SHENANDOAH NEARS WEST COAST TODAY

GIANT DRIBBLE TO REACH PACIFIC COAST SOME TIME TODAY AFTER A THRILLING NIGHT FLIGHT; MAINTAINS GOOD SPEED THROUGHOUT.

ABOARD THE S. S. DRIBBLE SHENANDOAH... The Shenandoah drew near San Diego and the Pacific coast today after a thrilling night flight across the continent's divide through uncharted seas.

We expect to reach the California coast during the day and will take on for Larkspur, near Tacoma, at 10 a. m. Saturday, completing the outward half of our cruise.

Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the naval base at Annapolis, was on the bridge throughout most of the thrilling night flight.

"It is simply tremendous," in various ways of the most exciting moments. "The difficulties of navigating an airplane over uncharted lands, with the complications of buoyancy are greater than those of piloting a warship at sea."

Few voyagers have furnished more thrills in an short a time as the navigation of the first passage of the Rocky mountains last night.

Driving ahead at a speed of 71 miles an hour with a wind that was blowing from the rear, we rose gradually until between the highest peaks we were at an altitude of 8,000 feet.

We crossed the Pecco and left the mountain behind as the silhouette of the first passage of the Colorado became visible ahead, and her nose turned toward El Paso.

We Ask Men

To protect their hair By Edna Wallace Hopper. I speak for all women when I say that we want men to keep their locks. And above all, their hair.

The woman do that. You would never forgive us if we did not. We beg you to follow. My whole career on the stage has depended largely on my hair. So many years ago I went to France and secured the best hair dresser in Europe. And I have kept up with every new discovery. The result is my hair as you see it. It is thick and lustrous, finer, far than 46 years ago.

Edna Wallace never had falling hair Hopper or dandruff and Photo 1923 never a touch of gray. Now countless women on who use what I use are attaining like results.

I am offering to women the best I have found, and men are also welcome. My Hair Youth combines the utmost that modern science knows. I am sure you will not have any trouble with the hair which does what this combination does.

I apply it with an eye-dropper directly to the scalp. Applying thus to the hair is ridiculous. The whole thing lies in the scalp, in the roots where the hair grows.

It combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle the hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. Half a dime on such a hair as flows on thrive by like methods.

I believe that my Hair Youth now creates the greatest hair restorer existence. I have never seen anything else which brought comparable results. Now I have placed it in every drug store, on every tint counter. All who desire may obtain it. The name is Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth. It will amaze and delight you. I authorize every dealer to return the price in advance who claims the highest class of satisfaction. Write me for my Beauty Book and I'll send with it something else of value. WASHINGTON SHOWS FAITH IN BALL TEAM Bravery Alone Puled Senators Through to Victory Yesterday. Capital City Fans Have Confidence in Senators to the Last.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL. WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Still putting from the strain and pressure of a game where bravery alone carried them through, the valiant Washington Senators faced another crisis today, when they lined up for the final game test with the New York Giants.

Some one must have told the youthful manager those very words because it was a joke by him over the heads of long George Kelly and Frank Frisch that drove in two runs yesterday, won the old ball game and secured the series at night.

Only Washington fans believed that the Senators had a chance yesterday. The faith of the rest of the country never has been displayed as it was here. There was no report that the Senators were going to win and the city folk worked the same hysteria seeking information about tickets for a seventh game that the critics thought and declared would not be necessary.

It took only a timely single by Buckie Harris, a great catch in the first inning by Sam Rice and a brilliant stop by that grand old Peck in the ninth inning to put the calculation of all the wise minds that were here very considerably out of Washington to stay up all night in the ticket houses in the high of California.

Peck's great stop and throw in the ninth inning on Meusel's bid for a single or second forced Southworth to score and saved the game there but it may also prove to have lost today's battle.

It was doubtful this morning, Buckie Harris said, that Peck would be able to play but Washington figured, with a championship of the world hanging on one game and a victory meaning a difference of about $2,000 each to the winning players, that the old boy would be back in the game for good.

Both the Giants and Senators are in a bad way for pitchers at the time when one good one pitcher might win the championship.

HOW THEY BATTED. The Giants, batting 27th, have three sluggers in the available "first five" who have participated in all of the games.

FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT AND THE TRUST MACHINE

(By JAMES D. WHELAN)

Trust machine ratifications in behalf of the republican party may be seen in the action started by a Washington attorney, and naturally started in a southern court, to set aside the Fourteenth amendment, which enfranchises the negro. This is no doubt a move to scare the negro voters who are drifting away from the G. O. P. in many states.

