

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for April 26 • STEPHEN, THE FIRST MARTYR

LESSON TEXT—Acts 6:1-7, 8. GOLDEN TEXT—"The Jews forbade him to teach, and they stoned Stephen who was the first martyr."—Acts 7:54.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The story of a brave man.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Stephen's Christian heroism.

YOUTH PEOPLE AND ADULTS TOPIC—The story of a man who was a witness for Christ.

Stephen the Deacon (6:1-8). The first church was threatened with disunion over suspected rivalry in the distribution of alms. When we read that as soon as the church began to multiply, there were murmurs of the Grecians against the Hellenists, we see that as early as the first century, the church was threatened with disunion over suspected rivalry in the distribution of alms. SOCIETY

Call Mrs. H. E. Delis, Phone 928.

White Luncheon — Mrs. Ernest White entertained with a charming luncheon Tuesday evening at her home on Eighth avenue east. Covers were laid for 32 at the large and lovely small tables decorated with lilies of the valley. Bridge followed luncheon and prizes were awarded Mrs. R. H. Simpson and Mrs. May Loann. Mrs. Peter Ericson and Mrs. Frank Hill. Miss M. White in women's.

Blessed Parly—The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church gave a blossom party on Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. F. S. Bell and Mrs. Phil Compton sang a duet which was followed by a short business session. The program was in charge of Mrs. T. F. Warrick. A demonstration, "The Cost of Pleasure," was given by Mrs. C. E. Potter and Mrs. J. D. Stover. Mrs. M. A. Mearns gave two vocal numbers and Dr. Gilliam of Pineapple spoke on his experiences in China. Mrs. Humphrey and her committee served refreshments to about 50 members and friends.

Enjoyable Meeting—The Past Noble Grand lodge met Thursday evening in the parlors of the I. O. O. F. hall. The meeting was presided over by the president, Miss G. G. G. The association had as their guests the members of the degree staff. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ed Gorty and Mrs. Ella Ruffler to 35 members and friends.

K. N. Class Party—The Ammonia class of the Baptist Sunday school had a delightful party Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Martin west of town. The class met at the home of the Martins and after a business session at which a raffle was planned for May 2. The class also decided to help a needy family and then a social hour followed in which music and games were the features of the evening. After the entertainment the hosts served delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. DeWitt and Mrs. Katherine DeWitt as hostesses on May 18.

Episcopal Guild—The Episcopal Guild met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Phil Thomas on Second avenue north. Mrs. Thomas presided over the usual business session at which time final plans were discussed for the evening with Bishop H. H. Fox, who will visit the parish on Tuesday, April 28. Mrs. B. De Eatum of Rupert, vice president of the Women's Auxiliary of the southern Idaho diocese of the Episcopal church was presented and spoke briefly on the work of the organization. Roll call was answered with quotations from the thirty-ninth Psalm. During the social hour Mrs. Gwendolyn and Miss Missa Maynard Coleman served delicious refreshments.

BUHL NEWS

BUHL, April 24—Buhl's delegates in the commercial contest being held in Coalington last night are accounted for by E. Lecker and J. W. Barry of the commercial department. Those representing Buhl are A. C. Whitaker and Lora Hill in spelling; Esther Malone and Hazel Goff in penmanship; Winifred Griffin and Allen Davis, commercial arithmetic; Ivan Wain and Floyd Oliphant, bookkeeping; Marian Wain and Margaret Gable, first year spelling; Claude Lays and Nelda Jahn, second year spelling; Frank Davis and Euel McDonald, second year shorthand; Margaret White and Villa Zhindren, first year shorthand.

Origin of Some Modern Names. If one requires the services of a barrel maker an advertisement would be inserted for a cooper, and possibly somebody named Cooper, whose ancestor was a barrel maker, might apply for the position. But not all Coopers or Coopers were barrel makers. Many were makers of tools, working on the half-ton equivalent of our lathe, and so some were called Turners.

