MAKING FARM RECORDS TALK

By D. H. OYIS
Agricultural Director,
American Bankers Association.

Any one who has driven an automobile in a new country knows the value of a good road map. Farm accounts, however, keep as reliable a map as the farmer is directing the business management of his farm.

In farming communities where records are kept, a considerable number is not uncommon to find differences of $1,000 per farm between the average and the poorer farms of the community.

Where to Get the Facts
Farm records and inventories will reveal the reasons for these differences. The various classes of agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture have a collection of forms which are available to farmers from which they find it possible to construct standards or guides showing actual statements under good systems of management.

How to Use the Facts
The farmer who keeps a careful record of the factors relating to the business management of his farm is in a position to compare his farm with the average and with the best in the volume of business, its number of acres, total receipts and total expenses. He can check on his livestock, including the number of cows, sale of cows, sale of livestock, livestock products and sales from miscellaneous sources. His quality of business can be studied by comparing such items as income per acre of bottom per cow, etc.

By such a process the farmer is in a position to make his records talk to him and point out the weak and the strong features in his farm operation. There is no tax that we pay today that compares with the tax we pay for our insurance. This is true on the farm as elsewhere. Farm records including inventories from which it is easy to form financial statements, will be winners in reducing the cost of insurance and thereby farm business on a business basis and insuring confidence in the farmer, himself and with all those with whom he deals.

Minnesota bankers played a cooperative part in boosting the attendance at the Northwest Dairy Exposition held in Minneapolis at the State Fair in September. Five hundred members of the Minnesota Bankers Association received letters from the chairman of the exposition committee, asking them to assist in forming delegations from their respective communities to attend the show.

The Atlanta, Ga., Clearing House gives the bull weevil no rest. In an effort to effect a concerted and state-wide "poison war" on the boll weevil, this institution sent letters recently to all the bankers in the state asking that they assist in emphasizing the need for a wholesale war on the pest. According to a recent survey published in the Bulletin on the larger farms, but not to any appreciable extent on the small farms. According to reports by the Department of Agriculture, the boll weevil infestation is heavier this year than ever before, and if allowed to go unchecked the crop will be destroyed. Immediate and extensive action is urged.

Over two hundred bankers in Iowa recently made an arrangement to attend the Iowa State University for a two-day period and study farming and farm problems. The bankers will all be students under the professors in the agricultural department, and will sit right down to the bottom of the many subjects which are of mutual concern to themselves and the farmers. This action on the part of the bankers of Iowa shows a real spirit of interest and a determined intention to understand.

Clark County (S. D.) Bankers have appointed an agricultural committee of five to aid the county agent in his work, with special emphasis on a few acres, corn, cotton, eradication of tuberculosis in the quality.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
NRA Service Writer
WASHINGTON—Jan. 19.—A hard day on presidents of the United States. Also an "extra" ladies in the land.
The New Year's reception at the White House is the largest reception of its kind in the entire year. Literally thousands of people invariably are on hand to "pay their respects" as they may be called, really, most of them, to go home and brag about having exchanged champagne with the country's chief magistrate and his wife.
Now it's to be expected in one spot from 11 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon, shaking hands after courteous hand, trying to smile and trying to get out a little warmth into the same two or three words of greeting, repeated over and over again for half a dozen hours on end.
It's a very considerable physical feat and mentally it must be really tireless.
President Coolidge gets through it like a routine task, which is what it is. His wife makes a wonderful bluff at being so. It's impossible to believe that she actually does.
STOPIED, along Pennsylvania Avenue past the White House of a New Year's Day and you'll see what it's like.
All of ten or a dozen city blocks of eaters for one pair of human legs to shake by their hands and thank, accordingly, for best wishes for happy and prosperous New Year!

To Make Wax on Aunts

As an effective poisonous bait for ants, a solution of a slice of bread with a syrup made by dissolving an ounce of sugar and ten grains of arsenic of soda in two ounces of hot water.
Sand may also carry the poison. Liquid lard, the most reliable, is especially effective in the destruction of the entire colony.
The employment of this effective bait, if used with care, may replace the application of the many insecticidal preparations, which, principally on account of the odor, they impart cannot be conveniently employed.

