MARKETING IS WOOL GROWERS BIG, PROBLEM

Method of Financing Wool Crop and Report on Wool Marketing Heard Today in Idaho Falls; Legislation and Predatory Animal Committees Report.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

IDAHO FALLS, Jan. 15.—The morning session of the Idaho Wool Growers' association, which opened its marketing problems, P. S. Gandy, led off with a discussion on Wool Marketing. J. M. Clegg, executive director of the cooperative marketing association of the Western Wool Crop. J. F. Stark talked on "Credit," and W. R. Harter discussed "Care of Protecting Wool and Mutton." "Planning the Sheepmen" was discussed by W. C. Gandy. The Idaho Livestock Farmers Corporation, with headquarters at Blackfoot.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Jan. 15.—The sheep industry, which has been considered at the second day's session of the thirty-third annual convention of the Idaho Woolgrowers' association, the greatest single problem of the day, was again raised yesterday in the addresses of T. Clyde Bacon, president of the state organization, and Frank J. Higginbotham, president of Salt Lakes, president of the National Wool Growers' association, who attacked the recent statement of Colonel George, chief government forester, concerning his criticism of the livestock men on the grazing question.

Tom L. Miller, president of the Idaho Cattle and Sheep Growers' association, bitterly attacked the views of the forestry chief and offered the judgment of his organization, which was unanimous in its support. It was pointed out last night that through Mr. Higginbotham's support of the views of Mr. Bacon, the way is now open for the right to be carried over in the convention of the National West "sheepmen" association at Boise next week. The delegates had hoped to see this through on first assumption. It was pointed out the national chief would work for it.

Lamb Marketing Considered.

The afternoon session will be taken up with the lamb-marketing problem, reports and election.

Poultry Trust Is Investigated by U. S. Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Justice department now is conducting an inquiry into the "poultry trust," special assistant Attorney General Lott, revealed in testimony before the Walsh committee, intended to the examination of Monday.

The investigation of Monday into the poultry trust, I don't know if those follow, we are after them yet or not?

River Points.

JACKPORT, Mich., Jan. 15.—The Great Lakes Harbors association in convention here to protest diversion of lake water of the Chippewa drainage basin, took unanimous action against legislation which shall protect the Great Lakes as a navigable highway.

The resolution was adopted yesterday to prevent the opening of the basin to the lumber community by a former member of war by granting a water diversion permit to the city of Chicago, which has proven a great public injury.

The resolution was also voted against any diversion or abstraction of water to lower the levels of the

PATRIOTISM TO BE FEATURED IN IDAHO SCHOOLS

BONNE, Idaho, Jan. 15.—County and city school superintendents throughout Idaho have been asked by the state board of education to make February 19, the birthday of the nation, the day when the nation's sons and daughters are asked during next month to impress upon the students lessons of love of country and humanity, especially by their teachers.

John E. Clegg, president of the Western Woolgrowers' association, told the assembly of educators and schoolmen that the day should be set aside for the education of the youth of the state.

He stated with a firm stride, the schools should firmly forward the roll down to the ground. There was no further statement by the speaker, but he did not leave the room in the presence of newspaper men.

The only sign of emotion was shown by Seybold's risible and falling laugh over the physician's pronouncement.

He died in two minutes and twenty seconds.

Yesterdays' obituary reported the physician's diagnosis of death from an embolism in the heart.

He had been ill for three days.

BORAH'S FORTY YEAR AGO PLEA

Senator Borah yesterday assailed the administration on the ground that in attempting to identify the country with the world court, it was departing from a 40 year old principle on which republicans had won. The reference to 40 years ago is unfortunate from a republican viewpoint, since at that time, January, 1885, the country was getting ready to celebrate the first inauguration of Grover Cleveland.

However, if the senior senator would refresh his recollection he could recall another time, just a quarter of a century ago, when he, with other members of his party were celebrating a great victory won on the theory that we had already departed from our historic policy of isolation and had become a world power.

William E. Borah was leader of the free silver republican party in Idaho in 1896. He stumped Idaho for Bryan from the same platform on which James H. Grayson, the famous democrat, spoke. Four years later, Bryan was again a candidate, as the nominee of the same parties, including the free silver republican party, by whom he had been nominated in 1896. Bryan was running on the same platform as previously—with an additional plank, namely, that he was opposed to imperialism and to a departure from the policy of isolation. McKinley was running on a platform opposed to all the things for which Bryan stood, and on the additional theory that we had departed from ancient isolation and had become a world power. Borah deserted Bryan and supported McKinley, who had the support of every trust and monopoly in America.

