These figures indicate that 72 babies out of every 1,000 thousand born during 1924 died within their first year.

Earthquake Loss Is Thirty Million Insurance Is Small

Insurance Covered Only About $1,000,000 of Loss Which Is Estimated at $30,000,000; Money Pours in From Other Places; San Francisco Sends $50,000; Chief of Police Announces Total Absence of Looters; Homes Are Not Badly Damaged.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 1.—The recent earthquake, which just ruined a house of brick and mortar the eighteenth century mission and modern structures that were Santa Barbara's pride, apparently had not damaged and through the ruins the city's pride reassured itself in work of reconstruction.

With a rent of more than $2,000 a month since the last shock was felt, the energies and efforts of the city administration turned today from reconstruction to the rebuilding of Father Augustus announced it will remain closed until the winter comes.

The old hotel, which was an attraction to tourists was damaged, but Father Augustus announced it will remain closed until the winter comes.

The most recent tremor was that of 4:14 a.m. yesterday after which citizens of this resort city, by the sea were able to pass the night undisturbed.

A conservative appraisal by insurance companies shows that approximately $1,000,000 of this was protected by insurance.

There were no looting and no pilferage, much masonry falling from the Guadalupe Catholic church.

Detectors removed $150,000 worth of jewels from the room occupied by Mrs. George Hardin, widow of a former mayor.

If the insurance policy of permitting all of the surplus to be used for tax reduction is followed the present bill of the tax payer would be cut down to $100,000.

But that is not the present scheme.

Officials of the treasury department and administration are in agreement that not more than $300,000 or $400,000 should be used for tax reduction purposes.

Many buildings, however, are in need of repair and a new and costly building program may be put through.

CLOUDBURST Floods City of POCATELLO

(Special to The Times)

POCATELLO, July 1.—A heavy storm of rain, hail and wind, accompanied by much thunder and lightning, struck the city of Pocatello this afternoon, flooding many cellars and filling Main street with a torrent of water.

Wrecking crews and gangs of workmen were sent out to clear up the damage caused by the storm.

Rich residents helped sweep the debris from their homes while the police force aided in clearing the streets.

Aid for the work of reconstruction came from all parts of the United States.

San Francisco, which suffered a similar fate, followed by a disastrous fire, sent $100,000 for immediate aid. Other California cities contributed.

U.S. SURPLUS MOUNTS TO $260,000,000

The Biggest Business Institution in the World Closed Its Fiscal Year, With Surplus of $260,000,000; Unexpected Profit Will Reduce Taxes.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The United States government—biggest business in the world—closed its books today for the fiscal year of 1925 with a surplus of $260,000,000.

The amount may be available for the new tax reduction plan to be worked out in the winter conference.

Only $200,000,000 was available last year when Congress slashed 25 per cent. of the budget. The new figure is the largest in the history of the nation.

But that is not the present scheme.

Officials of the treasury department and administration are in agreement that not more than $300,000 or $400,000 should be used for tax reduction purposes.

Perfected Time Keeping

The time of greatest interest at the United States Naval Observatory is transit observation of the stars. The observatory has three standard clocks running in a constant temperature vault, electrically wound and controlled by a device which insures a constant reading. Circle observations of selected stars are taken regularly on clear nights and from these observations the errors of the standard clocks are determined and corrected.

Two Types of Artists

The great artist is forever enlarging the scope of human art and endeavor; the little artist—well, he's never known art before. He can only do that by making them beautiful, and the would-be artist who brings into what he calls his art things that are hideous, ugly, and repulsive after he has touched them is nothing in the world.—Havelock Ellis.

Nero Wills Is Strong Favorite in Belmont St. Tompkins, Belmont Wills Wins.

BY HENRY L. PARRELL
NEW YORK, July 1.—Henry Wills, the 10-year-old son of the four-to-1 favorite to win from Charlie Weisert, roared white "hoo" when they said here tomorrow will be one of the best days in his life because he is to be strung for the benefit of the Italian hospital fund.

