SEA HAWK

by RAFAEL GABRIANTI

SYNOPSIS

Sir Oliver Treaslian is betrothed to Rosemond Godolphin, but the marriage is opposed by Rosemond's father, Sir Peter and her uncle, Sir John Killgrew. When Oliver's young half-brother, Lionel, kills Peter in a quarrel suspicion falls on Oliver. A trail of blood is found leading from the body to his door-way. Even Rosemond believes him guilty. Determined to prove his innocence, Oliver can only protest his innocence but he obtains from the justice a warrant to be granted in case of trial, attesting to the fact that he bears no mark of murder. He also obtains a copy of the blood, obviously that of the murderer, is not his. A few weeks later the trial takes place. Oliver is cleared with few that Oliver will reveal the truth, when a pirate sea captain, Jasper, kidnaps his half-brother and him as a pledge.

With Oliver's disappearance it is assumed he has fled to escape trial. He also obtains a copy of the blood, obviously that of the murderer, is not his. A few weeks later the trial takes place. # POLITICS WARM UP IN IDAHO DURING WEEK

Democrats Make Gains and Republican Mainly Control

Second "Hear" in Boise—Booth to Speak For G. O.—But is Secured for Letting Boy McKelvie Inroduce His Bill.

(By H. A. LAWSON.)

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 7.—With United States Senator Frank L. Gooding, Republican, and Charles F. Dawes, Republican, candidates for vice president, on his hands against the creation of additional seats, the political campaign in Idaho is beginning to warm up.

Democrat to Ahead

If the week's developments were to be summed up as to results, they would indicate that without Cavitt, Coallidge, republican nominee, and John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, the republican Senator Robert La Follette signed a trifling Governor Moore, republican, continues to hold his lead in the gubernatorial race with C. F. Dawes, republican, maintaining his strength and H. F. Sagnolia, progressive nominee about holding his own. Republican Governor Moore, before the campaign is over, will be forced into third place and Freeshner will be in second place. Governor Moore will continue to increase his lead.

More at Caldwell.

In an address delivered at Caldwell, the county seat of Canyon county, Governor Moore, who was put on the gloves and openly attacked the county Progressive administration, declaring the success of the county Progressive administration lowered the valuations on farm properties without regard to classification. The state board of assessors, he said, was afterwards forced to put the valuations back where they were in order to comply with the classification ruling.

Booth in Demand.

Senator Booth's services are being demanded by the republican national committee. Booth is being pressed for him to remain in his home state for the campaign. It is understood that Booth might be asked to be in Boise at the present time in some large eastern city and that he is now engaged preparing his bill. It is announced that Booth will be in Boise at the present time in some large eastern city and that he is now engaged preparing his bill. government so that trade and economic channels may be stabilized. The surplus of goods and services of the United States to dispose of their surplus produce. State-ment National.

Commenting on the address of Senator Booth, the Idaho Daily Statesman, who is recognized as one of his most bitter opponents within the republican party, said editorially among other things:

"Senator Booth still stands for the recognition of Russia. Once the people of Russia, the slightest of property, he says, and his voice will disappear. Senator Booth's attention is called to the fact that the United States has always been very friendly to Russia. The Russian government is another thing. It cannot even run a sewer. But it will probably keep in motion for the purpose of bringing in Russian wheat and wool."

The Story of a Girl Who Cheated

SHE was a nurse—was an officer in the A. E. F. Leaving for the front, she left her letters, photographs, personal effects, to send to his mother in case he did not come back.

Weeks later she wrote the mother that her son was dead, and that she, the nurse, was his widowed bride. The mother kept on writing "Come." She called at once for New York.

Then suddenly he returned, alive and well, to find her in his home, usurping his name, besking in the sunshine of his mother's love. . . . In the horror of the situation she had to choose between the most popular detective in the last decade. A startlingly different story.

WASHINGTON ANXIOUS TO WIN FOURTH SERIES GAME

Senators in Serious Situation Before Fourth Battle; Weather Ideal for Baseball; Record Crowd Is Expected.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—In desperation of another game to get back into the running for the championship the Washington Senators drew up today for a last and best throw in the New York Giants in the fourth game of the world series.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been in touch with their punch game, the Senators were in serious straits. The Giants have the natural advantage of a two to one count in the series and with Roger Peckinpaugh injured, the betting swelled today to two to one on the Giants.

Peck, the most dangerous hitter on the team and the mainstay of the defense, was hurt in the second game. He pulled a muscle in his leg in running out the double that won the game and he had to quit yesterday.

There was doubt in the Washington quarters today that Peck would be able to play tomorrow.

