State Representative Takes Steps to Put Out "Ma" Ferguson.

FRAUD INTIMATED Special Session Asked Following Suit-Overs Road Con- tracts.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 21.—Representative T. N. Irwin of the Texas legis- lature said today he has introduced a petition for calling a special session of the Texas legislature to be convened later than January 10, 1926 "for impeachment purposes."

The petition will be in the mail to- morrow, addressed to the members of the Texas legislature he said.

Representative Irwin explained that his member, according to the Texas statute, had the privilege of calling a special session of the legislature any time for impeachment.

"In view of disclosures made and the outcome of Attorney General Moody's suit against the American Road company, a special session of the legislature to take impeachment charges is imperative," Irwin declared.

Representative Irwin is taking a step toward a special session started several weeks ago by Speaker Satterwater and Committee on the King.

Irwin's call will ask for impeachment of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and members of the state highway commission.

Previous attempts at a special session were merely for investigation of state officers and officials, however, since the outcome of Attorney General Dan Moody's suit against the American Road company which the highway commission and the govern- ment had blocked. It is a new legis- lative procedure, if any, will be more direct.

ENGLAND TO GIVE QUEEN GREAT RITES

Funeral for Alexandra Most Impressive Yet Seen in Empire. SERVICES TODAY. Private Rituals Observed This Morning at Estate by Royalty.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The most impressive funeral England has known since the death of King Edward in 1910 is planned for his widow, the queen mother Alexandra, who died yesterday. The last ceremonial was today in Stamboul where the royal family were watching over its dead, to receive from King George the royal enshrouding as to arrangements for the service.

A private service was held this morning at the duchess's last abode in Stamboul, with only the royal family present.

When Alexandra, mourned wherever the union jack waves, will probably be laid to rest in St. George's chapel, Windsor. Her body will be placed in the vaults where eight of England's kings repose. It was her self-expressed wish that she should be buried in this royal country of her dead.

It is likely that her body will pass through the hands of the king and queen, and that she will lie in state in London, probably in Westminster Abbey.

All Britain will be in official mourning for three months for the queen-lower queen. Everywhere the arctic red as her passing—a reverence and sympathy shared by the high and the low alike.

The mourning has had its echo in the social life of the empire, reflecting itself in theatres, hotels, cabarets, in private homes and society inwards. Salsicra races were cancelled and in far off Johannesburg, cabarets and dances were closed.

Denmark, first home of the "sea king's daughter" from over the seas, joined Britain in mourning. King Christian ordered his court to go into mourning for four weeks.

TWICE IN THIS WOMAN'S LIFE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her from Sickness to Health

Ellensburg, Washington.—"When I was first coming into womanhood I suffered from a terrible monthly ailment. My mother did everything she could think of, so she took me to several doctors and they only helped me a little. Mother was talking to another lady about my condition and she told mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mother got me six bottles and at the end of the first month I was much better, so I kept on taking it until I had no more pain. When I got married and had my first child I was in a terrible pain so that it was impossible for me to do my housework. I thought of how the Vegetable Compound had been so much benefit to me when I was a girl, and I went to Fetter's Drug Store and got six bottles. I sure did get me and I will take it. I am a young woman today and I can't say too much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I will answer any letter that comes to me to answer about what your medicine has done for me. FILER BETTER THAN NAMPAs SAYS WRITER

Nampa Wins District Championship of Southern Idaho by Filer's Poor Generalship, According to Times Editor: Nampa's Stage a Wonderful Comeback.

The district championship of Southern Idaho should have gone to the Filer Wildcats yesterday, and would have been won had they gone through in the first quarter, as they touched down in spite of being a forward pass.

Filer did not need to resort to force to make their victory, but the Wildcats really lost this season's touch-down by poor generalship in their own back field.

In this suggestion we are not criticizing Nampa because they took a brace in the fourth quarter and staged a "comeback" that is seldom equaled in high school football.

Nampa gained over 200 yards on scrimmage and Filer made 128, but the accuracy of this statement is questioned by many fans.

Filer has a better line and a better backfield according to the opinion of thinking and should have won yesterday but just as the "breaks" enter into all sports so do they in football.

CHARITY IS NOT SERVLITY

"Not alone is the courteous custom of saking 'Thank You' the hall mark of genteel birth, thoughtful training and a kindly nature, but it is an evidence of wisdom—it opens closed doors, breaks down sales barriers and swells dividends."

Just one of the paragraphs of a little folder sent to 1200 of the leading men of the land two weeks ago in the launching of the American Thank You League. It has excited so much interest and controversy that the corresponding secretary sends forth from 1526 Allerton Building at 56th street and Madison avenue, New York, some amazing evidence of the mental reactions revealed by the flood of letters and enrollment cards that have gone through the mails.

"Hotel proprietors, educators and ministers are evidently most earnestly in favor of a spread of courtesy," he wrote "and actively employed newspapermen the least satisfactory of knowing that Jerry's appeal may have been more keenly than they thought for thorough contact. Tom turned around to women, but he refused to close his eyes before the rain came—what purpose was served by this? Justice means a fellow-fighter to say this."