Various Leathers

The most important kinds of leather are chrome, vegetable, and patent. Chrome leather is tanned by the use of chromium salts. Tests made by the government during the World War proved it to be the most durable for shoes. Cowhide or Spanish leather is a soft, fine-grained product that takes a high polish. It derives its name from Cordova, Spain, where it was originally manufactured. At one time it was made from goatskins only, but now it is made from pigskins and horsehides as well. Patent leather was first manufactured at Newark, Del., in 1819 by Seth Boyden, inventor, Pathfinder Magazine.

Restaurant Man Didn't Eat His Own Food

"It's pretty tough for a restaurateur to have stomach trouble, but customers were always telling me I ought to eat in a good restaurant. California is beginning to look forward toward Southern Idaho as the breadbasket of that state and this new railroad connecting these two points in a much closer sense than these two states have ever been connected before will mean much greater commercial activities between the two states. Then too this new road is going to be a great boon in allowing the intermountain region access to the markets of the Far East via way of the coast cities. Before long a special train is to be run from the Golden State to Idaho and in turn another train run from here to that section and greetings thus will be exchanged and a more friendly feeling will be brought about.

The new highway for tourists from Yosemite, California to Yellowstone Park passes through Twin Falls and should be the means of bringing thousands of tourists through this section of the state. This new Park to Park road will be perfected as time goes on and will eventually become one of the most widely traveled roads in the west. Yosemite National park is open the year around but even California people want to get out and see other sights. Many of these will drive over the new road to Yellowstone and to the cool mountain breezes during the summer months when it is hot and stuffy in the Yosemite valley. Idaho should make the most of this new highway in advertising and publicity and seek to acquaint the tourists everywhere with our remarkable scenery and resources. If California had one-half the scenery that the God State has she would blaze a trail across the sky in blue and gold letters.

A very vital subject for Idaho is marketing of her products. This subject is to be discussed by one of the speakers on the Seed Train which passes through here next month. If this subject is dealt with properly it will be a big help to this section, but we are afraid with the limited time that the speaker on this Seed-Train will be given he will not be able to treat it in a comprehensive fashion. Whenever an annual convention gathers of any kind this time worn question bobs up and is the subject of considerable discussion by speakers and laymen alike.

OPPOSITION TO WORLD COURT

Two sorts of opposition were voiced in the senate debate on the world court on the same day, January 15, one by an alleged republican and the other by an alleged democrat. The latter, Colo. Bleese of South Carolina, is a brutal windjammer, who appeals only to the ignorant.

Because he does not believe that any sort of judicial tribunal will operate to secure world's peace, Senator J. W. Brookhart, of Iowa, expressed doubt at the wisdom of entering, and offered, with apparent good faith, a rather nebulous idea of co-operation. His opposition is only a part of the general opposition which he has to the entire competitive system. In name he is a republican, though elected in opposition to the desires of President Coolidge. His real place is with the socialist party. He says, "Competitive economies has failed. The statesmanship of the world founded upon the competitive economies has failed. . . . The technical law court is the most potent governmental force in the competitive economic system. The proposed world court is of the same model, procedure and purpose. It will fail as all competitive systems have failed."

While political economists would answer that the economic failures have been due to suppression of fair competition through privilege, and not to competition, one can understand why a man who takes a view that Brookhart does, should oppose any world court. Unlike Bleese he does not charge Woodrow Wilson with sacrificing the youth of the nation to gratify selfish ambition, and to keep Morgan and his crowd from losing their American money. On the contrary, Brookhart pays the following high tribute to the great war president:

Up to date the World War is the biggest net economic result of our civilization; therefore the balance sheet is still in the red. It will take more than a generation to pay the debt of this stupendous folly and start again in an even race. It was the driving force of these dismal facts that raised Woodrow Wilson to a higher plane of modern statesmanship. His guiding hand restrained the spirit of war and sought to make it a war to end war—to make the world safe for democracy. His great ideal reached complete expression in his address to congress on January 8, 1918—the famous 14 points of peace. It is a landmark in the history of the world, because upon this foundation principles must be built every future political structure for the peace of the world. The fact that part of these peace points failed in the peace treaty and that the treaty failed of ratification does not detract from the greatness or lower the grandeur of Woodrow Wilson's conception. . . . I am opposed to war. I propose to end it upon a cooperative principle consistent with the teachings of the Sermon on the Mount and the 14 points of world peace."

