

LABOR AND CAPITAL TO COOPERATE

Large Scale Production Makes Cost of Products Per Unit Less Than in Europe, Says Reason; Governor Moore Makes Pleasing Speech

Worldwide Outlines Legion Plans for Swift Campaign.

Co-operation between the people of all lines was the keynote of the talks at the banquet at the Park hotel last evening.

Co-operation between business interests in connection with the state meeting of the Idaho Editorial association, Governor Moore congratulated the city on its development and its products. Gov. Moore declared that the industrial workers in America, through the co-operation of capital, made the unit cost lower than in Europe, while the wage schedules were higher and pointed to the increasing number of houses built by the department Commanders. W. W. Worth, "King of Boise," told about the American Legion peace plan. A. M. Collins, manager of the produce department of the Co-operative, talked about the business of the big men in the prospects for Idaho.

Jed Peat as toastmaster was the life of the party, furnishing the sauce for the more solid morsels food given by the new old ones that had been out of circulation so long that everybody had forgotten them and did not recognize them when dressed up in all new clothes. The new old ones, however, entreated him to meet every客。

The inside by the orchestra under the leadership of Phil Thomas was a pleasing feature, and two solos by Wilton Peck, with accompaniment by Mrs. Peck, were particularly well received.

The King Expert Speaks.

Governor Moore in a brief and well arranged talk, spoke of the three great recent additions to the means of developing the resources of the state of Idaho, the new railroad south, the new bridge and the American Falls dam. He urged complete co-operation of labor and capital, and said that the newspaper could do much to bring this about. He said of the new opening, "Good Luck."

Robert Benson, head of one of the largest bonding houses in Salt Lake City, gave a very frank and frank talk on his methods of doing business in the field of insurance.

The subject was Confidence and Capital. He urged that every company needed capital to develop her industry, and that it was not safe to let capital run riot, but that it could be controlled if it had a leader.

He urged that confidence and capital can easily be frightened. If it becomes frightened, it does not readily regain confidence. The publishers can do much to this result, he said.

He said that the state of Idaho must find closer markets, and Mr. Benson because you can't compete with those states which are so much closer to the market.

He said products before competing with outside markets and ship them in compact form. Idaho must market much of her products to the coast and now railroad will aid materially.

In that respect, he said, the introduction of large capital and labor saving machinery enabled this country to far surpass European production and put same on market at lower cost regardless of the fact that American labor costs much higher paid than European labor.

Legion Head Talks.

O. W. Worth, Legion department head, for Idaho, said that the Legion would do its best to help in the relation to the new bond issue presented. This plan includes reasonable preparation for war, elimination of war profits, a judicial tribunal for settling disputes, except those involving domestic affairs, and the education of the spirit of tolerance for other nations and their ideals.

Colleges Speaks.

The address of J. B. Collins of the State Department, he predicted a great future for the Southern part of the state and for Twin Falls and declared that he believed it would be necessary to double the capacity of the plant.

He said that he regretted that he had not been able to speak before the meeting.

He spoke in friendly terms of competitors and of co-operative associations.

SCOLLARD ADDRESSES BUHL MEET

Noted... Expert on Co-operative Dairying Says Country on Twin Falls Tract Is Better Than That of Washington for Dairy Purposes.

(Official in The Times) BUHL, Jan. 8.—The closing meeting of the Palouse Grange, Buhl, institute was held here yesterday when, conducted by the Rev. C. W. Method, local banker, who is a member of the church, James H. Steele, who is president of Davis, was master. The principal talks were made by W. H. Kjorstad, state commissioner of agriculture; Rolland Wood of the university dairy division; and J. A. Steelard, expert on co-operative marketing, from Chehalis, Wash.

Expert Praised Country.—Mr. Steele said that the country he had seen around Hansen and and in driving through the Twin Falls tract appeared to him that of Washington for dairy purposes.

Mr. Steele expressed the belief that butterfat can be produced in southern Idaho at about one-half the cost of that produced in eastern Washington, because of the extremely favorable conditions that prevail there.

