President Coolidge will preside at a button to light a huge tree in the ellipse back of the White House and officially start the capital's Christmas festivities.

In accordance with a New England custom Christmas carols will be sung on the portico of the White House at 7 p. m. by the choir of the president's church.

Good Story, Anyway

The popular story of how the Spanish province of Andalusia acquired its name told by Eleanor Frazier in one of her travel books. "Early explorers entering the province met a peasant indolently driving a mule over a pass; they begged him to tell them the name of this sunny and pleasant land, presumably in a language or dialect of which he understood none; a word he looked them over, silent and motionless in the usual Spanish fashion, then turning to his mule, called out, "Andalus," which simply means "land of the mule"; but the strangers took it to be the name of the country, which they registered on their French charts as Andalusia."

M'GIGUE WON DECISION BY BIG MISTAKE

Judges May Become Inactive As Result of Bout in Which Tiger Flowers Plainly Outpointed His Opponent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Type of New York's highest scoring boxing judges probably will be placed on the inactive list as a result of the most mistaken decision that has been heard since the fight game was restored in New York.

Bernard Gimbel, of the 14th department store and Peter A. Murray, president of the Federation bank, called Mike McFlane, former world's light heavyweight champion, the winner over Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, negro, after ten rounds before a crowd of 12,000 last night in the Madison garden.

The score at the very best was 2 to 3 in favor of Flowers and the wails of the new garden were left standing because the fans, even those who had the other way knew it was an honest error.

McFlane was as stumped as any at the suggestion when the announcer called the decision and Jimmy Johnston, his manager, the most volatile man in the business, started shouting reproaches to try to regain his speech.

Flowers, who had been hardly outpointed in two rounds and even in a third, took the decision like a good sport and didn't brood over it. The three judges, careful little about the result, that will have to go on the books for long, are 12,000 first-class fight fans who had won.

T. Buhfingers.

CHRISTMAS IN IDAHO CAUSES REJOICING

Twin Falls and Southern Idaho will celebrate the anniversary of Christmas tomorrow with rejoicing. Never perhaps in the history of this city has there been more real cause for rejoicing on the part of a majority. Crops have been excellent on the Twin Falls tract and throughout Idaho and this should give reason for real gladness. Most of the people have prospered during 1925 and they should gather around the festal board tomorrow with real cause for thanksgiving and rejoicing. Many obligations have been totally erased from the records during the past year and today many a man who at one time could hardly see daylight now has real reason for rejoicing. The records of mortgages released and of debts paid is cause for real thanksgiving and the people of southern Idaho are of that stock that love to pay their honest obligations. The Great Creator has favored us with splendid weather during the past year and this too should be a cause for rejoicing because where good weather is there good health follows in its wake.

Several important steps toward the complete development of this tract have been made during the past year and first among these was the laying of the cornerstone of the great American Falls dam which will give water to our water right and will assure the farmers on this project that there will be no more guess work. This new dam will also bring under cultivation several thousand new acres and will in time very materially increase the population of Southern Idaho. To measure the full length and depth of what this new reservoir means to this part of the state is a gigantic task at this writing but generations to follow will sense more fully than we perhaps the length and breadth of this undertaking which had its inception during the year of 1925. Second unto this great project is the completion of the Rogerson-Wells railroad which will give us a connection with California markets and centers second only to the metropolis of this intermountain region. The full worth of this new railroad south will perhaps never be realized in this generation because it will set in motion forces and projects which will come to their fruition only after long years of experience and it will take time for the millions down along the Pacific coast to realize what a vast empire and granary is here in Southern Idaho. When they catch the vision of the possibilities here then and not till then will they merit our full support and co-operation.

Idaho has awoken from her dream and is going forth with a united front to blaze her name across the horizon of a mighty empire which will bring untold millions eventually to the Gem State. She has at last awoken to the necessity of advertising or in other words telling her own story in such a fashion that others will give attention. As last it would seem that the people of this state are going to unite on a gigantic publicity and advertising campaign which will require vast capital and will begin in the near future to turn the attention of millions toward this vast inland empire. In a few years our great ranches will be divided into smaller tracts and these farmed more intensively and together with a more co-operative marketing scheme our farmers will come into their own as never before. Along with this latent capital will come at first small manufacturing industries and as these prosper and grow others of larger dimensions will follow until in the future ages this will become one of the most densely populated districts in the western hemisphere. Because here we have vast water power which can be offered to great industries at a nominal figure. This old Snake river will some day be harnessed up to a tremendous manufacturing load and when it is the industries of Southern Idaho will grow by leaps and bounds until we will hardly believe our wildest dreams of long ago.