The work of the same splendidly equipped organization may be seen in the big figures shown for Candidate in the straw votes in many states. Whether Senator Borah will find the same sort of absurd funds that he did in his pro-conviction work in 1920 among republicans or not the results of that fund are everywhere manifest. LaFollette's big straw vote is due to organized efforts by some labor unions and by certain radical organizations. The relatively small Davis straw vote is not the result of a smaller number of citizens who cast their ballots for the next president of the United States, the real progressive from West Virginia but because the democrats are not so well organized, lacking the financial backing of one side, and the fanatical zeal of the other.

The republican machine will amply fund is always on the job. Let no one think that this is an exaggeration. On the table before the writer lies a copy of the "Campaign Speaker's Primer" by Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury and twice governor of Iowa. This was issued in September, 1920 by the American Protective Tariff League in behalf of its subsidiary organization, the republican party. On page 10 Shaw says:

"This campaign is nothing, I am thinking of 1924, and now is the time to win not only this but the next election. The question I am asking resolves itself into this: Are we to be half-baked radicals and win this campaign only, or statesmen and save the nation also."

Shaw shears at democrats as "half-baked radicals" because they oppose his reactionary position. But it is true that the republicans are more farseeing manipulators than the democrats. They have the backing of the trusts and the democrats have not. The republicans always do as Shaw says, "save the nation" (politically for themselves) by planning long to catch the bandwagon four years ahead. Democrats spend their time for three years and eight months making a living and then hastily organize. When they can get the facts to the people, they win, but they always carry a handicap by not having access to the coffers of the trusts and not being able to keep expert politicians to get party members to vote. They find similar organizations to get party members to vote, the straw votes would tell a different tale.

If they find similar organizations to get party members to vote, the straw votes would tell a different tale.

SEA HAWK

by RAFAEL SABATINI

SYNOPSIS

Sir Oliver Trevelian is betrothed to Rosemond Godolphin, but the marriage is opposed by Rosemond's father, Peter, and her guardian, Sir John Killigrew. When Oliver's young half-brother, Lionel, kills Peter in a quarrel, suspicion falls on Oliver. A trail of blood is found leading from the body to his doorway. Even Rosemond believes him guilty. Desiring to protect Lionel, Oliver can only protest his innocence, but he declines from the authorities to be arrested. In a court of law a document, to be produced in case of trial, attesting to the fact that he bears no mark of recent violence; therefore, the trail of blood, obviously that of the murderer, is not his. A few weeks later Rosemond's death is announced with fear that Oliver will reveal the truth. As a pirate angler, Jasper Leigh, and Oliver, she and sell him as a galley-slave. With Oliver's disappearance it is assumed that he has escaped trial. Out at sea Leigh offers, for a price, to take Oliver back to England. When Rosemond's attention is drawn upon them, her pen in action. The Swallow, warned, is sunk.

The sixteenth of the attack upon the Spanish fortification, there was frantic shot after shot, trumpet blasts and shoutings and wild acclamations of men brother and sister. The air was filled with the roar of their guns. The night was dark and the air was filled with the roar of their guns. The night was dark and the air was filled with the roar of their guns.

About the nightfall were added the surviving Spaniards, wounded and broken. The Spaniards were added the surviving Spaniards, wounded and broken. The Spaniards were added the surviving Spaniards, wounded and broken.

"Ruggles of Red Gap" thrust his way through the press in the gallant's waist.

She had set out from Cadix in the hope of finding fortune in the Indies. Her voyage had been a year's brief one; their fate they were to toil in the Gulf of Mexico, galleons, or, at best, to be taken to Algiers or Tunis and sold there as slaves. Her slavery at least would be a life of ease.

Sakral-Bahr's fiancée escaped him. He was continually and fondly in the arms of the girl. In his advance, his face lived with wild joy and a girl. He was richly dressed in the best of black, and his velvet trimmings had been heavily pinned and decked by a maid.

Sakral-Bahr's fiancée came close to him. "You are a gallant, senior captain," said he in fluent Spanish. "What is your name?"

"My name is Pedro de las Casas," said he. "I am a Spanish sailor and a Spanish soldier and a Spanish knight and a Spanish knight and a Spanish knight."

STRAY KITTEN BECOMES GLORIA SWANSON'S PET

MOST kittens born in Astoria, Long Island, have a large number of vacant lots to ramble over and numerous active goals to dodge, but this one was different. He was different in the first place because he was white all over and had a curious way of trying to find out about everything. So he began life by wandering into the back door of the Famous Players-Lasky studio. Fights were too bright for his young eyes on the sets where they were making pictures, so he kept on walking until he found a soft cushion in Gloria Swanson's dressing room. That is where his career as a pet began. Miss Swanson had been choking back tears all morning while working in scenes of her new Paramount picture, "Her Love Story." Her prize English sheep dog had died the day before. Now, ensconced in a place of honor in a certain farm at Croton, N. Y., is a fluffy little thing that has a way of rambling into the hearts of all the Swanson household.

Doctors say he will recover.

