WAY OPENED FOR U.S. LEADERSHIP IN DISARMAMENT

London Paper Announces Scrapping of Protocol, Thus Paving the Way for American Intervention.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Geneva protocol is scrapped, the way is opened for American leadership in a new move for world disarmament.

The British government has asked for a meeting to "re-open" discussion of the Geneva protocol and disarmament proposals adopted recently by the League assembly.

The British government actually requested was that the council, when it meets at Rome December 8, have the protocol put on the agenda.

The Daily Telegraph points out that if the Geneva protocol is scrapped the way is opened for American leadership in a new move for world disarmament.

Disarmament on the part of the dominions with provisions of the protocol prescribing use of the British fleet as a core-all for international waters is believed one of the chief reasons for the government's request.

League Conclave Hears Proposals for Curbing Dope

GENEVA, Nov. 18.—American proposals for suppression of traffic in opium, narcotic and harmful drugs came under public discussion at the international conference here today.

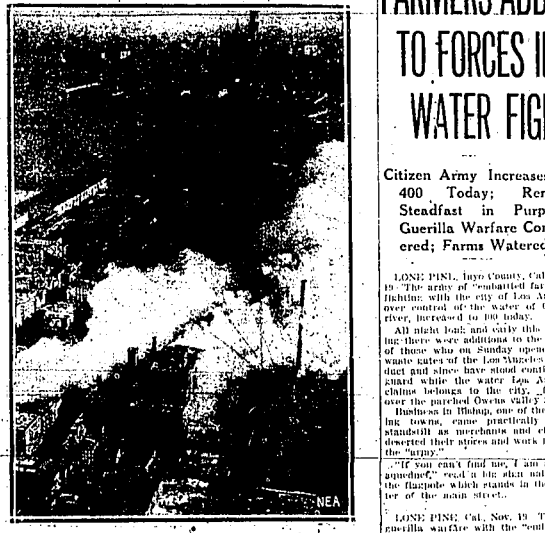

Chairman Stephen Porter, who with Bishop Brent, heads the American delegation, led the suggestion that the United States before the representatives of 46 nations, gathered to agree upon steps to reduce to a minimum the world traffic in drugs.

The American proposals based on the suggestion of the United States government that the use of opium for medicinal and scientific purposes is not legitimate and that the abuse of these drugs can be stopped only by preventing production of raw opium beyond established medicinal and scientific requirements.

Couple Divorce, Then Live in Same House as Father and Daughter

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 18.—If you don't get along with your wife, divorce her and about 1000 are your daughter.

Such is the principle followed out by Hans Arntzen, 70, and his attractive bride Elizabeth, 25.

An husband and wife, Hans and Elizabeth simply couldn't hit it off. They loved each other but that didn't get matters much when quarrels arose constantly.

Finally they decided to end it with a divorce, that they found they wanted to be together despite their disagreements.

Arntzen secured head made Elizabeth a wealthy food farmer. Elizabeth believed she could have Hans more as his daughter.

So the divorce was obtained and the adoption "arrangement" completed.

"I'm going to stay here and keep house for father," said Elizabeth today.

Murdered Woman's Body Sheltered by Wilderness Cabin

WARROB, Minn., Nov. 15.—Sitting waiting in the snow-shrouded forest, Jess Wheeler, the tenderfoot, stared at the wall form of his bride on the floor of a trapper's cabin up in the angle country, seventy miles from nowhere.

The tenderfoot took his bride three weeks into the tall timber here days ago. They ventured to the north country, a happy caravan, hoping to establish a homestead in the spring.

For the last few days and nights now, Wheeler has stood guard over the bride who was shot dead by a bear.

Wheeler was well-to-do in his own way and started the long journey back through the timber to the cabin, to attend to the duties of the day.

Relatives from Clearwater, Kan., are on route to Warrobo, Kan., to identify the body.

At each morning and afternoon session of the convention, an address of some practical nature will be given by a speaker of state or national repute.

Nine Bruin Players to Make Final Appearance Locally in Firth Game

Nine faithful members of the Twin Falls high school football team who have fought heroically together in victory and in defeat, will play their last game in Twin Falls Friday against the Firth team. These men are: Capt. Humphrey, who, however, may not get into action, due to an injury; Tomlin, Alvord, Day, Parson, Pustler, Hoffman, Ely and Williamson. Graduation will claim them next spring.

