

TWIN FALLS DAILY TIMES

Published Every Evening Except Sunday by the Times Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Entered at the Twin Falls Post Office as Second Class Matter in a Daily Publication, April 11, 1915.

One person out of each 138 of the whole population of Nevada is a full-time student of the State university.

All applicants for teachers' certificates in Wyoming must pass an examination on the Constitution of the United States and of the State of Wyoming.

Half of the students of Barnard College, Columbia University, last year consulted the college occupation bureau, maintained for the placement and guidance of alumnae and students.

An appropriation of $40,000 for the care and education of crippled children of the State was made at the recent session of the New York legislature.

A four-year intensive campaign against illiteracy is sponsored by the Interior Department, Bureau of Education, in order to reduce the number of illiterates before the 1930 census.

An increase in the school day to six hours or longer has been made in a number of places in Massachusetts in order to give time for the necessary school subjects and for supervised study during school hours.

Boys outnumber the girls in the Malin, Oregon, public school, and the last graduating class was composed entirely of boys. Every boy in the school but one has taken the agricultural course offered by the school.

A junior technical day school for training boys for the boot and shoe trade has been opened in connection with the Cordwainers' Technical College, in London, England. The two-year course will be divided between general education and trade subjects.

California has a larger membership than any other state in the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, 129,212 out of a total membership of 875,000. One hundred and ninety-three new associations were organized in the state this year.

WALKING FOR HEALTH

In these days of the ubiquitous automobile, and its constant use for even the shortest distances, walking is more and more neglected even as a means of keeping in health. According to report the English, women as well as men, still take long walks for pleasurable recreation as well as for health-giving exercise, but in this country relatively few people walk any distance except in case of necessity. This is to be regretted; for nature intended that man should make use of his legs and if he fails to do so he is bound to suffer in consequence. Golf is so widely found beneficial largely because of the walking it requires in the open air.

More and more physicians are advising their patients to walk. A medical director of one of the great insurance companies is quoted as saying that the average man of sedentary occupation should walk in the open at least three miles a day. This is an ideal that can only be approximated in most cases, but one mile is better than no walk at all, and of course country roads are preferable to city pavements if they can be reached.

It is interesting to know that in the view of physicians better results can be obtained from a brisk walk than from a leisurely stroll. According to the medical authorities, walking stimulates both the heart and the organs of digestion, and produces an invigorating effect upon the whole body.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEAVART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Of all the men this country sends to foreign lands, the experts whom our big agricultural implement manufacturers like to turn over to farm machines, they have sold abroad, average the highest toll.

Our machine, on foreign service, is well paid but must be sent to put up the leading battle flags of the world.

He has to bear home on reaching his destination. He finds quarters in a hotel, and has to pay his expenses with the people of the country.

He sees something of urban life, but most of his time is spent in the provinces learning the language and thoughts which average American never does.

Five years of life and death, and he returns "knowing the land" as his mother as he knows his own inside.

Once every winter or two he gets a couple of months in the United States, to keep him up-to-date in its touch with home, but he doesn't stay long enough to mean a specialist, by this time he's too valuable to be spared from them long.

These men have transferred another country, which he does not know.

He did the first one. I met these individuals who have lived in most of the countries of Europe, in Germany, France, and Spain, in the Balkan states, in North Africa, in South America, and in Russia, who have had a certain knowledge, considerable fluency and who understand world politics and conditions in their respective countries, due to their service, done for their country.

"Ay, tank that have plenty," Ole Hansen had said, when discussing the subject with Spoof. And an Ole regarded his own six as especially good.

The old man, however, was rather stirred by the possibilities of what the cave on Thirty-sixth might disclose to the census taker.

"How do you say his name?" Spoof asked.

"Tab," he said, "Tab, Tab."

"Tab don't say it, Tab sneeze it," Ole explained.

"Sneeze—that do," said Spoof.

And so, quite without his knowledge or consent, our Illinois neighbor was supplied with an English name; a name which, in some way—day or night—was born with pride by one of our best families.

Then there was Burke—an American.

He was a man with a lot for labor and for doing things on a large scale, and his wife had a middle
