from our herbivorous ancestors. It is of no use to civilized man and in rather a danger because it easily becomes inflamed.

When you get the appendix has pain and tenderness in the right groin, especially with increased temperature. If the inflammation goes on until the wall of the appendix is softened, it may rupture and produce an abscess of a general peritonitis.

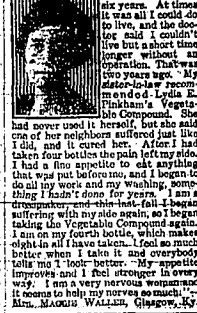

The present-day surgeon doesn't wait for perforation. He makes a little incision through the skin and muscles, slips in his finger, draws out the inflamed appendix, ties it off and removes it, then drops the bowel back into the abdomen, sealing the incision with a few neat stitches.

Appendicitis isn't anything new. The recognized treatment of the condition is the best and proper treatment many thousands of lives every year. 1011, Western Newspaper Union's

AFRAID SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Operation Advised, But Lydia E. Finckham's Vegetable Compound Made It Unnecessary

Glasgow, Kentucky. "I was run-down, nervous, with no appetite. My doctor told me I had given up. I was afraid I could not live, and the doctor said I couldn't live but about three weeks longer without an operation. That was two years ago. My doctor had recommended Lydia E. Finckham's Vegetable Compound. She had never used it herself, but she said one of her neighbors had told her to try it. I had taken four bottles the pain left my side. I had a fine appetite for everything that was put before me, and I began to do all my work and my washing, soon after I had done for years. I am a droopier and still thin, but I began suffering with my side again, so I began taking the Vegetable Compound again. I am on my fourth bottle, which makes eight in all I have taken. I feel so much better when I take it and everybody tells me I look better. My appetite improved and I feel like a new woman. I am a very nervous woman and I seem to be in the best of health now. Mrs. MARGIE WALLIN, Glasgow, Ky."

CLASSES BEGIN SEPTEMBER 2 IN RURAL SCHOOLS

Rural schools in Twin Falls county will officially open on September 1, but as Labor day occurs on that date, pupils will not report until Tuesday, September 2, according to an announcement made today by Mrs. Charlotte Bond, county superintendent of schools.

A few of the country schools will not be able to open on the specified date but in the majority of rural buildings classes will take up on the first Tuesday in September.

Summer Improvements Extensive summer improvements in the buildings of the system have been made. The handsome new two room brick building in the Shamrock district situated some six miles southeast of Twin Falls, will be ready for occupation September 15. The new structure replaces the frame school house formerly used.

Large Enrollment in State Further increase over the 4,000 pupils enrolled in the rural system last year is anticipated for the coming semester. The Twin Falls county rural system ranks first in enrollment in the state. Ada county has more school children than Twin Falls county but their majority is found in the urban schools.

Sixty teachers are employed in the county country schools, which include 27 buildings.

CURRENT BUSINESS CONDITIONS

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS

(From the Monthly Bank Letter for August Issued by The National City Bank of New York)

The question of Rural occupation is another important one, that being a point upon which the German government is especially anxious to satisfy German popular opinion. The British government, which always opposed the neutral favors being granted to Germany upon this point, it is improbable that a settlement will fall over this point.

General European Conditions General opinion in European centers is sanguine that the consummation of an agreement will give great stimulus to industry and business throughout Europe. On the other hand, nobody likes to think of what will come if the conference should fail. The rearmament program in Germany is being maintained in value by a restriction of credit which is having most deleterious effects upon the country, and political and social disturbances are organized on a sound basis.

The general situation in Europe has been making slow but steady progress. The rearmament program is showing what may be expected from a new monetary system. The rearmament program is showing what may be expected from a new monetary system. The rearmament program is showing what may be expected from a new monetary system.

A marked revival of business is not expected to make an appearance until the midwinter season, but a change of sentiment for the better has been observed in the last half of July. It has been in large part to the remarkable rise in the price of the farm staples which heretofore have been the source of most of the pessimism abroad in the land.

Already reports from the West tell of the stimulating effects upon business. Moreover, the South has the prospect of a larger-crop year than last year and a better price. A settlement in Europe will mean much to cotton, and also to the grain and hog producers.

The rise of wheat fortunately does not signify a poor crop in the States where wheat is the main dependence, although the yield is short in several areas east of the Mississippi for the most part in the yield and quality. Where wheat has been raised in its best form, and all the Southwest shares its good fortune. The Spring wheat crop of Minnesota, the Dakota and Montana is reported as being about as fine a promise as ever was expected. The acreage is now beginning. The acreage is now beginning. The acreage is now beginning.

The improvement in wheat is due to smaller crops in other countries, and particularly in the western provinces of Canada. The yield there last year was exceptionally large and chiefly responsible for the low prices everywhere. In the 12 months ended June 30 last, Canada exported 347,400,000 bushels of wheat, according to Bradstreet's, which is its greatest yearly record to date.

The wheat-growers of this country have a reprieve this year from the unfavorable conditions under which they have been laboring, but they will do well to be cautious about increasing their acreage on the strength of it, particularly in regions where they are not accustomed to increase its area in wheat, and there are localities in the whole area for low yields.

