Total Loss of Life Now Is Over Two Hundred and Seventy Within the Last Twenty-four Hours; Cool Breezes and Rain Relieve Many.

(By United Press.)
First break in the terrific heat which has blanketed the eastern half of the United States since Monday came late today in Pennsylvania, where a rainstorm drove the temperature from 82 to 77 in two hours. About the same eastern Ohio was hit by a heavy thunderstorm. The same relief is predicted by the weather bureau for other eastern sections within the next 48 hours. While Pittsburgh was enjoying the first relief from the stifling blanket of heat, other eastern cities reported continued hot weather and additional deaths that brought the total for the last 24 hours well above 100. More than 200 have died from the heat since last Monday.

A survey at 3 p. m. by the United Press showed the following deaths from the heat in the past 24 hours: Greater New York, 10; Philadelphia, 25; New Haven, Conn., 10; Pittsburgh, 6; Detroit, 4; Baltimore, 4; Wilmington, Del., 2; Cleveland, 1; Albany, N. Y., 6; Milwaukee, 1; Indianapolis, 3; Boston, 2.

The most intense heat wave in the annals of the weather bureau continues to take the toll of life with nearly 10 deaths reported from the east and midwest during the past 24 hours. United Press reports show that the heat has been particularly severe in the last 24 hours. In New York, with 35 lives lost during the past 24 hours, faced the prospect of more casualties with the thermometer at 82 at 10 a. m. today.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 6.—With a strong wind blowing, no suffering from the heat has been reported. The temperature has remained under 80 throughout the week. The maximum temperature yesterday was 87. The weather bureau forecast no change for today.

France to Make U. S. Her Shield for German Revenge

Mason Says French People Do Not Realize Their Danger in Longer Avoiding Taxation in Paying Their Debts.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Finance Minister Caillaux has not succeeded in winning the support of French public opinion to his plan for raising the monetary situation of his country by large increases in taxation. There is evidence that the French people are indifferent to the Caillaux proposals. They seem to feel there is no chance that they will be called upon for the present to make the sacrifices Caillaux desires for them.

The fact that the franc has not responded to Caillaux's preliminary reform activities is a disquieting indication that serious interest is not being argued by his financial proposals. The real reason why the franc has fallen to its present low level is the flight of capital from France. French millionaires are sending their money abroad, fearing that otherwise it might be seized by the government. There is widespread belief to evidence in existence that some French millionaires are sending their money into Germany, believing it to be more secure there for the present than in France.

Caillaux has not won the confidence of these financiers, for they have been holding their funds from the foreign hiding places where millions of French money are securely concealed. This sort of exportation of wealth by French millionaires is still going on and is the most serious obstacle to reform that Caillaux has to face. The French people are now prosperous and the balance of trade is in their favor. They are sending their money abroad, fearing that otherwise it might be seized by the government. # GERMANY WILL ACCEPT TERMS OF THE ALLIES

Disarmament Demands of Allies Will Eventually Be Accepted by German Nation Is Belief; Nationalist Press Scoffs at Demand.

BERLIN, June 6.—President von Hindenburg, once a pig coc in the military machine the allies now demand Germany disarm, believes the military clauses of their note can be "slightly adjusted." Breaking the silence he has hitherto maintained concerning the allied demands, Hindenburg today told an intimate circle of friends he regarded the purely military phases of the message as of small significance. At the same time, he indicated there need be no undue difficulties in meeting these. However, he feels about the economic phases of the disarmament was not revealed, but remarks of Hindenburg's authorities close to him indicated that this will come the chief rub.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg are still studying the proposed pact to limit armament conference in Washington next fall or winter, a high official said today.

Administration officials were abashed when press reports of the apparent pact to limit armament conference of the American proposal that all nations be asked to sign a protocol controlling traffic in poison gas and suppressing chemical warfare.

Annual Report of Libraries Institute That Donations Have Increased. Number of Volumes in the Shovelers' Prisoners' Read Books.

Although there has been an increase of 241 volumes among the books in the public library over the year, the annual report of the librarian, Miss Jessie Fraser, which has just been completed, indicates that there would have been a net loss had not been for the donations of books by friends of the institution. There were 250 workbooks discarded and only 545 purchased, owing to lack of funds.

Vice President Coolidge Was Hooted in Twin Cities Two Years Ago and He Is Now on His Way Back to Make Another Speech as President.

The president and his party, including Vice President Coolidge, Secretary of State and Mr. Kellogg and Senator Leonard, Wisconsin, will leave here at 7 p. m. as scheduled for the trip.