"On the other hand, Frank Ward O'Malley, once star humorous reporter of the Sun and now a magazine writer, almost savagely refused to join because he protested against anybody seeking to reform anybody else, and congratulates himself on his forthcoming departure for Europe where people don't mind other people's business."

"Ellis Parker Butler, a newspaperman once, and now president of the American Authors League, cheerily enrolled in this fashion: 'I ain't no clerk in any store, and I ain't no waiter, THANK YOU! But if you say I ain't polite, By gosh, I'll come and splay you.'"

"F. P. Adams, probably the country's most famous columnist writes: 'I am opposed to the American Thank You League and I refuse to enroll because I am a disciple of the Higher Chivalry, a Courtesy Internationalist—and I ask you would it be courteous for one nation to be more courteous than another.'"

CHAPTER VIII. (Continued) A similar epithet was upon his former partner's tongue. Linton was angry to himself, "Old Jerry's enjoying life now, out with his life, if he goes out and it starts to rain."

"The checked maliciously and then increased a speech of curt refusal for when Quirk came to the tent and begged shelter from the weather. There would be nothing doing. Tom made up his mind to that; he tried several insults under his breath, then he offered up a vindictive prayer for rain, hail, sleet, and snow. A howling Dakota blizzard, he decided would exactly suit him. He was a bit rusty in prayer, but whatever his appeal may have been, it did not make up in earnestness, for never before had he ever uttered such a weight of yearning than did his.

Tom tried his luck in a swanup. For the skill had been divine with a cold chisel and neither half of it he had been his pilot-boat. He had drunk his cup of bitter tea and wiped his brow. He was prompted to amend his prayer, for he desecrated that two blankets were not going to be enough for him. Even the satisfaction of knowing that Jerry's man feel the want even more keenly than he and to warm him with a blanket for thorough contact. Tom turned around to women, but he refused to close his eyes before the rain came—what purpose was served by this? Justice means a fellow-fighter to say this."

"The change in the weather had not escaped Pierce Phillip's notice, and before going to bed he stepped out of camp to study the sky. It was threatening. Recalling extravagant stories of the violence attained by storms in this mountain lake country, he decided to make sure that his boats and cargo were out of reach of any possible danger, and so walked down to the shore. A boisterous wind had raised Lake Lintonman, and out of the inky blackness came the sound of its nearest neighbor, his way up to the nearest skiff he was startled by receiving a sharp challenge in the County Court house.

"Who is that?" she asked. "It's I, Pierce," he answered quickly, "I discovered your boat finally, and approaching closer, he thought, her head drawn up beneath her and her arms clasped around her chest. "I came down to make sure everything was all right. But what are you doing here?"

"It's too windy. You'll catch cold," he declared. "Oh, I'm warm, and I love storms!" She stared out into the night, then added, "I'm a stormy creature."

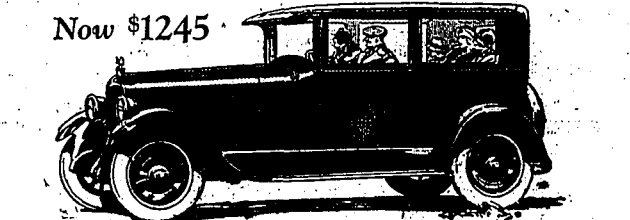

Again he urged her to return to her tent, and in his voice was such genuine concern that she hid her panic upon his shoulder. It was a warm, unassuming gesture and it betrayed a grateful appreciation of his solicitude; it was the first familiarity she had ever permitted herself to indulge in, and when she spoke it was in an unusually intimate tone: "You're a good friend, Pierce, don't know what I'd do without you."

"Phillips' surprise robbed him momentarily of speech. This woman possessed a hundred moods; a few hours before she had treated him with a cool indifference that was almost studied; now, without apparent reason, she had turned almost affectionate. Perhaps it was the night, or the solitude that drew them together; whatever the reason, these first few words, that one impulsive gesture, assured Pierce that they were very close to each other, for moments after he said, "I wish I were more—I wish—"

"What's the question, when he hesitated. "I wish you couldn't do without me. It was out; he realized in a panic that his whole secret was here. With no faintest intention of speaking, even of hinting at the truth, he had blurted forth a full confession. She had caught him out, and, like a perfect spy, he had betrayed himself. What would she think? How would she take his audacity, his presumption? He was surprised to feel her fingers tighten briefly before her hand was withdrawn.