It is altogether fitting that these heroes of the gridiron still meet in their last home game a team worthy to test their heroic powers. It is a record crowd. While Idaho has given sufficient proof of its strength in defeating Idaho, Twin Falls has yet to be given a real test, but the Firth team will unquestionably provide that test and that the Bruins will be able to meet it in an opportunity of the year in Friday's encounter. The first evidences of Republican prosperity to reach the Twin Falls Times office came today in a raise in our taxes of about sixty dollars. We had thought the enemy would have a little pity on us since we lost so heavily but it seems not. However, a Democrat who lost as we did in the recent election should figure on paying the fiddler, so let her rip.

There are entirely too many accidents occurring with our sportsmen and we believe that if just a little more precaution were taken by those handling firearms while hunting in southern Idaho the fatalities could be reduced very materially. Human life is too sacred to be sniffed out as several have been recently in this part of the Gem State.

There are many worthy causes which pass our door from day to day and we feel like we would like to contribute to each most heartily but some times our bank account will not reach to one and all and still meet the overhead of this office, which runs practically one hundred dollars a day. But we are of the opinion that there is a cause before us now which is of more than passing note and this is the Christmas Seal sale for the Anti-tuberculosis association of this county and state. The money that you expend for Christmas Seals is an investment for better health for this community and all the people of the state. Whenever you strike at this great, white plague or whenever you make it harder for the germs of this dread disease to propagate and survive then you are doing a real service for humanity. All the cash expended for these seals is an investment which will bear fruit, some twenty-two fifty and some one hundred fold. Do your best and do it now.

THE AMERICAN FARMER

It is interesting to know that the American farmer is the most efficient one in the world. He produces per man 2.3 times more than the English farmer, 2.5 times more than the German, 3.2 times more than the French and 6.5 times more than the Italian farmer.

Three leading factors are responsible for this efficiency. In the first place, agricultural education in this country is superior to that of any nation in the world. Our high schools and colleges furnish an education in productive processes that is unknown to most countries. In the second place, governmental aid and supervision have been fostered in this country to an extent unknown in other countries. Systems of education, aiming at plant and animal disease and their eradication; systems aiming at agricultural extension and experimentation; and the cooperation of governmental and private agencies, all tend toward agricultural efficiency of the American farmer. Then he is provided with financial aid in the form of land banks, farm loans, emergency appropriations and other means which tide him over periods of agricultural depression. The third factor is that of labor-saving tools and implements. This one alone has given to agriculture a dignity and prestige unknown to farming fifty years ago. It is not uncommon to be a farmer today in America, for with the automobile, the telephone, the radio, electricity and every form of labor-saving machinery, the farmer is easily the equal of the business and professional man.

The problem of the educator in agriculture is to inspire the young men of today with the spirit of modernism in all things that pertain to this business, and to convince him that the farmer contributes to that which is best in governmental life and adds to our storehouse of spiritual productions. It is glorious to be a farmer.

There are many counties in southern Utah that are adapted to the raising of purebred livestock. A few days spent in Emery county, for example, would convince the careful observer that the crops of that section can be marketed only in the form of live stock or the finished product. It is not uncommon today to see loads and loads of grain, potatoes, driven forty to sixty miles to market. There is no economy in such a practice.

Emery county should produce in grandly numbers purebred hogs and sheep, fat cattle and dairy cattle, and poultry products. The future of that county is in the development of these particular activities.

A few days ago a prominent citizen set out to buy a carload of hogs. He secured them, but they were only mediocre animals, for which he could get only a moderate price. That carload lacked uniformity, finish and quality. The farmers there can furnish quality of hogs because they can raise cheaply and abundantly alfalfa, barley, oats, corn, peas and any other feed necessary for the finishing of a fine quality of animals.

The farmers of Emery county should keep a few purebred hogs, a few purebred sheep and a large number of good dairy cows in order that they might have employment and an income every day in the year.

SEA HAWK

by NAFAEL RADATINI

The chief dahl set forward a moment as if in an abstraction, with downcast eyes, then with hands outstretched to catch a breeze he raised his voice and began to pray in a monotonous chant "In the name of Allah the Pivoting the Pitiful Who created man from clots of blood All that he is in the heavens and in the Earth grazeeth Allah, Who is the Mighty, the Wise! He fills the kingdom of the Heavens and of the Earth. He maketh alive and killeth, and He hath power over all things. He is the first and the last, the unseen, and He knoweth all things."

She replied the crowd, as with a stir and tragic the close ranks relaxed from the tense attitude of prayer, and each man sought elbow room. The dahl bet his hands, reaching, whereupon the curtain was drawn aside and the hundred slaves displayed—three hundred in all, occupying several rows. In the front rank of the middle tier—the one containing Rowland and Lionel—stood a couple of stalwart young Nubians, stout and muscular, who looked a good deal like the two American pugilists, but with white apparel and no headgear, and with a more sinister aspect. They caught the eye of the dahl, and among the usual course was for a boy to indicate a slave he was prepared to purchase. But in the dahl's eyes, the sign should be promptly made, the dahl himself pointed out that contrast with the two Americans stood on guard to complete the two Negroes were brought forth.

