

JAPAN SEES ITSELF AS A GREAT POWER

Nation Confident That 1926 Will Bring It Into World Affairs

A CRITICAL YEAR

The past twelve months saw Empire facing its hardest tasks.

TOKIO, Dec. 30.—Japan came 1925 with confidence the empire will not only see several consolidations of its place among the great powers of the world. Many of the difficult problems the nation faced with the beginning of the coming year have already been solved or are well on their way toward solution. The others are not of sufficient importance to cause great worry.

Critical Year
The year 1925 has been a critical one in the nation's history. The greatest step in advancement of the cause of liberalism since the Emperor Meiji thrust Japan into the world in the society of nations was made early in the year in enactment of the Manchou suffrage bill by the Diet last March. In one sweep parliament made some 10,000,000 Japanese voters, granting the franchise to all independent men over 20 years of age. These new voters will cast their first ballots in the next general election, which may come early in 1926.

A radical step also was taken in the signing of the Russo-Japanese treaty in Peking, January 29. By this treaty Japan granted Russia full diplomatic and consular recognition and prepared for an immediate resumption of complete trade relations. China's "Great Wall" was torn down. The treaty is a landmark in international relations, opening the "Great Wall" and the Manchou frontier to international trade in June, as a result of a strike in a Japanese owned cotton mill, the Chinese situation took a new part in the time of the Peking foreign office through the remaining months of the year. The Japanese policy of forbearance and extreme measures to win the friendship of China soon became apparent and did much to overcome the bitter hostility all Chinese have felt toward this country since presentation of the notorious 21 demands.

This policy also was firmly followed during the Peking Chinese conference, Japan taking a leading part in aiding China in her fight for customs autonomy.

The end of the year finds American-Japanese relations the most satisfactory of any time since the outbreak of the Boxer movement in Washington congress. No major points are under negotiation and no serious clouds are on the horizon. The important family also had a most happy year, crowned with the birth of the first child of the Prince and Princess of the Imperial Household. The impeded health of the emperor showed little change and there is no hope for his recovery.

Ford Jumps Off at Hansen Bridge Chasm

A Ford car, owned by Wayne Lewis of Burley, got high notions yesterday and wanted to make a dash for it to the bottom of the chasm. The experiment resulted in its reaching the bottom intact but with a thousand pieces a second later. Mr. Lewis, wife, mother and aunt came down to look on. The car was not the engine running and as they looked they heard the car start and stop. It crumpled and disappeared. There is no salvage and it was not insured.

WAVE LENGTH CONFLICT CONFUSER ENGLISH RADIO

LONDON, Dec. 30.—In Europe more than 100 broadcasting stations are now working on wave lengths between 200 and 600 metres while others are protected.

A meeting to be held at Geneva at the International Wireless Bureau this month will, it is hoped, solve the problem of how to fit all the stations on the band and thus abolish jamming between British and Continental broadcasting stations which at the present time is causing great confusion, especially when trying to relay Continental programs to English listeners.

American Movies Get German Foothold

Under the agreement, a film distribution company is organized; joint German-American production of movies in Berlin under direction of the Ufa is envisaged; and quotas will be fixed throughout Europe.

The two American companies extended the Ufa $4,000,000 credit for ten years. The rate is an extremely low rate when the prevailing credit rates of 12 to 20 per cent are considered.

CRAZY QUILT PLAN TO END COAL STRIKE

Operators and Miners of Anthracite Fields May Settle Differences by Use of Composite Draft of Plans Submitted

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—A composite plan for settlement of the anthracite labor dispute is being prepared. It was predicted that the 98 different plans which have been submitted in the process of making a "crazy quilt"—taking from all sources the most satisfactory features until the complete fabric is made.

While neither the miners nor the mine operators would make any concessions, they agreed yesterday by Alvin Karpis, who is being held in jail, that the plan would not be accepted in its entirety if at all. The plan, however, was regarded as a valuable stimulus to discussion.

The conference has adopted a rule whereby all proposals must be published for the public, and a daily statement will be issued by the secretary of the conference.

Astronomers Journey Far To Observe Sun's Eclipse

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Astronomers are now journeying thousands of miles to be prepared for a three minute eclipse of a total eclipse of the sun in Sumatra at 2:25 on the afternoon of January 14, says a statement of the American Nature association issued here today.

Americans will miss the eclipse but the January skies will be filled with recognition for the star canopy, the association points out. On January 2, for example, Venus will be at her best and may even be seen by daylight with the naked eye.

Two expeditions from the United States will attempt to make observations of this eclipse. One of these is from the United States Naval Observatory and includes Prof. Peiers and Prof. Littell who observed the eclipse last January from the Sprout Observatory of the Northport College. The town of Dushouke near which most of the scientific observers will be located, lies in the middle of the path.

After leaving the coast of Africa, the path of totality crosses the Indian Ocean to Sumatra, Burma and the island of Mindanao in the Philippines where the eclipse occurs late in the afternoon. A large partial eclipse of the sun will be visible in a vast equatorial Africa, the Malay peninsula and the East Indies. This is the first total eclipse of the sun to occur since the eclipse of January 24, 1924.

