Now is the Critical Time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you Safely Through

Conroy, Ohio.—"During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By using your advertisement I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It straightened me out, and I could do my work again. I was well on my feet and could do my housework on the farm without any recommendation. I told my daughter-in-law that her second baby did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and she has taken one bottle and said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she has taken two bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. Elsie Ackerman, Conroy, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to be yours. She tells of the trials and tribulations and the wonderful results also obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON—Senator Curtis has succeeded finally in throwing a real scare into the Washington bureaucracy.

Talk about abolishing some of them, abolishing others, cutting down their personnel to a business basis and eliminating a lot of the waste that most of them have been responsible for has been going on ever since the war. It hasn't worried them when it was necessary to trim them in size and reduce them in number. It was pretty clear to the bureaucrats themselves, as well as to others, that they were in little danger.

SENATORS and congressmen, hardly necessary to say, have found time in these hazy days to get busy with their usual work. Senator Curtis is particularly busy. He is not only a member of the committee on the judiciary, but he is also a member of the committee on the judiciary. He is not only a member of the committee on the judiciary, but he is also a member of the committee on the judiciary.

Famous Authority Asserts That Cutting Space Papers During Hard Times Is Mistake; Cutting Advertisements Brings More Systematic Operation. Is Desirable.

The value of advertising in newspapers was stressed last evening in an address by W. Farley of Toledo, O., to a large number of business men of Twin Falls. Mr. Farley illustrated business practices in various parts of the country by means of diagrams. Need of better selling systems were dwelt on.

The speaker denounced what he called a "whip-lash" method in dealing with employees. The manager can get a line on the capacity of the average employe and give it to be understood that this average must be maintained. In the event that it cannot be a change is made in that department. Manager George Hays of the Wichita office, introduced the speaker at the request of the Chamber of Commerce.

ALBION WINS FROM BRUINS IN 1ST GAME

Twin Falls Bruins Played Good Game for Opener but Lack Experience; Normal Had Many Seasoned Players and Were Heavy and Fast; Field General Is Needed by Bruins.

Twin Falls 0
Albion 16

The first game of football on the local field was held yesterday with the heavy Albion team and the Bruins because of their lack of experience. The Bruins were unable to gain consistently through their line, but they used the forward line and were successful in their kicking. Their first score came after six minutes of play when a runner carried the ball into the end zone and then kicked off to the 20 yard line. and had the making of a fast quarterback. Eakin and Sullivan had a cool calm and bold to hold the line against the experienced teachers. The Bruins will make a different showing when they set up against another high school team with less experience than the Albion squad has had.

First Quarter.—Albion kicked off to Potter with the ball back 20 yards. The Bruins were unable to gain through the line and the Bruins kicked Albion back through the line for 10 yards, and after a 5-yard penalty foul, Albion kicked a 20-yard pass to 15-yard line, placing the ball on the 50-yard line. Lapp carried over and kicked the goal. Lapp kicked over the goal and the Bruins lost the ball on the 25-yard line. The Bruins line had a steady attack and Lapp resorted to a pass, which Potter intercepted. Twin Falls was unable to puncture the teacher line and Martin kicked; Miller nailed Lapp where he caught the ball. Albion drew a 15-yard penalty for holding and Lapp was unable to punt because of a poor pass from the center, and the ball fell over on the 20-yard line. The Bruins finished on the first play but completed a 65-yard forward pass. Martin to Miller, but could not go further than the 20-yard line. Albion kicked on and the Bruins were unable to gain and lost the ball on downs. Aman got away for a 25-yard run on the 20-yard line.

Second Quarter.—Added by a 15-yard penalty the teachers worked the ball to the 10-yard line where Aman got away for 10 yards. The Bruins held and forced Lapp to kick and again the Bruins were unable to gain and lost the ball on downs. Aman got away for a 25-yard run on the 20-yard line.

Third Quarter.—Twin Falls kicked and Albion received the ball on the 15-yard line. Albion got away for 20 yards around the end and Lapp booted the ball back and Aman got away for 10 to P. Lapp kicked off over the goal and Potter made 10 yards at center by Pettiball. Martin completed a short pass to Pralun but the Bruins were unable to gain and lost the ball on downs. Aman got away for 25 yards and received 15 yards for the first time in the game. Kivanek went in at quarter back and made the first touchdown and kicked goal, making the score 7 to 0. The Bruins were unable to gain and lost the ball on downs. Aman got away for 25 yards and received 15 yards for the first time in the game.

