

Evangelist of Radioland, Aimee Semple McPherson Drowned in Pacific Ocean

Legion of Southern Californians Flock to Venice Beach and Pray Ferently for Return of Their Spiritual Guide. Had Million Dollars "Soul Factory."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 18.—Thousands of worshippers of Aimee Semple McPherson, noted radio evangelist, gathered at the beach at Venice here today and prayed for the safety of their spiritual leader, who had been seen and believed to have perished during the entire night, clinging to a thread of hope that she was alive.

Her disappearance was believed to have occurred in the surf late yesterday, but her followers refused to believe she had left them until the tide had receded.

For many hours, police and beach guards have searched in vain for the evangelist's body.

Radio evangelist's travels. Her drowsing was first reported by radio last night over KFSB, representative station of Aimee Semple McPherson's million dollar "soul factory."

Legions of followers, when it was reported she might have, "just disappeared" for a time, gathered at the beach and prayed fervently that she be found alive and safe.

The evangelist was last seen by Miss Frances Schaeffer, her secretary. The latter accompanied Mrs. McPherson to the beach for her daily afternoon bath.

Competitively obscure only a few years ago, Mrs. McPherson was known to millions of radio fans throughout the country for her evangelism and believed "healing power." She has thousands of devoted followers.

WATERS OF PENN. STATE IN NAME VARE FARMERS TO RECEIVE AD DURING LEAR

Wet Candidate Conceded Nomination for Republican Senatorial Toga in Keystone State.

Senator Pepper Is Runner-Up With Gov. Pinchot Third; Both Dry.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—William S. Vare, staunch advocate of beer and wine today conceded the republican nomination to the United States senate, which in Pennsylvania virtually means election.

Vare's vote yesterday in 5,656 of the 8,281 election districts in the state was 52,974 against 41,294 for George Wharton Pepper, the incumbent, and 23,226 for Governor Clifford Pinchot.

Edward E. Whelan, former four-term governor and candidate for governor, was carried along by the "wet" vote as usual. Those opponents of the liquor who are opposed to forcing modification of the Volstead law, Vare's victory is hailed in anti-prohibition quarters as a wet triumph.

However, in Allegheny county, which backed the Pepper ticket, Vare appeared to be running "wildly." Pepper had polled 71,209; Vare 62,407 and Pinchot 40,241 in 1229 districts out of 1408.

Senior breakfast - Wednesday morning at seven o'clock the members of the senior class, the girls wearing attractive gowns of purple and white, English print trimmed with white collars and flowing purple ties, and the fellows wearing white trousers, and white sweaters with purple bands and the class minerals, embarked on a "float" at the dock where they were attached to the program on purple paper titled in white ink, "1925 Joyride," were the place cards and the program in the shape of automobiles also were labeled. "Chauffeur Russell Porter presided as toastmaster and introduced the following numbers: "Heddlitz," a piano solo by H. Peahr; "Steering Wheel," a humorous reading by Peggy Wall; "Case of Cautious," a vocal solo by Margaret Woods; "Klaxon," a flute solo by Owen Dwight; "Fillies Station," a clever toast by Paul Beckwith; "How Que," a recital of the pastime the class had given during the four years in high school, by Walter Shattuck; "Back Street," a humorous warning of the ferocious trials and tribulations of the world that awaited the class members, by Carl Haber; "Car Wash," talks by Miss Mrs. Ruth Faber and Mrs. E. D. Blom. Items of food appearing on the bureau table subtly captivated friends, Signe Thiel, History, Cooks, Luluann, Radialor and Tall Ladies. The tables, at which covers were placed for 125, were decorated with purple, white and snowballs in zephyr vases and baskets. The class banner was used as part of the decorative idea. "Purple" gowns, accented by sapphire mine dresses in white, served the breakfast. Following the breakfast, the class of '25 staged a little parade, walk through the business district of the town. Sophomore girls who served at the breakfast were Pearl Wall, Pyra Lee Evans, Margaret Shewell, Alpha Smith, Alpha Piers, Hove Hite, Grace Bromage, Amy Platt, Mary Ward, Blanche Detweiler and Katherine Larsson.

Annual Business Meeting of Thursday - The annual business meeting of the Twentieth Century club was held on Tuesday afternoon in Julianne Inn. At this time the new officers took their oaths and the officers of the last year were automatically released from duty. The annual reports of the officers were made by Mrs. E. D. Blom, the new board chairman and the meeting was adjourned.