BOPEL Thermometer Shows 12 Above Normal Readings at Hanamona Ranch Are Discarded as Inaccurate

It was almost cold this morning. The depot thermometer showed a record of 12 above zero or 20 below freezing. Compared with eastern weather this was easy. During the absence of Mr. Hammons, who is being held at the home of an uncle in Mill Grove, 30; the official thermometer in read only once a day at 6 p. m. It is usually two or three degrees colder than the depot thermometer, owing to difference in location. The lowest record at the Hanamona thermometer yesterday was 21 above.

In Recovering.
Mr. Hammons expects to return in a couple of weeks. He went with a shipment of apples to Missouri, and shortly afterwards was stricken with amnesia.

Mrs. Hammons, who had been in Oregon during the last illness of her father, had returned a short time before with her mother, who was ill and who he now about well again.

In a short time the family will be together and morning readings will be weather conditions will be improved.

SCIENCE MAY GIVE WORLD NEW TREATS

Super-Einstein Theory in Evolution Which Probably Will Revolve New and Startling Discoveries, Leaders Say.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 30.—The world is on the threshold of a super-Einstein theory, a theory that will prove as startling and dazzling in comparison to the Einstein theory as that theory did in comparison to previously expressed views.

This statement was made today by Charles E. St. John, astronomer of the Mt. Wilson observatory, one of the world's greatest authorities on the Einstein theory.

Dr. Dayton C. Miller of Cleveland, president of the American Physical society, threw a bombshell into the scientific world when he announced at yesterday's session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that the experiments he had concluded after six years of work at Mt. Wilson, disproved the first half of the Einstein theory.

A second terrific bombshell was exploded at today's session of the association when Dr. St. John announced that experiments which he had been conducting also at Mt. Wilson at the same time that Dr. Miller was working there, gave results in strict accord with the Einstein theory and therefore tended to uphold the theory.

Both Dr. St. John and Dr. Miller—the two men dispute their differences on the Einstein theory are close friends—were asked how they were going to reconcile the wide difference in the results of their experiments.

Dr. St. John states that they do not demand 12 per cent per annum on the bridge if they secure the contract, but they do ask that amount if the tolls can't stand. He also states that the bridge goes over to the two counties or the state at the end of 50 years regardless of how much interest or dividends accrue up to that time.

MURRAY MAY GET BRIDGE CONTRACT

Prediction Favoring Spokane Man Forecast by Local Writer.

PROGRESS IS SLOW

Efforts of Joint Board at Jerome to Settle Job Continues Today.

(Special in The Times)

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 30.—From early indications today, it was none of us evident that R. M. Murray of Spokane, who secured the contract for constructing the Timberline bridge across the Snake river, this is the conclusion that our correspondent arrived at after a study of the evidence and the excitement which is being placed upon the commission on both sides of the river. But is only a guess to be sure, but even newspaper men are usually able to see what is in the air.

The progress of this situation for almost two days first hand.

The above is only a prediction to be sure, but follow the case and see whether this prediction does not come pretty close to the facts as they unfold here in the public view. The feeling is now that no conclusion will be reached today as the attorneys are working hard to draw the franchise in such a way as to fully protect both counties.

Justice E. A. Walters is representing the Drayn Construction company and states that they will file to the first, but to secure the contract for the Timmerline bridge, former Mayor Shad L. Houghton is representing the Murray concern and has the assistance of some others.

Justice Walters states that they do not demand 12 per cent per annum on the bridge if they secure the contract, but they do ask that amount if the tolls can't stand. He also states that the bridge goes over to the two counties or the state at the end of 50 years regardless of how much interest or dividends accrue up to that time.

ALTERATION COURT PLAN'S FORESEEN

Senate Irreconcilables Draft New and Drastic Resolutions to Resolution During Congressional recess, Is Report.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Senate irreconcilables are spending the holiday recess in drafting a number of new and drastic resolutions which will alter the world court constitution with effect from the beginning of next Monday. It was learned today.

While President Coolidge renewed his efforts for powerful solution of the problem by having Chairman Doherty of the senate foreign relations committee in the morning, advisers of Doherty's, down to the White House for dinner last night. The activities of Doherty's group in Capitol Hill went on without interruption.

Board members of the committee in conference with the president but it is understood the two talked over important international questions besides the world court—the sudden, unexplained return of John J. Pershing to the United States, and the Chilean boundary dispute and the Hawaiian Islands question. The board of Doherty's group in Capitol Hill went on without interruption.

It is understood that the actual formulation of the bill will be the work of the government and the foreign relations committee upon the final illness of President Coolidge as a sacrifice, on the Hillman appeal against his resignation.

The Senate's approval has been required and his chief assistants in the Senate.

Three interruptions.

—During the boundary body's operations, the incident have caused three interruptions.

Return to U. S. Indicates Other Matters in Boundary Plebiscite.

ARAPA, Chile, Dec. 30.—The possibility of General Pershing, chairman of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite commission, making an early visit to the United States to obtain needed dental work introduced into the already intricate and complicated situation.