One Million Dollars!
But What—Why—How?

Who would give her, Joanna, a million dollars? She was pretty—men told her that!—She was attractive—her rouge box, eyebrow pencil, short skirts and peppery tongue assisted to that end. But what was the big idea behind the gift? She wasn't a gold digger, hadn't tried to vamp any rich men—and didn't even know a millionaire by sight! Why had this unknown man coolly passed her a million dollars without any apparent "ifs" or "ands"?

There must be an answer to every question—There are answers to these—as Joanna will soon learn. What she learned—her romantic and tragic experiences—her loves and heartaches, and finally the big test, make the greatest story of the modern flapper ever penned.

SMALL TOWN HAS GREATER TRAFFIC CONFUSION TODAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce reports that America's largest cities are handling the traffic problem with ease while traffic congestion is resulting in continuing accidents on the streets of the smaller cities.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce is urging city bodies in smaller cities to conduct an intensive safety campaign to reduce the traffic difficulties and to prepare the citizens for the time when a larger number of automobiles will be in use.

Easy to Discover the Moral in This Story

It was indeed a lucky day when Harry Raymond left Los Angeles en route for San Francisco. The car was crowded with passengers and there were not enough stations to go round. Harry and an old gentleman who had no place of sleep, and taking pity on his age, offered to share his slumber with him.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON HOW TO LEAVE AN ESTATE

"Do you know, Anny," said Helen, who accepted the title from Aunt Emmy, "I feel terribly sorry for Mrs. Strong."

"Yes," agreed Aunt Emmy, "it will be hard for her. She is such a dependent, helpless, little thing."

"I don't know that," interrupted Helen. "Her father was not so because, as she says, her husband publicly insulted her by not making her executrix and trustee of his estate."

"Good gracious, child, did she say that?" exclaimed Aunt Emmy, setting her cup down with a clatter. "There were plenty of it. The Strong are the richest people in town, I guess."

"Well, for mercy's sake!" cried Aunt Emmy, disgust in every syllable. "If I don't beat all, you are as big a snob as she is!"

"What do you mean, Aunt Emmy?" asked Helen with dignity. "I think it nothing short of disgraceful for a man to show that he has no confidence in his wife by putting his money in strangers' hands to be doled out to her as they see fit."

"You never thought that," said Aunt Emmy, "that Mrs. Strong. She always talks as though she was reading in a story book, poor, silly, little thing."

Helen blushed and Aunt Emmy went on: "Do you know what it means to administer an estate, especially a big one like Mr. Strong's?"

"Why, no," stammered Helen, "but it must be simple."

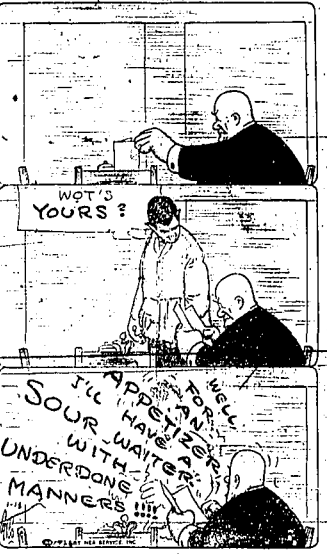

Aunt Emmy smiled. "Simple? Let me tell you a little about it. When a man dies the things he owns cease for a time to be anybody's property and become his estate. The property passes from his control to his death, and then, as he is dead, it is controlled and supervised by the Court which will be in charge of the estate for many months probably. First, this Court must pick out an executor and there it will stay if the will says so. Then it must find out about the executor. If he will be properly drafted and valid, it will be admitted to probate. The person who witnessed it must be found and examined."

"The executor must satisfy the Court as to fitness and willingness to perform the many duties which are involved. Perhaps he will have to furnish a bond, to assure the Court of his financial responsibility. He must assemble all the so-called assets, have them valued and get an inventory and appraisal of them with the Court. All the debts against the estate must be collected. The settlement of all claims against debts and expenses is a job no one without a thorough knowledge of business can undertake."

"In an estate like Mr. Strong's there is sure to be a certain amount of financial speculation, and, besides, the executor must pay claims against the estate in the order of precedence laid down by law. Also you know state and federal estate taxes may be due promptly. Finally, after the estate is settled as to debts and claims against it, the executor must see that the various bequests are made."