P. E. O. Hitchcock - The P. E. O. Sisterhood met at the home of Mrs. Harry R. Cowling Tuesday evening. Mrs. E. F. Daning acting as assistant in the absence of the president, Mrs. B. H. Churchill. Mrs. F. E. McVette presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Alice Heston presided in charge of the program on "Island Possessions," and read an interesting paper on the subject. Mrs. Runkley gave a splendid talk on the Hawaiian Islands which she had visited. Mrs. A. Dygert sang two excellent vocal selections, pleasing her own, receiving a pleasant social hour followed the program.

Business Women's Luncheon - The weekly luncheon was served to the Business and Professional Women in their club rooms on Tuesday. The program consisted of a lovely selection, a delightful piano solo played by Mrs. Elsie R. Hinton. The selection was of Mrs. Hinton's own composition and was played by her at the annual banquet of the club on Monday evening.

Entertained at Bridges - Complimentary to Mrs. H. W. Sawyer, of Fallon, Nevada, Mrs. E. J. Ostendorfer and Mrs. Hans Norberg entertained with a one o'clock luncheon at the Osterlander home on Tuesday afternoon. Covers were marked for twenty-two, and the tables were decorated with one large and two small tables decorated in yellow. Yellow anemones formed the centerpiece. Mrs. Sawyer was presented with a lovely vase of prize and the attractive high and low priced were won respectively by Mrs. Frank Maczel and Mrs. Paul Thompson.

State President Visits - One of the most important and profitable meetings of the year was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Maczel on Monday evening.

Girls' Whiten Skin with Lemon Juice

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of cream. This mixture, which any drug store will supply for you, should be shaken well in a bottle, and you should rub a quarter pint of the mixture on your face, neck, arms and hands. Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful and ray-white complexion. It is as a treacherous sunburn and tan cure. It is the most economical. Do not use lemon juice! It cannot be bought, ready to use because it is prepared immediately after it is prepared.

Prize Diamond Collection

In the Museum of Vienna there is a wonderful collection of diamonds of many colors. They are in the form of a bouquet, the natural colors of the flowers being represented by diamonds of the same hues. These stones were collected by a Tyrolean, Virgin von Helmsreiter, who passed many years in the diamond mines of South Africa and Brazil, buying a majority of his stock from the mine owners.

Survey of Printing

On June 30, 1926, congress appropriated $500,000 for the purchase of the site at weststreet and B street, southeast, and for the erection of a bureau of engraving and printing. The building was completed and occupied July 1, 1926. It 1881 a wing was added to the southwest end and in 1914 a wing was added to the west end. Congress appropriated funds for the new building in 1925. This was completed and occupied in 1926.

Golden Rule

MERCANTILE COMPANY

Multiply this saving by 40

The average family, like us, consumes about 40 cups of coffee a week. Consider the saving M-J-B gives you by its concentrated strength and richness. For you can use less M-J-B to each spoonful and still have a rich, satisfying cup of coffee. Now multiply this saving 40 times each week—it counts up, doesn't it?

It is true you buy coffee by the pound but you drink it by the cup. So it's really the cost-per-cup that counts! And measured by this scale, M-J-B is the most economical coffee you can buy.

Put it to a week's test and see!

But there was more wine of despair than when the spots appeared in his blood and to his tongue.

"What was it?" asked a drunken voice with vast solemnity. "Part of the shill!" thundered Bravo.

"You are mongrel dogs, all of you. To be loyal to a host—that's elemental. But it's not your way."

"You are mongrel dogs, all of you. To be loyal to a host—that's elemental. But it's not your way."

"He turned and sought out Barbara's eyes from the confining screen about them which looked stary with grief and fear, into his.

"No is the simplest of foods." The little red spots in Barbara's cheeks spread. His direct address—the public insult—released in her a latent strong emotion she identified as the real cause, remembered for Father's arm and asked it in a grip that made him wince.

"You are mongrel dogs, all of you. To be loyal to a host—that's elemental. But it's not your way."

"Come and throw me out," he invited. She walked to the door. "Throw him out!"

Other voices took up the cry. The majority were women's voices. But not a man moved.

"I don't want to be cruel. Why should I say cruel things to you?"

"You can't walk out with your arranged to take your father's inheritance."

"Not one cent of it!" His voice was flat now that it was no longer a question of money, but of honor.

"How long were you in jail, Bravo?" she broke in.

"I was in jail, too," she said, bravely.