Fourth Quarter.—Albion worked the ball to the 25-yard line by James and end runs and tried for another drop kick but failed. Twin Falls failed to gain from the 20-yard line and kicked a 20-yard pass to 10 yards and a pass, placing the ball on the 20-yard line and Aman got away for the last time on a long end run. The balance of the quarter was a series with the ball in the middle of the end of the game.

Preparations Made for New Orleans Episcopal Meeting. NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 3.—Arrangements are being here for the 20th annual convention of the Episcopal church in New Orleans. The convention will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. The Episcopal church in New Orleans is one of the largest in the South. The convention will be held at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Many of the church leaders will be recommended in private homes of the city which have been thrown open for the occasion. However, the church are expected to be filled to capacity and the committee needs a few days advance notice in order to arrange quarters for the "over" crowd.

The proposal to eliminate the word "amen" from the Episcopal marriage rite is one of the subjects expected to arouse unusual interest in the proceedings. The church's auxiliary, which will hold its session in Trinity church, is expected to receive a large number of dollars in a single session for the carrying up in its part of the church work.

Holy communion for the house of bishops and house of deacons at Christ church cathedral will precede the opening exercises. WANTED.—To clean and repair your furnace. Hirtler Metal Works, 1214 N. 2nd St.

400,000 Gallons of Wines to Be Made in California Homes

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—Four hundred thousand gallons of wine, a sizable drink in three-prohibition times, will be made legally and consumed in northern California this year, according to internal revenue bureau statistics here today. According to the bureau, 2000 heads of families have filed their intention to make 200 gallons of wine for home consumption, that the law on this matter to crush. Under the prevailing legal decisions this wine, or fruit juice, must be "manufactured in fact," which simply means that the drinker must justify his production well—for if he is caught in an uncharted condition he faces prosecution for illegal manufacture. The declaration of intention to make 200 gallons acts only as a protection against being troubled by internal revenue agents. Prohibition agents are entitled by law to proceed against any one suspected of making "fruit juice" that is intoxicating.

PROHIBITION AND THE MEAT PACKERS

An editorial was published not long since in the National Provisioner, the official organ of the Institute of American Meat Packers, under the caption, "A Weak Meat Argument," which constituted still another of those indications that prohibition has taken a stronger hold upon the consciousness of America than the wags like to acknowledge. This editorial called attention to the action of the recent national convention of meat retailers in going on record as favoring an amendment of the prohibition law to permit the use of light wines and beer—on the ground that prohibition has ruined the sale of coarse meats! The comment read in part:

Many ideas have been advanced for increasing meat consumption, but the suggestion of alcohol as an "eat more meat" stimulant is one that most meat advertisers would hesitate to use, even by word of mouth. It is possible that the resolutions committee was a trifle drowsy when this little declaration of policy was allowed to slip through. For the sake of their reputation as far-sighted business men, it is hoped this was the case.

A PEACE PLAN THAT HAS PROVED ITS EFFICACY

Many as have been the proposals that have received publicity in the past for the purpose of putting an end to war, concerning but few of them it can be said that they have been tried and not found wanting. Some promising ones have not yet been the acid test of actual experience. It is true, so that judgment cannot be passed upon their efficiency. Others, of the other hand, have been tried, but have failed to obtain the desired result. Concerning one, it may be said, however, that it has been tried with excellent results, and this one is the development of international friendships. It has been well said in the past many misunderstandings have arisen between Canada and the United States, which, had they cropped up across the Atlantic, would have given rise to hostilities, but which have been settled without anybody much on either side of the boundary knowing really what was going on.

The United States and Canada, that is, are and have been for many years too friendly to fight. Social and commercial intercourse have made them friends. And is there any reason why this desirable state of affairs should not be duplicated in many other sections of the world? Why should not peace lovers invest in ways calculated to lead at least to approximations of this sole ideal international friendship? Why not, in other words, invest in a plan which has proven its efficacy by having actually checked war in the past?

Stating the issue more specifically, buyers of economic importance and social standing in forty countries to the number of 180,000 attended the last Leipzig Sample Fair. Sellers of similar importance in eighteen countries to the number of 13,750 received them, the Monitor. For 650 years business representatives of the whole civilized world have met semi-annually at Leipzig to see what was new, to barter and to form international combinations. While American buyers are attending this gathering in growing numbers, the United States had only three sellers at the last meeting, when the country's Department of Agriculture was represented for the first time, staging a small demonstration of cotton grades.

