FUND TOTALS GROW BIGGER REPORT SAYS

Montana Senator Charges $100,000 Is Being Sent to Home State for Purpose of Defeating Him in Coming Election.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Republican campaign fund collections on October 15 totaled $2,187,027, according to a report submitted to the Senate campaign fund committee today by William V. Hodges, treasurer of the republican national committee.

Collections of $487,027 were made between October 11 and October 15, the report stated. Disbursements in the same period totaled $242,086.

The New York headquarters of the committee received contributions of $308,012.66, while the Chicago office received $178,215.11.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, prosecutor in the oil investigation, today charged that $100,000 was being sent into his state to defeat him in re-election.

The two Montana senators charge was "in a telegram to Frank J. Walsh, attorney for Neal C. McElroy, late and read before the senate committee by Samuel Untermyer.

The text of the Walsh telegram follows:

"Reumbered that $100,000 coming to Montana, to be used against me; no passing him in either either national committee or other republican state committee. Kindly question carefully concerning substance to this state."

At the request of Untermyer, it was announced that the republican state committee in New York, Ohio and Illinois will be subpoenaed to appear before the committee.

Untermyer declared in a statement that $50,000 of the $170,000 collected by the republican national committee up to October 10, was from contributions of $5,000 each, mostly from banking and business interests and the protected industries."

MISSIONARY MEET IN M.E. CHURCH

Delegates From Many Sections Congregate Today in the Woman's Missionary Society Convention.

The first session of the annual International convention of the Women's Home Missionaries of the Methodist church began in the church this morning with the president, Mrs. Elmer Grant Keith of La Grande, Ore., in the chair.

In the absence of the recording secretary, Mrs. E. P. Bluebird of Boise, Mrs. L. McMillen, who was away on vacation, took her place, and the morning worship was led by Mrs. G. W. Barnes of Emmett.

Mrs. Keith gave a brief address on the scripture reading from Luke 10: 30-31, emphasizing the possibility of helping others through the efforts of Christian efforts by individuals.

Mrs. Gleiter-Gilligan of Salt Lake City, with Mrs. M. J. Goode at the piano, which was appropriate and well received. Roll call of auxiliaries was responded to by reports from the various Methodists societies. Emily Tyler, Rupert; Union; Petticoat, Jerome, Blackfoot, and Twin Falls, after which a pot luck luncheon was served in the church dining hall.

The afternoon session began at 2 p.m. with a general assembly, delegations and discussions by the department secretaries.

DEFENDS MODEST CUSTOMS.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22—Bobbed hair, flesh colored hoseery, and popular songs were defended by Blanche F. Cook, president of the Kansas area, speaking before the Methodist men's convention here last night.

"The older girls are prone to be critical of the young," the blabby declared. "We find fault with their 'hair,' 'make-up,' and 'clothes'—and the younger girls. And the popular tailors' designs are for sheikish clothes. He prefers loose-fitting suits of gray denim and heavy-knit, long-sleeved neck shirts. He doesn't go in for snappy 'fet' either. Anyway, girls, these are the first pictures of 'Blanche' and 'Cookie'—oh, pardon me, which we forgot they are 'blabbers' now—how to come out of 'old-fashioned' life without the number of girls Bobbie Frazee

LA FOLLETTE GOES EAST ON CAMPAIGN

Independent Candidate Is Said to Possess New Information Relative to Huge Slush Fund.

ES BURTON, WILBUR SPRINGS, La. (UPI)—THE GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 23—Senator Robert M. La Follette goes "new information" regarding the huge slush fund which he charged was being raised against him, he disclosed today in a speech out for the campaign. Mr. La Follette, fearing the facts "concerning the alleged laxity in prohibition enforcement, which he said amounts to a 'mafioso-style scandal'"

Attorney General Stone also is charged by Untermyer with having suppressed until after election the letter showing how the "mafioso-style scandal" was being raised against him, he will make public either from the platform or before the Burrah investigating committee in a "mafioso-style scandal."

La Follette said one of his agents spent the day before election trying to spend the disclosure of his campaign funds in the court yard to close at hand to watch the "attention."

Large interests are attempting to cover up their vote, he said, and the independent candidate, Mr. La Follette, under threat of closing down factories and throwing thousands out of work, the independent candidate for the presidency declared.

According to the text made public by Untermyer, Mrs. Wilbur-Slade said in the letter that "if he had the power to render a verdict in his favor, I know that they would be for the progressive ticket and that if the progressive western states with large electoral vote are carried by us we will win the election by the direct vote of the people of November 4."

Mr. La Follette said "the progress of the eastern states are preventing the eastern states from becoming more progressive in their attitude of non-interference with the affairs of the nation dependent to act."

While the letter explains that Assistant Attorney General Holland has the authority of "disciplining" United States attorneys, the president added, "I am not afraid."

That, therefore, the president who alone can remove or discipline a United States attorney, sees fit to do so, how much more do you think I could accomplish in the name of law enforcement by interceding into open, open criticism of this?" the letter asked.