"You will not sell away," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

"You are not my father's daughter," he looked sternly into her eyes.

"What else?" she asked, calm—reassuringly.

"He hid her out of the car." "Good-bye," he said huskily.

"No. Come in with me," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

"I followed her with a sort of beating gait. She opened the door and switched on a hall light.

"I have a chair, Mr. Hardman," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

"Let's be sensible, and thank you," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

Buhl Christian Sunday School Broke All Records Last Sun

What is the matter, Kimberly? They tell me you had a slump last week. Well, it is gratifying anyway that you did not fall below the 500 mark. Say, Kimberly, did you hear what Paul did last Sunday? Listen while I tell you. Buhl Christian Sunday school had the largest attendance in the history of the church, with 283 present on time. Our combined attendance, for last Sunday was 461 to Twin Falls 313. We hope Twin will kick up the dust some this week.

Next Sunday is Memorial Sunday and the pastor will pay a tribute to our dead heroes. We hope to make this a great service. Let's have it.

The Southern Idaho Bean Growers' association are to be congratulated on the splendid showing they have made in the first five years of their organization. They now enter upon a permanent organization with five years of experience to help them in their future marketing work. Last year alone they were called upon to market 19,000,000 bushels of beans. This shows the magnitude of their task somewhat as an organization. The bean growers, believing that charity begins at home, consumed about three hundred pounds of their own product at the banquet last evening and thus far no thunderstorm has broken loose.

Hollister high school district will hold an election next month to determine whether the district will issue $15,000 worth of bonds for the purpose of building the first unit of a high school building. This shows the growth in that part of Twin Falls county which is rapidly coming to the front as one of the greatest agricultural districts in the Gem State.

The Twin Falls Ministerial Association of Twin Falls have consented to do away with their public worship on May 30 in order that the American Legion may hold their Memorial exercises. This is the first time for many years that the church service has been abandoned for any other reason—and the ministers have been in hopes that the American Legion could arrange their service so that the regular morning worship could proceed on schedule. Monday, the 31st, is to be observed here as the regular holiday for Memorial day.

The Twin Falls board of county commissioners seem to like to experiment with the taxpayers' money. About a year ago they named P. W. Beckwith as superintendent of the hospital, and just about the time he got things to running in good shape and was well onto the ropes of how to run the hospital he is caused to resign. Yesterday his resignation was accepted and now another new man is to take his place and experiment with the taxpayers' cash. Is anyone wonder that the Twin Falls General Hospital runs behind several thousand every year? What institution or business managed thusly could keep out of the red.

The people of Twin Falls county and southern Idaho in general will get some very much needed information on the direct primary here next Tuesday evening when the three speakers representing the different political parties mount the rostrum and offer their explanation of the direct primary in Idaho. This direct primary has been a stumbling block for a good many politicians and from every indication it would seem to continue to be until it is properly revised and worked over to suit the masses rather than the classes.

UNDIGESTED OPPORTUNITIES

Professor George A. Coe recently declared that the American youth is suffering, principally, from "undigested opportunities." It is not too much to say that the whole world suffers from the same affliction.

The storm of criticism that has gathered about the head of the modern woman proceeds from the fact that she has not digested her opportunities. Suddenly plunged into politics by the nineteenth amendment she has naturally proceeded to act in politics precisely as men have always acted. But no perceptible gain will ever accrue to American politics until women begin acting like women—until they bring to politics the fine moral judgments and ethical ideals that are essentially womanly.

The American woman in business adds little to business and nothing to herself by becoming another MAN in business. She will make a place for herself in commerce when she demonstrates the economic value of womanliness. She does not need to be masculine to be masterful. Vulgarly, coarseness and boisterousness are but the symptoms of undigested opportunity.

Science has put marvelous new forces within our reach. Synthetic chemistry is creating a new world and stocking it with products never before heard of. The modern engineer is literally moving mountains. But the same discoveries that lead to new foods lead, also, to poison gas while the radio broadcasts both bunk and beauty. It takes time to digest our opportunities and develop moral character that will obtain from the use of poison gas and rejoice more in beauty than in bunk.

Poverty is a result of undigested economic opportunities. The Almighty has put enough gold into the mountains, enough oil under the plains and enough fertility into the soil to amply feed and clothe and warm all the people in the world. But society has not learned how to make an equitable and satisfactory distribution. We have the wealth. We have not digested it.

