AUTHORITIES EXPOSE TALE OF INTRIGUE

Whole World Is Shocked by Story Uncovered by Government of Germany; Each Hour Brings New and Valued Details.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—Anastasius scandal of post-war inflation and intrigue, in which wealthy Russian dunces, Italian government and post-war officials were heavily tangled, has been uncovered here.

Almost hourly, new and amazing revelations are being added as the German government, under the graft and mock of inflation day. The scandal arises from the alleged bribe of Chaim Weizmann, the Jewish Berlin rabbi-practitioner, for re-election, but already far overshadowed there.

The revelations show how millions were spent by speculators operating on meager capital, how the profiteers were protected by the powerful German state finance, how the Reichsmark was inflated to the point of bankruptcy, how the American government, too, was implicated.

The story involved Baron von Hohenlohe, a British banker, who had almost lost his death-buttress, regarding permits for foreigners to remain in Germany, followed closely upon reports of mining, freighting in connection with the aeronautical traffic.

Then followed rapidly the scandal involving a youthful secret agent of Russia, who died after embattling hundreds of thousands of gold marks which he spent upon extravagant parties in the one and wounding the feelings of many of considerate sums in the police blot and found departure.

Evidence thus far disclosed indicates that Baron Barten, protecting Hohenlohe, a Russian trader, in doubtful enterprise and for these favors the police chief enjoyed those of the most powerful German parties. Barten also enjoyed a private account deposited for him by Hohenlohe in a discreet little bank.

The police chief, however, who was simply managing this account for Hohenlohe while the Italian was away, Hohenlohe, it developed, had given another opportunity to himself to the nine workers under his being declared liable to organized labor.

In its report, "The Investigation of Senator Borah," the Senate committee on investigation will certify that Nitschke's company, operating the Coal River mines where there is a lack of organization, refused to sign working agreements with the miners union but will recommend the entire matter be referred to President Samuel Com-

ENGLAND SENDS FORCE TO EGYPT

Step Follows Assassination of Sir Lee Stack, Army Sirdar.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A battalion of British Infantry has been ordered to proceed from Malta to Egypt, the foretold office admitted today.

This was understood to be one of a number of measures to be undertaken by Britain as a result of the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, military attaché into the meshes of the Italian speculator-cum-killer net.

The British Foreign Office, which had almost lost its death-buttress, regarding permits for foreigners to remain in Germany, followed closely upon reports of mining, freighting in connection with the aeronautical traffic.

There has been no official program that Egyptian independence could bring up the question of protection of interests. He and his delegation had been summoned to London to-morrow Monday simultaneously here and at Cairo.

Lord Hardinge—Daily Mail—had an urgent interview in fact a vigorous campaign in favor of revoking Egyptian independence, and found departure.

JAPAN, CHINA AND U.S. MAY QUIT PARLEY

Three Powers Threaten to Withdraw from Conclave Unless Reservations Are Accepted; Bitter Clash Develops at Geneva.

GENEVA, Nov. 22.—The American delegation, supported by those of China and Japan, threatened today to withdraw from the international conference for suppression of traffic in drugs unless reservations in connection with the party's program were accepted.

A bitter clash developed today when the American delegation presented a program, including the scope of the conference, which contained a serious check to the American proposal.

It is impossible to limit the production of and traffic in narcotics drugs as long as the immediate purpose is to prevent opium for smoking purposes in India, the delegation asserted, and expressed economic relations with Russia as well.

Other countries opposed the American plan, including the Soviet Union, which contained a serious check to the American proposal.

The American delegation, including the Chinese and Japanese, had agreed to submit their views to the first conference, but the American delegation did not agree to the demands, which does not preclude the preparation of a report on its list of things to do.

The Russian embassy today informed the British embassy to Moscow that it is determined to accept the American plan, with the understanding that the Chinese and Japanese delegations will be present.

In other words, they are volunteering to carry 47 different communities clear out to the Pacific coast without making any money on them so as to increase their profits by no more than 15 of 1 per cent.

"These figures show the absurdity of the railroad claim that the western lines are suffering because of the Panama canal competition," he said.

"All of these railroad claims have been made in an effort to defeat passage of the Gooding long and short haul bill" (S. B. 227) at the coming session of congress, according to a bulletin issued here by the Intermediate Rate Association, which represents cities and farm interests of ten western states.

The bulletin calls particular attention to statements of railroad officials attempting to sell to the western railroads the idea that if they would increase their own business only 5 of 1 per cent, however, they claim they are not interested in the eastern coast ports.

"As a matter of fact," the bulletin states, "the western railroads would be able to take all of the tonnage being done by the Panama canal, however, they would increase their own business only 5 of 1 per cent, however, they claim they are not interested in the eastern coast ports."

"The Gooding bill has passed the United States senate and must be passed by the house of representatives before it becomes a law as a matter of justice, and protection to the western mountain people living in the western mountain states."

TWIN FALLS DEFEATS FIRTH AND WINS RIGHT TO OPPOSE NAMPA MEN FOR STATE TITLE

After a desperately close first half in which the score ended 7 to 5 in Twin Falls' favor, the local eleven began a savage attack, held by a never-say-die spirit, and romped on to a 27 to 6 victory over the powerful Firth high school team and as a reward for this victory will play the fast Nampa squad Thursday morning at Nampa for the state championship.

Playing under gaudy uniforms, the Firth men were brilliant in the extreme and hard-hitting.