Accident Record. The accidental deaths in this country in the course of a year amount to more than those from typhoid, measles, diphtheria, dysentery and whooping cough together. Among the various kinds of accidents these attributed to the automobile have grown with the greater rapidity than any of the other and are now placed among the major causes of accidents in this country.

NOTICE TO LOT OWNERS IN THE TWIN FALLS DISTRICT. The annual charge for maintenance of lots in the Twin Falls Cemetery for the year 1926 is due and payable at the office of the Secretary, Stuart H. Men differ in their coffee-tastes as they do in size and stature. And they make no bones about it. Some men like a strong, bold cup of coffee. Others say, "Medium for me. Others still must have it mild. But—Every man is strong for flavor! And that's the strong, enduring feature of M-J-B. Drink it to your individual liking—heavy, mild or in-between—the same rich, full-bodied flavor is always in the cup. There is nothing tame or weak-kneed about the flavor of M-J-B. We see to that! But the exact degree of flavor, the exact strength per cup, is up to you, to your individual coffee-taste.

Vacuum packed by a special process invented and owned by M-J-B. This keeps the coffee full-flavored and flavor-fresh longer.

Published Every Evening Except Sunday by the Times Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Entered at the Twin Falls Postoffice as Second Class Matter as a Daily Publication, April 11, 1918.

Be generous. Some men are so mean they would test the milk of human kindness for its percentage of butterfat.

"No man is so rich that he can afford to lose a friend" says an old adage, but did you ever notice how long some people in southern Idaho will harbor a grudge and yet call themselves Christians.

The time is ripe for the erection of those Old Oregon Trail markers. The warm sunny days will soon be here and tourists are already beginning to show up with big packs on their cars. Twin Falls county and southern Idaho will miss a great host of tourists this season unless they advertise and mark the roads leading through this wonderfully rich tract.

The grim reaper has called several of our pioneer settlers during the past few days. Death is an unwelcome messenger at any time and especially so when friends have lived together for years and shared their blessings and their sorrows. But after all, life is more or less like a great field of grain, when it is fully ripe it waits impatiently for the sickle and so when our life work is finished perhaps we should not feel so sad and bereft as we face the great transition.

The women of the Twentieth Century club are presenting a play tonight at the Lavering theatre which should have your time and money whether you feel like going or sitting by the fireside in your comfortable home. These club women do a good turn for the city in more ways than one and deserve the patronage of the community. Some of the costumes alone will be well worth the price of the show.

The Twin Falls high school Coyote staff are planning to put out one of the best high school annuals that has been published for several years and since they are not asking the business men to support them with advertising matter in these booklets they are worthy of some sort of support in this publication which will give Twin Falls much favorable publicity and advertising. These young people will publish a much better annual this year than on previous occasions and in order to present such a high type of publication they are drawing on every resource in order to have sufficient to pay for this publication. Next Monday and Tuesday evening they are presenting a benefit at the Orpheum Theatre and they are asking the public in general to patronize this show as liberally as possible in order that they may be able to finance the annual.

Parental Problems. How can children be taught the right attitude toward servants? Children can best be taught the right attitude toward servants by observing this attitude in their parents, who should treat servants as courteously and as kindly as any other persons. Also, children should not be permitted to give orders to servants, this not being done in the case of other grown persons. In short, it should be made clear that the relation of the children with the servants should be the same as that they have with other grown-ups—friendly, but respectful.

Keep Your Head Up. A successful Down East farmer often used to give this bit of advice to the youth of his neighborhood: "Wants for you in mind that on this here world you're representin' this here outfit. Keep your head up, come back with it up." If every young man and every older one, in every walk and every undertaking in life, will but "keep your head up" and "back with it up" what a satisfaction it will be to look back over the past, and be able to say to one's self: "I always kept my head, and came back with it up."