General's and his chief assistants have been notified to have for fulfillment of the arbitration board have been regarded as the chief conditions factors here.

Since the political consequences of the possible absence are causing wide speculation.

Began in August.

It was during the first week of August that the plebiscite commission, headed by General Pershing, a neutral citizen, began preparations for holding a plebiscite to settle the dispute as to Tacna-Arica's nationality. A boundary commission, headed by Colonel James Murray, U. S. A., also began the work of surveying the boundaries of the province, which are sometimes known as South America's Alacranes.

At the end of five months, the actual work of the work here is as follows:

—The plebiscite commission normally has been actually engaged in committee work, owing to the absence of the Chilean commissioner and his chief assistants in Santiago.

English Writer Tells "Tall" Fish Stories

The winter gardens of the Savoy hotel, London, was the scene of a double tragedy a few weeks ago. For many years two gullfish, named Ernest and Eva, made their home in the fountain there. Grown from all parts of the world, undried, their fish were famous on account of their tricks.

As soon as a rock was put in the water, Ernest would pop over it in a flash of gold, and sometimes would turn a somersault in the air. One day, however, a thoughtless guest dicked some clear ash into the fountain, and the fish were poisoned.

Another notable gullfish died recently. His name was Peter, and for fourteen years he lived in the garden fountain of St. Andrew's, the Warwickshire, London.

Legends of long-lived fish are numerous—some of the most interesting being the "Tales of the Fishes of the World." This fish lived for many years in a well in the west of Ireland. Tradition says that, when French troops landed there more than a century ago, they ran short of food, and certain soldiers decided to have the trout fried for dinner. When they got into the kitchen and found his way back to the well, where he lived for many years.—London "The Times."

This opening is but a landmark, for already arrangements have been made for the expenditure of $50,000 more, in the way of an addition which will allow great extensions to the already large dining and dance hall.

There are 88 rooms in the hotel of which 77 are for rent. The furniture which is all new and of the latest pattern and design, differs in every room and the drapes and walls harmonize with the color scheme, while the lights are arranged in the halls to give a cozy and homelike appearance and feeling to the whole. There are no shades and the drapes, in each of which there are 27 parts, work automatically. There are telephones in all rooms.

Five Dining Apartments. There are five dining rooms, the general, the large hall and three private dining parlors. These, all told, can accommodate 250 people. The tapistry in these and in the large halls are all imported from Paris and represent the finest in their line. Each plate cost $1.50 and the silver is of the best quality. The golden plating is used on the plate designs in symbolical reference to the prevalence of the bird in Idaho.

The end room upstairs is splendidly arranged and 70 people can be seated at the tables.

Mr. Edwards, courteously showed the Times representative through the house and gave all requested information regarding it.

Before the formal opening two-thirds of the rooms in the hotel had been rented.

The Big Sign. The hotel sign is designed to be 20 feet above the top of the building, is 48 feet long and has letters eight feet high. It illustrates the faith which Mr. Edwards has in Idaho. He says, "There are some who think I am ahead of the city. Perhaps that is true today and may be a year hence but not five years hence, if people stick to their convictions. I traveled over the east and west and from Beltsville, Washington, on the north to San Antonio, Texas, on the south and I saw nothing equal to Twin Falls and the surrounding country so far as future possibilities are concerned. This town ought to have a population of 20,000 in five years. If the people realize the situation and their opportunities it will. I can bring 1,000 people here from around Chicago if they can find land at reasonable figure. The larger towns ought to beget up. They cannot be gotten up effectively as smaller ones. If the man with 80 acres will sell half he can make more of the other half. I have seen this country will be thickly settled. It ought to furnish California with vegetables that cannot be raised there and which at these times are bought there. With co-operation with the farmers, the chamber of commerce and the city, an opportunity which I am sure it will not neglect to make this country a wonderful agricultural district, second to none in America.

"We should can our products here. We are paying high prices for cans, need pumpkin, for instance, when the Twin Falls trust raises the finest in the world. We should dry our apples and can our fruit."

The furniture, furnishings and supplies for meals were all secured through Twin Falls firms.

Washington Anecdotes The nation is indebted for the preservation of many of the popular anecdotes concerning Washington, among them that of the cherry tree and the hatchet, to Mason Locke Weems, Washington's biographer and pastor.

Favorite Christian Names If a public school... which has been taken as representative... John takes first place for boys, with William second. Margaret is first for girls, with Mary second.

How It Started Origin of a famous expression. First printed in our state is taken through forest country. He shows more after age of henlock, "Geeh all henlocks!" he observes.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Must Be Put to Use Character is the result of the cultivation of the highest and noblest qualities in human nature, and purification of these qualities to practical use.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Damage by Lightning

Lightning is, of course, most likely in areas where thunderstorms are the most frequent. The most serious have the largest number, about sixty an annually, and the great central and southern states have the most strikes to report. In the more northerly and easterly states the average is about twenty. Lightning is very rare in the Pacific states.