“You can't tell about these things. Peck is a bobby treated and he may come around but we can't count on him,” Buck Harris said.

Weather conditions today were again ideal and a crowd equalling yesterday's record number of 47,608 was expected to be in attendance.

The Senators are now forced to gamble and the Giants can take a few chances without losing their necks. Washington can't use Walter Johnson today because if he should be unable to stop the National league champions the Senators would be at sea as a team. With an advantage of one game the Giants can take a chance with Vasey-leaver, a former pitcher who has plenty of good pitching in him when he is fresh.

Harris probably will ask George Mogridge, a veteran left hander, to work today with the hope that he can even the series. He could then send Walter Johnson back tomorrow and hope again that he would not be dropped by the breaks that caused him to lose the first game of the series.

If Barnes sets away with his game today, however, the chances of another trip to Washington tomorrow night would be rather remote because McGraw would have Ned Low left to headline his team in tomorrow's matinee.

It was generally agreed that the two games in Washington were two of the finest of any series but it was accepted unanimously that the series game was one of the worst. Certainly no worse pitching has ever been seen in a series. Yesterday's game had only one record to show for itself and all. Billy Ryan hit a homer and became the first National league pitcher to get a four base hit in a world series.

HURLS BRILLIANTLY IN TODAY'S GAME

GEORGE MOGRIDGE

NOTES ON THE WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Frank Frisch was the MVP of the third game. The Giant captain pitched two remarkable running catches in center field by taking the ball over his shoulder while running at top speed. “I knew I had to get back for the two hits or they would fall into,” Frisch said. “Kelly was playing way back because Goslin is a strong center field hitter and a long climber. I knew Kelly could not get up in time and had to do the best I could and that's all I did.”

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Up around the Atlantic hotel, where the Washington ball club is staying even the telephone calls are forbidden to use the “voice with a smile.”

It was serious business this morning, with the National trailing, one game to two for the Giants, and young Bucky Harris puzzling over the problem of how to win a ball game without Walter Johnson and Roger Peckinpaugh. The doctor said this morning, almost certainly cannot play again in the series. He, however, as he is printed to first up Sunday's game at Washington, was pecked in just and everything possible was done. But the ligaments were badly torn.

Walter Johnson may have to pitch sooner than he feels like it, but the big-league twister was out ready for today's game, except in event of acute emergency.

“Goose” Goslin's twisted dislocated out of the elevator, refusing to read the morning papers, the first three he had glanced at told of Frank Frisch's brilliant circus catches and what made the “Goose” madder than the proverbial was “hon” was that all these circus catches were made off the bat.

There are nearly 10,000 rooters from Washington in town and out for the party there were 47,000 Washington rooters. The New York crowd never lost a chance to howl its head off for the Nationals and a couple of times started booing and rhythmic handclapping against Buck McGulligan when the Giant twister was weakly.

Over back of the Senators' bench, some of the visiting fans organized a little cheering section, as though at a football game. But the effort was wasted because the roar of the crowd drowned the cheers every time.

Buck Harris still has three pitchers to lead down Ball Lane line. He hasn't tried—Mogridge, Zehlocker, and Al Sechrist. Every one of the others has figured in the new Senatorial double play, full pun on to bench. None has pitched a full game.

COAST LEAGUE

Baltimore, Md.—Baltimore took the fourth game of the “White world's series” from St. Paul Sunday, 5 to 4. The Orioles have won two games, the Giants one and the third resulted in a tie.

Senators Even Count

Terry out, Harris to Judge, Lindstrom beat out a bunt, Miller gamming up the ball. It was a single for Lindstrom. Frisch tried to hit in short order, Young forced, Lindstrom at second, Frisch to third.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Mogridge continued pitching beautifully and baffling the Giants, with a wide curve.

Shut Innings

Senators—Harris now pitching for the Giants. Bluece popped to Frisch back of second on the first ball. Hart out, Jackson to Kelly, Jackson struck for a nice stop and throw. Miller tried to Wilson who misjudged the ball and Mound took the fly.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Lindstrom looked much better than Barnes had at any time. He was not the least bit mazed, he pitched very confidently.

Giants—Kelly doubled. Mound out, Bluece to Judge, Kelly scoring, Jackson out, Bluece to Judge.

One run, one hit, no errors.

The Washington fielded would take no chances on Wilson and laid back on the fence. Bluece taking no chance in trying for Kelly at the plate. Mound was not upset.

