WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Awful Pains and Misery Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks my medicine has helped me. For weeks I have suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred. Had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations and I had read much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that I was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking this medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like I have a new life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it has saved me from a dreaded operation and I am so happy and am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine. Mrs. Emma Thurman, 224 North Pine St., Lima, Ohio.

JACK KEARNS SAY DEMPSEY HAS QUIT RING

New York Boxing Commission Will Not Accept Kearns' Statement That Dempsey Has Quit But Demands That Champ Be Brought Before Commission; Kearns Can't Get a Fight in New York

NEW YORK, June 12.—In an effort to get back in good standing, Jack Kearns had the day before yesterday made a public statement in which he said that Dempsey had quit boxing. The commission, however, would not accept his statement, and he was ordered to appear before it on Monday to explain his position. Kearns said that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing, and that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing. Kearns said that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing, and that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing.

When the commission gave the champion 24 hours to answer this challenge, Kearns sent a rather flippant letter in which he said that Dempsey had accepted the challenge. The commission, however, would not accept his statement, and he was ordered to appear before it on Monday to explain his position. Kearns said that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing, and that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing.

At that time it was known that Kearns did not know that he was going to lose Dempsey, and that the champion was going to fight him. The commission, however, would not accept his statement, and he was ordered to appear before it on Monday to explain his position. Kearns said that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing, and that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing.

Kearns then said to have told the commission that he was a manager to a fellow who is never going to fight again. "I don't know what to do with that fellow," Kearns said today.

"I'm jumping all over the country and I can't get him to fight. He has been a good money maker, but he is not of our lap. He could have had two big fights this summer but the chance is gone now."

"I don't even know when he's coming back. He's not here before July 2. I can't work him out of Walker in the Grey field and that means a lot to me. If it doesn't mean anything to him."

Kearns has a chance in New York. The commission, however, would not accept his statement, and he was ordered to appear before it on Monday to explain his position. Kearns said that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing, and that he had been told by Dempsey that he had quit boxing.

REPUBLICAN POLITICAL GOSSIP

(Contributed)

What is the matter with the republican leaders? There is no leadership. The machine once in the old days so powerful and able is making strange noises. With Captain Conners, the attorney general, leading one faction in Boise and the other faction lead by Dave Burrell and Governor Moore it looks like something may happen.

The recent slap that the machine had in the appointment of the successor to Col. Davis the federal district attorney for Idaho has hurt the morale of the Burrell faction. Senator Gooding got a cold rebuff. His friends joined with him in getting behind H. E. Ray, an attorney of little experience, who lives in Pocatello. Guy Bissell, Gooding's political manipulator, was engineering the deal. But it seems that Judge Dietrich who has little time for political injustice took a hand and grabbed the appointment from the Gooding crowd and gave it to young Aishie, who has been assistant attorney for several years.

An inside story tells some more of the stray incidents leading up to this appointment. The new attorney general at Washington is a Vermont lawyer, by name Sargent. He and Senator Whitcomb, who once ruled over republican destinies in the Idaho senate were once college classmates. Whitcomb drifted to Lemhi county, Idaho, and Sargent went back to Vermont village greens. But through these years they have kept in touch. When Gooding proposed the name of Ray for the new district attorney of Idaho, Whitcomb immediately wired and wrote to General Sargent his vehement protest. That held up the appointment and eventually defeated it. It also evoked up an old sore against Senator Gooding that Whitcomb had nursed for several years.

It is an open secret that Col. Davis was forced out of the state by the continued bickering and undermining of some of the politicians such as Guy Bissell, Senator Gooding, John Thomas and Dampier of Rupert. Dampier, however, is enjoying a forced vacation in the county jail at Rupert, but his work goes on. When he was under trial last year, Bissell was his attorney. Every pressure possible was brought to bear on Colonel Davis to let up and not convict this leading republican leader of south Idaho. It would hurt the party. Those interested went clear to Washington and got Harry Daugherty to whisper to Davis not to go on with the case. Senator Gooding helped to put the quietus on Davis, but Davis would not quit. He went through with it. His friends here in the capital city knew more than it is wise to tell. But enough is known that these politicians made it so unpleasant for Colonel Davis that he was glad to get a kick upwind and toward Washington to get out of Idaho.

Now comes another one of the former strong republican leaders who is reported missing at breakfast. Our old friend, Roy Black, recently attorney general for Idaho. He served his four years and served them well. He has a good record. He is the father of the Black law that allows cities to take out the commission form of government and have an initiative, referendum and recall. Boise has had that law for several years and likes it. When Black left the state house two years ago it was supposed that he stood well in his party. He went to Pocatello and built up a good law practice.

Last winter Mr. Black spent a few days in Boise during the legislative session in the interests of the Idaho Tech. He prepared a bill and submitted it before the legislative committee as was his right as an Idaho citizen. But that offended Mr. Porter, the bank commissioner. Porter was lobbying meanwhile all his spare time for the north against Pocatello. Porter is from Julianna, and is the typical small town banker. It was all right for Porter to lobby at the expense of the state. But it was all wrong for Black to do his bit for Pocatello.