"This is a noble pair," the dahl announced, "strong of muscle and long of limb, as all may see, who were a shamed thing to woman. Who needs such a pair for strong labor let me say what he will do."

He set out on a slow circuit of the well, the conrars urged the two slaves to follow him that all buyers might see them. In the foremost ranks of the crowd near the gate stood Ali, sent there following to purchase a make-up about following to purchase a make-up no-the-continment of the salecases of Sakr-Allah.

"I need such tall fellows for the oars of Sakr-Allah," said he with loud importance, thus drawing up himself to the eyes of the assembly, and naming himself in the admiring looks bestowed upon one of the owners of O'Allah's. "What will you give for these two?" asked the rovers who were the pride of Islam and a sword-cut to the island. "They were born to toil only at the oar, O Allah!" replied the dahl in all solemnity. "What will you give for these two?" "Two hundred phillips for the twain."

"Two hundred phillips for the twain," said he solemnly in his wane. "Two hundred phillips am I offered for a pair of the bestest of slaves," said the dahl, who was ever brought into this market. Who will say fifty phillips more?" "I need such tall fellows for the oars of Sakr-Allah," said he with loud importance, thus drawing up himself to the eyes of the assembly, and naming himself in the admiring looks bestowed upon one of the owners of O'Allah's. "What will you give for these two?" asked the rovers who were the pride of Islam and a sword-cut to the island. "They were born to toil only at the oar, O Allah!" replied the dahl in all solemnity. "What will you give for these two?"

"Two hundred and twenty in two the price, O Allah! By the Koran, they are worth three hundred at the least. Will say three hundred!" "Two hundred and thirty," was the answer. "Back to the Moor went the dahl. "Two hundred and thirty I am now offered, O Hamid. Thou wilt give another twenty?"

"Not another asper." "They are thine, then, O God, for thee, hundred and thirty," said the dahl to Allah for so good a bargain.

The Nubians were surrendered to Ali's followers, while the dahl's two assistants advanced to settle accounts with the contractor. "What was the name of the pair?" asked Ali. "The name of Sakr-Allah good wares?"

"The invisible law is that the purchase money he paid over a slave leaves the market, O villain! Ali!" "It shall be observed, and I will so pay before they leave. But I want others yet, and we will make one more. I have orders for a low yonder now, I will have orders to buy him for my captain." And he indicated Lionel, who stood at Rowland's side, the very incarnation of wealth and stability.

Contemptuous surprise showed an instant in the eyes of the dahl, but this he made haste to dissipate. "Bring forth that yellow-haired fellow," he commanded.

"Dost want him for the oar, Ali?" "I will have a pair of the bestest of slaves," said the dahl, who was ever brought into this market. Who will say fifty phillips more?" "I need such tall fellows for the oars of Sakr-Allah," said he with loud importance, thus drawing up himself to the eyes of the assembly, and naming himself in the admiring looks bestowed upon one of the owners of O'Allah's. "What will you give for these two?" asked the rovers who were the pride of Islam and a sword-cut to the island. "They were born to toil only at the oar, O Allah!" replied the dahl in all solemnity. "What will you give for these two?"

CENSUS DIRECTOR DESCRIBES WORK

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 19.—In his annual report to the Secretary of Commerce, made public today, William M. Stewart, director of the census, describes the census work during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924. The statistical subjects concerning which data were collected and compiled during that year include, among others, the following: Statistics of institutions, including prisons and reformatories; births and deaths; marriages and divorces; electrical industries; manufacturing industries; health, public debt and taxation; state and municipal finances; current industrial and business conditions; cotton and cottonseed; and livestock.

Preparations are being made for a census of agriculture to be taken in January, 1925. This census, which will be collected data in regard to acreage of farm land, acreage and production of principal crops, number and value of domestic animals, etc., will be the first census of agriculture ever taken except in connection with a decennial census of population.

During the fiscal year the Bureau issued 212 printed reports, bulletins, etc., with a total of nearly 17,000 pages and an aggregate value of more than 3,000,000. In addition more than 1,000 multigraphed and mimeographed press releases, and an edition of more than 1,000,000 were distributed to the various governmental organizations and individuals.