Seventh Inning

Mogridge fanned, McNeely hit to left center for a double. It was his third hit in three times at bat. Harris pitched in deep center. McNeely going to third, Wilson threw wild to third but Baldwin was back up the bag and saved a run. Rice tied to Mound.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants—Gowdy out, Harris to Judge, Hardt made a most spectacular stop and throw for the out. Southworth batting for Baldwin, Southworth beat out a grounder. Miller misplayed momentarily. Miller was charged with an error.

Lindstrom threw wild to third, Miller to Harris and just missed because Miller doubled at first. Frisch out, Harris out, Harris to Judge on another spectacular stop by the Washington manager.

No runs, no hits, one error.

Eighth Inning

Dean now pitching for New York. Goslin singled in front of Wilson's bare hand. He made a nice stop. Judge singled past Jackson, Goslin going to third and Judge to second where Mound finished the ball. It was an error for Mound and a single for Judge.

Bluece, Bluece singled to left center. Goslin and Judge, Bluece taking the throw to the plate. Hank Gowdy looked at McGraw, Head fouled in Kelly, Bluece holding second. Miller popped to Frisch. Mound fanned.

Two runs, three hits, one error.

Giants—Young walked, Kelly tied to McNeely. Mound walked. Mound was taken out of the box and Mound took the fly.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Wilson looked much better than Barnes had at any time. He was not the least bit mazed, he pitched very confidently.

Giants—Kelly doubled. Mound out, Bluece to Judge, Kelly scoring, Jackson out, Bluece to Judge.

One run, one hit, no errors.

Senators—McNeely fanned, Harris out, Jackson to Kelly. Rice out, Frisch to Kelly.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Giants—Gowdy singled to right field, Bluece took the throw to the plate. Bluece going to third. It was an error for Bluece on the throw. Benton, batting for Dean, Benton fanned. Gowdy scored when Lindstrom singled to Harris. Frisch walked. Young forced Frisch at second, Judge to Bluece, Lindstrom stopping at third. Mound fanned.

Three runs, two hits, one error.

Vandenberg and Chief Jay McFarley, Bud Davis and George Walters, Jr., convicted of the robbery of the Knoll store, will get whatever stop they do get in the state penitentiary. Russell Cavender, convicted of robbery with the other three, has appealed to the supreme court and will not be taken, it was stated at the office of the sheriff and by his attorney, W. T. Galbreath. Cavender claims to have received orders to surrender to his cell.

Two departs arrived in a prison car at 2 o'clock to take the men and will start in a short time.

HOUSE MAY LOSE STREET CARS

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 7.—It will probably be necessary to discontinue city street car service if the council grants a contemplated franchise for a depot bus line. Vice President W. H. Putnam of the Idaho Valley Traction company has informed Mayor E. H. Sherman.

BEAN THEFT CHARGED TO BLANKENSHIP

H. Blankenship was taken into custody today by Sheriff M. E. Finch on a charge of stealing 48 sacks of the Blue Lakes grocery. Officers said that Blankenship admitted taking the beans. This is the house in which a quantity of mash was found Sunday night by police officers along with a bill.

The place was under observation for several days, with a man on the job night and day for several days. The bill by the police disclosed the mash and the stills were which was destroyed.

Two other bean thefts, one for 17 and the other for 22 sacks were disclosed.

While Governor Moore is assuring folks that the farmers are getting 42 cents a bushel more for wheat by reason of the tariff and Mark Means is dilating on the alleged 5-cent increase for dairymen due to the butter tariff, the American Farm Bureau is furnishing statistics to show that the farmers under present conditions are not able to collect these mythical profits and is asking legislation which will help the husbandman get what is supposed to be his share under the theory of the tariff law, and at the same time asking that the manufacturers' tariff be toned down.

The problem for the voter during the next thirty days is to differentiate between the sincere office seeker and the snollygaster who is just out for the office. The average voter is not saying much this year but a silent protest will be waged at the polls to put out of office all grafters and that class who have degraded their dignified office for selfish ends. The fellow who has failed to hit the ball but has just struck out every time he should have hit a three-bagger will be left at home and the real man with a backbone will be elected. There are too many "pussy-footers" in our political system and just as long as we allow ourselves to be fooled into voting for the pretender instead of the real man we will never get very far under the Stars and Stripes. There are too many "wooden-heads" where real men with a vision should be looking after the people's welfare. Most any sort of human can play the part of an office-hunter but it takes real brains and backbone to put things over.

HOLD THE MARTINS ON THE FARMS

"The school business is what drove me off the farm," said Martin in explaining that the reason why he moved to town was to give his children the advantages of a high school education. It was a calamity for his neighborhood to lose a man like Martin for he was the owner of a well improved farm, his methods of farming were up-to-date, and he was interested in the civic and moral betterment of his community.

