Senator Borah is Being Urged to Change His Vote and Endorse Warren for Attorney General; Others Urged to Change, But Little Hope is Felt

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The counsel of some republican leaders, President Coolidge today sent back to the senate the nomination of Charles B. Warren as attorney general and thereby precipitating a new battle over Warren's confirmation.

Three hours after Mr. Coolidge's message to the senate, the House of Representatives today at the desk of the senate.

A change of one or two votes would make the margin between victory and defeat and an opportunity was lost by administration senators to impress upon the senate to expect Warren to stay in the future if they failed to vote for him in this crisis.

Chairman Cummins of the committee announced that Warren would be called for tomorrow morning.

AVIATION TO BE DEVELOPED BY NAVY HEAD

Secretary of Navy Wilbur Has Plans for Bringing U. S. Up to Ratio of Arms Conference by Modernizing Battleships and Aircraft

(Copyright 1925 by United Press) WASHINGTON, March 12.—Bringing the United States up to the 6-2 ratio of the Washington arms conference by modernizing the older battleships and constructing the auxiliary vessels and aircraft authorized by Congress is the principal problem of Secretary Wilbur and his naval advisers.

Justification of personnel and material in Wilbur's goal is the administration, but it will be supported by the aid of secure economy, as the department is hampered by Congress action in delegating the most important appropriations.

Further co-ordination of joint Army and navy operations, following completion and analysis of this summer's maneuvers of Hawaii.

More improvement in personnel and equipment of aviation including acquisition of new plants provided for Congress.

Continuation of research and invention for technical advance in warfare with attention to industrial developments made possible thereby.

Although still behind the rest of airplanes laid down three years ago in a five year program and hampered by the attacks by Brigadier General Mitchell of the army air service.

Improvement in submarine operations will follow the completion of the summer maneuvers. The reliability of the new V-type fleet submarine will be analyzed after the return of the Vermont from 14,000 mile shake down cruise and the information developed therefrom will influence navy engineers in construction of two new fleet submarines authorized by the second deficiency bill.

Moral Improvement Note. More attention should be given to the war; an improvement in submarine operations will follow the completion of the summer maneuvers.

BANKERS WILL WHO PAID FALL

Eleven Prominent Bankers Will Pay As to the Source of Former Secretary Fall's Huge Bank Accounts; Bond Numbers Traced to Sinclair

FEDERAL COURT HOUSE, CHICAGO, W. C. Sullivan, the first to rumble in the Tea Pot Dome suit when the government is attempting to trace the source of Fall's company's leases on the Tea Pot Dome oil reserve in Wyoming was expected to be heard today in Chicago.

The eleven were scheduled to testify concerning the receipt of bonds by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, which he paid off obligations. It is claimed, on his New York office.

The number on those bonds, he is alleged, corresponded with bonds of the Continental Trust company which Harry F. Sinclair, lease of the Tea Pot Dome, was interested.

Continued testimony indicated they believed the suit would be concluded by the end of next week. Federal Judge C. Blake, however, went on to hear the suit.

Lacy started reading from various decisions he had taken from the record-keepers of Fall's account. It was indicated defense counsel was going to make a strong effort to keep out all evidence of this character, although had no connection with Sinclair, the suit.

EXTENSION OF ROAD WEST IS SEEN IN SALE

Purchase of the Old Maxwell Farm at Peavey by Big Contracting Firm Convinces Many That Work Will Begin on Connecting Link to King Hill Soon.

The transfer, announced last evening of the old J. M. Maxwell farm, near Peavey, for $125,000 from J. C. White of Walla Walla to E. Hunt and sons, prominent contractors, and the announcement of the firm that it expects to be permanently located there is taken here as confirmation of the theory that the construction of the "great extension" of the Twin Falls branch to King Hill will be constructed or at least started this summer. Another prominent contractor, who would not permit use of his name, said last evening that "big things" were going to happen here this summer and that the Twin Falls country would be very prosperous before fall.

This deal, one of the largest ever consummated in the history of the county, resulted from the joint effort of George D. Allen and E. Hunt, who co-operated in the matter of bringing the seller and purchaser together. The location of the ranch, between Filer and Huhl, gives rise to the controversy as to where the road will branch off. Some contend that it will continue from Huhl through the Brunson tract, while others insist that it will run from a point somewhat to the east of Huhl city limits, at street corner specifications, however, and while the road is said to have blue prints and surveys both ways it is keeping its own counsel. The ranch includes 651 acres of land. Mr. Hunt stated that he expected to keep work animals on the ranch when "not otherwise employed." The firm has finished 14 miles of grade on the Rogerson-Wellis line and has a contract for the fencing of the entire line.

