INCREASE IN BUSINESS IS HELD GREAT

The editors here, during the past season all agreed that the enormous growth of the national business in Twin Falls for the month of December, 1925, over similar months in 1924, is published in the Times Friday speaks more eloquently than any statistical generalities could of the productivity of the tract and of the advancement during the year.

The following statistics, bearing on the magnitude of the operations of the Oregon Short Line have also been furnished by H. C. Sullivan, agent of the company, showing the magnitude of the operations of the road, but not including exceptions under construction like the Roosevelt-Wells line:

Pay roll in Twin Falls, Idaho, in 1924—$67,128.00; pay roll for 1925—$102,342.50; tons in Twin Falls county in 1924—458,147.00; tons in 1925—615,412.00; total tons in improvements in Twin Falls in 1925. Estimated total tonnage haul in Twin Falls for yardage in 1925—six miles.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
N.E.A. Service, Writer

WASHINGTON—To a considerable extent—individuals as well as life on the national origin, religion, politics, certain purposes which all recognize as good. Generally, however, there are a few elements which refuse co-operation with some other felt upon any terms or any club, no matter how desirable.

It is a commonplace that a period of intolerance has prevailed in this country—perhaps throughout the world—in recent years. The League Book (Anti-Biographical Association) attributed it to a lack of mutual understanding among differing racial, national, religious, political and social groups. With a view to remedying this state of affairs, the association induced the then governor, F. C. McChesney, to proclaim a state of "Better Understanding Week."

A B. S. S. A. chairman, the former was in Washington to attend the recent Red Cross conference, and while here, by the way, set the record of being the first cabinet history to deliver the prayer which opens every session of the United States Senate.

"BETTER UNDERSTANDING WEEK" should include Rabbi Jack, "that the five stars must be represented on our part to reach better understanding" after having shown, first of all, that the "better understanding" is a "better understanding" all-around.

A B. S. S. A. first "Better Understanding Week" was in 1921. It had a second one, proclaimed by Gov. Tom Yarral, last May. The "week" is a regular annual institution now, Rabbi Jack believes. "Better Understanding" activities aren't confined to his official "week," but go on all the time. "They're doing a great deal," said the rabbi, "toward eliminating feelings of religious intolerance, superstition, prejudice, and persecution, since the war."

Twentieth Century Club—Monday afternoon the music department of the Twentieth Century club met at the home of Mrs. D. L. Alexander on Sixth avenue north. A splendid program under the supervision of Mrs. I. H. Masters, concerning the opera, "Rigoletto," by Verdi, was especially enjoyed. Several excellent vocal selections, Mrs. Sturgeon McCoy told of some of the singers who had been seen in the opera, and she also told of some of the singers who had been seen in the opera, and she also told of some of the singers who had been seen in the opera.

AT THE THEATRES

THE PLAYS MOTHER AND GHIBST AT OPERA
Gladys Lincoln, one of the "all-time" stars of the Grand Opera, has had a life of paradoxes. She started her career at the age of three—phoned the part of a boy—then she quit the stage—married at age seven, when she entered stock. A year later she was in musical comedy, but had hardly started when she was in Salt Lake City playing Willard Clark in stock. She broke into the movies with "Lone" in a screen vamp.

D. A. R. Luncheon—The ladies of the D. A. R. were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Betty Hunter on Seventh avenue and Monday. The hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Winthill Hill, Mrs. Kautz, Mrs. Hortia Leland, Mrs. McCullay and Mrs. Leland, served a delicious luncheon, catered as in an o'clock. The table for the afternoon's discussion was set by the ladies of the National. The hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Winthill Hill, Mrs. Kautz, Mrs. Hortia Leland, Mrs. McCullay and Mrs. Leland, served a delicious luncheon, catered as in an o'clock. The table for the afternoon's discussion was set by the ladies of the National.

The table for the afternoon's discussion was set by the ladies of the National.

