CRITICISING THE SCHOOLS

The public school system has come in for much criticism lately. Many people think we are traveling far from our moorings and we have to find a way to get back. Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire.

This vital theme recently drew from three men of national prominence criticisms which differed in matter and form only but not in substance. All three find only one thing and the same thing seriously wrong with the public schools. These critics are President James R. Angell of Yale; Dr. John H. Minnick, dean of the school of education of the University of Pennsylvania, and Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago lawyer.

In their combined opinion the public schools, as well as the colleges, by their "lockstep" system are suppressing genius in the individual student, returning the abnormally bright or precocious and striving to model all after the same specifications.

Advocates of a return to the "three R's" are not necessarily in favor of this single stamp system, although that is a common fallacy of their creed. They are obviously right in their position that a reading, writing and arithmetic should be included in every curriculum, but when they contend that they are the all important subjects for all pupils they are grossly in error.

Educators are awakening to the fact that neither the schools nor the dull student have the right to obstruct and retard those of exceptional ability and that the curriculum should be fitted to the individual student, not the student to the curriculum.—Exchange.

FARM LEGISLATION SITUATION

A strange scene is being enacted in Washington with reference to farm legislation. The president is on record over and over again as being unalterably opposed to any legislation that would violate the sound principles of economics. The government's buying and selling of commodities and efforts at price fixing were designated as violative of such principles. Administration congressmen have taken the same position. The president has also declared that Secretary Jardine represented his views and that such legislation as should receive support must be validated by the secretary of agriculture. Bills have been pending in the agriculture committees since last December having to do with buying, selling and price fixing, but they got nowhere because they were regarded as violative of sound economics.

Meantime congress is approaching a close and the campaign is at hand. Thereupon the senate agriculture committee last week attached itself bodily to the Dickinson bill and annexed it to the cooperative marketing bill as a rider. The Dickinson bill, briefly, creates a governmental farm commission which is to buy and sell farm products and any resulting loss is to be met by a fee assessed against the original sellers of those products. Later in the week Secretary Jardine's farm bill was presented to the house agriculture committee and this bill creates a governmental farm commission which should control—presumably buy and sell—surplus farm products and should operate, not on funds derived from an assessment on these products but by appropriation and credit advanced by the government itself.

The president has reserved his opinion on the Jardine bill, although he had previously announced support for the secretary's measure, whereupon the house committee has proceeded to reject all bills and out of their various provisions construct one of its own. The bill of its own construction creates a government farm commission for the control of crop surpluses and provides a government appropriation of $250,000,000 for the purpose.

Each of these bills has been reported only in the most sketchy fashion, making it impractical to compare them or to examine them with reference to controverted points. But the outstanding fact of it is in the complete reversal of position now being manifested concerning the basic principle of these bills. The McNary-Hagen measure is the fountain head of them all. The principle enunciated there is the principle underlying each of its successors. But the McNary-Hagen bill was denounced from the first as unsound, impractical and destructive. Yet it was no more so than are the bills which are now being reported. The difference is in the favor of the earlier bills which the administration denounced, because they placed the responsibility on the farm industry itself, whereas responsibility is now placed on government agencies and on the national treasury.

At first, blush the explanation would naturally be found in a change of opinion, which is not only legitimate but desirable to see. But this explanation probably won't hold water. What is much more likely is that the Washington politicians are simply playing with the farmers. They are extremely anxious to make a good impression on the agricultural states, and this they expect to do by showing great interest and activity in legislation along the lines which the farmers want, but which they have no intention of enacting into law. The house and senate are backing different bills—in fact, the house committee bill has not yet been completed—and the position is highly favorable for a parliamentary man that will prevent the enactment of any effective bill. But the administration will have done its best, with the promise of being re-elected next season. It can get into the campaign on the record of doing nothing and still prevent the enactment of any effective bill. An ordinary change as in what constitutes sound economics since the republican party was the new government called for there will be over the country which the country was only received by Groves (Tex.) and Jackson (Tenn.)

HIGH SCHOOL

The members of Miss Elmer's freshman English class staged the play "All Hail" or "The Forty Thieves," Thursday afternoon during the class period. The cast included: All Hail, Mildred Tate; Anna, his wife, Irma Rice; Marcelina, his slave, Helen Sweninger; Cassin, his brother, Charlotte Robinson; Mrs. Cassin, his wife, Ruth Shaw; Onda Hassan, a robber's apathic, Charlotte Robinson; Alton Pladenite, his slave, Irma Rice.

