A CONAN DOYLE'S STORY OF ADVENTURE OPEN IN TIMES

"The Lost World" is the title of the new serial which will start in "The Times" tomorrow evening in this column. This is a remarkable story in recent years of fossil remains of prehistoric animals found in South America. The story is filled with mystery, romance and adventure, and is written in Conan Doyle's masterful style.

Start the first chapter Tuesday evening in "The Times" and read each chapter as it appears from day to day.

The Kid Is Picked To Win Dog Derby

Eight Powerful Dog Teams Started This Afternoon in the Annual Ashton Dog Races for the $1200 Cash Prize; Olcott Zarn, 1924 Champ, Is Favorite to Win, but Tud Kent's Backers Are Betting Their All on the Two-Time Champion.

Tud Kent Makes Best Time in First Lap; His Time was Thirty-eight Minutes.

TIME OF FIRST LAP.

No. Name of Driver.	Time.
1. Bill Lewis	35 min.
2. W. C. Corley	41 min.
3. W. C. Corley	40 min.
4. Shoky Gaston	40 min.
5. The Kid	38 min.
6. Tom Kennedy	41 min.
7. Tud Kent	38 min.

ASHTON, Idaho, Feb. 22.—A clear trail, nine champion teams of the nation's leading dogs, and drivers who have arrived by special train were ready today for the start of the annual American dog derby which will be held here to determine the champion trumper of America.

Olcott Zarn, "the kid" who won last year's race, is favorite to repeat, the friends of Tud Kent, two-time champion, say. They are placing their money on him to win and gain possession of the trail cup. In addition to the title, purse of $1200 awaits the winner; $400 for third and $200 for fourth.

Louie Mason, queen of the derby, will drive the team of 15 dogs which will start with Bill Lewis of St. Anthony on the long trek, and following in order at four minute intervals will come Tud Kent, Harry Kennedy, Olcott Zarn, Harry McNeil and Tom Morefield. Each team must travel the trail from the ranch to the ranch, but must strike a virgin trail and must pack several inches of new fallen snow. Morefield, in his opinion, is under way now, and any of the competitors...

THE ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY OF GRIDIRON DELICACIES

Saturday, October 17, 1925, will produce the most attractive display of gridiron delicacies ever served for the public.

On this day more than ten big games are carded. The two foremost contests include Notre Dame meeting with the Army at New York and Pennsylvania's game with Yale at New Haven. Other games scheduled are Princeton-New Jersey, Cornell, Columbia-Ohio State at Columbus, Colgate-Lafayette at Philadelphia, Penn State-Maryland at State College, Penn State-George Washington, at Detroit, and Cornell's game with the Haskell Indians.

STORM SWEEPS GOLDEN GATE. YACHTS HAVE NARROW GATE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—The storm which swept along the central and northern California coast Sunday spent itself by nightfall after spreading its fury over the Golden Gate, tearing yachts from their moorings and battering heavy shipping.

The first gale of the season reached a velocity of 60 miles per hour during the day and still is through the Golden Gate, but has been reduced to 40 miles per hour.

TWIN FALLS DAILY TIMES

Published Every Evening Except Sunday by the Times Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Entered at the Twin Falls Postoffice as Second Class Matter as a Daily Publication, April 11, 1918.

WASHINGTON CHARACTER LESSON

Sunday was the 193d anniversary of George Washington's birth.

Washington has become a heroic figure—a sort of god.

So much have we idealized him we forget, at times, his human trials and temptations.

We lose sight of the fact that he was "six feet three," that his hands and feet were large, his hair reddish brown, and his eyes blue.

Because he was not a god is true reason for his greatness. It is easy for gods to be models of perfection. For humans it is a task.

That Washington set aside temptations to be weak or jealous saved the colonies for freedom, and Washington for history as the father of a new country.

America has much to say of him. Now comes an Englishman with lavish praise.

"No nobler figure ever stood in the forefront of a nation's life," says John Richard Green, an Englishman, writing in his "History of the English People."

He tells how Washington first won the confidence of his intimate friends, and that "the fight went on, the colonists discovered what we now realize to be true:

"His clear, unbiased judgment;

"His heroic endurance;

"His silence under difficulties;

"His calmness in the face of danger or defeat;

"His patience and the quickness with which he struck;

"The lofty and serene sense of duty which never swerved from the task at hand through jealousy;

"That never through war or peace felt the touch of a master ambition;"

"That knew no aim save guarding the freedom of his fellow countrymen, and no personal longing save returning to his own fireside when the freedom was secured."

In your acquaintance, who is silent under difficulty, patient in defeat; calm, true to his purpose, disregarding temptation and jealousy, who knows no personal longing save peace, honor, and contentment for himself and his fellows?

Go to him. Win his friendship. Copy his ways. Trust him. Believe in him. Honor him.

He is the stuff of which heroes are made.

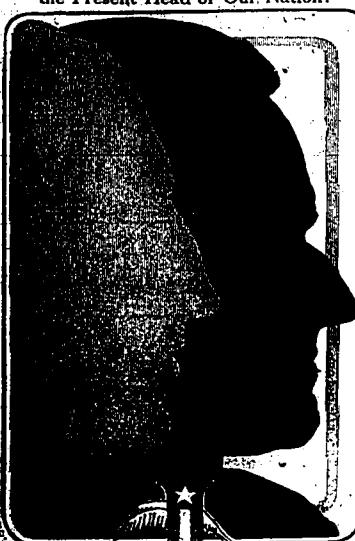

Whatever his station in life, he is a modern Washington!

Make no mistake about it.