The rural schools in Martin's state are handicapped, chiefly because of the small school district system and because of inefficient methods of raising school revenues. The small school districts are generally an unsatisfactory unit for school administration and taxation, especially when state and county funds are not sufficient to equalize educational advantages among districts. All that Martin's state as a whole contributes for the support of the public schools is the income from the permanent school fund and certain appropriations for special purposes, amounting to about 1 1/2 per cent of the total school revenue. Many more progressive states are now contributing from state and county sources a percentage exceeding one-half of the total expenditure for local school maintenance.

The legislatures of 42 states will be in regular session this coming winter. It is time now for educational legislative committees of agricultural organizations to join with the educational forces of the states in suggesting changes in school laws which will equalize educational opportunities for the state as a whole and hold the Martins on the farms.

POLITICAL DEALS ARE RUMORED

If the campaign results in a deadlock and the election is thrown into the house of representatives, the usual crop of charges and counter-charges of "deals" and "betrays" will be increased. The possibility that LaFollette will carry certain states, such as Iowa in which the democrats apparently have no chance, may tempt some voters who would otherwise support Davis, to cast their votes for the third party ticket in the hope that by so doing Mr. Davis will eventually emerge as the victor in the house. The menace is obvious for republican leaders to ignore; what they can do about it is another matter.

The situation in New York is already leading cynical observers to predict that there will be a "swap" between republicans and democrats. They remember times when Tammany has knifed the national democratic ticket and predict that the result of the "swap" will be the election of "Al" Smith as governor at the same time that the vote of New York is registered for Coolidge in the electoral college.

It is worth while, however, to remember that there are honest men in politics, whether or not one agrees with them. Senator Wadsworth is hailed as the now boss of the republican party in New York. It should be possible for those who have strongly disagreed with his conservative stand on woman suffrage and other amendments, to concede that he is too honest to put up "young Teddy" for the governorship and then sell him out in a trade for votes for Coolidge. Governor Smith is so much the boss of leader of the New York democrats that he admitted it in his speech before the national convention. But those who disagree with him on prohibition, or other issues, owe him a frank recognition that his record of honesty in public service places him above suspicion of entering into any deal from which the might benefit John W. Davis might suffer. If there is any deal in New York involving men that Senator Wadsworth on the one side and Governor Smith on the other will be involved.

TWIN FALLS LAD MAKES BIG CLIMB

Story of Ascent of Grand Teton, One of the Most Difficult Mountains in the World Told by Special Writer; Special Feature Story in Eastern Paper.

In a piece written by Malcolme Lambert, the well known mountain writer in the Idaho Statesman, Sunday Idaho Statesman Editor, Peter, the 16-year-old youth of this city, and Edith Herron climbed the Grand Teton peak, one of the most difficult mountains in the world. The story follows:

A 16-year-old Newton boy, with a 16-year-old companion, climbed the Grand Teton mountain, the celebrated Wyoming peak, said to be the most difficult in the United States. The boys' names are Edith Herron of Newton and Frank Herron of Newton and Frank Herron of Newton and Frank Herron of Newton.

The boys' climb was a tremendous feat. They started from Newton last spring with 20 in his pocket, picked up rickety gear as they went and secured a few more at a restaurant in Idaho. He spent five weeks in the trip, returning from Jackson Hole, Wyo., to Newton in five days. Capt Detroit, who accompanied him on the ascent, is a former Iowa boy.

Like Climbing Matterhorn. The outstanding feature of the boys' climb was their attempt to reach the summit of the Grand Teton in the eastern face of the peak, a feat never before attempted. Previous attempts have been made by the western face and it has been abandoned by mountaineers because the eastern route was feasible. Herron and Peter reached a point within 100 feet of the summit on the eastern face and could have been aided to the top but for a severe storm which overtook them.

According to Edith's tale, "The first night we spent in the tent with some of the most difficult and dangerous parts of the Matterhorn, but great skill and courage were required. The Grand Teton is famous in history. It was the beacon light of the Astorians when they crossed the continent in 1811. It is located in a northwestern Wyoming. It sits atop of the Idaho line and thirty miles south of Yellowstone park. The height of the peak is 12,747 feet.

The first ascent was made in August 1870, by W. O. Owen of Seattle, Wash., Frank S. Skaubling, Frank L. Peterson and John Shive of Jackson Hole. The second and third ascents were made in August 1872 by Herron and Peter. Their records of each of those parties on the summit of the mountain.