The Girl Reserve club held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon. A delegate for Payette Ladies' camp was not definitely elected as the girls who were suggested were not sure whether or not they would give their entire time to the general service department gave a very interesting talk on "Star Board."

The Blue Triangle delegates for Payette Ladies met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Harbison in city hall having a social feast on the Saturday before Decoration day.

Burden of Debt Not Always a Handicap

If you were going to employ a sales man and had your choice of a man monthly in debt or one equally capable but not in debt, which would you prefer?

A great corporation recently made a statistical survey of company sales. Out of several hundred salesmen and discovered the surprising fact that men heavily in debt seem to account for more sales than those without financial worries. The explanation is believed to be only partly that, when a man has a large amount of money, he works hard to get his debt reduced.

Still more important is the fact that a man heavily in debt is probably a smart fellow or he wouldn't have succeeded in inducing a bank or other institution to lend him so much money. This same investigation showed that, while heavy indebtedness may indicate more than average ability, owing a sizable amount of money to some extent, it indicates just the opposite. In other words, any man who can induce you to lend him $5,000 must be downright clever, but beware of the fellow who habitually owes somebody a few $20 or $40.—From the National Business.

German Work Men's Days
The largest sum of money ever paid in Germany was for a workman's day. It was nearly 150 dollars in 1876. It was nearly 175 dollars in 1925. The average in 1925 was 125 dollars.

Spots on the Sun

If a spot of the sun is as large as 27,000 miles in diameter it can be seen without a telescope as a very ordinary black speck. Occasionally spots are even larger than this, and solar flares are also not unknown. The largest sun spot on record was observed in 1859; it was nearly 150,000 miles in diameter and covered 1/100 of the sun's surface.

PHOTOS FLIT TO ENGLAND AND RETURN

Co-operation of Commercial Enterprises Permits of Telegraphing of News Across the Atlantic Ocean

NEW YORK, May 1.—Wireless photographs across the Atlantic was begun on a commercial basis last night and several pictures of news events were transmitted from London to local newspapers and photo services.

The Aulin corporation of America and the Marconi Wireless company of England inaugurated the service. Electrical storms did other mechanical troubles delayed the transmission but the pictures as received here are creditable illustrations.

Under perfect conditions three photographs an hour can be sent. Last night the average was but one picture an hour.

The new step in the development of radio will be available to the public. This far the cost is high, something like $20 for transmission of an ordinary photograph three inches by five, but this rate probably will be reduced. Already advertisers have taken advantage of the present. Advertisements of tobacco, a hat and a gown have been sent for publication in American newspapers.

FILER NEWS

The Filer Women's club met at the home of Mrs. F. C. Graves Wednesday for election of officers.

Reports were given by chairman of the Girl Reserves, Loan Scholarship, Library committee and committee on changing the constitution.

A meeting was called by the president, Mrs. Harry Himminger, for the chairman of the different committees to be held at her home Monday.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, Mrs. H. E. Himminger;

New Pontiac Makes Record Run from Los Angeles to N. M.

The new Pontiac Six made its first run for speed records on the Pacific coast in April, when it smashed two recently established speed and endurance records from Los Angeles to Albuquerque, N. M., and return, traversing rough country roads in what is considered one of the most trying runs on the coast.

This is the first really important record the Pontiac Six has attempted to break and the fact that it was successful is evidence of its sound design and the thorough testing to which the car was subjected during folding tests these three years of development by General Motors.

The advanced little car, carrying two drivers and an observer, rolled off the 918 miles from Los Angeles to Albuquerque in a total elapsed time of 22 hours, 20 minutes, for an average of 29.02 miles an hour. An hour and 49 minutes were taken out enroute, the actual running time was only 21 hours, 41 minutes, or an average of 42.97 miles an hour.

NEW PAIGE CABRIOLET IS DISTINCTIVE MODEL

A cabriolet so distinctive that it at once takes its place among the outstanding cars of the year is the latest product of the Paige, announced today. The exterior, color, and finish combine to form a car of striking appearance.

This is the first open car produced on the new Paige chassis, all previous models of the line, first presented in February, being sedans. The cabriolet is, however, a convertible model.

With the top up, it is as completely enclosed as a coupe. The doors have the reputation class of closed car models, and are snugly fitted to the one-piece windshield and to the whole car. When the top is lowered, the glass disappears, and the upper frame of the door folds down flush across the top of the door.