The new-rich make themselves ridiculous, not because they have money but because they have not become accustomed to it. The conceited graduate is a nuisance not because he is a graduate but because he has not yet learned to use his education. The flapper is no less moral than her mother; she is merely suffering from social indigestion.

Opportunities always bring dangers with them and with each new quota of freedom and liberty there must go a corresponding measure of self-government. Until this government of self is acquired we may expect a period of discomfort due to undigested opportunities.

But there was more wine of despair than when the spots appeared in his blood and to his tongue.

"What was it?" asked a drunken voice with vast solemnity. "Part of the shill!" thundered Bravo.

"You are mongrel dogs, all of you. To be loyal to a host—that's elemental. But it's not your way."

"You are mongrel dogs, all of you. To be loyal to a host—that's elemental. But it's not your way."

"He turned and sought out Barbara's eyes from the confining screen about them which looked stary with grief and fear, into his.

"No is the simplest of foods." The little red spots in Barbara's cheeks spread. His direct address—the public insult—released in her a latent strong emotion she identified as the real cause, remembered for Father's arm and asked it in a grip that made him wince.

"You are mongrel dogs, all of you. To be loyal to a host—that's elemental. But it's not your way."

"Come and throw me out," he invited. She walked to the door. "Throw him out!"

Other voices took up the cry. The majority were women's voices. But not a man moved.

"I don't want to be cruel. Why should I say cruel things to you?"

"You can't walk out with your arranged to take your father's inheritance."

"Not one cent of it!" His voice was flat now that it was no longer a question of money, but of honor.

"How long were you in jail, Bravo?" she broke in.

"I was in jail, too," she said, bravely.

"You will not sell away," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

"You are not my father's daughter," he looked sternly into her eyes.

"What else?" she asked, calm—reassuringly.

"He hid her out of the car." "Good-bye," he said huskily.

"No. Come in with me," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

"I followed her with a sort of beating gait. She opened the door and switched on a hall light.

"I have a chair, Mr. Hardman," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

"Let's be sensible, and thank you," she said, "I shall cleave to you. A fortune is not the only thing."

"It's the Very Latest—"

To most women nothing is so old as last year's hat. Unless it be her last year's dress, or coat, or skirt-length.

Men can't understand it. They laugh genially at such simple-minded folly. And while they laugh, they are thinking of how queer the old car looks, even though it's only two seasons old, and how old-fashioned last year's neckties make a man seem.

In other words, men are just about the same as women when it comes to wanting "the latest." It's a desire shared by everybody who is young in spirit, eager to be in on everything new and different. It's the most human thing in the world—to want the newest, the latest, the best.

The surest way to know what IS the latest is to read advertising. The advertisements in this newspaper show you what the new styles in millinery are. They'll settle the question of skirt-lengths. They'll show the newest models in overcoats; in touring cars and sedans and roadsters.

And they'll keep you posted on the latest developments in everything that makes up life. The newest theories of nutrition, the most recent additions to radio, the latest tooth-paste and silverware and household appliance. . . .

Read the advertisements in this newspaper faithfully. Get the habit. Not tomorrow—but today; at the very latest.

No advertisement dares to be out-of-date

BEAN GROWER BANQUET IS BIG SUCCESS

Hundreds Hear Instructive Talk After Partaking of Fine Dinner; Foreign Trade Growth Is Shown by Oakland Man; Twin Falls County Bean Beet on Earth.

Awakening of America regarding the value of foreign markets, more or less dormant from the time of the Civil war until the great social war, will mean much to the international union country, George C. Davis, Oakland harbor manager told the guests at the Bean Growers' association last evening in the Washington hotel which he headed the Twin Falls tract from Idaho and Oregon, and California to both parties, and would more respectably between the two states.

The American merchant marine, starting at the time of Washington, grew until the Civil war, he said, when the Yankee clipper was the most famous "clipper" ship. After the manufacturers and railroads began to grow, the value of foreign markets to a great extent. Against this will, however, the great war forced the manufacturers to recognize the value of the foreign markets, and trade beneficial to Americans and foreigners is growing, and this will force markets for American products.

A line of steamers from San Francisco to the Mediterranean is bringing out war manufactures of goods of which we have a surplus and bringing back products we need. The president of the Southern Pacific in a recent address in Oakland, told about the awakening of railroads to foreign trade, and spoke especially of the opening of the line from Twin Falls to Vevie as helping Southern Idaho to reach foreign ports. Great exportation of flour and wheat to Japan and the Pacific is already started. In order to meet this situation Oakland has voted $10,000 in bonds to build the docks and warehouses. He read a message of congratulation from G. B. Hancock, Oakland port manager.