ROOSEVELT ON WASHINGTON

"I believe Washington was, not even excepting Lincoln, the very greatest man of modern times; and a great general of the Fabian order, too, but on the battlefield I doubt if he equalled any one of half a dozen of the Union and rebel chiefs who fought in the great Civil War."

Two Presidents; Do You Know Them? Which Is the Present Head of Our Nation?

These striking silhouettes are of the first president and the most recent. Apparently the only difference is in the line of the mouth. Note George Washington's full and lined mouth and the thin continuous line of Coolidge's mouth. The silhouette of Washington was originally cut with scissars by Miss Delano of Hightstown, N. J., in 1883. Coolidge's profile is taken from a recent photo.

Washington Also First in Love
After Marriage He Warns Against Flirtation

He was rushing the pretty young widow off her feet.

Mad George Washington beat his dignified fighting partner that he was married, a good boy he called the daughter of a sheik, as well as the father of his country.

The many stories of his loves, some told by himself, are probably known all across at one point. That is that Washington, after marriage, was perhaps the most contented man in America, and that there never was a domestic rifle rifle in the 10 years of his wedded life with Martha.

It has been more than hinted that his rich experience in affairs of the heart led him after marriage to write his "Moral Advice" to his adopted daughter, Nelly Custis, when she was 16.

Man Speaks.

It would be most natural departure from the truth to say that it rarely happens otherwise than that a thoroughly-paced coquette does in cubicles at a boudoir, or in a room, and that there never was a domestic rifle rifle in the 10 years of his wedded life with Martha.

One of his most serious romances before the one that was to fill his entire life was with Mary Phillips, the wife of Major Robert Robinson, who lived in New York.

She was more than attentive to him, and he was equally so to her, but he left her before marriage, for she was, but while Mary Phillips admired him, she did not love him, and he did not care for her.

Two years afterward she married Colonel Roger Morris, and Washington became engaged to Martha Custis.

While Washington was hastening to Williamsburg to lay before the government his plan of attack on the British, relating to the march of the British against Duquesne, he met a rifle named Chamberlayne who was pursuing Miss Custis. Parker Curtis.

Washington never had met Mrs. Curtis and was prepared to visit the home of the heart, incurable.

Prom that time forward there are many entries in his diary which show that his heart, though his body were not infrequent.

He tells one incident concerned to his heart, and that is that on his western trip, carrying a message into the French lines, he called on an Indian princess, Alloupiqua.

He told her that he had a present that he had prepared her with a blanket and a bottle of rum, and adds, "which beat present to the two."

Only recently his platoons have often with Sally Gary Farley, wife of his best friend, General William Farley, has been traveled through study.

The following Jan. 17 the marriage was solemnized.

Theodore Roosevelt, in letter to Henry Cabot Lodge on the latter's Life of Washington.

Since Roosevelt was a military man of a dashing nature, who was by nature a cavalry leader, it is natural that he should underestimate the value of the Fabian qualities of the "Father of His Country." Frederick the Great had the highest opinion of Washington as a general, and he was surely no mean judge. Roosevelt, however, fully realized the great qualities of Washington, which made him "First in War, First in Peace, and First in the hearts of His Countrymen." He and Lincoln occupy different pedestals, the greatness of one does not detract from the greatness of the other.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S MAXIMS

Be not apt to relate news if you know not the truth thereof.

Think before you speak.

When a man does all he can, though it succeeds not well, blame not him that did it.

Let your conversation be without malice or envy.

Let your recreations be manful, not sinful.

Speak no evil of the absent, for it is unjust.

Show yourself not glad at the misfortune of another, though he were your enemy.

AT THE... THEATRES

SPECIAL ORCHESTRA AT OPERA FOR JANICE
MEREDITH FEATURE FILM

Every now and then comes along a film which is brilliant and lavish expenditure that every one that pretends to know anything at all about movies must see. Even more seldom comes a film combining all these qualities, which possessed also the rare quality of having a touching and romantic flavor that make it the pleasurable necessity of every one to see it. Such a picture is Compton, the story of the life of the actress Janice Davies, which came to the Orpheum theater today.

It is one of those films that you can't help but like, for the sheer delicacy of it, and that every one also must see to know anything at all about movies. It is a motion picture making. Miss Davies outshines even herself in this film.

"Janice Meredith" was adapted from the popular Foster's novel by Little Hayward.

An enlarged orchestra under the direction of Prof. G. Flechner will furnish the music for this feature.

LIFE OF CHRIST AT THE IDAHO THEATRE TONIGHT

The life of Christ will be shown in motion pictures from 7 until 9 o'clock at the Idaho Theatre tonight. Selections on the Massacre of Lazarus, the Last Supper, the condemnation to death by Pontius Pilate, the crucifixion and resurrection are all shown in a moving manner. The performance has received high praise from Christian critics everywhere.

Menjou Cant in "THE SWAN" Adolphe Menjou had added a forte to his repertoire—singing technique—in order to portray his suave perfect in "The Swan," a production particularly designed for Menjou's stage success which features Menjou, Ricardo Cortez and Frances Howard. Adolphe devoted every moment of his time from the camera during the filming of the production to the serious business of manipulating a monocle.

"The Swan" uses his monocle as naturally as the average man breathes," explained Mr. Menjou. "He drops it by instinct, and when he does it would be fatal to the correctness of my characterization of the role if I found it necessary to grimace each time I put on monocle to my left or dropped it."

"The Swan," which opens a three-day run at the Idaho, is the Idaho's first picture produced for the screen by Dimitri Buchowksi, who made "Peter the Great," "Men," "The Devil of the Dust," and others. He also wrote the screen play.