The terrific heat and a special forecast by the weather bureau predicting no lull up about the president's route for 36 hours caused tentative discussion of abandonment for the journey out of four for the president's health.

After consultation by doctors, however, Mrs. Coolidge ordered that the original plans be maintained. The president's car will be filled with ice cakes to keep it cool until he can reach.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Down under the placid, unemotional exterior of President Coolidge, it would not be surprising if there were a dash of anti-hippy thrill, a dash of what a returning hero feels.

His first trip to Minnesota, when he was vice-president, he was hooted down by a mob and had four years ago. He was back as president of the United States, with all of the honors.

Gave No Promise of Greatness.
If we study the childhood of great people we shall find that many eminent men and women were reared in the slums and looked upon as mediocrities. The schoolmaster of Oliver Goldsmith prophesied him to be one of his duller boys and Thackeray Martineau was a source of anxiety and perplexity to her parents during the whole of her youth. We are reading her autobiography we see how easy it is to be a gifted child, a well-intentioned child, and one anxious to do right and merit approval to be so widely misunderstood as to be continually in fault and causing people trouble to all around her. It is all a matter of making life a burden and misery to herself.

A hint at Jefferson Davis, first president of the Confederate States, has been made in verses by Cole Nott. The poem, which will be placed in the schools throughout the south.

HUNTER'S BOOK TOO SWEEPING IN ADVOCATING EVOLUTION

BY JAMES D. WHELAN.

The wording of the text of Hunter's Civic Biology, reproduced on the front page of the Times last evening proves that, whether its teaching is violative of the Tennessee law or not, it is at least unfit for a text book for a public school. It treats as finally proven what even honest advocates of the evolutionary theory admit to be controversial, and hypothetical. Note the language, "WE HAVE LEARNED that animal forms may be so arranged as to begin with one very simple celled forms and culminate with a group which contains man himself." THESE GROUPS ARE BELIEVED BY SCIENTISTS TO represent stages in complexity of development of life on the earth. Geology teaches that millions of years ago, life upon the earth was very simple, and that gradually more and more complex forms of life appeared, as the rocks formed latest in time show the most highly developed forms of animal life.

The words emphasized show the objectionable feature of the book. It assumes as proven the allegation that groups show such development as indicated and that the scientists believe that they represent the development which the writer contends took place. The term "Scientists" is unqualified and assumes to include all. Hunter had a right to write the book if he believed it true. But since the conclusions drawn are disputed not alone by biological students but by scientists of repute, no book making sweeping statements of the sort quoted should be used as a text book in any public school. A text book on evolution should treat the subject as what it is, as hypothetical. The meagre amount of data on which conclusions are based should be noted.

On Tuesday of this week, speaking before a meeting of scientists at the Victoria Institute of Liverpool, England, George McCready, professor of geology of Union College, Nebraska, declared that geological investigation refuted Darwinism, which he said was "dead as a dodo," and showed that "we might dismiss once for all the idea that man could possibly have arisen by a long process of development from preceding animal ancestors."

Should Professor McCready write a book making this statement therein and should it be adopted as a public school text book, the Darwinians would "howl their heads off." Yet "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

NOT UNFAIR

Pocatello is entirely satisfied with the word of J. I. King that the national convention of chambers of commerce was not unfair to the west. Mr. King, who was in the midst, declares the convention was eminently fair.

However the charges of unfairness made by a Salt Lake paper can easily be disproved by reading the proceedings. Not a western delegate ever heard of any unfairness and the report was as much news to them as to the public. This convention was made up of large visioned men from all over the country. The very purpose of the organization is to widen the business horizon and put men from all parts of the country in a frame of mind to work together. It is only fair to say that the national chamber of commerce is functioning as intended and that its work is national in scope.

The west cannot afford to jump at conclusions. It needs the national chamber of commerce and instead of Idaho having one delegate there should be a dozen. Every mountain state is fighting for a market and all need help in securing it. The best way is to fraternize with market makers, with men of big business who have a vision of national scope.—State Journal.

A WRONG IMPRESSION

Editor Lynn is about to go on trial for alleged libel in Yuma, Arizona. The presiding judge arrogantly called the reporters before him and warned them against any colored reports. He pompously declared he would punish any offenders. It is such grandstanding as this that brings the courts into disrepute. There is so much criticism of the courts now that it would naturally be supposed the judges would try to placate the public rather than insult the newspapers which are the publicity carriers.