Bryan said in that campaign that if the republicans should win, we would, indeed, have departed permanently from the ancient policy. When McKinley won, all agreed that the old plan of complete isolation, which had been attacked before the Civil war by Stephen A. Douglas, was at last at an end so far as Asia was concerned. Roosevelt ended it in Africa. What was left in Europe after The Hague conference was terminated by the entrance of America into the world war under President Wilson, who was elected on a platform demanding an association of nations.

It was because he recognized the fact that the entanglements growing out of this departure made a return to the old policy impossible that Bryan later espoused the cause of international agreements and associations and world courts to secure peace with the world.

In 1920, Senator Borah discovered that we had never departed from the policy of isolation, which everybody had agreed had been dead for 20 years. He is still trying to galvanize the remains into life. The republican party in 1885, forty years ago, was in mourning, adhering to its isolation policy. Twenty-five years ago, with the aid of Mr. Borah, it was celebrating a great victory won on the theory of expansion and world power responsibility. Coolidge evidently feels that he must win, if at all, by laying himself to a policy that brought victory, not one that spelled defeat.

Ever since 1912 the republican party has declared itself specifically in favor of adherence to a world court and in 1924 specifically to the present world court.

WOOLGROWERS ARE GOOD PEOPLE

A prominent banker of Idaho Falls remarked this morning: "There is no class of men who are so willing and ready as the sheep men to broadcast prosperity, and better economic conditions. They go all over the country, are in touch with the farmers and the stockmen, and they carry good news into every district."

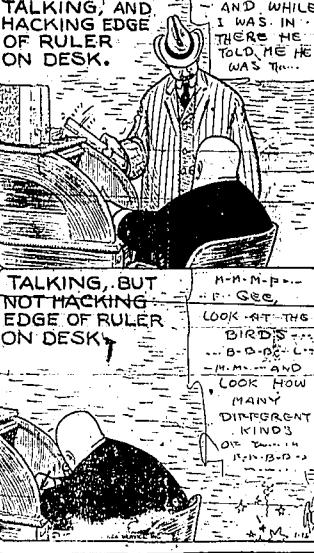

This is a sound statement. The stock men and the sheep men are never inclined to peddle disaster. They make their money on fair prices and good demands. If they went about telling doleful tales of trouble and hard luck, they would all be without business and the fraternity would soon be on its uppers.

That is the primary reason why the buyers are all agreeable fellows. They have to be. It wasn't necessary for them to take a course in looking pleasant before they could get a job—they were built that way. They found that if they didn't make their customers like them, they might as well quit business.

When the people who conduct the correspondence courses in personality, first started, they looked about for someone to use as a sample. They wanted a man whose methods and whose general appeal was such as would serve as a model for mankind to follow with pleasure and profit. And they found their typical glad-handing, good-fellow, and worthwhile representative of the finest citizens, among the sheep men of Idaho.

It would be unfair to name the gentleman whose pleasing appearance and ingratiating manners earned this distinction, but it is stated on good authority that he will be present at the convention of the Idaho Woolgrowers' association that opens its annual convention in Idaho Falls Thursday morning. —Idaho Falls Post.

Historic Mutiny

The "Dawn" sailed from England in 1787, bound for the Society Islands in the South Pacific. As the result of a mutiny Captain Bligh and nineteen of his crew reached the island of Timor, one of the Fiji Islands, in an open boat. After being at sea 40 days, the little boat reached Australia. Captain Bligh on his return to England informed an account of the mutiny and condemned to death three executed. Eight others, colonized Pitcairn's Island, and remained there until their arrival in 1800.

Two of the mutineers were captured mid-ocean; of these six were condemned to death and three executed. The crew of the "Dawn" were given a laurel wreath for their long and dangerous voyage.

