COLLEEN MOORE IN GREAT DRAMA, "SO BIG" WHICH RAN IN SERIAL

Colleen Moore has been called the "living library" of Hollywood because she has produced screen versions of so many popular novels.

Her latest picture, "So Big," is an adaptation from Edna Ferber's "best seller," to be shown at the Orpheum theatre tomorrow night. It is the story of a Dutch farmer, called "The Hunter" and numerous others.

In "So Big," Miss Moore is declared to have done her best screen work. The story, based on her life in the old Dutch settlement near Chicago in the latter part of the past century, sees her away from the fetid miasma of a swamp with which she has been associated. It presents her as the wife of a stolid Dutch farmer, selling amidst the cabbage and radishes of a truck garden.

A lady soon it all that makes her life worth while and, as she glides, she visualizes the time when she will become "so-o-o big" in the world of affairs.

It is a surprising role for young Miss Moore, and it gives more surprising, as, with the passage of years, she is seen slowly transforming into a middle-aged woman. Nothing could be so remote from the gay and giddy flapper of 1926.

$12,000 in Auto Licenses
E. J. Correll, county assessor, reports that $12,000 in auto licenses have been collected by his office up to date. This is about 80 to 85 per cent of the cars in Cassia county. The balance will be having made application for licenses. The amount of money will purchase licenses for between 500 to 700 cars.

Wives Meet at Night
The Methodist church Friday evening closed the contest between the ladies and men of the congregation. The men had presented their program on Wednesday evening when they gave "The Women's Wedding." The program presented by the ladies was two plays "Those Husband Guys" and "The Old Maid's Convention," one drill, "Heral of Nalada." The judges who were W. W. Christensen, Mrs. G. Tomlinson and Mrs. William Roper rendered their decision in favor of the women, thus making the men the donors of the dinner to be served the winners.

TWIN FALLS' NEW MAYOR FACES FORWARD LOOKING PROGRAM

The new administration headed by Edgar L. Ashton as mayor comes into power at a time of greater opportunities than were afforded recent city administrations, because of the certainty of great development in the community. This certainly also brings with it greater responsibilities and the success or failure of the regime now to be ushered in will depend on the manner in which the situation presented is met.

The present administration proved wonderfully successful in meeting a condition where retrenchment was imperative. The incoming administration must spend more money than its predecessor. It must spend more on its police force and more on its fire department to meet the needs of the community. People have absolute confidence in the determination and ability of the new mayor to see that the law is enforced, to personally investigate any reasonable complaint of laxity, of collusion on the part of officers with the predatory or booze peddling elements, and to promptly discharge any officer whom an honest investigation shows to be derelict in his duty. The administration including the holdover council members, will be pledged to submit to the taxpayers on honest proposition for municipal power, and there is no reason to doubt that this will be done.

The new administration was elected on a harmony platform with a harmony pledge. It is no time to keep in grudges or nurse grouches. The best interests of the city demand a progressive government, and now that the period of prosperity is coming to Twin Falls, all good citizens will uphold the hands of the men in power in furthering the best interests of the city.

The spirit of harmony and good will voiced by Ralph B. Smith, newly elected commissioner, is one which should permeate the whole administration, and the whole citizenship as well.

The new mayor has been in Twin Falls some eighteen years and should be familiar with the needs of the Magic City. We have confidence in him and feel sure that he will give the city a fair and square administration. We believe he will manifest the backbone of his convictions and render a real progressive administration of city affairs. We are of the opinion that some changes are necessary in the appointive officers of the city and we feel sure that Mr. Ashton will sense this need just as the other citizens of Twin Falls and make some needed reforms in this particular.

The mayor-elect has neglected one great responsibility for a good many years and we hope with this new honor will come the full sense of that something which has been lacking in his life for years—the absolute necessity of a helpmate. In this respect we hope he will follow the example of former President Grover Cleveland and select a member of the fair sex to aid and assist him during his tenure in giving the city of Twin Falls a real "His Administration" of its affairs.