The Lost World

Published by arrangement with First National Pictures, Inc., and Waterson R. Rathacker.

CHAPTER XVI (Continued) "The entrance of the four heroes of the occasion was the signal for a remarkable demonstration of welcome, the whole audience rising to greet them with a cheer of welcome. An acute observer might, however, have detected some signs of dissent amid the applause, and gathered that the proceedings were likely to become more lively than harmonious. It may safely be prophesied, however, that no one could have foreseen the extraordinary turn which they were actually to take.

Of the appearance of the four wanderers little need be said, since their photographs have for some time been appearing in all the papers. They bear few traces of the hardships which they are said to have undergone. Professor Challenger, though, may be an exception. Professor Sumner's features more ascetic, Lord John Hunt's more gaunt than the other three may be said to be a darker tint than when they left our shores, but such appeared to be in most excellent health, and our own representative, the well-known athlete and international football player, Lord John, as he looked toward a hair, and as he surveyed the crowd of spectators, could not help but be pervaded by his honest but homesy face. (All right, Mac, wait till I get you alone!)

When quiet had been restored and the audience resumed their seats after the ovation which they had given to the travelers, the chairman, the Duke of Durban, addressed the meeting. "He would not," he said, "stand for more than a moment between that vast assembly and the treat which lay before them. It was not for him to anticipate what Professor Sumner, who was the spokesman of the committee, had to say to them, but it was his duty to say that the expedition had been crowned by extraordinary success." (Applause.) "Apparently the age of romance was not dead, and there was common ground upon which the widest imaginations of the novelist could find footing. That such investigations of the searcher's truth. He would only add, before he sat down, that he rejoiced in all of them would rejoice that these gentlemen had returned safe and sound from their difficult and dangerous task, for it cannot be denied that any disaster to such an expedition would have inflicted a well-nigh irreparable loss to the cause of Zoological science. (Great applause, in which Professor Challenger was observed to join.)

"Professor Sumner's rising had been received, he gave the actual course of their journey, carefully withholding such information as would add the public in general to locate his remarkable plateau. Having described, in general terms, their course from the main river up to the time that they actually reached the base of the cliffs, he exhorted his hearers by his account of the difficulties which confronted by the expedition in their repeated attempts to mount them, and the obstacles which they succeeded in, their desperate endeavors, which cost the lives of their two devoted half-brother Sumner and the attraction of that remarkable land. Of personal admiration he said little, but laid stress upon the rich harvest yielded by Science in the observations of the wonderful beast, bird, insect, and plant life of the plateau. Particularly rich in the collection in the topography, forty-six new species of the one and ninety-four of the other had been discovered in the course of a few weeks. It was, however, in the larger animals, and especially in the larger mammals, that the greatest interest of the public was naturally centered. Of these he was able to give a list, but had little doubt that it would be largely extended when the plates had been more thoroughly investigated. He and his companions had seen at least a dozen species, most of them at a distance, which corresponded with nothing at present known to Science. These would in time be fully classified and named. He instanced a snake, the cast skin of which, deep purple in color, was fifty-one and a half inches long, and mentioned a white creature, supposed to be mammalian, which gave forth white phosphorescent light in the darkness; also a large black moth, the bio of which was supposed by the Indians to be a species of butterfly. He said that these entirely new forms of life, the biologist was very sure would be of great value in the study of the origin of the various species. Among these he mentioned the gigantic and grotesque bird, which he named Mr. Malone at a drinking-place by the lake, and drawn in the sketchbook of that gentleman, who had first penetrated this unknown world. He described also the iguanodon and the pterodactyl which he had seen at the first of the fossils which they had encountered. He then thrilled the assembly by some account of the terrible carnivorous dinosaurs, which had on more than one occasion pursued members of the party, and which were the most formidable of all the creatures which they had encountered. Thence he passed on to the huge and ferocious birds, the pterodactyls, and to the great oak which still stands upon this plateau. It was not to be denied, he said, that the mysteries of the central lake, that the full interest and enthusiasm of the audience were aroused. One had to pinch himself to be sure that one was awake as one heard this same and practical Professor in cold measured terms described the monstrous three-eyed fabliau which inhabit this enchanted abode of water. Next he touched upon the Indian and upon the extraordinary colony of antipodoid species, which might be looked upon as an advance upon the pterodactyls of Java, and as coming therefore nearer than any known form to that hypothetical condition, the missing link. Finally he described, amongst some merriment, the inventions but highly dangerous and erratic inventions of Professor Challenger, and wound up a most memorable address by an account of the methods by which his committee did at last find their way back to civilization. (To be continued.)