Flower—Yan Horner wedding—Mr. W. A. Flower, a well known lumberman of this city, and Mrs. Grein Van Horner, wife of Twin Falls, were married in Harley Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Flower will be at home to their many friends after the eighteenth.

Luncheon at the Club—Contributors to Mrs. Nating Betty, Mrs. Jack Booth entertained with a charming luncheon at the Park hotel on Saturday. Covers were laid for six and Monday's appointed table. Mrs. M. H. Hattie entertained with a bridge tea for Mrs. Betty later in the afternoon. Her next table was awarded to Mrs. M. H. Hattie. Mrs. Betty was presented with a dainty given prize. Mrs. Lawrence Hodge and Mrs. Harry Hodge assisted Mrs. Hattie, the hostess.

Luncheon Club—Members of the Luncheon club were delightfully entertained by Mrs. M. J. Snowley at the Hotel Boulevard Friday afternoon. Covers were laid in the private dining room. A miniature Christmas tree formed the center piece for the luncheon table. Orange candlesticks, holding orange tapers were placed at either end of the table. Nut cases carried out the same color scheme. Mrs. Roy A. Read was jurist for high score in the bridge games that followed Mrs. Snowley presented the winners with a water color of her own painting.

When you entertain at home—and the sumptuous feast has been greeted with royal praise by the laughing, pledging friends—have a Camel!

WHEN invited guests come in for dinner. And the festive board resounds with joyous words of friendship. When the primest feast ever served is finished—then, how welcome are those words of hospitality—"Have a Camel!"

For no other cigarette was ever so fully smoked and served to others as Camel. Camel goodness insures a fitting climax to every perfect spread, adds of its own fragrant welcome to every home's bright occasions. Camels are made of the choicest tobacco grown in all the world. They never tire the taste, never leave a cigarette after-taste. Fragrance and mellowness have made Camel the greatest word in all the history of smoking.

So this night, as you learn anew the joys of giving happiness to others. As after-dinner laughter rings out through all the house—know then the pleasures of smoking and serving the finest. You may be doubly sure that every good feature is rolled into Camels that anyone ever searched for in a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

Into the making of this one cigarette goes all of the ability of the world's largest organization of expert tobacco men. Nothing is too good for Camels. The choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. The most skillful blending. The most scientific package. No other cigarette made is like Camels. No finer cigarette can be made. Camels are the overwhelming choice of experienced smokers.

Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made at any price.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON'S ANNIVERSARY

Today marks the 169th anniversary of the birth of Alexander Hamilton, soldier and statesman, one of the most striking characters in American history. He rendered this nation, in the days of its inception and early struggles for a firm foundation, services which should never be forgotten. He was an ardent partisan and because of this ardor he answered with his life after a bitter struggle in which his arch enemy met defeat. He is remembered by most of our school children for placing the early colonies upon a sound financial footing when this nation was in its infancy.

Hamilton was born on the Island of Nevis, West Indies, January 11, 1757. His mother was of Huguenot descent; his father, James Hamilton, was a Scotch merchant who was unfortunate in business ventures, and having become a bankrupt, it was necessary for Alexander, at the age of 12 years, to earn his own living. He occupied a position as clerk in a counting house at Saint Croix. His "genius for affairs" so soon became apparent that in two years he was entrusted with full management of the business.

Ambition for something wider than a commercial career stirred him, and he began to write for the press in his city. A vivid description of a West India hurricane which he had witnessed attracted so much attention that the boy's friends provided the necessary funds for him to come to America to complete his education. This was the beginning of his rise. In 1774 he entered King's college (now Columbia university) and made a brilliant record as a student. The friction between England and the American colonies was hotly growing greater, and being convinced that the colonists were right, Hamilton began the advocacy of their cause, delivering his first speech at a public meeting in New York, July 6, 1774. He followed with the publication of patriotic pamphlets of such ability and strength that they were thought to be the work of well known leaders, and when their authorship became known it gave Hamilton a national reputation. This was turned his attention to preparation for military service in the Revolution. He secured a commission as captain of the First Continental artillery company and through his natural aptitude for organization and command made it a model of discipline and efficiency. He advanced to the position of lieutenant colonel and aide-de-camp on the staff of Washington.