Another project has been launched and perhaps will be successfully closed in the next few months to construct a Rim to Rim bridge across the Snake river. This will unite Southern Idaho into a more compact and co-operating unit than it has been in the past because of the deep canyon of the Snake which has been a dividing line between the North and South Side tracts. It has been well said that Idaho like Gaul is divided into three parts but this new bridge will cement the South side as no other proposition has done.

Our first obligation on Christmas Day should be a proper religious observance of the occasion; the second, in giving help to the helpless and hope to the hopeless, in succoring the sick and supplying the needy; the third, in maintaining that time-honored custom of giving gifts to those who are near and dear to us.

Christmas will mean much to many, less to others. The day will dawn on homes where sadness reigns, as well as those where gladness abides. While trees will be trimmed and toys will be arranged in the homes of many, the midnight bells tell of the new day; in the homes of others no trees nor toys will be found. Christmas will come to all, for—

"Out of the shadow of night
The world moves into light;
It is daylight everywhere."

Yes, the day will dawn for all; but, here, a heart will ache for a dear one departed; there, a child will yearn for toys which poverty prevents; here, a mind will grieve for a son or daughter gone wrong; there, the sick will suffer for lack of proper care; here, a body will languish for nourishment unobtainable; there, a soul will struggle for moral stimulant. Such are the pains and strains we may relieve, the sadness and sorrow we may assuage.

Christmas charity should embody the personal contact, the actual delivery of the gift by the donor. The friendly grasp of hand and cheery word of comfort are always more expressive and far longer remembered than the mere amelioration of a physical want or the satisfaction of a mental desire. The personal contact conveys a heart message of hope and encouragement which nothing else can supply.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-five years ago, a voice was heard, the echo of which has never died. Let it now play upon the keyboards of our hearts and conjure forth harmonies of helpfulness and happiness for the sick and the sore, the needy and distressed. Let us relieve the stomach-hungerings, assuage the heart-longings, assist the soul-wrangs. Then will we fill many a home with music, though not a sound be heard. Then will we obtain that enduring reward which one's own conscience pays, in its meditative moods, that other bodies have been nourished because of our assistance, that other minds have been greatly cheered because of our encouragement, that other hearts have been made happier because of our sympathy.

The past year has given the Times real reason for rejoicing. This paper stands today on a much firmer footing than it did one year ago. People today look at this medium with an air of confidence and need. They realize that each afternoon it brings to their home a real message of cheer and the spirit of fair play in our commercial transactions. They sense much more fully than ever before that this newspaper has a real place in this community and dares to speak the truth about transactions regardless with whom these may have to do. Great corporations and small callibre men look alike to us and if either go wrong they know just where The Times will stand with regard to publicity of their misdeeds. We have been building upon the foundation of a square deal to one and all and such a platform always appeals to the masses. We therefore feel like rejoicing at this Christmas season for the measure of success and prosperity which has come to us during the best of summer and the mellow days of fall. We feel like being somewhat specific because after all there is nothing which so appeals to the readers of a newspaper as frankness. We have been able during the past year with the cooperation of the public and the advertisers to pay off all indebtedness on this plant. We stand today proud of the measure of success which has come to us. We have not made as long a profit as many business houses but we learned long ago that the margin in this business was much smaller than in many others but yet there is a sense of joy comes from the fact that we are playing for more than just dollars and cents. We are fighting for great ideals and because we have fought fair and in the open our readers have gained a greater confidence than ever before and for this we are glad at this joyful anniversary.

For fear that we may weary you we will cease here and wish each of our readers a Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year.