IDAHO HOME INDUSTRIES OFFERS PRIZES

Best Picture or Design. Schooling Idaho. Prizes $10. Draw. Rings, soap, etc. (Property) Presented by High School or College Students.

BOISE, Idaho, April 24.—The Idaho Home Industries Association, a state-wide, nonprofit organization recently incorporated to boost the use of Idaho home products and build up state loyalty, desires to have a real Idaho slogan and a most characteristic Idaho design for its trademark.

The slogan contest will open only to students in colleges, high schools or institutions of similar rank in the state of Idaho. Each must be accompanied by a letter giving school address and name of no more than 100 words, telling why Idaho products should be used by Idahoans. Preference will be given to those that should contain more than ten words—short and snappy. For elements, first prize $10.00 and second $5.00; second $3.50 and third $2.50. The Idaho Home Industries Association reserves the right to use any and all slogans and designs so submitted in furthering the use of Idaho products throughout the state.

LY NEWS LETTER WASHINGTON DAI

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON—Washington's new traffic director, A. D. C. ...
His theory is that drunken drivers ...
"Nobody," he insists, "can drive judiciously with his arm around a girl's waist."
Finally, Edridge concludes, traffic regulations, no matter how good, are no good at all unless strictly enforced, and right there, he observes, is where a majority of cities fall down.

The use of Idaho products by Idaho citizens, means the keeping of Idaho money at home; the building of strong prosperous industries with good payrolls in Idaho; the making of thousands of happy homes and the creation of state pride and pride which means much to ward the greater prosperity of the Idaho potatoe, Idaho cheese, Idaho butter, milk and eggs, Idaho alfalfa seed, Idaho sheep and cattle, Idaho white pine, Idaho grapes, apples, peaches and pears and hundreds of others have made Idaho famous. Idaho institutions should be patronized and one of the first campaigns to be inaugurated by the Idaho Home Industries Association will be that of patronizing home newspapers and printing plants.

Bible With History.
On the desk of Supr. E. T. Orland of the Maine Bible society at Fort and is a Bible that has a very interesting history. This copy of the Bible, which is substantially bound in leather, has stamped upon the front cover, "Big Ellen Martin," and upon the back cover, "New York Bible Society." The book bears the imprint of 1835, and on the inside cover is the note, "This volume is placed on board for the use of this ship's company and passengers, and should be returned to the office of the Maine Bible Society as soon as possible." The book was eventually felt into the hands of a humorist, and was by him turned over to one of the Maine Bible Society workers. The Maine Bible Society is a history, so far as he is able to learn it, "Kennebec Journal."

FOR THE FAMILY MEAL

A nice supper dish which is not hard to prepare and is wholesome and filling is the following:
Take the outer stalks from a bunch or two of celery, cut into halves; wash and cook until tender, saving the liquor to use with the white sauce. Prepare a white sauce taking two tablespoons of butter, two of flour and cook until smooth, then add one-half cupful of milk and one-half cupful of the liquor; cook until thick. Put a layer of white sauce over a layer of the cooked celery in a buttered baking dish, cover with a layer of grated cheese, repeat the top with a layer of buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until the crumbs are brown.