FORMER IDAHO GOVERNOR PASSES

The death of former Governor McConnell marks the passing of one who made Idaho history in pioneering days and one who did much to bring a lawful orderly territory carved from the rough environments that he found when he reached here. Governor McConnell was a leader in all ways and one to whose leadership Idaho owes an immense debt of gratitude. Referring to the passing of his friend, Bartlett Sinclair says that few men deserve the credit due Governor McConnell for service rendered the state of Idaho. "Governor McConnell was one of the first distinguished characters it was my privilege to know when I settled in Idaho 35 years ago," said Mr. Sinclair. "He was then a leader in the commercial and political world of north Idaho, but was well known generally over the northwest. Before coming to Idaho Governor McConnell had been a very influential character in Oregon. At that time he was in middle life and a sturdy, handsome man. He was of a very hospitable and genial nature. His friendships from the start were widely and almost indiscriminately distributed over the state. I hazard nothing when I say he did more for the north end of our state than any other citizen. From the beginning he felt the resources and natural advantages of the north and of the state were destined to make it populous and rich.

"Up there we always acknowledged his leadership in public matters. No doubt he had more to do with the location at Moscow, his home town, of the state university than any one else. He watched over its growth as a devoted guardian. He was always deeply interested in its curriculum and its financial affairs, says an Exchange.

various facilities. His advice was often sought by both these bodies:

"After his election as governor his activities more generally spread over the state. He then seemed to have forgotten all about sections and saw the state as a unit. He carried into the administration of the governorship the same fine courage he had displayed in the early days as a pioneer leader of the law and order forces. My own opinion is in his performances as an upholder of law against the criminal elements that formerly infested the mining regions of Idaho, entitle him to our greatest gratitude. He was perfectly fearless and thoroughly patriotic. His history during the gold hurrying period of this territory reads like a romance and yet at that point our records are perfectly correct.

"In politics he was always an uncompromising Republican. I never knew one who seemed to think so thoroughly that the success of the Republican party was the same as the success of the country. I question very much if there has ever been a Republican of the type who surpassed him in political ingenuity and foresight. He started his Idaho career at a time when the territory had as able a body of politicians as any other state in the Union. There were Fred Dubois, William H. Cleggott, Jule Bassett, Mart Patten, Fremont Wood, Edgar Wilson, Willis Sweet, Joe Perrault, Joe Pinkham, Joe Beal—usually referred to as the three Joes—Colonel Shoup, Erva Johnson, Frank Coffin, Hosea Eastman, George Stewart, J. H. Richards and many others of equal influence. We have never since been able to assemble a like aggregation of shrewd political managers. There are none now in the state. Our present day manipulators fade into insignificance alongside this group.

"I was one who willingly acknowledged Governor McConnell's leadership. I respected him profoundly. His historical writings are of infinite value to the country. They will always be used as the foundation by the future historians of our state. He made an impression on the record of his time that can never be effaced."

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, late progressive candidate for vice president, twice indicted on charges of having helped politicians on land reform legislation, left Washington March 30 on his way to trial.

Wheeler's friends have hailed the move as the beginning of a new era in the nation's political life. They believe that Wheeler's trial will be a landmark in the history of the nation.

Wheeler's trial is expected to attract a large number of spectators. The trial is being held in the city of Washington.

CHARACTER: Continued

Lake Okech—my own lake—like a sheet of quicksilver before me, with a reflected moon shining brightly in the center of it. It was shallow, for in many places I saw low sandbanks protruding above the water. Whenever upon the still surface I could see signs of life, sometimes mere ripples and ripples to the water, sometimes the gleam of a great eel-headed fish in the air, sometimes the arch of a state-colored back of some passing mackerel. Once, upon a yellow sandbank I saw a creature like a huge lizard, with long, thin, scaly legs, flexible neck, standing about upon the margin. Presently it slipped into the water, and I saw it could see the arch of its back and darting head undulating over the water. Then it dived, and I saw it no more.