The rise of corn and other staples does not mean that the farmer sells his wheat at approximately 85 per cent of the crop price does not mean that the farmer sells his wheat at approximately 85 per cent of the crop price does not mean that the farmer sells his wheat at approximately 85 per cent of the crop price.

The man who says that the prices of farm products always rise when the farmer has nothing to sell is on hand again pointing to the rise of corn at this time of the year to verify his theory. He says nothing about wheat, which has advanced more than corn, and just as the crop is harvested. Of course a prospect of diminished supply is always behind a rise in the price of anything, and the rise invariably occurs as soon as the probability of a shortage is shown.

The over-enthusiasm of the radio industry, even in a swiftly moving world, is one of the commercial curiosities of the day. Within the span of a little more than four years the ranks of the manufacturers, contractors and dealers in the radio industry have grown to such an extent that the industry is now a well-established one.

any situation in the old crop, but from the condition of the growing crop, which indicates a short supply for next year. Any farmer who is skeptical of the persistence of the present price can contract now on the Chicago market for the delivery of his crop next September or May at about 95 cents to $1.00 per bushel.

The first effect of the prospect for a short crop and the consequent rise in prices is to prompt the farmers to get rid of their corn-consuming animals, particularly hogs, which were selling much below parity with corn, but in the last month hogs have made a remarkable advance from around $7.00 to over $11 per cwt. in Western markets.

The Speculator Needed A settlement of the European question would help to give greater stability to values. For it would restore confidence in future prices which is the necessary basis of speculation. The rise of prices in the past few months has been due to the fact that the supply of the commodity is short.

The attention of everybody interested in cotton and cotton goods is attracted to the cotton-growing states. The extreme tension manifest in the market is due in large measure to the needs for American cotton in the next twelve months. The crop over last year was about 2,500,000 bales, and this year it is 2,310,000 bales, a figure considerably in excess of that needed several months ago.

The Lesson of Rising Prices There is one outstanding lesson from the rise of prices that is important in the long and critical months, on account of both the weevil and the weather. This is that the low prices, in all the commodities, are due simply to excessive supplies, a condition that could be remedied in only one way, viz.: by smaller production. Location can do nothing for a state of over-production. Measures to support prices artificially by the effect of containing the over-production instead of correcting it, and no matter how high a commodity price it can not afford to subsidize people to produce things that are not wanted and which can be sold on the markets in the usual way at remunerative prices.

Let it be clearly understood that there is no "panic" of "artificial" overproduction. It is absurd to say that the world can produce more of anything than it wants. If the retailer has any doubts upon this point, let him consider how much he himself lacks of having everything he wants. Unemployment and unremunerative prices always result from unbalanced production.

Advertisement for FIREZONE OIL. THIS IS NOT A CRANK CASE OIL. It is poured into the gasoline tank and thus conveyed to the combustion chamber. Its function is to lubricate those parts of your engine which now function dry and which, whether you know it or not, sadly need lubricating. Not a "dope", not a "lionic", but a remarkable lubricant which will live through the heat of the explosion and therefore lubricates those parts of the engine which can not be reached by any ordinary lubricating system.

A Story Without Words

The world's largest cathedral, St. Peter's, was the scene on which an unusual drama was being enacted. The scene was the cathedral, and the drama was the story of a man who had been blind for many years. He had been blind since he was a child, and he had never seen the world. He had been blind since he was a child, and he had never seen the world.

While passing through the mountains of Tennessee I spotted a bush, with thin, white, pipe-like growth, in the side of the road. Of course I stopped and began to pick and eat them.
"Pipe" and I certainly moved away from there in a hurry, because a ves-tleman was warning me that I was trespassing on his property.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

MARKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.-Led by corn all grung closed sharply lower on the basis of trade today.
Weakness in corn and generally improved domestic crop and weather reports brought heavy realising in wheat and a sharp dip. A final rally based on unfavorable European conditions was offset by news that the German government next week will place a heavy import duty on wheat to encourage consumption of a heavy potato crop.
Heavier corn receipts adversely affected the oats market.
Export business aggregated 50,000 bushels. The corn market gave indications of an overabundant condition.
Provisions closed lower.

SHORT LINE IS READY FOR BIG CROP SHIPMENT

Double Freight Train Service After September 15; Prepare to Handle Big Bean Crop; Better Apple Shipments Expected; Wheat Moving.

The local branch of the Oregon Short Line is prepared to move the entire harvest of the Twin Falls area on a 100 per cent basis with no delay, according to the statement today of D. E. Sullivan, O. S. L. agent for Twin Falls.

One or two day notice is asked by the freight office, to guarantee that the best empty cars have been procured, says Mr. Sullivan, or a few hours' notice only.

From 10,000 to 12,000 car loads of agricultural products are handled by the Twin Falls freight office and the O. S. L. in preparing to handle an equal amount of business this fall. The local office handles an extra freight as the aggregate of all other stations from Murtaugh to Dubl combined.

What's Moving Now

Three to four cars of wheat, the beginning of a heavy movement, are being received daily from points over the tract for the Twin Falls flour mill.