Wills, who has won a large sum of money in various promotions that will have everything to do with his future prospects, Weisert is not any too dangerous bettor, but Wills must win quickly and decisively to give up his claim to fame, could election to a heavy weight challenge.

"On the strength of his record," Wills has blown himself right out of a place where he could force Dempsey to fight him or step down off the program.

Two major inferior circles.

Barber Sheldon, who by no means would be considered a major competitor, was a touch more popular. Wills looked no better than a "good" second rater and when he fought Julie Elmo he looked almost as bad as the winner Mr. Pfeiffer did as the loser.

The whole country mourns the passing of Senator La Follette. It's strange what a difference it makes whether he is alive or dead. Newspapers and men who a few short months ago were engaged in denouncing the late statesman as a demagogue and an agitator and a radical, and the same men who declined to sit with him in party councils at Washington, are today making up one grand chorus of acclaim. Well, to the writer it seems to be perfectly right and proper to forget the bad and remember only the good when a man passes, but somehow a lot of the praise bestowed seems to be tinged with both fulsome-ness and hypocrisy.

And now the court says that the lease of Sinclair of the Teapot Dome property was perfectly alright and that there were no irregularities in it that should invalidate the property rights of Sinclair to he-o. Another court says that the Doheny lease, almost a paralel case, was a colossal infamy and fraudulent, and that "The injury done to the nation cannot be overestimated." Judge McCormick said further: "This colossal infamy, regardless of whether it was a bribe, a gift or a loan, requires this court in conscience to strike down the deals which are connected with it." And so the courts disagree. Some criminals escape and some get theirs. For the latter fact, anyway, we may be thankful.

The passing of John William Chapman, at the age of about 85 years, serves to call to mind the debt that the people owe to the pioneers who braved the wilderness and blazed the way for the building of empires. Mr. Chapman was a pioneer who was descended from a race of pioneers. His ancestors on his father's side were of Virginia cavaliers of the seventeenth century. On his mother's side his ancestors came over with William Penn. His grandfather moved into Kentucky when it was "dark and bloody ground" in the struggles between the white man and the red man. His father moved with his family to Missouri while that state bordered on the wilderness, and while Mr. Chapman was but a boy. The young man felt the same urge as his ancestors; the desire to reclaim the desert, and came to Idaho and Montana; even before the Civil war had finally closed. His whole frontier life was spent in furthering morality and civilization. For more than half a century he was a member of the Christian church. He was an officer of the Good Templars for many years. He thought clearly and spoke fearlessly. The present and future generations will never fully appreciate what he and such as he did for civilization.

Something happened to a Boise lad a week or so ago, and three line item in one of the local papers said that the victim had been taken to the hospital suffering from loss of blood. And that ended the matter so far as the newspapers were concerned, and properly so. But at once the air became charged with rumors. The boy had been mutilated. He was dying. He was dead and so I went. Hein's fifty-seven varieties was discredited a hundred per cent in the stories that went the rounds, and most of them were wrong. But does not the incident give us a sidelight upon the value of the newspapers to the life of a community? One newspaper proudly proclaims that it is "a part of the life of Idaho," and it is, and not only that, but every newspaper in the state, from the little two-by-four county issue to the big city organs, are a part of the life of the village, the city, the state and the nation. Without the newspapers we should be at the mercy of the rumor dealer and the scandal-monger, just as in the case which forms our text. The newspapers, big and little, form a part of our civilization of by no means the least importance.

Arithmetical Origin
Mathematics is believed to have been made its first definite appearance among the Egyptians. There were evidences of its antiquity among the Chinese, Hindoo, and Babylonians, but the earliest written record of mathematical progress are found in Egypt and give an interesting view of the state of the science as early as the latter part of the third millennium before Christ.

The Turning Point

A man had been held for some time, he'd been a poor student of the charge and the辯論 had been friendly with little Karl, the ten-year-old son of the family. One day he informed Karl of his plan, and said that he would return to the United States.

"Ach Gott!" replied the youngster reproachfully; "and I thought we were going to be friends."