My attention was soon drawn away from these distant signs and brought back to what was going on at my very feet. Two creatures like large armadillos had come down, with long, thin, scaly legs, flexible neck, standing about upon the margin. Presently they slipped into the water, and I saw them no more.

Mud Day's
Mud Day's is a mud that is used on the highways and there's no mud where you walk. The muddy, jumping stuff is falling away. No matter how much mud you may have on your shoes, it will fall away. You can dress up little after in her garments without a stain. You can send her out to the open air in a short time, when you want her to be mud-free, muddy again.

Craps Hangers
A Grand avenue school teacher was relating some of her experiences in different schools throughout the country. "I taught school among my own people in the Tennessee mountains for several years where I gathered from the hills. Funny things happened. One day a boy said 'I didn't get there,' I said to him: 'That's no way to get there. I am going to let you; you are not going there; he is not going there; we are not going there; you are not going there; he is not going there; we are not going there.' 'Yes, sir, I got it!'

Field Representatives of the Idaho Farmer-Attackers Legislators Who Rescind and Defeated Bill Against Oleomargarine After Its Passage

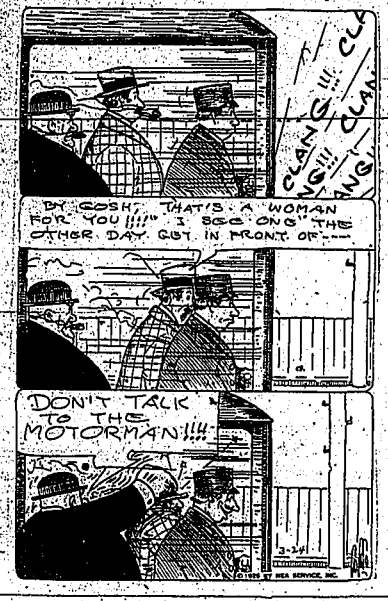

The Times is in receipt of the following open letter from J. E. Neasey, field representative of the Idaho Farmer-Attackers and to a number of Idaho legislators and to United States Senator F. R. Gooding, Congressman Addison T. Smith and others who opposed the bill against oleomargarine. The letter to the Times and the open letter to the solons follow:

I am enclosing a copy of an open letter I have addressed to Senator Gooding, Congressman Smith and others who took an active part in defeating our anti-oleomargarine bill which was supported by every dairy and farm organization in the state. I am sure you are conversant with the facts in the case and know something of the methods by which this bill was recalled and killed "under orders" after it had been passed by the house by a vote of 55 to 5 and by the senate by 22 to 18. The letter is self explanatory and I am sure the hundreds of readers of your paper who are directly interested in dairy matters, the thousands who are indirectly interested, will find some valuable information in the letter. I hope you may use it at an early date.

I talked to two strange meetings in Twin Falls county last week on the oleomargarine question and the Pomona grange to be held in the Pomona school house on April 11, will take up the matter in a business way. There might be an interesting story in that meeting. W. W. Deal, state master, will be there and talk on the subject which has aroused much interest in the grange.

Text of Open Letter.
To Frank E. Gooding, United States Senator; Addison T. Smith, Representative in Congress; Editor of the Idaho Statesman; James E. Hines, Editor of the Idaho Leader; Hanna, and The majority members in the Idaho senate; and the Idaho legislators.
Gentlemen: The work in the feeling-house Bill-210 which would have protected the dairy industry of Idaho from the unfair competition of coconut oil produced by half-savage natives of the Philippine Islands who work for it seven a day, has now become a farce. Your cowardly surrender of Idaho's dairy industry to a threat by the manufacturers of oleomargarine is known in foreign lands and the example set by the oleomargarine manufacturers is threatening a boycott if the dairy industry is not surrendered to it. It is being emulated by the dairy interests of Denmark. The same threats made by oleomargarine manufacturers in the United States which resulted in your complete surrender when Idaho's dairy industry was asking for protection, are being repeated against the dairy industry of the United States, by the same interests. Note the following Associated Press dispatch published recently in the Idaho Statesman and other Associated Press papers. It follows:

"Copenhagen, March 29 (AP).—Some alarm has been aroused here over the reported findings of the American tariff commission that Danish butter can be laid down in New York at a price less than that of the American product. A newspaper reporting the "farmers' bloc" demands retaliation of the part of Denmark in the shape of prohibition against importation of certain American goods."

