Behind the resolution recently adopted by the Austro-Hungarian Chamber of Commerce in Vienna, to the effect that the attention of the authorities should be drawn to the "dire need of concluding a commercial treaty between Austria and Hungary," lies more than appears on the surface. Austria is an industrial country, producing only sufficient food to feed her people for three months of the year, whereas Hungary is almost entirely agricultural. Thus the two countries form together a geographic and economic unity. The past few months, however, have witnessed the adoption by each of them of strenuous tariff measures, directed against the other. It is obvious that such measures have no real foundation for permanent enactment. Hence, the resolution of the chamber, practically amounted to a protest raised by the voice of economic necessity.

YEARLY FRAUDS TWO BILLIONS

Almost beyond belief, yet undoubtedly true, is the statement made in a recent report that $2,000,000,000 was literally stolen from the people of the United States during the past year, through embezzlement, forgeries, credit frauds and the sale of worthless stocks.

The report is made by the American Institute of Accountants, the highest possible authority, after a painstaking and elaborate survey. This two billion does not include losses by burglary, robbery or any violent means of separating the victims from their money. It only embraces the results of misplaced confidence.

Of this staggering sum approximately two hundred million was obtained by embezzlement and forgery; six hundred million represents credit frauds, while the stock frauds reached one billion, or a thousand million dollars.

Add to these figures the vast sums wrested from our people through other forms of dishonesty, and the total would be utterly beyond human comprehension. It is a serious indictment of both the honesty and the intelligence of a large portion of our citizenship.

Those who were induced to contribute to the billion dollar "cleaned up" by the fake stock-jobbers have some claim to sympathy, no doubt, yet practically every newspaper and periodical in the land has repeatedly warned its readers against investing in wildcat schemes.

It appears that as soon as one crop of "suckers" is skinned a new and larger bunch comes on to meet the same fate.

THE EPIDEMIC OF HICCUPS

Epidemics of hiccups have been traveling around the country. It seems to be a wandering ailment that stays only a few days or weeks in a community, then moves on. A victim "hics" for 24 to 72 hours, and abruptly recovers. Annoying but relatively harmless—just one of those nasty little nuisances that are forever bothering people.

What started the hiccup epidemics? Doctors can not answer. Some students of psychology and mental peculiarities assert that it is all a matter of imitiveness or suggestion. Their theory is that a few people have hiccups and, others unconsciously copy them.

Last winter, colds "ran to" bronchitis. This year the tendency is for colds to cling to the head. Here we have more nasty little epidemics. A definite type of cold goes the rounds. For instance, the head cold accompanied by an earache.

Medical specialists observe that each of these epidemics has definite characteristics of its own. It indicates that what we call a "cold" covers thousands of strange ailments.

Each year, as cities become more congested and the air more poisoned by auto exhaust, we have more and more epidemics of colds and flu.

As fast as the medical profession makes progress in curbing a disease like, for instance, typhoid or diphtheria, nature sends new destroyers—new ailments to attack us. Lately her destroyers have been re-enforced by widespread nervous disorders and multitudes of peculiar "flu" and colds.

Nature's system is to keep us so that she can strike us down to make room for incoming generations. That's why new maladies develop as fast as the medical profession gets old ones under control. And it is the reason why man will never find an elixir to enable him to live to an extremely old age. By right living we might survive 150 years, but somewhere is a natural deadline to prevent the earth becoming overcrowded.

It is a natural law. You see it at work everywhere—constant building up is balanced or offset by constant disintegration.

Orange and lemon trees, for instance, have been aided a lot by science. Now they have a disease called chlorosis, which among other things causes fruit to stop growing. The scientists are fighting back by injecting medicine into the "sick" trees.

Or take the animal kingdom. "Chicken flu" has been going the rounds—so severely that a fourth of the chickens delivered to New York died upon arrival. To protect itself, New York placed an embargo against shipments of chickens from eight states that supply it with pinfeathers of its live poultry. So goes the eternal program of destruction.

Former Rockefeller Pastor In Congress

(By HARRY H. HUNT)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 23.—The rolling contingent in congress will add a renowned name to its next session with the arrival of Dr. Charles Anthony Eaton of Watlington, New Jersey.

Eaton was famous 20 years ago as "John D. Rockefeller's pastor." He acquired the title by reason of his pastorate at the Dutch Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, where the millionaire magnate during the summer-tour seasons at his magnificent Hill estate. But it wasn't his fine preaching at John D.'s church that won him reputation, even then, as it was his preaching, John D. had a private course in his estate and indicated his daily going for the sake of his health.

It was Eaton's decision to be usually known as his pastor, or his pastor, or both, no getting companions. As a result Eaton's pastor, with a Methodist Episcopal letter known in the pastorate at the Dutch Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, where the millionaire magnate during the summer-tour seasons at his magnificent Hill estate. # Using Excessive Voltage Will Make B Battery Expensive

This use of excessive B battery voltage in the effort to squeeze the utmost volume from a radio set is a very expensive pleasure, according to figures from the Evershed Laboratories. It is the habit of many to employ 90 volts of plate battery and then to devote local stations in order to avoid overloading the transformer.