Mr. Black has been an attorney for several of the closed banks of the southeast. That takes part of his time. It is under the supervision of Mr. Porter, the bank commissioner. What was the amazement of Mr. Black when he got back to Pocatello last spring to have another man put in his place without one word about it to him. Paul Peterson, partner of Clancey St. Clair, the new member of the state board of education, takes Black's place and Black still has never had the courtesy handed him of being even asked to resign.

All of which goes to show that big leadership and big men are not wanted in the republican party, as now constituted. The moment some leading republican shows signs of moral leadership he is demoted or promoted or slapped in the face. The leader that will lead this present republican party machine must be a real machine hirling, one who takes orders and performs them. The big interests are either drunk with power or think Idaho voters will stand for anything. Just now the governor for next term is being selected. Even the Boise Statesman admits that it will be done in a back chamber, a room in some leading hotel. It may be Baldridge. It may be McMurray of Burley. It may be Mark Means of Lewiston. But it will be someone who does not breathe the air that Col. Davis or Roy Black breathed.—Idaho Free Press.

His great features and stature, his small eyes black and gleaming with red, his unkempt head and flaming black beard, everything about him suggested a savagery and power with which few men could be trusted.

He scanned the boy's flushed face with swift appraising.

"Is he it?" he was grinning, "that the boys wasn't pleased with you?"

"No, it's me or leave it, and the other with footprints, darling, 'he it any of your business?'"

CHAPTER IV

The Mystery of Blue Stone Canyon.

On the rich hills of Stansbury, Nance Allen, who had been a member of the eyes, scanned the land. The housestead was a fateful with her. It had been her father's dream of a home. It was here. He had struck by and killed, had secured his patent, made the good start.

"She asked nothing better than to, carry on, to see it prosper and endure. But strange disasters had befallen her, one after the other, and the worst, the hidden road stretched in a cleft, two years back, just after John Allen's mysterious death, which sent young Bud's poor turning to the gulch below and left the boy to walk unguided over after."

"That the girl had almost weened in her stubborn purpose. She held her young blood in her arms many a weary hour when the pain was worst, and tried to build a plan of a future away from Nance Allen's, but had 'woud not listen.' The hard thought made him fret and toss, and the red blood throbbed in his cheeks."

"Well, never let 'em heat us out, Nance," he would say, with his blue eyes, "I'll be a man, safe and sound, and no bunch of cut-throats is going to get it from me. Not while we can stand on our own two feet, or blow or use a gun."

But Nance would stop him always then.

WASHINGTON—When the Cook county commissioners refused a few days ago to turn over the state share of the county taxes to the treasurer of Illinois, they took the first step toward what may prove to be the greatest change this country has known since the civil war began to grow.

The state treasurer, naturally will sue. And since a federal constitutional principle is involved—

Ab, a work as to that principle! It's the crux of the whole thing.

ILLINOIS was distracted for legislative purposes long before Chicago—Chicago and Cook county are the same thing—began to grow. The people of Illinois on the basis of its then number of inhabitants it was given adequate representation in the legislature. Chicago grew, however, out of all the cities of Illinois, nearly half are Chicagoans. They pay more than half the state taxes. But their representation in the legislature hasn't been increased by a single seat.

Finally they demanded a redistribution of the legislature, heavily out of the proportion of population. Representatives, turned the proposition down.

TURBULENCE—"Cook county," said the commissioners, "is being taxed without representation—without adequate representation, at any rate. This is unconstitutional. By virtue of the constitution the legislature has initiated itself. We repudiate taxation."

Well, as previously remarked, the house of congress will sue, of course, probably in the state courts.

But a federal constitutional principle being involved, the commissioners doubtless will get the case before a federal judge. There will be appeals, but both sides will be in a tug-of-war for power and money and the commissioners to vindicate their position.

It will be a litigation well worth pushing ahead. In short order it will be before the supreme court in Washington.

134 STAR OWNERS AVERAGE 24 1/10 MILES PER GALLON

ONE hundred thirty four Star owners, driving an aggregate of one and a half million miles, averaged 24 1/10 miles per gallon of gas.

This record was made in Georgia and Alabama mud, in Texas and Idaho sand, in Maine and Vermont snow and in the high altitudes of the Rocky Mountains. It was made by ordinary Star cars, driven by ordinary drivers. It represents Star performance under average conditions as they exist today throughout the United States and Canada.

True, many Star owners get more than 24 9/10 miles from a gallon of gas. In sections where good roads predominate, many Star owners report 28 to 38 miles. If you are seeking a car sparing in the use of gas you will find that the unusual power of the Star motor is not developed by the extravagant use of fuel.

The small gas consumption of the Star car is another reason why those who seek reliable transportation at a minimum of expense should consider the Star first.