It is a fact that but very few of these approximately 200,000 business people ever come to the United States to learn about Americans at first hand; yet every one of them is a potential participant in the formation of the consensus of world opinion respecting America. What a site for an American friendship laboratory this international commercial vortex would make. It is for this purpose, indeed, that the American Leipzig Fair Association is proposing to establish a permanent American exhibition center in Leipzig, in the expectation that a permanent headquarters, housing a truly representative cross-section of American industry, and run by Americans along American lines, would attract enormous attention as the first exhibition of American merchandise in Europe, and would be an object lesson to the whole world.

Such a center would constitute an international advertisement for the United States and for things American and would benefit the country's business community to the benefit by the world-wide interest which has already been aroused by various factors in the past. The plan would involve the establishment of a headquarters which would be open all the year around in the hands of a few general salesmen, for Leipzig is the main railroad crossing for central Europe, and buyers and sellers from many lands are constantly passing through it. The management could collect credit information and data on all European business firms. In this way there could be opened up a whole new field for commercial exploitation, and for the promotion of better international understanding.

NEIGHBORS BY ROBERT STEAD

AUTHOR OF "THE COWBOYS" "THE HOMESTEADERS"

I spent a wretched night thinking about this, and toward morning I got up and retrieved the crumpled bit of paper which I had thrown into a corner of the kitchen. I agreed it out and read the lines again. A night of reflection had worn the edge from my indignation, and I admitted that there was an artistic point of view, the verses were perhaps not as hopeless as I had thought them. Indeed, they suggested a certain form of poetic ability. A little devil of conscience began an insurrection in my mind of fair play, demanding to know if I could write as well myself. But I ran no poet. I took a pencil and put down the word Jean, and then set about hunting for synonyms for my word. I could think of only two—"lean" and "lean." Neither of those seemed to lend itself to poetic treatment.

Suddenly a whiff of memory rushing in from somewhere near me scuttling among old school books at the bottom of my trunk, was what I meant to keep my old school books. If only that in after years I might read and appreciate the little gems of literature which, with the assistance of a dramatic teacher, I cordially hated when a child. Here it was an old English poem with a somewhat of a story. It was an Indian woman who killed a bear with a butcher knife, or some such thing, my sympathy, I remember, had also been with the bear, doubtless because of the picture which was made to represent the Indian woman. I had read this story again and again, when all other passages in the book had failed to interest me, and some little long-forgotten coil of memory said I would find a fragment of paper tucked between these pages. Sure enough, there it was! I drew it out eagerly, but it was not the poem I had recently, and held it under the lamp. How that strange, childish scene seemed to run all over my heart and pucker it into a little senile pocket. I could feel a thumping between my lungs and the hard beating of my pulse, wondering through the paper in my fingers.

When I am old And very tall I build a house for you, Will be Mrs. Hall.

A mist came up out of the pool and blurred the scrawly letters until they were before my eyes and faded out of sight. They had carried me back to the dead dead days of childhood—that Eden of life which comes before the disillusionment which is the Fall. The years between had gone out with a pulp that filled my throat, and again I was a child, and the years were together, suddenly making ourselves for the future under the witness of the great pile. That had been one of the great days of my life, and I had not known it then. I wonder how often we know the great day when it is actually passing. I had drunk in something which had become part of my system; part of my flesh and bone and brain; part of my hope, my aspiration, my life, and now would I give it up? Never! never! I pressed the precious memento to my lips and tasted the dew of my over-moistened nerves gone away, and tears rushed down upon me. With a man's shame I would have checked them, but I could not. The flood would not be stopped—and there was now to see. I fell on my bed and let the storm sweep over me.

After a while came catnaps, and with that catnaps the resolution which I recorded in my opening lines of this chapter would have it out with Jean. I would put up another fight for that that made life worth the living. I would not accept my fate; at least, I would not accept the fate which Jean had resigned to. She would see!

But this was a battle which could not be fought alone, and I needed my wife for some way in which I might lay siege to Jean—in which I could count on the aid of Mrs. Hall, I got out of their own house while I subjected Jean to the main drift, and she to break down her resistance, which would result in Jean to I had seen for the same purpose. The practice with all their vast acres, re-learned me a little slice of the privacy I desired. As I turned the matter over in my mind a clever plan unfolded itself before me. I would make Mrs. Hall and her Jean to go eastward somewhere about the banks of the gully. Then we would wander on and on the farther the better.