Herron describes the climb of the mountain as follows: "With the exception of the alpine and some climbing, the rest of the climb was experienced the night of our first day above the timber line. We reached a plateau at dark when it was too late either to go ahead or turn back. The fissure was only three feet wide and about four feet high, with a sheer drop below and we knew not what about. The wind was blowing and was intensely cold, preventing the lizard to come back. We had no blankets and were in two thousand feet from the last place where material for a fire was available.

"We built up the sides of the crag as high as we could, to break the wind. We had been so worn that day before that we couldn't do any more of ice water and were both exceedingly ill as a result. Add to this the craving for water which could not be satisfied and the discomfort of the long hours, until something can be imagined. We started up together in the crevice and walked across the top.

"As soon as it was light enough we started down a lighter-colored canyon of about 45 degrees. When we reached the bottom of this canyon the breeze had not set in. To descend it was necessary to cross a stinging rock face which was rapidly becoming covered with ice.

"We were unprepared for the climb and had only one article with us which might be of service. This was a small pocket knife which had been given us by the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kelley in Jackson. Though little doubt but that the knife saved our lives, we were both very glad to have it.

"We started the climb from the top of the peak and worked our way down the eastern face of the mountain. We had to cut steps from the ice across the top of the peak. We took turns cutting steps, but I had covered about 200 feet. A good many times in that part of the trip we gave up the idea of reaching the top. Finally we reached our camp back at the timber line and turned in to sleep until about the following day. We had our last meal there—baked beans and half a loaf of rye-bread and had no more food until the third day following.

"FEET OF CLAY"

You'll Talk About It!

In "FEET OF CLAY," his latest production for Paramount, Cecil B. DeMille has conquered most of the screen's limitations and has given the world something truly momentous in motion picture entertainment.

"Feet of Clay" is strictly a modern story, blazing with speed, splendor and snapp; but Mr. DeMille has fired it with such daring imagination that he has bequeathed to the whole cinema art an enlarged horizon, a higher goal.

Mr. DeMille's methods here are bold—astounding. Into the effluence of life he has infused death. He has followed his characters beyond the grave. But he has done so in a colossal manner—he has created a tremendous piece of imaginative drama. Yet he has never for an instant ceased to entertain! The film suggested a solution to life's greatest mystery that fascinates us with its grandeur.

Starting Time, Week Days: 2, 4:16, 7, 9:15
Saturday, 12, 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10 P. M.

This picture is swiftly becoming the most talked-about photoplay in the world. You, too, will talk about it when you see it.

The cast includes Rod LaRocque, Vera Reynolds, Robert Edison, Theodor Kozloff, Julie Daye, Victor Varconi and Richard Coster.

Joe-K says: "I'm proud to have the opportunity to show this stupendous film in Twin Falls. It is of such caliber that it will be headlined an extra showing on Saturday afternoon, October 11th, for the benefit of the country people who cannot get in to see it on the regular days of showing. 'Feet of Clay' and a one-reel comedy, and the New Weekly will also be shown Saturday night only. NOTE: Regular admission prices will be charged for 'FEET OF CLAY'."

crossed to the east side and from there the ascent was easy."

The boys verified Mr. Owen's report of the summit which they describe as a mass of broken granite without a sign of vegetation, looking high above all the other peaks.

"Mr. Owen himself (who made the first ascent) thinks this the most dangerous part of the climb. We reached the top at dark. We had crossed to the west side and were within 450 feet of the top. Things which have been painted by dark colors get so much in the imagination that the reality is a pleasant surprise. This was the case here. It was much easier than we had expected that it did not seem difficult. There was a drop of 4000 feet below and though it wasn't more than 14 inches wide it was inclined forward. As long as one was careful there was no more danger than crawling on the parlor floor. Beyond the ledge there was what seemed to me a far more difficult bit of climbing. Bonds are Signed; New Districts to Take Much Water

Change of Plans Will Obviate Necessity for Officers to Go Back to Chicago to Affix Names; Gooding District Will Enter Contract; Several Segregations Up the River Want More Moisture.

Signatures are being affixed today to $2,498,000 of bonds at the office of the American district in this city, preparatory to delivering them to the representatives of the bond buyers who are here to receive them.

It was also announced that the result of the meeting yesterday was a tentative agreement for the Gooding project, which hereafter will take from 150,000 to 200,000 acre feet of water, and that upper districts which have not used the water have signified a desire to take water which will average 300,000 acre feet.

The Gooding representatives yesterday stated that formal action would still be necessary, but that they were confident that they would be able to secure the necessary water rights.
