FRENCH COMMISSION ARRIVES IN U. S. TO TAKE UP WAR DEBT

Finance Minister Caillaux Heads Commission Which Comes to America to Fund France's Huge War Debt of $4,200,000,000; No Message for Publication.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The French debt commission arrived in America today to arrange payment of approximately $4,200,000,000 of the United States government as the result of war loans and accrued interest.

Headed by Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux, the commission was met at quarantine by Gerard Blosset, minister and secretary of the treasury and secretary of the American debt fund commission, Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador in France, and other American and French officials.

Caillaux was in a light and jovial mood when, escorted by newspaper correspondents at quarantine, he was taken to the hotel from our government as you received from the British. I judged him.

"Oh, hello," he replied with a cheerful smile. "The British terms provided 52 annuities of $62,500,000 each, provided the same arrangement could be made by France with the United States."

"Had you heard that in Washington the British terms were regarded as rather too lenient?" he asked. "Why, I had regarded them rather as not lenient at all," he replied.

"He emphatically denied he ever had threatened to settle a settlement in Washington if he did not receive an favorably terms from America as were granted by Great Britain."

"Then, as to how long it would require to reach a settlement in Washington, Caillaux disclosed that he planned to sail on his return trip to France October 3."

"I had just been pretty fast work," he said. "Well, I always work fast," he replied.

Arrangement had been made for the quick transportation of the commission to Washington in a private car. In the first conference on the debt problem are scheduled to begin tomorrow morning.

One of the pieces of mural decoration which he has seen in the past is the figure of an American in the figure of an American.

CHOLERA RAGES IN PHILIPPINES

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 23.—Eleven new cases of cholera were discovered by health officers here today, with one death from the disease reported.

This is the latest number of cases reported on a single day since the epidemic started here. It was stated.

Finance Minister Caillaux said that the American government was responsible for his return from exile as an alleged traitor during the war in the last financial minister of the French republic and only a step from the presidency of that nation.

"I had just been pretty fast work," he said. "Well, I always work fast," he replied.

DOVERY TRIAL BREAKS UP IN NEAR RIOT

Crowd Hoots From Galleries Similar to Baseball Game, Hooting Resembled a Riot and Each Side Was Well Protected in Kelso's Political Row.

RELSO, Wash., Sept. 23.—Affairs at Kelso's important political row were still somewhat unsettled today, with no one able to predict what would happen here.

This unseemly scene grew out of a hearing at the U. S. district court, where George North, city engineer, was charged by the U. S. district court with molesting Thomas D. Kelly, Kelso's candidate for mayor.

Frank of the Post faction and supporters of North were on hand at the hearing. It was a baseball game, hooting and hooting, which led to a riot.

HEALTH AND MORALS IMPROVE UNDER U. S. PROHIBITION RULES

Alcoholic Death Rate From 5.8 to 2 Per 100,000 Persons Since 1920; Infectious Diseases Are Much Less and Longevity of Race Has Increased Materially.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Health, morals and safety conditions of the United States have improved in the first years of prohibition, according to figures gathered by the United States federal departments, shown today.

Showing a reduction of government expenditures for prohibition enforcement of more than $1,500,000,000, and a reduction of the federal deficit of more than $1,000,000,000, the figures produced their evidence.

Communicable diseases are less prevalent now than ever before and life expectancy of the American race has increased six to eight years since 1920.

Italian Princess Weds Prince Phillip of Hesse

Beautiful Daughter of King and Queen of Italy Was Today Married to Prince Phillip of Hesse, a Nephew of the Former Kaiser; For First Time in History Nuptial Mass Was Held for Mixed Marriage.

RACONTO, Italy, Sept. 23.—In presence of an extremely magnificent wedding of Princess Mafalda, beautiful second daughter of the king and queen of Italy, to Prince Phillip of Hesse, nephew of the former German Kaiser, was celebrated in the royal chapel here today.

The royal procession to the altar was headed by King Victor with the bride leaning on his arm. The other members of the royal family followed.

For the first time in modern days during a mixed marriage a nuptial mass was celebrated for a Catholic and a Protestant, and Prince Phillip, a Protestant, was wed.

The wedding party was limited to the closest circle of the royal family. The king, queen, the crown prince, and the princess were present.

AIRMAIL HAS PROVE VERY SUCCESSFUL

Postmaster General, New States That Commercial Air Service Has Proven Efficient and Urges U. S. to Lease Airmail Routes to Individual Concerns; Testifies Before Aircraft Board.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—New that the feasibility and efficacy of airmail service has been proven by the post office department. The government should make definite plans to lease airmail routes to private companies, Postmaster General Harry S. New told the airmail board today.

New pointed with pride to his department's operation of the plane service and said it demonstrated that commercial aviation is a possibility.

At the outset of his remarks New said that a postoffice department "has no place" in any enterprise existing between military and civilian activities over aviation.

Tracing the history of the service, New told of the unsuccessful attempt to establish air routes from Washington to New York, Chicago to New York and Chicago to New York.