This is equivalent to slowing down a motor car by applying the brakes without shutting off the gas. Since most radio reception is done when tuned to local stations, it is frequently possible not only to operate at the lowest filament voltage but at plate voltages of 45 and 67½ instead of 90. A typical case which came to the attention of Evershed engineers recently was that of a well known manufacturer of C battery radios. The state of tuned radio frequency, regeneration detector, and two stages of audio frequency. Its current drawn with 90 volts was 7 milliamperes, but by reducing the plate voltage from 90 to 67 volts, the plate current

ROUTE OF THE ROUND-THE-WORLD FLYERS, AND ROUTE OF THE ROUND-THE-WORLD TRIESTE OF THE BELGELAND

FOR around-the-world, travel the fastest, even when on a pleasure voyage, can still outstrip the airplane.

Flying against time, steadily every nerve to circle the globe in the fastest possible time, the U.S. Army aviators recently completed the first air trip around the world in 193 days.

The forthcoming westward voyage of the fastest ship ever to circumnavigate the globe, the Belgeland, of the Red Star Line, has a direct schedule, and has already broken its day's stop with 11 different countries, and visits arranged for her passengers to 60 different cities.

The day may not be distant when those who wish to encircle the globe by air may find facilities for doing so in approximately 1902 hours, the actual flying time of Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith and his companions, when the air route will be faster than the sea route.

For those who are planning to start westward from the world from New York in December on the Belgeland, the progress of the ship is being watched by the Army aviators day by day against their own itinerary, according to Dr. Clifton L. Haddock, of the travel department of the American Express Company, New York.

The tourists found relatively few points on their own route that were touched by the flyers, said Dr. Haddock. "Until the flying machine can be operated at slow speed as well as fast, and can be handled on landing and when starting with the same freedom as a steamship, there is no real difference between the air route and the land route. While the aviator of today must fly on, almost blindly of times, over wild and inhospitable lands, being nothing but a blur of earth or water beneath him.

Our flyer cut corners, so to speak, flying far north when crossing the Pacific and the Atlantic in order to reduce the length of their trip over open sea. # STOP THIS NOW! KEYNOTE AT AUTO ACCIDENT CONFERENCE

HOOVER SUMMONS EXPERTS TO GRAPPLE WITH A GROWING MENACE.

REPRESENTATIVES of many state and municipal governments, of organizations and agencies directly interested in finding some way to reduce the ever-mounting number of automobile accidents, are attending the great national conference which Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover has called to aid in solving the problem.

"Stop this now!" is the keynote of the conference. It is hoped may come some corrective measures upon which all may agree as a worthy commendation to the nation's auto industry.

Startling accident statistics and data have been compiled and are being presented by a committee on Statistics appointed some time ago by Mr. Hoover. This committee, headed by Dr. William C. Sullivan, director of the United States Census, is chairman, and Dr. Julius H. Parmer, director of the Bureau of Economic Research, is secretary. Estimates of the number of persons killed in auto accidents in 1922, say from 27,000, the figures given by the National Bureau of Census and Security Administration, to 10,482, given by the Hoover Committee. There do not include auto accidents resulting from collisions with trains and street cars. These accounted for 2,288 other deaths in grade crossing accidents and for 4,000 in street crashes.

The present year now indicates that there will be more than 27,000 deaths from the auto—7,000 than occurred in 1921. The loss in street crossings is estimated to be 2,288.

The number of those seriously injured, in addition to the 27,000 killed, is in the hundreds of thousands for the single year 1922.

HERBERT HOOVER, Secretary of Commerce

Among these suggestions are few comprehensive plans turned over to Secretary Hoover for consideration by the conference—three in Philadelphia, Holland, President of the Independence Automobile Club of Philadelphia, who recently conducted a nationwide prize contest among insurance men for the best suggestions, and the other by the Traffic Planning and Safety Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, of which George M. Graham, of Cleveland, is chairman.

The three plans for reducing automobile accidents which resulted from the prize contest conducted by Mr. Holland's company were chosen from those submitted by insurance men in forty-six states, Canada, Panama and Hawaii. The judges of the contest were: Hon. Richard B. Enright, General Commissioner, New York City; Hon. General Smalley D. Hulbert, Director of Public Safety of Philadelphia, and Mr. W. H. Cameron, Managing Director of the National Safety Council, Chicago.

The plan which won the first prize of $10,000 was for three major regulations, education, regulation and punishment. Every means of instilling into the public mind the proper attitude of school boys and girls, with the idea of caution and precaution should be employed. Standardization of regulations, uniformity of signals and fixed signal equipment are urged. The author of the plan advocates sterner measures of punishment for violators of laws and regulations.

A better regulation of city traffic, application of traffic regulations to pedestrians as well as to drivers, teaching traffic rules in schools, severe penalties for auto drivers and the enactment of laws in dealing with new means of motor vehicles were included in the plan which won the second prize of $500.

Only two ways of reducing auto accidents, through emphatic enforcement of present regulations and some outstanding yet practical appeal to law-abiding citizens were declared to be the answer by the judges of the contest.

For illustration, if a driver were guilty of carelessness, he would be required to wear a helmet, license plates and display special red license markers for the period of a year. This would be branded, in a sense, with the "scar" of auto accidents. In order that the causes of accidents may be better known, the committee suggests that its program of educational, through newspapers, posters, radio talks, and other media; education of the child through drills, moving pictures, play-acting, etc.; and otherwise education of the adult pedestrian and student of the driver.

Development of standardized signals are urged by the Chamber of Commerce, as in a sense on the one hand, to help reduce accidents at railroad grade crossings, the committee suggests that a motorist stop before crossing railroad tracks.

Other suggestions include: better planning, formation of Safe Drivers' Clubs and vigorous punishment for those who violate the rules. The committee also suggests a schedule of punishments.