ALFALFA WEEVIL WILL DO LITTLE DAMAGE IN '25

Preparations Should Be Made to Fight the Weevil Early This Spring Says Authority from State University.

MOSCOW, Idaho, March 12.—The alfalfa weevil will be a limiting factor in crop production for 1925 if weather conditions are favorable for the pest, in the opinion of experts of the department of entomology, University of Idaho experiment station. The only assurance of raising a full crop in southwest Idaho, the portion covered by a recent experiment, is to be prepared to control the pest if the necessary arises.

"If one is not prepared to wage war on the pest, he must arrange early for the purchase of machinery and supplies, for they cannot often be procured at the time needed," says a recent bulletin from the department. "The saving on one crop alone will pay for labor and equipment for several years. If control measures prove not necessary, the supplies will not deteriorate and can be used for other crops. Crop insurance that need not be drawn upon until another season." Statistics compiled for 1923 and 1924, over which time the experiment was extended, were quite different from those anticipated and the alfalfa crop characterized 1923, while a hot, dry spring and early summer season, with unfavorable conditions for 1924. But in spite of the climatic differences, certain facts were gleaned from the experiment which will be of any climate. They are substantially as follows:

The Critical Period. From the time that worms become numerous enough to cause injury until they have reached their greatest numbers and are forming the cocoon is the critical period in relation to the amount of damage done. The greatest number of worms in 1923 occurred 25 days earlier than in 1924 and injurious numbers fed on the alfalfa for 21 days less than in 1924. Instead of less weevil in 1923, there were actually more in the field at one time in 1924, but they attacked the plants at a different stage of growth and fed for a shorter period of time. The alfalfa began to drop after the first spray was applied until the numbers of worms corresponding period of time in 1924 was but five days. A spray is effective for approximately 10 days after its application when plants are growing normally. This explains why the department's 1923 but of little extra benefit in the year. Eggs hatched in May and June. In 1923 all the eggs hatched out during the months of May and June and were present in the field even after the first crop had been cut. In 1924 practically all the eggs were hatched out by May 26. June of 1923 was so wet and cold that alfalfa grew slowly and the alfalfa weevil matured at a corresponding rate of speed. A condition existed, therefore, where a smaller number of weevils, existing over a larger period of time, did a correspondingly larger amount of damage. In 1924 weevil injury nearly all was done by May 26, worms began to cease feeding, and many fields had a certain amount of natural recovery. The lack of moisture and the intense heat of early May had the effect of hastening the development and the feeding of the weevil, of reducing its feeding period and retarding the growth of the alfalfa. Most of the growth of alfalfa was made after the weevil had quit feeding upon it.

Similar to Past Years. The years 1921, 1922 and 1923 were quite similar as regards the development of the weevil and the injury caused by it, so they may be taken to represent more nearly a normal condition than does 1924. It is safe to assume that 1925 will be more like the first three years than like 1924 and that farmers may reasonably expect damage from the alfalfa weevil again this season. Entomologists have made a minute survey of fields and have found many weevil beetles surviving, even after all crops of hay had been cut. There are persons who believe that the parasite enemies of the weevil have it under control, but others maintain the extreme drought and heat of last summer killed many of the weevils. Both of these suppositions are disputed by the department, however, because of evidence that an abundance of weevils entered the winter alive after they were supposed to have been killed by parasites. Weevils are killed by parasites, it is pointed out, that the parasites would have killed them in the worm stage. If at all.

Fire Burns 150 Years.
Near Jurt Norman, not far south of the Arctic Circle, fires have been burning continuously for more than 150 years. Many did not light them, nor does man tend to their burning. They feed on immense masses of lignite, like some coal seams, have ignited spontaneously. Alexander Mackenzie, the explorer, first reported them in 1780 and at the same time he noticed that the heat from the subterranean fires had burned to a brick-red the shales that outcrop along the banks of the river that he named after himself. In fact, the shale beds had been converted into igneous rock. It is likely, then, that the fires had been burning many years before Mackenzie saw them. Virtually all the explorers who have visited that part of the Mackenzie River Basin have noticed the underground fires, which make themselves known by the huge periodic bursts of smoke.

"What," said the girl, "is it? You've gone and done it, young fellow, my lad." Malone, a London newspaper reporter, rejected by the girl he loves because he has no heroic deeds to his credit, appeals to his editor for a dangerous assignment, and is sent to interview the incredible Professor Challenger, who has recently returned from an expedition to South America with an amazing story, which no one believes, of the existence of a great prehistoric life.

