GOVERNOR ROSS IS REAL LEADER IN WYOMING

New Executive Has Made a Host of Close Friends and is Very Popular

CHICHESTER, Wyo., Aug. 4.—When Governor Nellie Taylor, elected to the gubernatorial office of the state of Wyoming six months ago, first signed the executive order of the people for a woman whose husband had been killed in the war.

Today Governor Ross is the leader of the most popular of the state officials and although not having indicated any new ideas, has a reputation for broad and wise decisions.

The friends Governor Ross has made since taking the highest office in his state is probably his greatest achievement.

Many of the old timers of the state are of the opinion that Governor Ross is a man of the people for a woman whose husband had been killed in the war.

Although Governor Ross' purpose of each act is to benefit the people, his first act was to give a woman whose husband had been killed in the war.

TWIN FALLS DAILY TIMES

Published Every Evening Except Sunday by the Times Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho.

The Filer fair ground is gaining fame as the place where people from other towns love to go to enjoy themselves. Twin Falls has a fine park where people from the outside are welcome to come and have a good time. Folks like to get away from home for picnics.

The Mexican who says he got cut up in Twin Falls Sunday trying to collect $10 which he loaned to another of his race whom he did not know, either has the making of a fine easy mark in him or he isn't the truth in him. Other Mexicans say that this is what happened, but all declare that they never knew the mysterious stranger.

This is a fine idea of Paul I. Smith's that Twin Falls should get busy on a road to the big cave near the Hansen bridge. People go half way across the continent to see things that are not as good as the scenery around home. A cave that is half a mile wide and broad as the street, with all sorts of pretty things inside is a wonder of no less interest than the Craters of the Moon.

MORE NEW HOMES IN SALT LAKE

If the present rate of increase keeps up, Salt Lake City soon will be a city of new homes. One may roam about the city for a half day and see enough construction to convince of this. And just recently one builder announced a program that will give fifty-eight homes in one lot. That one individual should undertake to finance this many new homes at one time signifies an unflinching faith in the future of Salt Lake City. Any builder who invests his money in a new building of any kind is taking a chance. Real estate values are mysteriously performing antics, and one cannot always tell, save in substantial communities, just how they will behave.

In Salt Lake this chance is reduced to a minimum, for the city has a future that augurs for stability of values. A project of fifty-eight houses means an investment of approximately $250,000, and the loss of that could not be laid off. But this builder has had experience in Salt Lake; enough to know that this city offers as good an investment as can be found anywhere or could be expected. For slightly over a year he has been building on a small scale, and finds that just as soon as a home is completed there is a family ready for it, says The Tribune.

These new homes now being constructed in all parts of the city will not be empty long after they are completed. Indications now point toward a movement in the direction of Salt Lake City and the intermountain country. It may not be so pronounced now, and it may never assume boom proportions, as did the California movement—and everyone should hope it does not—but a few families coming in every week or so will do wonders by the time the next census is to be taken.

Another indication of the movement to the intermountain country is the tourist travel. A tourist primarily is a pleasure seeker, but behind many of the trips is a motive; many are looking for new homes. Salt Lake is getting its heaviest travel, and more people are coming through this territory than ever, and many are coming with questions and moving around in a way that divulges their intentions. This was strongly in evidence at the American Falls reservoir project celebration. Scores of outside tourists traveled there to gather information on the project, touch upon particularly on the possibility of procuring land upon which to build a home.

This is a hopeful sign. That people want to move to this region is encouraging. They may not rush westward, and the intermountain country does not particularly desire people who cannot make good elsewhere; but people who can own their own homes and make a living, whether in the city or on the farm, are welcome. Improper settlement and mushroom growth, that it appeals, is not to be desired.

Salt Lake City's growth is solid. The city never will slip. The same applies to her tributary territory. It is the slow, steady pulling horse that hauls the heaviest load.

... AT THE ... THEATRES

ORPHEUM VAUDEVILLE.

Prince Leo, the pony with the human brain, presented by Walter Gallagher, head an excellent vaudeville bill at the Orpheum theatre.

Prince Leo is a marvellously trained quadruped; it seems almost un-lievable that any animal can be taught to tell quickly the answer to the question put to him by his handler, but Prince Leo does this without hesitation and seems to enjoy the mystification of his audience by his intelligence. The Three Melody Monarchs appear, in bits of comedy and harmony. Originally from the London stage, they are presented by this clever trio, Murray & Park, the essence of humor, song and dance offers a complete and exceptionally good and amusing ample entertainment.

Free John in a trial and one-acting novelty furnishes a program of the kind that makes the spirits sing and makes one long to laugh and shout with joy. Tobin and Vinton, athletic marvels in juggling and other feats, will give you a program of their wonderful ability which will amaze you.

Feature pictures, William Fairbanks and Eva Novak in "A Fight for Love" and "The Girl in the Red Coat" and "The Girl in the Red Coat" and "The Girl in the Red Coat". It looks like a show that is entirely too good to miss.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

NRA Review

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY has done up a program they believe will make the Republicans a head-on fight at the next session of Congress. The Republicans have done up a counter program to meet the Democratic challenge.

The Democratic scheme is to make an awful racket about tariff reduction. The Republican scheme is to make so much racket about tax reduction that the tariff reduction racket will be drowned out.

Both parties will be doing their bolting with view to its effect on the 112th congressional election.

THE tariff, said the Democrats to themselves, "is an important issue, but little understood, except by economists, of whom there are precious few in most parts of the common folk. Wouldn't it be grand if we could get the good woman's vote by attacking it?"

Look how the good housewife has been beaten down by the tariff. It is a mighty favorable form of about to blast when we fall on it.

THE Republican scheme will be a tax reduction. Every time the Democrats urge tariff reduction the Republicans will remind the nation that the tariff is the very art of reducing taxes.

The Republicans want to reduce them anyway and they'll take the most of doing it.

And the Democrats, very much as a Democrat pleads for a chance to lower living costs by "reducing" a tariff, will answer, "That's talk. We act! We cut taxes down."

CITY LEVY IS CUT ONE MILL BY COUNCIL

Compulsion Reduces by Amount of Excess Found in Interest and Shading Fund Schedule; Vote Sum of $100 for Investigation into Conditions in Municipal Plants in Oregon.

Cutting the city levy one-tenth of one mill, and voting $100 from the engineering fund for the purpose of defraying the additional expenses involved in investigation of municipal plants by E. W. Berg, during his trip to the coast were the principal acts of the session of the city council last evening. Mr. Berg and his family start today for the coast and will visit Baker, McMillanville and Eugene, in Oregon, and Tacoma and Centralia in Washington. Questions will be heard on 20 cities.

Action on reduction of the city levy was the result of a request from the county auditor to make some change as one-tenth of a mill would make a material difference in bookkeeping. It was pointed out by Councilman J. H. Mills that the levy provided for interest on sinking fund would, if it was found on checking Mr. Berg's report, more than covered, as the levy was cut from .241 to .24 mill even.

Watch Children—Motorists are urged upon approaching children to use the horn, but not to depend upon it to blow the kiddies off the street or to replace the horn. When the children are straying to cross the street motorists are asked to give them a chance and wait for them. The average parent would like to have another motorist wait for some one who is near and dear to him.
