Soy Beans Furnish Protein for Stock

Are Superior to Cottonseed Cake for Dairy Cattle.

The past few years has seen a marked increase in the acreage and interest in the growing of soy beans. A national association of growers of soy beans has been organized and they are very actively engaged in popularizing the soy bean in the United States.

The seed of the soy bean plant in the richest in crude protein of all the seeds used in live stock feeding. The percentage of crude protein in soy beans is 50.5 per cent and every 100 pounds of soy beans fed yields 32.2 pounds of digestible crude protein. The soy bean seed is also rich in oil, as it contains 31.3 pounds of digestible fat in each 100 pounds of soy beans fed. Compared to linseed oil meal, soy beans contain 2.0 per cent more digestible crude protein and 0.4 per cent more digestible fat.

Soy beans for dairy cattle are slightly superior to cottonseed cake. Cows must be exercised in feeding soy beans to dairy cattle, an excessive amount cause soft stools.

Cattle have been successfully fed linseed meal and when compared to cottonseed cake, the soy beans proved just slightly inferior to the contents of soy beans fed yields 32.2 pounds of digestible crude protein and 0.4 per cent more digestible fat.

In active feeding, the composition of soy beans, as given above, should be carefully considered. The protein content indicates that it can be used as a protein supplement to carbonaceous grains. Due to its high oil content, soft stool is not to result, if soy beans are fed to any great extent.

Soy beans should be ground for horses and cattle, but it is not necessary in feeding sheep and pigs—J. W. Paton, Extension Director, Colorado Agricultural College.