"Since that time," said New, "we have been able to meet our schedule with a degree of regularity that has been highly gratifying. Of course, there have been delays and interruptions, but they have been to a large extent, I am inclined to think, due to the fact that our planes have been less numerous than those of the airlines."

New said the postoffice department had a fleet of 30 mail airplanes with a total capacity of 1,200 mail pieces. More than 1,500 mail pieces of letter class have been built, slips constructed at Maywood, Ill., and on September 15, a new agreement was made with the airlines.

The service has attracted attention, and that it justifies itself, I think he concluded. The degree of success in the commercial operation of a new industry and stimulate interest in aeronautics is best set forth by the fact that the airlines' recent $100,000,000 private contract with the post office.

Selection of bids by the department for operation of eight new routes touching 27 cities brought responses from 12 companies with 19 bids.

However, Harry Aviation has no prospect of future in the United States, but it may be fostered by the United States government in the future and served to the nation now, provides to create airmail, Secretary Hoover today told the airmail board.

Following the testimony of Postmaster General New and other postoffice officials who described the operation of the airmail service, Secretary Hoover said a plan which he said would develop commercial aviation.

Moroni Olsen Players Portray Shavian Wit in Very Clever Way

(Times' Critic)
Shavian wit, mordant and sparkling in every sentence of the splendidly presented play "Pygmalion" given by the Moroni Olsen players under the auspices of the Business & Professional Women's club at the Lyceum last evening, and the audience appreciated the convincing picture of the eccentric Irish Englishman, George Bernard Shaw, who himself, in his way, is the most complete of playwrights, and his little shafts at the business and nobility of less versatile minds.

As a philosophy of life, the doctrine of Shaw are impossible, but as a critique told by a wit who has not wholly true mirror, he has his own place on Main Street and his own place in making people see their own weakness in an amusing light, and making them realize their little pretensions and vanities.

This phase of Shavianism is set forth lightly by the dialogue of "Pygmalion," and is brought out with brilliant success by the players, all of whom are of a high order. That the scene was laid in England rather than America naturally took away something of the local color, but Shaw's socialistic point of view with its pages of philology and its pique at the bourgeois snobisms, food and bad, have in common the views of those of his party the world over, namely the ridicule of the so-called upper and middle classes.

And the lesson to be learned is that these classes should recognize in themselves, the things that are legitimate subjects of amusement to a clever critic, are getting rid of them, that their essential qualities may stand out. By this, there was real democracy in the observation that these classes should recognize in themselves, the things that are legitimate subjects of amusement to a clever critic, are getting rid of them, that their essential qualities may stand out.

Moroni Olsen, indeed, a marvellous "Pygmalion." The "Galton" of the play, a young, extra wonderful representation of her part, Mrs. Eganford Hill with her daughter, both good natured children and were well presented by Ethel Baker and Virginia Greenwell. Fred Hill, with delightful English accent, and with more good nature than brains was well presented by J. H. Williams. Leora Flintner as Mrs. Pearce, Dorothy Adams as Mrs. Higgins and Gordon Nelson as Col. Pickering, filled their roles well. Alfred Bonifilio, a wholly impossible character in any class but his own, was splendidly impersonated by Byron Paulker.

That Shaw, with his natural fearlessness, made a different outline in his epilogue from the one indicated by the dialogue. Shaw claims that common sense would make the girl marry Freddy, but with all his cleverness and wit, Shaw isn't long on common sense.

The cost of Brazilian coffee is now more than three times as much as before the war.

NINE VITAL FACTS

Here, in brief form, we present for your information nine vital facts underlying the success of Dodge Brothers, Inc., and the godness and value of their product.

Dodge Brothers, Inc., consider these facts so fundamentally important to the motor car buyer that they will be repeated, from time to time, until every newspaper reader in America may be presumed to have read them:

Dodge Brothers, during the past eleven years, have built and sold more than one million four hundred thousand motor cars—and more than 90% of these cars are still in service. This record requires no comment. It stands impressively alone in motor car history.

It has never been Dodge Brothers policy to build yearly models. When an improvement, that is really an improvement, is discovered, it is made at once. Their slogan, "Constantly Improved But No Yearly Models" is familiar the world over.

Dodge Brothers build one chassis and only one. This policy materially lowers manufacturing cost. It also enables Dodge Brothers engineers to concentrate their entire time and thought on the betterment of this one type.

Dodge Brothers have never had an "off year" or an "off car." This is because they have never used the public as a testing ground for "new models" or lowered the quality of their product in the slightest degree. Every change has been an improvement on the original design.

Dodge Brothers pioneered in building the first all-steel open car and the first all-steel closed car. These epochal developments have saved Dodge Brothers owners many millions of dollars by materially prolonging motor car life and by effecting marked economies in manufacture. This construction has also reduced incalculably the danger from accident and fire.

Dodge Brothers sell directly through their dealers to the purchaser. There are no sectional distributing agencies to increase the cost of distribution and the cost of the car.

Dodge Brothers have never given so-called "free service." The car is sold at a fair and honest price. Nothing is added to this original purchase price to pay for service that the owner may never need.