PINCHOT'S FIGHT FOR PEOPLE

To Conserve Water Power. Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, is entitled to the thanks of the American people for the fine fight he is waging for public development of hydro-electric power.

He is one official at least with sufficient vision to foresee the electrical epoch, the time when our rivers will run the expanse of society, heat and light our homes and turn the wheels of our industries.

Governor Pinchot thinks in terms of PUBLIC WELFARE rather than in terms of private profit. He does not believe that the Lord made the world for the particular benefit of any group of promoters.

In this spirit Governor Pinchot fought Ballinger, of Taft's cabinet, when certain powerful interests sought to seize the Alaskan coal fields, and in this spirit he is now co-operating with the Giant Power Survey by bringing before the American people a realization of what the development of their waters would mean to them, and what they must do to keep the POWER MONOPOLY from grabbing these waters.

The effort to grab America's water power is NOW ON all over the United States. The struggle for control of Muscle Shoals is the most prominent single phase of the effort, but there are companion schemes in almost every State of the Union.

In his message, transmitting to the Pennsylvania legislature the report of the Giant Power Survey, which recommends legislation looking toward "cheap and abundant" electric power for Pennsylvania, Governor Pinchot says: "As Pennsylvania and the nation deal with electric power so shall we and our descendants be free men, masters of our own destinies and our own souls, or we shall be the helpless servants of the most wide-spread, far-reaching and penetrating monopoly ever known. Either we must control electric power, or its masters and owners will control us."

The business interests of the United States should catch up with the business interests of Canada and European countries and appreciate the vast influence which public development of public waters will have upon tomorrow's comfort and prosperity.

Our business interests should JOIN the plain people of America and their far-seeing leaders in one grand effort to save for the common good the priceless water power of the United States.—Editorial from the daily Wisconsin News.

AVIATION TO THE RESCUE

Aviation already having been registered last year in decreased detentions. Requirements that naval academy graduates serve at least two years after leaving Annapolis in another step. Extension of first enlistment to six years if deferred and re-organization of the naval reserve are other new measures in successful operation.

The scope of the fleet maneuvers this year is greater than ever before. The first phase involves a sea battle between the scouting and battle fleets off lower California and the second starts April 15 when the entire fleet of 116 vessels carrying an expeditionary force of marines, leaves San Francisco to "take" Hawaii. The army garrison, national guard, army and navy aviator squadrons, twenty submarines and two mine layers will "defend" the islands.

Board of Imperial Will Judge. Results of the maneuver will be analyzed by a board of umpires of high army and navy officers to determine the efficiency of various units with special view to plans of land and sea co-operation, considered a paramount problem since the British disaster at the Dardanelles during the world war.

The radius of action of the fleet will be determined by a cruise of part of the fleet to Apitihau waters following the maneuvers. The Australian joint will not include any war games.

Because of the increased interest in air and under sea operations, the Hawaiian maneuvers will be given publicity to as large an extent as is compatible with military secrets.

BABE RUTH IS WELL FIXED FINANCIALLY

(By HENRY W. FARHLETT)

NEW YORK, March 12.—Officials of the New York Yankees who sit not down until, denied today that a baseball game was being planned to replenish the depleted coffers of the Ruth estate.

In rather strong words, Ed Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, who started the Babe on his way to his money when he was manager of the Boston Red Sox, said the charity stonewall was not going to be hung out for the home run king because he didn't need it.

"I wish I was as well off as the Babe," Barrow said, "I would like to have as much as he has and be assured of as much as he will live in the next five years."

When a report came from the training camp of the Yankees yesterday that the Babe had returned but the family homestead in New Eastland, Barrow smiled. But as the day wore on and queries began to pour in from all over the country, Barrow decided it was a poor publicity stunt and the silence from the main office.

Barrow said that the Babe draws $200 a year from the Yankees and he is paid half of his salary twice monthly and that the other half is kept for him until the end of the season. He said also that the money paid for his work on the ball field was only a fraction of the revenue that his name is worth.

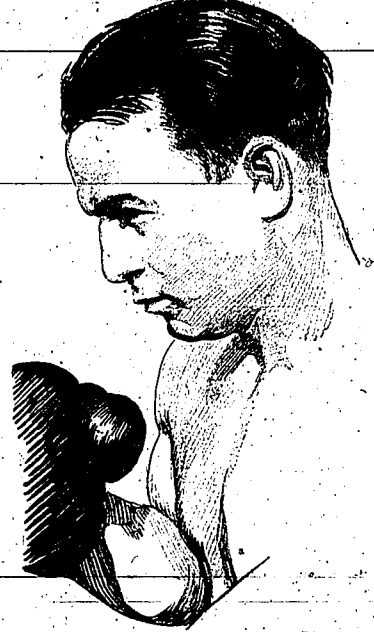

While no actual figures were given, it was understood from several sources that Ruth got $25,000 last year from his literary activities; that he got $10,000 for the use of his name on a belt; $10,000 in royalties from the "Babe Ruth" suspenders; $10,000 from the "Babe Ruth" caps, and several thousand dollars from the "Babe Ruth" baseball uniforms for kids.