Early potatoes, to the amount of about one carload per day are being shipped out.

Beans are seen as the heavy crop by freight officials. An average of 10 to 12 cars per day will be shipped from Twin Falls from the beginning of the last of October, it is anticipated by Mr. Sullivan. Approximately a 100 per cent increase in bean shipments this year is expected in provision for in year reservations.

Apple Good Prospect

Apple and seed business are reported by the freight office as very active. Large apple shipments are expected due to the better quality of the fruit this year. The apples are larger, and more uniform size has been attained which will result in a highly marketable crop.

Thirty thousand new refrigerator cars have been acquired jointly by the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific during the last season, and the modernized facilities are now available for taking care of all perishable shipments from over the entire system.

Office Open Late

On the verge of the gigantic haul against business, the freight office on after September 15 will remain open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. to accommodate the large number of shippers so that their business may be completely handled in time for the evening freight which leaves about 7:30.

After September 15, four freight trains, two each way, will run over the Twin Falls branch to handle the large autumn shipments.

BEANS GET BENEFIT OF BIG RAINS

BEANS GET BENEFIT OF BIG RAINS

Red Spiders Had Started Work in Some Fields But Is Put Out of Commission and Yields Heavier Again As By Magic

Fields of beans which were affected by the fearful work of the red spider which also attacks berry bushes and trees, were very materially aided by the recent rainfall, according to County Agent H. E. Howard.

The rapidity with which the beans recover after a shower is surprising, unless they are badly affected. The yellow leaves quickly regain their normal green again and the plant thrives.

Wherever possible it is suggested that the beans in the fields be heavily watered by red spider, water being the best cure. Mr. Howard stated.

IDAHO STUDENTS HAD GOOD TIME AT BANBURY'S

Seventy Couples Enjoyed Swimming and Diving at Last Night.

Old friendships were renewed, new ones formed at the "Idaho Get-together" held at Banbury's last night by students of the University of Idaho in honor of those contemplating enrolling at Idaho this fall. Swimming and dancing were enjoyed by the large gathering of students, alumni and prospective students of the university who attended. The affair was informal, typical of all "Idaho Get-togethers" and was attended by about 70 couples, about half of whom were high school graduates from Gooding and Twin Falls county who have stipulated their intention of going to the university.

A brief talk on the university and courses offered was made by Ted Farmer of Caldwell, popular high school classmate, who drove down for the occasion, after which refreshments were served and dancing resumed. Mr. Dickinson, student chairman of Gooding county, was instrumental in getting the gathering together. It was decided to make the occasion an annual one with students from Gooding and Twin Falls counties were invited in future years to make his affair larger and brighter.

SUDDEN RISE IN USERS OF CITY WATER NOTED

Average Two Days Turn-over Daily for Twenty Periods One Hundred Is Estimate of Population Increase; School Index Up to 100.

Twenty-one new users have been added to the subscribers of the city water supply during the past ten days, according to the report of Mrs. Katherine Provost, city treasurer.

An average of two per day have been turned on during this period, and no turn-outs have been made of late. The water supply for the turn-outs and the new water users represent a four-fold gain of population, from one hundred in the city population.

The new residents, without exception, have moved into Twin Falls from other towns and districts and do not represent an influx of the county population on the Twin Falls tract to the city. Several towns which have moved in the city after looking over the north-west.

WATER FLOW IS BEING STUDIED IN UPPER RIVER

Canal Company Manager Investigating Fluctuations in Natural Flow in Snake River Source of Flow is Puzzling.

Further investigation of the water situation is being made today by Burton Smith, general manager of the Twin Falls Canal company, who left Wednesday evening for upper river points.

Fluctuations in the river flow prompted the study of water conditions now being made by Mr. Smith. The study of American Falls and Idaho Falls. No water is running in the river bed at Blackfoot and the entire acreage of the present lower river flow center under the south side water rights.

Red Railroad Worker's Relative Dead

Headed by the railroad worker's relative, dead. Headed by the railroad worker's relative, dead.

Relative of Ernest Woods, 34, who was fatally injured while working on the Rogerson-Walla road for the Unity Construction company on Saturday, August 9, has been located, according to a telegram received from the Office of officers of the construction company today, after efforts to locate any surviving kin had apparently proven futile.

Five thousand dollars of workmen's compensation insurance, which would have reverted to the state, will thus be awarded the relatives as beneficiaries. It is expected.

The telegram stated that the kin and the relatives, in whose mortgage the body has remained, prepare the remains to be buried in the state with the wish of the relatives.

The personal effects left by the dead man had no clue to the whereabouts of his relatives and the compensation insurance provided for had led to extensive efforts being made for the location of the relatives.

INK REMOVER

There are numerous formulas for ink removers, a good deal depending on the composition of the ink to be removed. Equal parts of potassium chlorate, potassium hypochlorite and oil of peppermint are mixed together for the first solution. Equal parts of sodium chloride, hydrochloric acid and water are mixed for the second solution. The spot is moistened with the first solution, allowed to dry, then polished over lightly with the second solution and rinsed in clear water. Another good ink remover is made by mixing equal parts of citric acid and alum for water.