Favorable Conditions.—The speaker said that the price paid for butterfat by the condensaries of western Washington before the co-operative creameries became organized as an association "condenses" in western Washington at that time were paying ten cents less than the eastern condensaries paid," he said.

"Now however," he continued, "they are paying about 15 cents more than the eastern concerns. The difference between the prices paid during the last year has been organized and that now paid is about 26 cents, representing a profit of one millie dollar to farmers and dairymen of western Washington."

Mr. Steele predicted that when the eastern association has accomplished by organizing its creameries, southern Idaho can do with equal success.

In speaking of co-operative marketing, Mr. Steele said: "Farmers have always asked, when bringing their produce to market, 'What will you pay, while every other manufacturer fixes his own price and demands it?'

There are $77,000,000 worth of coal in the state of Idaho, which is several times greater than sum that is invested in any other industry.

An investment of that amount should bring a good profit. It was declared, but the only market yet found for the coal is the western coalfield, which includes the coalmining industry from being even generally profitable.

"When a farmer sells anything, he gets only 20 cents of the dollar which the ultimate consumer pays, and we are paying him a cent less, so far as his profit is concerned."

"Aided" the only time a former success in making a profit under the present system," concluded Mr. Steele, "when some other farmer, who had no money, approached me and suggested the co-operative marketing of coal, so that he could get a profit, if not a large one, at least enough to cover his expenses."

"Co-operative marketing will do much to relieve this problem confronting western farmers."

In speaking of the credit, Mr. Steele said: "I am sure that the cooperative creameries in Idaho suggest according to the co-operative marketing as soon as possible, if they have not already done so."

SALMON CASES SETTLEMENT IS HELD GOOD OMEN

FILER GIRLS ARE FOUND; TWO BOYS HELD IN CUSTODY

The following statement, regarding the Salmon settlement suit cases, dismissed for which is provided by an agreement made public last week, was based on information received from T. E. R. Harlan, lawyer for settlers:

"On Thursday about noon a conference held at the office of Richards and Haas, at Boise, for the purpose of trying to arrive at a settlement of the salmon settlement cases, people in court between the settlers and the two companies and bondholders on the one hand, and the settlers involved in litigation on the other hand. This followed a preliminary hearing held at the office of Richards and Haas, between Murray, Bradman and Turner, K. Hackman, attorney for Richard Clavin, whose suit was pending in the supreme court of the United States, and but for the court's intervention, would have been argued the coming week. Mr. Hackman also represented two settlers for whom he was arranging papers to take their cases into the supreme court of the United States and against whom decrees had been issued by the circuit court of appeals.

There is no alliance attached to the two parties, but it is agreed that the salmon suit would be dismissed in the supreme court of the United States. In the suits in which foreclosure decrees had been entered and properly sold, Peoples Bank, First National, First Republic, and First National, all but one of the settlers and their wives and children as a first step, in all instances the settlers are to receive notes and pay as follows: Interest at 7 per cent per annum, from January 1, 1925, until January 1, 1926, annually, one-fourth of the amount due and payable January 1, 1927, one-fourth January 1, 1928, and the other half January 1, 1929. The amount of interest on the unpaid balance is to be determined in the circuit court of appeals in what is known as the consolidated cases. This amount being less than decree which have been entered in other cases.

In addition to this Mr. Bradman has agreed to release the property to the settlers, and to assist them in presenting more water.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere gratitude to the many friends who stood by us, our recent bereavement.

Laurel Hack and "Doge" Beaman, two Filer young men are in custody today on a charge of mail-stealing in connection with the disappearance of Benjamin and Pauline Wright, whose absence caused quite a stir in a sheep camp just across the border from Idaho. Deputy U. S. Marshal and Marshal Ed Hodkin, of the Idaho State Police, were sent to Filer to apprehend the two young men, the officers to make a search below:

The boys said that Thursday evening they met the outlaws at the post office and asked them to go to a dance in the country, and the two went. They said that the two men had been in the country for a week. The Wrights, who are 60 years old, disappeared on Dec. 26, 1925.