KIMBERLY NEWS

Mr. R. G. Wilson returned Sunday from Omak, N. W., where he was called by the death of his father. The Wilsons were very ill for some time, and grave scenes were expressed as to her recovery. Her many friends hope for a favorable change for the better. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tate are the parents of a man who was killed in an auto accident, but had no serious consequences. No medicine helped her and doctors advised an operation. One day talking with a stranger he suggested MATTHEWS. This done, she quickly recovered. Now she is out and about again. It is a simple, harmless operation that removes the external mucus from the intestinal tract and relieves the inflammation which causes practically all stomach trouble.

One more dose will convince you of the value of this operation.

DAIRY MEET ON FEBRUARY 2 IS PLANNED

Committee in Session in the Courthouse Today to Receive Monthly Report and Lay Plans for Annual Gathering of Association.

The directors of the Twin Falls Dairymen's association met this evening at the courthouse, the committee reporting its work and to lay plans for the forthcoming annual gathering of stockholders on February 2.

The "meeting," which is to be held in the bylaws for the first time, will be held on the second Saturday in February this year, but President Gustavus Giese says that there will be no break on the society and that the organization will not go to sleep for six weeks under any circumstances. The dairymen's association is pleased with the success of the business during the year which is now drawing to a close.

The reports today showed an increase of 2,000 members in the membership business and over $5,000 in the northside business during the year. Over 5,000 pounds of butterfat from the singlehorns were delivered in December, a record amount. Five-year agreement under which organization has placed expires this year. In reuniting withdrawal at the end of three years is permitted.

BEAN GROWERS WILL EXPAND AT MEETING

Organization Will Distribute $75,000.
Eleven Three Directors and Lay the Foundation for Additional Membership Campaign at Meeting in Parish Hall January 23.

The following program will be carried out by the Southern Idaho Bean Growers' association which will meet January 23 and which will feature a meeting with bean growers throughout the state on an expansion plan.

Officers of a Bean Growers' B. L. Shaver, John C. Smith, Stevens of Bean Flote, John S. Phillips, agricultural instructor, Twin Falls High School; and G. N. Tucker, agricultural extension agent, Twin Falls County, Oregon, will speak.

Walter C. Johnson, agricultural agent, United States Department of Agriculture; State Certified Southern Bean Seed; Mr. E. Bresson, Twin Falls agricultural agent; C. H. Shantz, agricultural agent; Mr. F. M. Brown, agricultural engineer, will speak.

Five-year agreement under which organization has placed expires this year. In reuniting withdrawal at the end of three years is permitted.

STEWART IS AGAIN CHAIRMAN OF THE ASSESSOR COM.

Again in regard to long and less, it appears that the Twin Falls assessor will be retained in his office again on a substantially the same as last year. It was stated today by Aegean S. Claude Stewart, who returned last night from theather, that he had been elected chairman of the Board of Assessors at a cost of $47,000 and looks up from a life in a six cent lucs. Mr. Stewart was confirmed as chairman of the legislative committee, a position he has occupied ever since his first election.

DAIRY SCHOOL GOES TO BUHL

The afternoon classes will be held in Buhl for benefit of the Dairymen.

Buhl, Idaho, Jan. 15. A dairy school for all persons interested in great dairy work and butterfat will be held in Buhl beginning Monday, January 18, and continuing five days.

The school is conducted under the direction of the Stoll-Hughes Farm and which is directed by Mrs. Sammie, teacher of agriculture at Buhl, who will be instructor. The class will open promptly at 1:20 in the basement of the old high school building each of the five days. Classes will teach.

Harry Nelson, manager for Twin Falls County Dairy Cooperative association was in town Wednesday night attending the school. His 22-year-old son, Harry, a young lad, will be present from a neighboring farm for the farmer, whether he has one cow or ten.

The school is free to all interested.

President Praises Free Press in His Twin Falls Message

President Coolidge praised the value of a free press in a message received here, but which failed to reach the Idaho State Press association during its meeting. It was received last evening at the office of the newspaper.

The message, which was sent by the president of the organization, Congressman Addison T. Smith, was addressed to President Franklin D. Roosevelt and was delivered at the house where Roosevelt was staying in Washington and was not delivered to the newspaper during the meeting. In the telegram President Coolidge said:

"Representative Addison T. Smith has told me that the Idaho State Publishing Company has been instrumental in securing the adoption of legislation which will facilitate the construction of dams on the Snake River and its tributaries. Please accept my greetings and best wishes for yourself and your colleagues in the service of the public welfare."