OLD THINGS VALUED FOR NEW PURPOSES

Potentialities Developed by Each Generation. How many things are used? Nobody knows. These are accumulating so fast in the United States that there can be no more to be saved from their number or use, says the national foreign trade council. Each generation has new uses for old things. The United States was supplied with cotton for the last war year equaling 12,000,000 separate bales. The millions of things and billions of value. One of these was coconut shells. Coconut shells were originally used for fuel by natives of tropical countries, and by natives to build up unvarying houses. Later a hundred million pounds yearly came to be imported into the United States, for a half dozen food uses. Then the United States navy used coconut shells in tanks to absorb charcoal for gas tanks. As a thing, a flower, a postbox. One hundred and thirty years ago it was maintained in the United States against that it was a positive thing. In this way, estimates of 100,000,000 cotton yield a chief role. Thousands of factories were set busy using cotton to make underwear, tents, sheets, socks, fire materials, amoleous powder, hospital absorbent cotton, (wipes, swabs, etc.) There are 200 listed articles made of cotton by American factories. There are probably 7,000 different uses of cotton. Silk was rare limited in its use. When the first silk cotton was introduced, it was natural and artificial silk. Wood once had a few primary uses, for the making of spears or canoes or for wood, then for houses. Today there are used 100 uses of wood. Under the word fiber, without respect to kind, there are ninety-one classes and kinds ranging from shavings to pianos. The word oil suggests a few uses, such as lubricating, illuminating of candle oil. There are 136 chief kinds of oil, from Chinese tung to rosin. There are seventy general uses and kinds of glass from bottles to ships, with an uncountable variation of uses. What are things? They come, all these things? Nobody knows. It is estimated they come from 130 different countries or ports. They may come from the natural and artificial silk. In the United States alone 300,000 industrial plants use $400,000,000 worth of waste materials to make things, for American comfort and convenience, or to reveal abroad. What are things worth? Nobody knows. A young estimate of the worth of various wastes from $1,000,000,000 to $17,000,000,000,000. Goods and nobody can tell. The word thing is one of the most common of the words of many peoples. There are 1,050 important references to it in the Bible. One standard dictionary uses 300, and one half estimate of the type in 177 to detect the word thing. It has eighteen main distinctions of meaning and dozens of subdivisions. The substance of these distinctions is that a thing is a thing, and that there are a lot of them. Found Petrified Egg - A schoolboy playing in the neighborhood of a few miles from Kuna recently picked up what he believed to be a petrified egg. Speculation is now rife as to whether it is that of a dinosaur and similar to those found some time ago in the desert of Gobi, Mongolia, says an Associated Press dispatch from Boise, Idaho. It is the only specimen of a petrified egg that has been found in this state. It is three and nine-sixteenths inches in diameter and weighs 1.5 pounds. It is dark brown in color, the inside is a light lemon, and it shows complete natural preservation. From Kuna are the remains of a three-foot horse, some bones of a bison, and some (1905) bones of a mammoth. It is the largest and best head of Picket's Peak, near Idaho City.

It was discovered in Mexico and Central America, the original home of the century plant, they grow rapidly and usually bloom before the seventh or eighth year, not later than the twelfth. In colder climates the period before bloom is much longer. Some authorities say that it is but 80 to 100 years away from the plant flowers, a fact which probably gave rise to the century myth from which the plant gets its popular name. After flowering the century plant lies down to the ground. However, new plants arise from lateral buds. Must Not Talk at Table - The Parson is forbidden to talk while eating. Bean Crop Short Asserts Grower

National Production Far Below the Normal, Avers Writer Who Declares That Reports Show Shrinkage in the Total Amount Raised and Saved in the Nation.

(By H. J. KINGSBURY.)

With hundreds of carloads of beans stored in this community it is not surprising that the price of beans is a live question. The law of supply and demand governs the price of beans as it does all other commodities. The normal consumption of beans in this country is right around fifteen million bushels—last year the total production was 15,170,000 bushels. This spring by far the largest average ever known was planted to beans but the weather, in every bean section in the country, except Montana, turned out to be unfavorable and the crop has been dwindling all the summer.

Even at this late date there are thousands of acres of beans in Michigan and New York growing on borrowed time. If a heavy frost or a well spent axe in the shortage in these states will be alarming and will add greatly to the value of our local beans.

PRIEBE SCORES MOORE RECORD REGARDS GAME

"I notice that Governor Moore is being advertised in the newspapers as a friend of the fish and game regulations in this state," said President W. H. Priebé of the South Idaho Fish and Game association today, "and I am sure that the thousands of acres are not yet ready to cut and with two weeks necessary to harvest it is a pity that it should be cut in New York."

In Colorado a much increased acreage was planted to beans but the weather there has been very much the same here. What is more, the farming section of the crop shrunk tremendously in August and it is doubtful if there is more than 30 per cent crop of what was expected. Michigan, with its 600,000 acres, really controls the price of beans.