By Condo

margarine manufacturers in demanding a surrender to their demands, are to understand it is because the "farmers' bloc" in Denmark is not spending money "like a drunken soldier" as was done by the oleomargarine manufacturers?

You cowardly members of the Idaho state senate who were scared stiff (or pretended to be) when oleomargarine manufacturers, through their paid propagandists, threatened to boycott Idaho if House Bill 210 were passed. Are you going to do now? Are you going to telegraph to Washington and urge compliance with the demands of the Danish "farmers' bloc" as the agents of the oleomargarine manufacturers had telegrams sent from Washington to you, demanding that you yield to the demands of the oleomargarine manufacturers? If not, why not?

If it is fair to admit, coconut oil free of duty and permit it being made in a cheap imitation of butter to be sold at profits ranging well above 100 per cent in competition with butter, why is it not fair to permit real butter made of pure cream, in the most cleanly and sanitary manner to come into the United States to compete with butter? If you, and each and all of you do not take sides with the "farmers' bloc" in Denmark in urging that their demands be acceded to what are the people of Idaho to think of you? Do you believe that you are willing to sacrifice Idaho's dairy industry because the oleomargarine trust, that is making millions of dollars profit, especially by manufacturing counterfeit butter demands it and accompanies the demand with liberal expenditures of money and with a threat that the senate will boycott Idaho? Are we to believe that you are more deeply interested in the dairy industry of Idaho, the state from which you get your salaries and your lives?

The Danish butter makers were quick to see and grasp the golden opportunity offered them when you surrendered, "unconditionally" to the oleomargarine manufacturers' threats of a boycott, and they have adopted the same methods that were so successful in defeating protection for Idaho's dairy industry. They mutually believe after witnessing your complete surrender "without terms" that you are too cowardly to fight for the best interests of the American people and that a bluff made by any class will result in gaining the desired point because you, supposed to be representing the American people, are either "too proud" or too cowardly to fight for their rights.

What are you men going to do about it? Are you going to advise the surrender of the dairy industry of the United States as you advised surrendering the dairy industry of Idaho? Are you going to run up the white flag and surrender "unconditionally" to the state from which you get your salaries and your lives? You! Compare the threat made by the "farmers' bloc" of Denmark with the threat made by the oleomargarine manufacturers, which was so successful from the standpoint of those making the threat, and see where your actions have led. In the language of the school boys: "Now look what you want and done!"

The grasshopper pest became an affliction in parts of Arkansas at one time that negro laborers with whip were hired to whip out the grasshoppers in the cotton fields. H. K. Eleven Men Complete Short Course in Dairy Manufacturing at U.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, April 8.—Eleven men have completed the week's course in the annual short course in dairy manufacturing. It was announced by Prof. J. A. Hamilton, in charge of the work. Fourteen men were enrolled in the course, but three of these took no term only. This course has been one of the most successful of any offered by the University of Idaho, said Professor Hamilton. The course consisted of two terms of 10 weeks each. One of the men who finished the course, two will engage in market milk work in Seattle. One is interested in fancy milk production, one in poultry and eggs, together with emergency work, two or three in cheesemaking, and the remaining men men in creamery and ice cream manufacturing work. Each one, however, received training in all of the branches of dairy manufacturing, including buttermaking, ice cream making, cheesemaking, market milk and allied subjects, such as dairy engineering, bacteriology, poultry raising, scoring, refrigeration and factory management.

Japan Fights White Plague with Planes

TOKYO.—A city-wide drive against tuberculosis took place here on March 27. The Anti-Tuberculosis society had your airplanes circle over Tokyo, dropping pamphlets, exhorting the citizens to beware of the disease which is said to be increasing each year.