If the Babe wants to get that such-and-such cigar, he is a great clerk, he is paid for it. He says that Dr. Dodo's pills cured him of the stomach ache. Dr. Dodo has to cure them.

The Babe has played the ponies but many ball players. Other players have lost much in proportion to their income as the Babe has but no players. The Babe has made his money in the history of making his activities so important as the Babe has. He is in the greatest place of any in the history of sports, because he so frequently assumes the role of innocent bystander.

The Babe hasn't one foot either in the baseball or financial game," Barrow said. "His baseball game has been to run at the same price. He ought to have at least five, more years in baseball."

BASKETBALL TEAM BANQUET IS HELD

Vincent Navin, captain of the Next Season's Team, Two Twin Falls Hoopsters Named on the All-Tournament Team.

The Hoopsters held a banquet last evening at the Hogewagon hotel, to which Coach Felix Platino and Superintendent Ernest D. Bloom were special guests. The tables were appropriately decorated for the occasion in the school gymnasium.

In the selection of a captain for next year Vincent Navin was named. Navin has been the star of this year's team and perhaps has scored more points for his quintet than any other man playing with the squad. He made a few appropriate remarks as did Timm, the retiring captain of this year's team. Timm played guard and center and was a very material asset to the Hoopsters.

Timm was given a place on the all-tournament team selected last week at Hild following the southern Idaho district tournament.

Superintendent Bloom and Coach Platino made appropriate remarks and encouraged the boys to play clean and stick to the finish in their games and in their school work.

It was unfortunate that the banquet hall should not be available for the banquet after passing through such a successful season.

The Boise-Payette Lumber company is offering wood at reduced prices by buying this year's supply now.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Another "woman's team" has fallen. This time it was the famous Paeanne high school basketball quintet.

Paeanne failed to defeat the other night after having slipped through 159 games without a reverse.

Over a span of six years the New Jersey school owned and operated. Most of it was literally erasing. Paeanne's success being the usual result. There and there a bit of victory competition finished but it was far from the world war. Each is well patronized, football, of course, with its seating facilities leading them all by a wide margin. Baseball is a secondary sport as are the "rallies" boys are concerned. And it is doubly but a drax on the old athletic fund.

True, college baseball has brought out some great star, who later made good in his league. But as an athletic fund, it is a drain on the old athletic fund.

Many boxing titles have changed hands during the past six years, or since the world war. Each is well patronized, football, of course, with its seating facilities leading them all by a wide margin. Baseball is a secondary sport as are the "rallies" boys are concerned. And it is doubly but a drax on the old athletic fund.

BOSTON.—A margin of 109 points separated Jake Schaefer, 152 lb. tank service billed champion, from Willie Brown, former champion, at the end of the sixth round, block in the 4000-pound match. Total score, 2241; Schaefer 2152. Brown also leads with a grand average of 47.5-48 against 42-22 for Schaefer.

In a way, Paeanne's coach, players and fans alike are perhaps all that struck it at an end. They cannot help but feel a bit relieved. For, the winning stretches are bound to be more or less of a strain both mentally and physically. And especially so to schoolboys.

Parade can well be satisfied with its record, however. For it has established a mark that not only has not been touched for many seasons, if at all, it can be regarded as a "wonder team" in every sense of the appellation.

Two middle school colleges have decided to drop basketball from their athletic curriculum. One is the school of Wisconsin, the other Cornell of Iowa. The diamond pastime has been cast aside because it is "too difficult and unnecessary," according to the report given out.

It is a well known fact that basketball doesn't vary the line in the unit. Now and then a basketball unit will bring out the students. But as a general rule, it is a waste of time and money. Football, basketball and track stand out as the major sports on the

O. J. Cullier of Twin Falls returned yesterday from a visit to his old home and relatives in Crookston, Minnesota. There this winter and the roads were fine for motoring all winter. At the family reunion which was held on his mother's seventy-third birthday anniversary over 40 relatives were present. He brought back quite a souvenir from his old home. His relations and friends brought so many presents upon him that he had to hunt up something to bring them back in. When he began to pack, he found that they had an old trunk which he had bought when he was 12 years of age so he gathered up his presents and shipped them back in this trunk.