The letter, however, does not mention that the Hoosier voters on November 4, for many years as a result of the Klan recoup, is indicated.

The letter concludes that "if the anti-slush fund bill is not passed, the bill will be introduced again when it failed to support the support of 12th Indiana in the race for the republican nomination for governor and helped nominate him over a field of seven other candidates."

The Girl Recreets held their first social meeting Friday evening at the high school auditorium. Alan Marion Davis, a member of the Kimbolby church, conducted the meeting. Miss Madelyn Chaffee was elected president. An excellent program consisting of songs, readings and instrumental music was well-attended after all adjourned to the dining room for refreshments. The ladies aid of the Christian church entertained the ladies of the church on Saturday evening. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. N. W. Swarckren.

The football game Friday afternoon between Idaho Falls and Kimberly was well-attended by the spectators.

After the players had rotted about in the mud several times, the officials had trouble in telling who was who, but it was finally decided that it was Kimberly who had the 37 points and Idaho Falls the 0.

Kimberly, the star, is making the majority of the touchdowns and a great deal of the yardage. Considering that this was Kimberly's first game in four years, and that most of the players are green, a football uniform on before the coaches are much encouraged over the outcome.

The practical letting of the contract for the American Falls, due to the Utah Construction company and the assurance that work will be under way within twenty days, barring unforeseen contingency, is another of the encouraging developments in southern Idaho.

The proposition of Engineer Burton Smith, of the canal company, to divert water to the lowline canal in such way as to generate thousands of horsepower of electricity, is feasible and should be pushed. It is notorious that there can be no permanent competition between privately-owned power companies, but there can be competition between municipality owned power propositions and private companies. Such would be established, as pointed out by Capt. E. M. Sweeney by the establishment of the power unit referred to.

GREAT ARGENTINE BEEF SCARE

Four years ago there broke out in the last week of the campaign the great Argentine beef scare. The republican campaign book issued in August told about the increase of $668,000,000 in our exports to Europe. The exports included much beef. Suddenly the last week of the campaign, the scare was sprung. It was suddenly simultaneously discovered in many places that beef carried by the various members of the beef combine in the Argentine packing houses was scattered over the country. Although every evidence of planting was visible, people in the last days of a campaign are seldom critical. In the first place it was evident that the ultimate market of the surplus of both America and Argentina was Europe.

In the second place, the increase in beef exports precluded the idea of much importing. In the third place, the utter absurdity of the whole was shown by the fact that if the beef trust should bring outside products into this country for commercial purposes, it would be forcing down the price of its finished product here, and cutting its own throat. It did nothing of the kind. We never did import Argentine beef commercially. Some of the beef brought back with war supplies when all were mixed together, and some cans, evidently imported for political purposes, were found planted "where they would do the most good."

It is significant that neither senators nor congressmen among republicans in the tariff debates later, nor the 1924 campaign books, indicate that any beef ever came in commercially from Argentina, but the campaign book for 1924 does assure us that it would come in were it not for the present tariff. That this is untrue as shown by the following from the address of Senator William Edgar Borah at Idaho Falls, October 9:

"I saw in the great New York Times, an article the day before yesterday, that Russia had contracted for one hundred million dollars worth of meat. There landed at one of the ports of Russia the largest shipment of meat that has gone to any port since the war. This went from Argentina. She comes here only for export because she cannot get it any other place, and therefore, notwithstanding the embarrassments and difficulties of trading she has to come to us. But when she can get her meat and other products from other lands she goes there because the convenience of trading is better under recognition."

A good many of us for the past two years have been hectoring Senator Borah to tell what farmers could sell to Russia under recognition that we were not otherwise selling. The meat contract gives him the answer. Senator Borah in effect tells us that, for the inconvenience and embarrassments due to lack of recognition, we could undersell Argentina in Russia. In other words, he virtually certifies that Argentine beef is, quality considered, dearer than American beef, just as most farm products abroad are dearer than the same products here and will not be largely imported commercially whether we have a tariff or not. The hard time Congressmen Smith says affects farmers while factories prosper is not reflected by the beef tariff.

Speaking of Borah, a republican leader said the other day to the writer and another democrat: "I see John Graham, in his ad, wants to vote for Coolidge because he signed the tariff bill which he says, brings prosperity, and he may have another ad in asking us to vote for Borah. I suppose on the ground that he voted against the sun bill."

In our next issue we will consider the big wheat tariff green goods package.

The Dainty Raccoon

The first permanent Atlantic cable was laid in 1858, connecting Ireland with Newfoundland. An earlier cable between these points was lost in construction, but was later recovered and re-laid. The first transatlantic cable was laid in 1865, connecting France to Durbar, Mass., and in 1873 the fourth Atlantic cable connected Ireland and Trinity Bay, Newfoundland. Several cables have subsequently been laid, the latest being the transatlantic telephone cable. Professor Morse, the inventor of telegraphy, may be considered the inventor of the cable, although he had little to do with its mechanical construction. To Cyrus Field, the constructor, was largely due to his foresight and energy.