Tornadoes attain much higher speed but their forces are explosive rather than direct, so the wind instruments, known as anemometers, which happened to be in one's path, would be destroyed.

The recent tornado in the middle west and a similar one in Georgia in March, 1924, are thought to have blown at a rate of perhaps 600 miles an hour, or 20 miles a minute. Measurement of the wind, however, should be started in terms of force rather than speed, because wind blowing 20 miles an hour blows four times as hard as a 10-mile wind.

Ashton Elected Mayor By Big Majority; Smith Wins But Second Election Needed

Edgar L. Ashton Elected Mayor of Twin Falls by a Majority of 388 and Ralph Smith Chosen Commissioner. With a Majority of 335, But Ashton Drew Largest Vote. Runoff Necessary Between All and Douglas; Douglas Had Lead of Ten Votes.

Vote by Wards and Total Vote Given.		For Mayor		For Commissioner
Ward	Total	First	Second	First	Second
E. L. Ashton	426	580	1075	R. B. Smith	476
E. J. Finch	395	301	687	W. J. Douglas	351
				S. S. All	454
				E. A. Moon	315
				Total	817
				Required majority	887

The result of yesterday's election was more or less of a surprise to both parties and this election followed one of the quietest campaigns ever waged in the city. The Ashton ticket insisted on a clean campaign, free from mud-slinging and bitterness, and the Finch ticket argued for the same kind of a clean, New and then remarks were heard on the street by proponents of one side or the other but generally speaking, the contest was fair and square. Mr. Douglas did not get the required majority and a runoff will be necessary. Douglas was the most popular man on his ticket and ran almost 20 ahead of the other two candidates who were running with him.

Although Edgar L. Ashton was elected mayor over Edward J. Finch and Ralph B. Smith, Smith was elected commissioner for the position of commissioner. A runoff election to be held April 28 will be necessary to elect the commissioner. The runoff election between J. Douglas and E. S. All, Douglas has the more votes but not a majority of all votes cast as required by law. There is no way of disposing of the matter until another election. Three years ago in the case of E. O. McCalley and Dr. W. E. Dwight, a runoff was held necessary, although Dr. W. E. Dwight sought to withdraw as mayor, this time was impossible to vote for McCalley.

It is understood that both All and Douglas will contest the election. There were 1772 ballots cast yesterday of which it requires 887 to elect Douglas and a short of the required number.

The campaign yesterday was conducted with the feeling manifested in the last three political campaigns. There was no other side and the general feeling was to elect a man who was a contest between good men.

Attorney General's Building. The ruling of the office of the attorney general on this election three years ago was as follows: "Our opinion in this particular election which should be taken as the basis for computing majorities. Our opinion is no conviction was elected June 6 who did not receive a number of votes greater than one-half the total number of ballots cast at the election."

SALVATION ARMY GROWS OVER WORLD

Captain A. Whitten Tells About Extension of Organization in Various Parts of the World

A report just received by Captain A. Whitten, the quartermaster of the local corps of the Salvation Army, describes the growth of the organization in various parts of the world. The report is particularly emphatic upon the rapid spread of missionary work in many distant foreign lands.

The report has been prepared at the national headquarters in New York City for distribution to all of the corps of the organization. It is a most interesting and comprehensive report of the work of the organization in 1922.

The largest Army program is carried on in India, where there are 1,341 commissioned officers, many of them American, at work in 3,253 centers in all parts of that vast country, which in itself has been divided into five complete territories for purposes of administration.

The next largest field is in Japan, where there are 292 officers in 120 centers. The other fields are represented in the report as follows: Ceylon 107 in 150 centers; Dutch East Indies 146 officers in 120 centers; South America; 318 officers in 62 centers; Nigeria, 33 officers in 5 centers.

In all these fields the commissioned officers are assisted by large numbers of native commissioned officers and officers who are especially trained for the work.