6% Farm Loans

Reduce your expenses and add to the value of your land by paying off your 7 or 8 per cent loan with 6 per cent funds of the Pacific Coast Joint Stock Land Bank.

This is an amortized loan which will pay out both principal and interest in 20 years and which may be paid sooner, at option of borrower, with full benefit of reduction of interest in proportion to reduction in principal.

You buy no stock, you are not guarantor for some one else's loan and you pay no continuing fee. The expenses of procuring this loan average about 1 per cent. This means what it says: It does not mean 1 per cent per year.

$86.00 per year is the total payment on each $1000.00 of your loan. This applies first on interest at 6 per cent and the remainder is credited to principal, stopping interest on a part of the principal as each payment is made.

INVESTIGATION STARTS ON HOG SELLING PLAN

Reports of Alleged Dubious Operations of Hog Sales in Iowa Leads to Probing by Local and State Officials.

That an evasive claim long ago plan is being attempted here was the report which was received by state and county officials here and is being investigated whether it is reliable or whether it is an honest such as that which was reported to be ascertainable in Iowa in 1921. The report is to the effect that a man named Adria Kelly of Des Moines, S. D., of the Central United States Stock company had a large purchased hog operation in that region was here selling purchased Chester White hogs under contract. It is said that Mr. Kelly offered a new for any $85 per month monthly payments, with an agreement to buy back the litter of pigs in the fall at a stipulated price. The contract was for the securing of payments. The delivery of the sows is not called in question, and the authorities questioning the breed of the sows, but they have had suspicions aroused by receipt of what are reported to be clippings from the Chicago Tribune and Wallace's Farmer of Des Moines, Iowa.

Donora's Telegram Blatant.
The reported Donora Telegram blatant of August 18, 1924, from Des Moines, reads as follows:
"The evasive claim long ago plan is being attempted here was the report which was received by state and county officials here and is being investigated whether it is reliable or whether it is an honest such as that which was reported to be ascertainable in Iowa in 1921. The Way It Works.
"The plan was originally conceived by the president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau. Federation last spring, consisted of inducing farmers to buy a contract for Chester White hogs and sows from the United States Stock company at prices of $50 and $40 each and the United States Farmers were to buy back pigs from at least two of the litters at $25 each. Provided they met with the company's standard. Because of the failure of the contract to state just what those standards are many Kansas farmers were left with a lot of expensive livestock on their lands and no method of selling them to get their money back."
"Cancellation of the Iowa contracts which have been offered to LaSalle county farmers show that, besides an original payment of at least $100 in membership fee, the farmers have to advance the price of the hogs to the United States Growers before they see the check they purchase."

could get his money back. Neither has he any knowledge that the promoter are not buying an extra from other contract holders at $25 each and returning them to him at fancy prices.
"Further investigation reveals that no such organization as the United States Stock company has any office in Des Moines and the Des Moines agent is quoted as never having heard of them."

Wallace's Farmer Story.

The story in Wallace's Farmer said to have been published August 22, 1924, reads as follows:
"The evasive claim long ago plan is being attempted here was the report which was received by state and county officials here and is being investigated whether it is reliable or whether it is an honest such as that which was reported to be ascertainable in Iowa in 1921. The report is to the effect that a man named Adria Kelly of Des Moines, S. D., of the Central United States Stock company had a large purchased hog operation in that region was here selling purchased Chester White hogs under contract. It is said that Mr. Kelly offered a new for any $85 per month monthly payments, with an agreement to buy back the litter of pigs in the fall at a stipulated price. The contract was for the securing of payments. The delivery of the sows is not called in question, and the authorities questioning the breed of the sows, but they have had suspicions aroused by receipt of what are reported to be clippings from the Chicago Tribune and Wallace's Farmer of Des Moines, Iowa."

100,000 AGREE FEET AT THE BIG DAM SITE

Supply of Water at American Falls Greater Than It Was Anticipated Would Be Possible at This Time Year; Shortage in Late Season a Possibility.

Work completed yesterday at the American Falls dam site has revealed that 100,000 acre feet had already been stored at the site of the American Falls dam. This is more than was at first believed possible, this early. On the other hand, the extra runoff threatens to make completion before the season ends doubtful for the dam project. Conditions, therefore, continue to indicate a shortage in the late summer and the possibility of arranging planting of crops so as to be ready for such contingency, it is stated.