"Well, Anny, don't tell me any more. I never thought that there were so many complicated things to be done. Poor Mrs. Strong never knew a thing about business."

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

PROMINENT FILER CITIZEN VICTIM OF HEART DISEASE

Everett True, well known resident of Twin Falls, passed away suddenly at his residence after brief illness.

Everett True, aged 66, a resident of Twin Falls during the past ten years and prominent in political and civic affairs was stricken by the fatal ailment after an illness of only two hours.

Mr. True was born in 1868 in Iowa and his health and the fact developed that a new radio station, Twin Falls, N. T. F. L. was inaugurated by the first program, proving itself to be in line with the professional plan in initial effort.

Under names of proprietor or printer credit, announced by Mr. J. D. Hinkle, Mrs. L. C. Stagner and Mrs. J. H. Rappley said delightfully two souls each. Medonas, McCoy and Hinkle of other Ladies' Auxiliary, the evening, Mrs. C. L. Potter read eloquently two minutes. Mrs. Orr (Chapman) in sincere and sympathetic words welcomed the guests of the evening, reminding them it was "gentlemen's night" and as such to be observed sympathetically with them.

The important annual meeting of the directors of the Fern Quiksilver company, which has about 200 stockholders in Twin Falls county, will be held tomorrow, and the directors, headed by Justice E. A. Warren, will be in attendance. Those on the directors from this county include John Walters, W. A. Flower, D. W. 200, Warren, George Carpio, T. Durkin, Vern Moran, C. W. Grimes and William Shultz from this city, and Elmer Clark of Ellet.

Ethyl Gasoline Should Be Put on Market Now

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—There is no valid reason why the sale and use of ethyl (anti-knock) gasoline should be prohibited, the committee of experts appointed last May by Senators General Committee of the United States public health service, reported today after three months' study.

The committee said that its report, which it said would be controlled by proper regulation, however the committee said, and that there is no valid reason why the sale and use of ethyl (anti-knock) gasoline should be prohibited.

Under names of proprietor or printer credit, announced by Mr. J. D. Hinkle, Mrs. L. C. Stagner and Mrs. J. H. Rappley said delightfully two souls each. About Retailers—the Growing Mass and the Dwindling Class

Goods which are well advertised nationally by the manufacturer are largely sold to the public before they ever reach the retailer.

Goods which are not advertised by the producer must be sold by the retailer.

In the one case, the manufacturer has done a great part of the job; in the other he has left it all for the dealer to do.

For many articles, national advertising creates an actual demand, so that all the dealer needs to do is to say, "You can buy it here." In other lines, the advertising identifies the product in the possible buyer's mind, arouses his interest in it and establishes his confidence in the maker, upon which the dealer can cash in by his own selling efforts.

But with unadvertised goods, the retailer must start from scratch.

Retailers who favor nationally advertised lines believe in selling what the public wants. They are a growing mass.

Retailers who favor unadvertised lines believe in selling what they want the public to buy. They are a dwindling class.

Hawaii Not Entitled

The article, so long associated with the word "plutocracy" in Hawaii, is not an Hawaiian invention, but was introduced in the islands by the For-

EXCURSION TO
WELLS FEB. 15
IS PLANNED

Railroad Committee Drafts Tentative Suggested for Observation of Opening of the Line South.

Plan for an excursion to Wells on February 15, the opening of the new excursion has been tentatively worked out by Senator M. J. Steyer, chairman of the railroad committee. The plan of the railroad committee is to have a number of special trains on the line on the day of the opening, the more the better, so that Wells on the first train, and there, have left and return next day. When the event might be celebrated at the end of the line by a banquet on which Senator Steyer has written to General Manager H. V. Platt asking for rates, in the event that such a banquet is formally decided on.

This has nothing to do with the possible low rate of the Union Pacific system to be proposed, about which so many speculations and unfounded reports have been circulated in the streets. It is understood that such low rate to the Oregon coast over the regular rate is to be contemplated but has not been announced.

Gray to Visit.

The railroad committee is hopeful about the extension of the route from Hild, Senator Steyer, stating, and is cooperating with Hild and of the situation. The situation is being handled in the best possible manner. The situation is being handled in the best possible manner.