Let the Jewett itself tell you what in cold type sounds unbelievable Thrilling! Different! Amazing! Of what value is it to describe Jewett Coach performance in such words as these when, to those who have never had actual experience with this car, they must sound like wild exaggeration? It is hard to understand how, in an automobile at Jewett Coach's price (now only $1245), it is possible to outdistance other cars famous for their speed, out-climb cars that have won distinction on countless hills, outpull cars noted for power and ruggedness. Jewett is First—Everywhere Yet these seemingly unbelievable things are being done every day by Jewett Coaches. Don't be specially turned up "stunt" cars, but as part of the regular day's work of privately owned Jewetts. For in this great car 17 years of Jewett experience have built a motor and chassis that fear comparison with nothing on the road for ability, reliability and endurance. # ROLL CALL PLANS MADE FOR TWIN FALLS CHAPTER

Plans were laid last evening at the chamber of commerce rooms for the annual Red Cross Roll Call committee which will be on next week in Twin Falls. George H. Wainwright suggested that the Golden Red Cross had started a very successful roll call a year or so ago by calling the attention of the girls reserve of the high school and suggested that they call here in the future. With the aid of this general committee of the local chapter, Mrs. M. Nett, faculty supervisor of the Girls Reserve, was present and stated that the girls were very busy and would with the mother and daughter banquet but felt that if the committee was put on Saturday, November 28, the girls would be glad to handle same. Booths will be arranged in the business houses, hotels and other membership sold from those and at the street.

Chairman S. H. Graves of the Twin Falls chapter explained the needs of the American Red Cross and stated that a plan was being worked out to stage a better health campaign in this city at some later date. M. Robertson also spoke on the Roll Call and urged that the local chapter work toward securing with other organizations of the city a school nurse. The Parent-Teacher association has expressed this idea of securing a school nurse, said Mr. Robertson.

Some of the others who were present and took part in the discussion were Miss Mary Johnson of the Business and Professional Women's club, Mrs. W. Garman of the State Telephone company, Mrs. D. W. Smith, chamber of commerce, and L. H. Masters, in charge of the Roll Call.

Tickets for "The Ship" in Demand; Cast Is Described

The long line of season ticket holders in front of the Riley military this morning indicated that all those who attended "Pygmalion" as presented by the Meroon Opera company for more and wanted to get in on the distribution of seats for the presentation of the famous play "The Ship," which appears Monday night at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's club. Moreover, they seem to have sold others about it for there is a fine demand for tickets.

Reservations will be made up until 8 o'clock tonight and again Monday. Free comments on the play and players show wide variety of favorable comment. "Jack Thurlow" is declared a great find and master of poetry. Janet Young as "Old Mrs. Thurlow" is declared to present a study, while looking into the moonlight, and it is said to be a lesson to look with her and seek to see what she sees. Dorothy Adams who plays the part of "Hester" is the angry, protected English girl Gordon Nelson, the one who was "colored pickering" in "Pygmalion" as a leading role in the show Monday night. Byron Foster stars in the play. He takes recreation by studying baseball.

The story is a gripping portrayal of life according to all given by a great cast.

The Fall of the Ku Klux Klan

Is due to the treachery of many of its national and state officials who care nothing for Protestantism or the principles of the organization, are themselves alleged to be men of the lowest moral character, and that their every move is for the dollars, and nothing else.

The Ku Klux Klan as an organization gathered into its ranks some of the noblest men of America. Had these men been allowed to guide the destinies of the Klan it would have been today the greatest promoter of Americanism this nation has ever known, but under its autocratic charter, which allowed upon it a despotic rulership from which there is no appeal, these men are powerless and the unscrupulous officials are hurrying their organization to destruction. Under the autocratic charter of the old order there is no chance to redeem the organization from those men who have so firmly entrenched themselves in their control of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

In the September number of Bob Shuler's Magazine, Mr. Shuler says that there is a place in America for the Independent Klan of America. We ask you to read the following:

"Undoubtedly there is a place for the Klan in America. Her principles are inviolable. Her announced program is above reproach. Her hour of opportunity is here. Millions of good Americans are ready to throw themselves into a movement that will battle for American idealism and Protestant Christianity. But they want a democratic constitution. They want free speech and a free press. They desire and allow gun rule. They will not become Romanists in organization simply to oppose Rome. Autocracy will not be tolerated. If the Independent Klan avoids these breakers, there is hope for the dawning of a day when this mighty movement will arise from the earth to which it has fallen and march forward, the giant it was intended to be. All will depend upon the leaders of the Ku Klux Klan. Their motives their ambitions their aspirations.

"The editor of Bob Shuler's Magazine is watching the Independent Klan with abiding interest. There is no hope in the old order. Its porphyry is abiding. Its disgrace has been published from the rivers to the ends of the earth. Its tractors have given the Kins of Judah until the very soul of America is sick. No sane man looks with hope the way of the old Klan.

"God grant that the Independent Klan may find great patriots for leadership. This is the one and only hope. If such are discovered, their hour will break and the millions will flock to her banners. We wait. We wait and watch. We wait and watch and pray."

The Klan principles are right, they are the greatest set of principles ever formulated and presented to America by any other people, and they must and will be preserved and put into action. But they must be under the leadership of honest, upright, earnest and righteous men and women, and not under the manipulation of a lot of crooks. And, too, they must be put into practice by a democracy, where every member has a voice in the laws and constitution that governs the order.

That order is the Independent Klan of America, a body which stands for the principles and ideas of the Kins order and for the growth of the new order is at the present time the most encouraging thing in the Protestant movement. If you desire to get away from the autocracy and tyranny of a one-man order into a democratic order where we all have an equal vote and voice in the conducting of its affairs, address