I. H. MASTERS, Publisher of The Times.

Worth-While Furniture

Gradual buying of worth-while furniture is so much more sensible than hasty selection of a quantity of pieces that, do nothing more than relieve a home of utter barrenness. Apparently it never occurs to some people to buy part of a handsome suite which they could afford the same amount. They crowd a room with tawdry matching pieces, ignoring the future of their home entirely. When they might happily combine a lovely new dresser with the simplest bed, until their matching pieces can be bought. Mahogany and white finish go well together, walnut and certain finishes of oak combine successfully, but mahogany and oak will not make friends.—Family Herald.

Leonard White was elected commander of Filer Post American Legion, at an annual meeting held in the cafeteria of Central school Tuesday evening. Mr. White has served as vice commander during the past year.

Other officers chosen include W. T. Ditch, first vice commander; George E. Demann, second vice commander; James Tomlin, adjutant; Dr. M. J. Good, historian; J. Grant H. Shinn, chaplain; L. E. As a start in this direction, four committees have been named to put on the membership drive, and another committee composed of Harvey Shirk, L. W. Hawkins and George E. Demann will act as sponsors of the Boy Scout troop. This committee is to work in conjunction with a similar committee from the Riverton club in finding a meeting place for Scouts.
 The next meeting of the post will be held at the same place, the evening of Wednesday, Jan. 6. An "open" committee and entertainment committee have also been named.

Rope of Sand

A rope of sand is an illusion; something giving the appearance of strength, but in reality weakness. This phrase came into the language about the year 1900. There is a Latin proverb which runs: "Ex arena funiculum necis" which, freely translated, is "You are weaving a rope of sand," that is, you are engaged in an impossible task. This comes from an ancient proverb recorded in Harper's "Latin Dictionary," edited by Lewis and Short.

Sneeze Signs

In the ancient days of Greece and Rome, a sneeze was supposed to bear in its trails far greater portents than a mere cough.
 To sneeze while riding from the table or bed was said to indicate an approaching death. Yet to sneeze between midnight and midnight under favorable planetary conditions was an augury of happiness.
 Again, if the Greek or Roman turned to the right while sneezing, it was regarded as a lucky omen.

Shooting Star
 The last of the shooting stars of the past few days was seen at 10:30 p. m. on Tuesday. It was a bright fireball that streaked across the sky from the northwest to the southeast.

PERJURY PLEA IS ENTERED BY BAILEY

Ernie Alvin Bailey Admits in Probate Court That He Signed False Affidavit to Get Marriage License; May Plead No Guilty Later.

Ernie Alvin Bailey today entered a plea of guilty to the charge of perjury in connection with the securing of a marriage license and was bound over to the district court in the sum of $200 by Judge L. L. Bostick. The complaint was filed by Probation Officer John R. Ault.

The charge alleges that on August 8, 1925, he filed affidavits before County Clerk C. C. Skidmore to the effect that Ida La Von Olson was over 15 years of age, whereas, at the time of the complaint, she was but 15, and on the strength of this affidavit in his application for license, he secured the same.

GRANGES ASK MERCHANTS TO CUT OUT OLEO

Resolution of Different Societies of the Patrons of Husbandry Pass Resolutions Against Use and Sale of Butter Substitutes.

At the last meeting of the different granges, the following resolution was adopted:

It is resolved: That we as grangers, have taken a stand against the use of substitutes for dairy products, in the line of creamer butter, oleomargarine, and others. The scientists have proven to us that they contain very little food value and are therefore undesirable for general consumption.

Whereas: Dairying already is one of the most important industries to the farmer and business men and should therefore be given every consideration possible, and we in Twin Falls county consider that this is a stock country and feel that the dairy cow has indeed the first place among the livestock and in order to further develop the dairy industry we need more dairy cows. Therefore better substitutes should be prohibited on the market.

The price of every pound of substitute is taken out of the country from any tax or revenue to city or county but every cent per pound of butterfat remains in the country. Even our educational board has inaugurated a milk system in our schools recognizing the vital food element in milk, and we consider it a public offense to have the substitute, always mentioned in our markets.

We therefore request the merchants of Twin Falls to discontinue to offer these products for sale. There has been restrictions placed against the manufacture and sale of these products in several different states of the Union and there should be in Idaho. We also ask the public to accept nothing genuine dairy products produced in your own country.