Dodge Brothers Dealers were pioneers in unanimously adopting the flat rate service system. By this system, the owner knows in advance what any service job will cost. There are no unpleasant surprises in his bills.

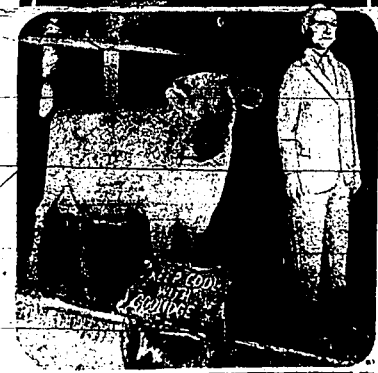

The sturdiness and long life of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is reflected in its resale value. Comparatively few Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are advertised in the resale columns of the newspapers. The values they bring testify unambiguously to their godness—and the public's belief in their godness.

The purchase of an automobile is a serious and important business. The time has passed when transient novelties can lead a thoughtful buyer to overlook the great essentials of motor car worth.

A few of these essentials are clearly outlined above. They go far to explain why Dodge Brothers name is accepted, the world over, as the hall mark of dollar-for-dollar value.

NEIGHBORS

BY ROBERT STEWART

THE HONESTEADERS
AUTHOR OF "THE COU PUNCHER"

Malnourished children in Cleveland public schools are gathered into special classes conducted by the nutrition clinics. They "graduate" when they attain the weight required for their age and height. Last year 118 children passed through these classes.

"American Education Week" will be observed again this year. The week of November 16 to 22 has been chosen for it, and once more the American Legion, the American Education Association, and the Bureau of Education of the Interior Department are cooperating to promote it.

The Revolving School Fund, which the State Grange of New York is sponsoring, has gained new impetus this year by several liberal contributions and has been organized on a working basis, with trustees to administer it and the likelihood that during the coming year many change-year people will gain an advanced education through this means, who could not otherwise secure it.

The tax reduction program of President Coolidge meets hearty approval from Granges everywhere and endless resolutions are being passed in Grange meetings favoring such a program. This is in line with the long established Grange principle opposing public extravagance as well as private wastefulness and denouncing the "credit system, the mortgage system, the fashion system and every other system tending to prodigality and bankruptcy."

To assist rural communities in acquiring libraries, a mixed double quartet of the Bloomsburg (Pa.) State Normal School has given concerts gratis in six school districts. The normal school librarian accompanies the singers and gives brief talks on the value of the school library. Four places have been assisted in acquiring libraries and two in increasing their supply of books.

Shoe repairing is a part of the curriculum of the Memorial Junior High School, of Safford, Calif. The course is thoroughly practical, and the 70 lessons comprise a study of foot anatomy, as well as grades of leather, classification of shoes, and the actual work of repairing. Credit of university credit is awarded for the completion of the course and a State credential to teach the subject.

Courses in rural education were given in 77 colleges and universities, 52 teachers colleges, and 70 normal schools during the school year 1923-24. The courses given most often, as described in Rural School Leaflet No. 37 of the Interior Department, Bureau of Education, were called rural education, rural school administration, rural school management and observation, and practice teaching.

"Free" places in London schools increased from 47,000 in 1908-9 to 130,000 in 1924-25, and the number of pupils transferred to secondary schools at the age of 11 plus increased from 26 per cent in 1910-11 to 51 per cent in 1924. This has tended to lengthen the average time per pupil spent in the secondary schools, which was two years and seven months in 1908-9, to three years and five months in 1922-23.

To an increasing degree the Granges of the country are devoting their discussion to health topics, with many demonstrations along health and sanitary lines, while numerous Granges are conducting dental clinics, first aid demonstrations and similar helpful features in connection with regular Grange meetings. The Grange in numerous states has also heartily sponsored the sale of Christmas seals, has entered actively into the national campaign against tuberculosis and always throws its influence on the side of common sense health measures and precautionary projects.

An art contest for children, conducted this spring in the St. Paul public library, was participated in by more than 300 children. The schools cooperated and work of a high order was presented. Sixty of the children received prizes of attractive art books and framed and unframed pictures.

State Latin contests are held annually in Indiana. They are the outgrowth of interschool contests held for a number of years, then county contests, and district meetings, finally resulting in a State contest with a definite program for a series of contests for each of the four years of Latin.

In Pennsylvania the farmers are massing their energies for a change in present game laws, which so fully protect deer that farmers' crops, orchards and gardens are being fearfully devastated, with great money loss. In some counties the farmers declare they will be forced to abandon agriculture altogether unless some means can be found to combat the deer damage as the latter animals are multiplying so rapidly and are becoming so bold under legal protection that farming is utterly unprofitable. The Grange is demanding that the coming legislature take some steps to protect the farmers from this needless loss. Several prominent farmers are declaring that unless the present law is changed they will kill deer and permit their action to be made a test case whether the present deer protective law is valid.

"You are waiting for me, aren't you, Jean?"