Other Solid Talks. The speech of Mr. Davis was only one of the notable addresses of the evening, which followed a fine meal splendidly served by the Metropolitan women in which fine order and efficiency was shown. The hall was artistically decorated with the silhouettes, flowers and foliage. At 11 A. Ashton, city mayor, acted as toastmaster, after being introduced by C. P. Bowles, of the Southern Idaho Wholesale company, distributors for the growers' association. Rev. E. L. Whitte invoked the blessing. A musical program was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hall and the Three orobachas. Mayor Ashton referred to the Great Northern bean strike as the plant that killed the giant monster and introduced H. K. Howard, who talked on seed certification, tillage, hoeing, bunching the instrumentality of the Bean Growers' association if had started in Twin Falls county and until we now sell railroad seeds to other tracts and states.

Bean Beet on Earth. In a notable talk, C. P. Bowles told how his theory that the Great Northern bean grown on the Twin Falls tract was the best on earth, had been made by Mr. Bowles. He read a letter from a railroad head which stated that these beans were best exclusively by his company on account of the taste. As the farmers represent the largest number of bean planters with a greater acreage than the average the price received this year was excellent by reason of superior quality. The directors meet weekly and determine how many beans shall be sold that week. Superior quality and satisfaction by the directors brought about satisfactory conditions. A higher crop last year is possible in the country, he said.

Value of Cooperation. Gustav Knies, president of the Twin Falls Farmers' association, made a stirring appeal for cooperation. He told about the achievements of the daymen in getting the most superior quality of wheat, and that Twin Falls would soon have the best product upon which here from Duwacite. Twin Falls has a superior quality of wheat and oats in the world, he said, something that even C. Moore, poultry breeder, has also said recently. The growth of experience in the choice business in the past, further illustrating the value of cooperation.

Frank L. Stephen, attorney for the association, praised cooperation as superior to price fixing or buying and selling by the government. He urged all farmers to join such organizations.

Lincoln P. T. A. to Meet Thursday at Three o'clock P. M. Beginning promptly at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon the sixth graders of the Lincoln school will bring at the P. T. A. meeting to be held in that building. Following the presentation of the picture, "Children of the Shield," by Mrs. C. V. Parks, Mrs. L. E. Joslyn will be present and talk on the Sunday School program for children. All mothers of young children who will enroll for the first time in school next fall, are urged to be present and hear the plan for making physical examinations of such children.

POETRY AND PLAYS ARE IN DEMAND

Large demand for many kinds of Novels of the Twin Falls Weekly Library Sociology Comes Second in the Number of Readers.

Of the books of non-fiction checked by the Twin Falls public library, books of poetry and plays represent the farthest number, said the librarian, Miss Jessie Prager, today. This is partly due to the fact that these books are used so much by the high school students. "Poetical books show the most lively circulation, especially books on radio and dancing, books on dramatic school and sports. A great interest has been shown in books on government and political science, as evidenced by the number of these books read." Although books on biography have almost maintained their popularity, books on history and travel have had a somewhat larger circulation, especially books on travel, owing to the wide range of countries covered, and the fascinating stories of the author.

Books on fiction were in the highest demand, owing to a change of illegal proceedings by Chief A. Wilson and Tom Harris, patrolman in the Macky Building, by Captain W. W. Allen, who has been charged with the violation of the law, and a fine of $200 and a jail sentence of 30 days. The Green Hat, though not a new book, has maintained its popularity for the longest time, among readers of fiction. Next in demand are the "Penny" Bachelor, by Parrish, contains the first named from her husband, by Philip. The "Guns" James.

TURKEY GROWER ASSOCIATION CALL ISSUED

Commissioner of Agriculture Declines Districts Officially for Election of Directors.

The declaration of election districts for the purpose of electing directors to the Idaho Turkey Growers' association was announced at the state department of agriculture, today by Commissioner A. W. H. Kjosness. Commissioner Kjosness has been chosen by the turkey growers to be the public director for the association. The by-law call for a board of five directors chosen from members of the association, and one public director. Directors from the members are chosen by districts, created each year by the board of directors, or by the public director in accordance with the volume of business, or the number of members in each district. As far as possible, reasonable boundaries are followed. The election rules call for primary elections in each district sometime between March 15 and August 1, and these directors take office at the annual meeting held in August of Idaho, after their elections have
