Rainstorm Causes Big Landslides

One-third of Tokio Is Under Water, According to Central News and Perhaps Many Lives Lost and Much Damage to Property; Details Lacking.

TOKIO, Aug. 25.—Thousands of dwellings are inundated and railway service is suspended as the result of a severe rain downpour of late.

Landslides at some points have buried streets, houses and buildings under mud and stones which have collapsed to gulf the Imperial hotel where the lower floor is flooded.

Twenty-five thousand homes are believed to be under water by the waters which are now subsiding. Yokohama and other cities are similarly flooded.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The Central News Tokio correspondent reported today, without confirmation from other sources that the most severe flooding in forty years had occurred, one-third of Tokio, causing some loss of life and extensive property damage.

Frosts were reported in Japan last week with considerable damage, though United Press advised published reports that a typhoon had visited that country.

Connecticut May Be Without Movies or Else Repeal Tax

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 26.—Desertion of Connecticut by the movie interests threatened when the state imposed special taxes or regulations on films, began to-day.

Five branch exchanges, through which all the film companies, including those who have been keeping up their possessions preparatory to moving out of the state, said.

"We are in great threat," said Lester T. Tolson, manager of one of the largest exchanges.

"After Saturday of this week, Connecticut will be at the mercy of Goddard's deserted village was of people."

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 26.—Connecticut was faced today with the choice—repeal the film tax law or do without "movies."

Owners of Connecticut motion picture theaters sent a petition to Governor Trumbull asking for a special session of the state legislature to consider repeal.

The theater owners committee returned from midnight from a conference in New York City, in which they were advised that organized producers and distributors would withdraw all their exchanges offices from Connecticut.

"Plans will sell to state exhibitors," the committee said, "but we can't do this state in which case the new motion picture tax will fall upon the theatre owners."

The latter announced they cannot pay the tax and will be forced to close their houses.

Million Dollar Kid Wants Stepfather Hung for Murder

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—Young "boy" George, "the million dollar kid," wants to see Dr. Thomas W. Young for the brutal murder of his mother.

The boy, originally from Ireland, was summoned to testify today against his former pal and stepfather.

"I want him to hang," the boy said, "I am as anxious to interview him as if they just send him to prison."

He will get out if he has few years and I don't care," he said.

Young's program is heir to the late "rime" "Alive" "Groom's million dollar estate, which the state claims came from Dr. Young. The additional detail is that the boy's mother and stepfather are dead.

The boy's mother and stepfather are dead.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

GREATEST STARS OF BASEBALL ARE PASSING

Babe Ruth Is First to Show Signs of Infirmities; Yankees' Downfall Due to His Illness; Cobb and Speaker Can Hit but Legs Are Wobbly; Cobb Is Greatest Player of All Time.

BY HENRY L. FAIRFIELD
NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Heading into the last quarter of the major leagues, the greatest star of all time, the immortal Babe Ruth will be either the champion batter of the American League or the season's home run king.

It is the opinion of many that the long sleep of illness early in the season knocked the Babe off his game and indirectly caused the collapse of the New York Yankees, the most sensational of the outstanding surprises of the season.

The Babe, too, is not well. He is the Yankee and the other seven cities that capitalized on the drawing power of the Babe never can be compared to him, but he has had a tremendous year. The loss to his personal fortune, or the assumption that his active playing days have been numbered, has caused him to give up trifling. But the Babe, in a way, is to blame. He didn't take care of himself and when he was stricken down he did not have the reserve strength to combat his illness.

Just because he had such an unfortunate season, this year, does not make the Babe less than a useful player. It is safe to assume, however, that he never again will be the Babe who might hit great home runs every day, as he did last year.

If the Babe cares for himself this winter he may come back next season as it was the lack of physical health more than the lack of hitting that got that three-time hit streak stung this year.

The Babe is so structurally weak in his legs, physical trainers have always predicted that when he started to go back he would go back in a lame, limping manner. The other players are no stronger than his legs. They are the current stars of the game—Gehriger, Foxx, Stengel, Schmid, Foxx, and others.

Cobb and Speaker can hit as well as they ever did, but their legs are failing them and their active days are close to the end.

Cobb has admitted to close personal friends that his active days are over and that he will never play again. He has been in poor health this season and has not been able to play regularly.

When Cobb passes, it will be a regrettable day for baseball because he was, no doubt, the greatest player of all time.

The Babe may have kidded himself in the past into the belief that he could go on forever, but he knows now that he is not immortal. He is mortal when the human mechanism fails him, he will have to quit.

He has admitted to confidants that he has given up his playing days and numbered and that he has the ambition to become a manager before he has taken his last, immortal, swing. He has written, however, and referred in the Babe as much as a big grown-up boy that the impression has been created that he is not immortal. Nothing further from the truth—he may not have the mental equipment to become a banker or the like at his present age, but he will be able to be expected to have such qualifications because he didn't have the advantages of youth. David L. Idaho has said that the Babe is not immortal. He is a smart player and there are no reasons to believe that he would not be a smart manager.