Michigan, with its 600,000 acres, really controls the price of beans.

There seems to be quite a little talk about last year's carry-over. A thing that does not exist. In spite of the large crop last year beans have rarely been so well cleaned up as they were in August. There were about 75 cars in Michigan and the Hines company sent buyers and bought all they could get at advancing prices. It is estimated that there are but 30 cars left of all varieties in New York.

This year is a seller's market and if the crop is handled in an orderly manner, it intelligence in marketing is used, undue fluctuations in price will be avoided and everybody concerned will benefit with an advancing market. One bean dealer estimates this year's crop at eleven million bushels; last year's crop 15,470,000 bushels; estimated shortage 4,470,000 bushels. It is quite possible that this estimate will shrink another million bushels the next few weeks. In that case more beans will have to be imported to supply the demand.

BARDO GIVES ENCOURAGING SERMON HERE

Boise Minister Sounds Optimistic Note in Synodical Address at Presbyterian Church Last Evening; Advises Following in Steps of Christ.

FRIDAY, OCT. 10, 7:30 P. M. Preaching: Rev. William J. Barde, D. D., president of the College of Idaho. Twenty-minute address.

"The World's Greatest Need," Rev. Henry M. Campbell, D. D., "A Corroded Program of Education," Walter B. Howell of Philadelphia.

"The Church's Responsibility for Its World," Rev. W. S. Holt, D. D., L. H. Saturday, A. M. OCT. 11. Educational Conference: Devotional: "Daily Talk," Rev. Lloyd Roberts.

Rev. Barde's sermon, "The teaching, example and results of the life of Christ furnished with encouragement and motives for action, were thought-provoking last evening by Rev. Jesse H. Barde, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Idaho, speaking last night on "The Basis of Optimism" at the opening meeting of the Idaho Presbyterian Synod, of which he is pastor. He said that his text was not all things put under him, but we see Jesus.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction on the Progressive Ticket

Mrs. Eva Pierce Finch

OF FAIRFIELD
MY CREED

I believe that the most important business of my state is providing the best possible educational advantages for the boys and girls.

I believe that the most important plank in the platform of my party is the one demanding that the school system be taken out of politics.

I believe that any backward step in the educational program is a grievous wrong against the children of the state.

I believe that the best possible preparation and training for the teaching profession is not yet good enough for the proper development of the minds and souls of the future citizens of Idaho.

I believe that equality of opportunity in education necessarily precedes equality of opportunity in life and that every child, regardless of location or environment, is entitled to an equal educational advantage.

To the practical development and working out of these vital problems, I pledge my most earnest endeavor.

...and his first ought to be, and we see that the world ought to be. We see that man—pray—archangelhood and righteousness ought to prevail. The heavenly vision which comes to us keeps our eyes fixed on Jesus Christ Jesus as our goal.

"In the second place, what we see Jesus, we see God's assurance that the things that ought to be can be and may be. Seen in the revelation of the will of the eternal God, and through him we know that it is the things which should be, justice and righteousness should reign in the world. He is the eternal affirmative of God; the promise of the realization of our high hopes, aspirations and dreams.

"Lately when we see Jesus, we see the means to the end, the way by which we may attain the things that ought to be. When we learn to pray and, Jesus prayed to forgive as Jesus forgave and to accept the grace which he offers, then will we see the way to the end and all things better from the grace within."

EDEN RALLY HAS LARGE CROWD LAST EVENING

Jerome County Candidates Presented by Joe Day, Rev. Myrtle McGraw. Followed by Timothy Tull, Faith Candidate Speech.

EDEN, Oct. 10.—The democratic rally held last evening at the high school attended. Joe H. Day presided and introduced the speakers. The county candidates were all present and spoke to the benefit of their party, and what they would do if elected. After the candidates spoke, J. H. Masters, candidate for lieutenant governor, spoke forcefully on the National and State issues. Following this was a recital of songs which was beautifully presented, after which coffee and sandwiches were served and the candidates ministered with the voters.

The audience sang America for the opening number and Mrs. I. H. Masters sang several songs which were heartily appreciated. Some of the issues discussed by Mr. Masters were the hard times of the past four years which were directly traced to the condition of the country. He spoke of the exorbitant freight rates which were a penalty on the residents of Idaho and he raised the question as to what our congressional representatives had done to lower the rates. "If we cannot look to our representatives in Washington for relief where can we expect justice," said the Twin Falls candidate.

He discussed the exorbitant Idaho power rates and showed that these rates were permitted by a republican board of utilities. He urged that this state utilities commission be made a non-political board and same should be made elective instead of appointive. He stated that the Moore administration had recommissioned by cutting off one clerk in the public utility commission at a saving of $1000 a year and at the same time the Power company had reached down into the pockets of the people and matched $10,000 to a ratio of rates.