Tapoca Pudding.—Cook one table-spoonful of tapoca in a pint of milk for 10 minutes. Dissolve a table-spoonful of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water. Add one-half cupful of sugar, the yolk of an egg to the first mixture. Four oversteamed dried apricots, sliced, and one-half of a sliced banana. When cool add one-half cupful of whipped cream.

Sliced Peas.—Soak one pound of peas overnight in water to cover. In the morning drain and cover with boiling water; repeat when cool. Slip off the skins and place the beans in a baking dish, cover with scalding hot milk and bake slowly for two hours. When the milk is all absorbed remove the cover, do with bits of butter; add crayons and brown lightly. Serve from the baking dish.

WOMEN WILL PRESENT PLAY

Twentieth Century Musical at Luff Theatre Tonight Will Show Many of the Latest Creations of Fashion with the Many Attractive Numbers

"Just Women," presented tonight at the Luffing Theatre by the Twentieth Century club will not only be delightful to the ear on account of the uniformly high class music by the best artists in Twin Falls, and satisfy the sense of humor by the humorous playlet, which affords an opportunity for the operation of histrionic talent, but it will give an insight into the latest fashion in a number of elegant costumes which are right up to the minute. The personnel of the party indicates the high character of the entertainment. "Just Women" is produced under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Heynolds, and the music department of the club under Mrs. J. A. Dygert.

Slaves as "Contractors"
During the civil war fugitive slaves who sought refuge in the Union States were considered as contractors and held as such, since it returned they could be used by the Confederates in carrying on the war.

Cling to Mallets
The mallet is still the favorite weapon and cutting tool of the Ozark, who buy 800,000 of the instruments from manufacturers in this and other countries every year.

Could Do Without Him.
Walter, after playing with a neighboring platoon all afternoon, had finally quit with him. His mother took him to task for not seeing his friend to call again soon, when Walter said: "If he never comes again, that will be soon enough."

Flowers' Preferences
There seems to be something about certain persons that violet really dislike, and not only will they withhold their perfume but they will drop as well. Much the same kind of thing has been observed in the more delicate sorts of roses.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE—By Ahern

TOM SIMS SAYS

In Detroit a slough hit a street car, reminding us that it is about time to swab house flies.

A New York man got himself because he couldn't get any beer, which only proved he was lame.

The Washington News is a boy waiting to see Childie faint, so maybe he thought he heard Childie talking.

Foreigners have trouble with our language, but what would you expect when a "dumb-bell" is one who talks too much.

In San Francisco an antique dealer is engaged, and we'll bet the bride's enemies make some nasty remarks.

Even if women do have more sense than men, a man never has to wonder if his knees are aching.

A pedestrian on the sidewalk worth two of them in the street.

The great danger about letting a lie is people may believe you.

Some towns are lucky. In Washington, D.C., a postroom burst.

An Alabama woman has triplets, mother and babies are nice, even if it all is a little old-fashioned.

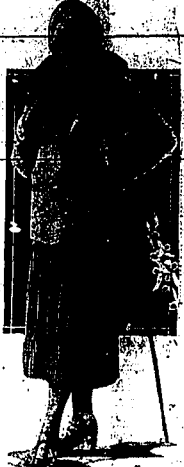

The Germans have a new method of making cheap wood alcohol, but don't let your bootlegger read this paragraph.

Isn't it strange how a barber, whose head resembles a brush pile, can give you a good haircut? (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

OUT OUR WAY—By Williams

Wool Sweater Is Nobby

A DRUBBED wool sweater, white bound and colored with black wool, is very much liked for spring days. It is worn with a tailored blouse and pleated skirt.

Consume Many Pine Seeds
Government experiments with the appetites of ground squirrels and chipmunks in an endeavor to determine what chance they do to the seed crop of our conifer trees showed that the ground squirrel averaged 340 pine seeds in 24 hours while the chipmunk got away with 237 over the same period.