The activity of Hamilton's mind is seen in the fact that while still in active military service he found time to study with care the great questions of government and finance. Before the framing, adoption and ratification of our Constitution affairs in the colonies, under the Articles of Confederation, were in a decidedly unsettled, not to say chaotic condition. By his essays in "The Federalist," assisted by Madison and Jay, he successfully fought the great battle for the Constitution, winning a hostile majority to his support. Of these essays William Curtis declared: "They gave birth to American constitutional law, which was thus placed above arbitrary construction and brought into the domain of legal truth."

When Washington was inaugurated president in 1789, and congress passed an act establishing a treasury department, he was at once made Hamilton secretary, a position in which his creative, constructive mind did invaluable service to the new nation. He resigned from the cabinet in 1795, declined the position of chief justice of the United States supreme court, and returned to his practice of law in New York City, where he was at once the acknowledged leader of the bar, but he continued to take an active interest in public affairs.

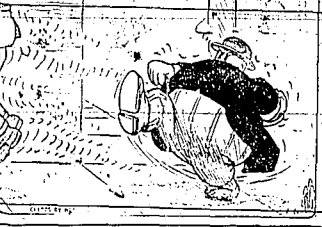

Hamilton had supported John Adams for the presidency, but Adams was jealous of Hamilton's power and influence over members of the cabinet and made open war upon him, expelling his friends from office and assailing him personally. Adams was re-nominated in 1800 for the presidency, but he was beaten by Jefferson and the Federalist party never won another election.

Owing to a defective clause in the Constitution, the election was thrust into the house of representatives, Jefferson and Burr having received an equal number of votes. Hamilton exerted his great influence with the Federalists and Jefferson was elected. In 1801 the Federalists nominated Burr for governor of the state of New York. The contest was a bitter one, and again Hamilton was instrumental in bringing about Burr's defeat, and the latter challenged him to a duel on the ground of an alleged insult. Under the idea that the continuance of his personal influence, and the peculiar condition in which the affairs of the country were at the time demanded his acceptance of the challenge, Hamilton consented to meet Burr. The duel was fought at Weehawken, N. J., July 11, 1801. Hamilton was wounded and died the following day, universally mourned by his countrymen.

Ducks Delay Train

In the "delighting" beautiful flock and white ducks flying across the North sea from Holland to lay their eggs in the rabbit burrows of the coast town of Sandringham. Later when the eggs are hatched and the young birds are a few weeks old, they show first to make across the marsh to the Wash. The little ones are still being seen in the marshes across the railway line which runs between the coast town of Sandringham and the royal estate of Sandringham. The royal estate and the sea, they hold on the local trains that reach between Sandringham and Welford, for the drivers pay great respect to these spring visitors.

LIVESTOCK TOPICS UP IN MEETING

Dozen Farmers Gather in High School Today to Outline Program for the Rest of Week. Feeding Problems Coming Up. Meeting Times in the Evening; Other Times in Day.

A dozen farmers met here today to discuss with L. K. Sams, of Emmet and Professor John S. Fiddis, the course of studies in livestock on the farm that would be taken up during the week which Mr. Sams will spend in Twin Falls. The meeting was interesting, although a number who expected to attend were unable to get in for the first meeting.

The following general subjects were agreed on: Cost of raising calves, drying herd management, feed and feeding problems, common herd and breeding management.

Next meeting—Tuesday Night. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at 7:30 as it is deemed inadvisable to try to complete with one night meeting on all subjects in the day time.

The subjects for tomorrow evening consideration will be cost of raising based on local prices, relative value of feeds and balance and economical rations.

Meetings after tomorrow evening will be in the day time. All interested are invited to these gatherings in the agricultural department of the high school.