Fortunately some boards remained of the table which had supported the wedding feast, and I went to work with them. The reaction from inactivity was in itself a tonic to my spirits, and I found myself whittling as I improvised a little table for the world. "When I am old and very tall, etc." Hope rebounded, as hope will, from its dip into despair, and I began to think of the stack on Fourteen as it would be under the lower to represent. Presently a man came over the hill and over the ridge he bid her from view; then something something word and furry, like a sleeping kitten; then a forehead, two eyes and a sliver of chin. "When I am old and very tall" she called.

Great Mutual Painter

It is said of Edwin Hilschmidt that as a mural painter, he is represented on more walls than any other artist in this country. Two beautiful examples of his work are in the library of Congress, Washington. His painting of the lanterns is called "Intelligence Directed." The color decoration has for its theme the 12 great periods in the development of civilization.

SUMMONS

In the District Court of the Eleventh Judicial District of the State of Idaho, in and for the County of Blaine.

Mildred Shirley Moyer, Plaintiff, vs. Clark Moyer, Defendant.

The State of Idaho sends Greeting to Clark Moyer, the above named Defendant.

You are hereby notified that a complaint has been filed against you in the District Court of the Eleventh Judicial District of the State of Idaho, in and for the County of Twin Falls, by the above named plaintiff, and you are hereby notified to appear and answer said complaint within twenty days of the service of this summons, or within forty days if served elsewhere; and you are further notified that unless you so appear and answer said complaint within the time herein specified, the plaintiff will take judgment against you as prayed in said complaint.

The said summons is brought in opposition to the books of matrimony heretofore and now existing in the office of the plaintiff upon the grounds that you have deserted and abandoned the plaintiff.

Witness my hand and the seal of the said District Court this 5th day of September, 1925.

C. C. SIGGINS, Clerk.

LOOKIE CASE GOES TO COURT LATE TODAY

Matter Will Be Submitted to Jury as Soon as Instructions Are Delivered; Tilt Between Lawyers Is Brief Affair.

With a final burst of eloquence the case of the state against J. L. Lookie, which has occupied the district court all work came to a close this afternoon and, when the instructions of the court have been read to the jury, will be submitted to those 12 men for final determination. Lookie is charged with embezzling $15,000 from the Idaho Power company during the two year period he served in prison. The case was heard in court on Oct. 10 of this morning, Judge W. A. Halsebeck, doubted the wisdom of the defendant for an instruction that he was not guilty, the defense put on three character witnesses, Manager Charles H. Mann of this city and Chicago, and George Johnson of Idaho, to show that Lookie had had a good reputation. All was justified.

The evidence of Johnson running laps with Lookie when both were inmates of the Idaho State Penitentiary. The defense then closed. Lawyers at large, however, are expected to be heard in court on Oct. 10. The prosecution attorneys, especially, being Prosecutor J. W. Taylor and Charles A. North, partner of the firm of Stephens & North came to a climax this morning and resulted in the arrest of the defendant, Mr. Taylor. The prosecution lawyers held hands and elbowed together, laughing over the incident. The defendant, however, was not laughing. He was being held in custody of Jack O'Connell and not pulling a scrap, the condition of his mind being as an abill.

Holden Speaks in Defense of the State.

The Attorney General, who while he represented the power company in the prosecution, has been the less a representative of the state. He asserted that he felt that the jury would not be swayed by the consideration of the fact that the complainant in the case was a corporation. The speaker asserted that the only defense possible was for attorney to show that the defendant was a phony fact that all material allegations should be proven beyond a reasonable doubt. Holden said that in certain times he had not been permitted to review all the evidence. He said that the handwriting proven in the case showed that Lookie had drawn checks against cash, endorsed them and then deposited them in his own name. This alone, he asserted, was sufficient to establish the facts made in the office of the prosecutor, or other circumstances, was the lawyer said, enough to condemn him.

Drilling Holes in Glass

Drilling holes in glass is not so very difficult. The old method utilized a diamond triangular file, ground to a sharp point and used in a brace with a slight pressure. The point of contact was maintained with the file. The more recent way and one that is quicker is to use a brace or copper tube with thin walls instead of a file, says Popular Science Monthly. The tube is placed in a brace and drilling is accomplished with the use of a grinding as a cutting agent. A guide of wood keeps the tube properly centered.