No matter how many reporters there may be in attendance there will not be one who would send to his paper an unfair or biased report. The judge knows this. His remarks are insulting to the newspapers and if the public had the confidence in the judiciary it should have they would injure the papers. That they do not is because the public has taken the measure of these cheap judges who seek to be sensational at the expense of truth.—Exchange.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON—With the circle in a fair way to be conquered soon, and circled in every direction by air routes, the National Geographic Society is beginning to show increasing interest in the tropics, especially tropical America, as a part of the world which can be turned to better practical account than the polar regions.

The latter may become convenient for aviators to short cut across, but never are likely to support many people as permanent inhabitants.

IN South America, on the other hand, is an area about the size of the United States, unexplored and unsettled by civilized men, except along the coast and main water courses, certainly almost unpopulated but for a few small Indian tribes.

Even these can be killed off to make room for civilization. Again, excepting the coast and the big rivers, which are known already, this virgin land stretches approximately from the Caribbean to the Tropic of Capricorn, from the Atlantic to the Andes, something like 2000 by 3000 miles. An empire!

Now and then a small party, carrying in the "once over" the National Geographic folk think.

BUT it won't be as easy as the map makes it seem. It is not penetrated by bold dashes. This is a vast jungle of six million square miles.

A process of slow nibbling is the way of conquering it. Any attempt to take it by storm means death—not half the time, as at the Arctic, but almost inevitably.

An airplane might fly over a corner of it, but the rest is too close. Anyway, until the Geographic Society has finished with this half of a continent, more or less, they haven't discovered everything.

PARA, a modern city of 130,000, at the Amazon's mouth, stands in the shadow of the jungle wall—almost a belt of free trade and intersecting rivers.

Time taken to take them the members of a party just back from a 6-month railroad reconnaissance to the interior. These people were brought to a prison camp. Never under a thousand roof the whole time, throughout that whole half-year they had been out of contact with the jungle mist, from the sun.

PRODUCTIVITY. Too much soil. That is to say, this country's superabundance of degradable life makes it almost impossible to clear and keep cleared. The jungle can be driven back only by slow degrees.

Once driven back, it can be held back only by constant vigilance. Otherwise it regains its own with astonishing rapidity. The best description I've seen of it was written in 1916 for an English magazine, published as the "Jungle." The writer began:

"This is the war to the very knife. Marking against the trees, 'Which, without sound of drum or file, 'In silent ranks of forest life, 'Ching to the ground they slain.'"

"Not much as poetry, perhaps, but it tells the story. NEVERTHELESS, bit by bit, this country can be and is sure to be tamed. It won't be. Twelve months of summer but never as hot as Washington on a Washington day. The best description I've seen of it was written in 1916 for an English magazine, published as the "Jungle." ## Men Never Get Anywhere Without Some Capital and Work—

Extravagance and needless spending for short-lived pleasures are the two things that strangle good opportunities and hog-lime ambitions more than all else except laziness.

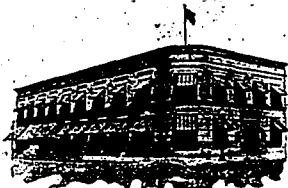

How can a fellow harness a business opportunity without cash? How can ambitions be realized if a chap is chronically broke? Laziness kills everything!

One doesn't need to be a miser, but it takes capital to keep the wheels of any man's progress turning—to get it most of us work and save reasonably and regularly.

The lad who starts a savings account in our bank with on dollar and adds to it each pay day is the one who will get some place.

No better time than today.

NAMELESS RIVER
BY VINGIE E. ROE

YOU have read great romances of the exploring of railroad building, of gold seeking and of cattle raising in the West, but did you ever read one that set forth in adequate degree the trials and adventures of the small farmers—a true romance of the determined breed who fought the cattle barons for a place on range or in valley that the land beyond the Missouri might be a settled region? In "Nameless River," Vingie E. Roe, author of several other unusual western stories, has repaired some of the neglect of novellists. From among the lowly homesteaders she has drawn as fine a type of hero as ever came out of the West and has filled her book with a series of incidents as stirring as that country ever produced.

This Remarkable Story Will Be Printed Serially in

Yellow paper, however, is green in an unsaturated color, giving it a reddish appearance, to the writing and makes it hard to read. Yellow writing paper is not open to the same objection. In strong daylight, it is softer than pure white and has a pleasant light. It is not so dark. Black ink is more distinct on the background show clear and distinct. Many mathematicians use yellow paper in figuring long and difficult calculations, and many writers have adopted it for manuscripts. It has the additional merit of cheapness.