During the fiscal year a number of improvements have been made in the census work. The most important of these already in effect were further development of the census forms, the bringing about of closer and more effective cooperation between the bureau and the various commercial organizations, manufacturers, and state and local officials; the reorganization and consolidation of the tabulation of industrial statistics, greater promptness of publication and reduction of printing costs. As one result of these economies, the Bureau was able to return to the treasury over $1,000,000 in excess of the amount appropriated to carry on the census work during the fiscal year.

The census statistics in regard to the bureau's numerous inquiries are published with a minimum of delay, and the preliminary summaries which are issued in some cases a year or more in advance of the publication of the final reports, now present a greater amount of detail than formerly. The monthly survey of Current business, the publication of which was begun in July last year, contains more than 7,000 indexes of commercial and industrial activity and is sent to a mailing list comprising approximately 8,500 paid subscribers, in addition to newspapers, trade associations, representatives of the United States Consular service and commercial attaches.

With a view of avoiding delay and duplication of work, the director recommends legislation transferring the collection of data as to quantities of leaf tobacco held by certain classes of manufacturers and dealers from the bureau of census to the bureau of internal revenue.

The census data at the close of the fiscal year 1924, comprised 792 employees. During the past 10 years the increase in the census work has been relatively much greater than the increase in the population. The fiscalization, although raising the census salaries to some extent, nevertheless did not remove, in the entirety the handicap under which the census bureau has always labored as a result of its relatively low salary scale.

Chicago's gangland saw Dion O'Banion, fallen chief, a kindly "underdog." It buried him in a $10,000 casket of ornate silver and gold. And it banked the coffin with $25,000 worth of flowers bought in O'Banion's own floral shop, where a few days before he had been shot down, among his passion, by rival hijackers. Twenty thousand persons jammed the streets in front of the undertaker's chapel where the services were held. The hours of the Holy Name cathedral, where once O'Banion had been an altar boy, were closed to him. But gangland held a ritual of its own. Powerful politicians rubbed shoulders with kings of the underworld, as an orchestra played "Ave Maria" at his bier.

Many friends regret their departure from Kimberly.

MILK DRINKING CAMPAIGN WILL START SHORTLY

A milk drinking campaign will be inaugurated in the Twin Falls public schools during the first week in December. This will take the place of the hot lunch activities of the former year. The campaign will also emphasize the milk program. Considerable difficulty was experienced in securing a proper supply, but this has now been done. A certified herd has been secured and the milk will be pasteurized and delivered to the schools in sealed glass bottles. Straws will be inserted through the caps. Children who had milk distasteful, ordinarily can drink it through the straw without objection.

Bulletin were sent to the parents of every child in the school system of the Junior High school, grade and approximately 450 children will be served at the opening of the program. All over the state of Idaho, where milk is being raised, a very remarkable mental as well as physical gain has been recorded. The cost of the milk is to be the half part. Children who are unable to pay for the milk will be furnished with a coupon for a milk can seal, at a penny value in each Saturday evening.

IDAHO PEOPLE SHOW INTEREST IN MEMORIAL

HOINSK, Nov. 19.—State wide interest is indicated in the Idaho memorial movement now on according to the flood of correspondence, subscriptions and offers of assistance now being received at the office of Director Paul Davis at Boise. In response to the appeal for funds, Davis witnessed large subscriptions to the fund which is to be used for the purpose of keeping fresh the memory of "Idaho's Immortal Six Hundred" who gave their lives in the fight against civilization should not perish from the earth.

It is especially pleased with the attitude of the citizens of the state in this responsible and sacred duty. Paul Davis said in a letter commenting upon the universal interest throughout the state in the Memorial building drive, "It is gratifying where the drive machinery is in being organized we have contributions from business men and former students of the university without limitation. The men and women of the state are willing and anxious for perpetuating the memory of Idaho's heroes in the most fitting manner possible. We did not anticipate that the drive would be so successful in securing the many thousands of best workers very busy, but in the next few days to come we expect very tangible results which will lead to an early completion of this most commendable enterprise."

The attitude of Idaho among those who have formerly resided in the state is worthy of emulation by all good citizens under this banner. P. McLean, now of Salt Lake and formerly of Boise, gave his personal check for $25 for the cost of the cause and others have been very liberal. Robert O. Jones, now of Seattle, formerly secretary of state, has come to the front in his liberal manner, and Phillip H. Hines, formerly of Moscow, but now connected with the State department of agriculture of Washington, also responded without solicitation.

A major portion of this work will be used in several counties of the state in perfecting their local organizations. Reports from county chairmen show that the local interest is good and that there is every reason to believe that the county quotas will be reached. Some counties will no doubt go over the top at an early date.

Mrs. E. T. Patterson, who formerly baked pies and cakes for the street stores, will sell her home cooked loaves in window of the U. S. Meat Market every Wednesday and Saturday.
