

BRUINS WIN FROM SPUDS IN OPENER

VISITORS SHUT OUT BY DOLAN

Holds Idaho Falls to Seven Scattered Hits; Gorman Bangs Out Homer.

The long-awaited baseball series between the Spuds and the Bruins opened down here last night yesterday afternoon and after the dust had cleared away following an hour and thirty-five minutes of mist, the Twin Falls-Idaho Fallers were on the long-end of a 2 to 0 score.

It was a pretty pitched battle between Morrison for the Spuds and the Bruin for the Bruins. Strangely, the Twins rapped Dolan for seven hits and got an run, while the Bruin hit Morrison only five times and got 3 runs. Three Double-plays. These five hits were good for nine bases and the seven Spud bingles were good for a home.

These five hits were good for nine bases and the seven Spud bingles were good for a home. Three double plays helped the contest along. There were two made by the Bruin and one by the Spuds. Gorman participated in one of the Bruin double plays Collins of second after taking in Danaway's long drive in the fifth inning.

No lead for Morrison that the third inning was the only frame in which the Bruin were able successfully to touch his offerings. In this stanza, Dwyer opened with a double of right and was held at second while Dolan popped to right. Apperson's bingle secured the third out.

Two Games Monday. Then Gorman passed the over the left center wall with a "Home run" ahead of him and Thompson and Baker were out.

Threatener the Bruin's hit two hits a single by Thompson in the sixth and another by Apperson in the eighth.

The clubs play this afternoon at 2 o'clock and at Twin Falls afternoon at 2 o'clock, after which the Spuds beat it.

Monday morning at 11 o'clock the Bruin open a four game series with Logan on the home lot. There will be two games Monday, one at 11 o'clock in the morning and the other at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

HE STARTED IT

RAY DWYER, whose double in field in the third inning paved the way for the Spud defeat.

Coffee's "Discovery"

There are many stories as to who first discovered the fresh value of coffee. It is thought that the discovery is usually accredited to the founder of an old monastery in Arabia who had observed that their goats after drinking upon the coffee berries were decidedly lively. They decided to taste the berries to see if they, too, would be similarly affected. That they enjoyed the berries was disappointed in the taste. Then they boiled them but without success. Then they dried roasting them and found this gave a delicious drink. Later a monk brewed a stimulating drink by pounding the roasted berries in a mortar.

Nuts and Milk Chief
Materials for Buttons
An older button than that of mother of pearl was the material from which which was really good. The bodies of these were boiled and cut up into slices and then pressed into buttons by means of metal dies.

At the present time the two most widely used materials for buttons are nut and milk. The latter is to be the favorite middle of the monkey in certain riverable regions of Central and South America. The best of vegetable ivory can be turned upon to form almost any shape, and used for almost any color. The usefulness of the modern button made of milk is equalled by that of some milk. Milk from which all the cream has been separated is the better material as it contains no rennet or some acid, from which it is eroded or galled, from which it increases numbers of fancy buttons are made.

The Way to Treat Them
"The way to treat rabbits and ducks and super-natural and all the other catagory birds is to buy at the store," said Pego du Bois, the art critic, at a dinner in New York.

"A super-natural painter was displaying his exhibition in the National Art gallery a well-dressed chap—a good prospect, as they say in the business world—and he had up to a picture and he began:

"This will show you, old man; the thing I'm after. We super-natural, you see, writes for the paragon of the super-natural, the most extraordinary and not so-called, portraying nothing but the aura or inner urge. Do you follow me?"

"Follow you?" said the prospect. "Yeah, I'm tired of you. I came out of the business last Monday."

POINTS WAY TO DODGE IMPORTS

BEHAVIOR of many could at once become independent of food imports if the inhabitants changed their diet and resorted to eating raw or slightly-cooked food, according to Professor James F. Felchner, director of the Institute for Hygiene at Gresham University.

Felchner discovered that slightly-cooked food satisfied him more than larger quantities of well-cooked food. To make sure that this was not merely in personal inclination on his part, he has been investigating this phenomenon and arrived at the conclusion that it holds true alike for man and beast.

During his experiment with a family of rats, Felchner established that the minute the burrows had slightly-cooked food grew quicker than those dining on well-cooked nourishment. Within fifty days, the first group had outgrown the second by almost one hundred per cent.

Later experiments with rats were conducted with three different kinds of nourishment: well-cooked, slightly-cooked and raw. Here the output of raw food won the prize. Even with an ## addition of vitamins to their regular diet the other two categories fared far behind.

At present Felchner is conducting experiments with pigs in order to prove that with small quantities of raw food better fattening results can be obtained than with cooked food, which hitherto was considered the superior method.

The letter contains perfect explanation of the disappearance of the body of the missing man. It is stated that K. Peters was murdered, and is in "contraband" of the laws that he was alive and well in California.

The communication is addressed "To whom it may concern, attention Twin Falls 'Times', and publishing statement reads in full as follows: We wish to state here with the certain facts concerning the disappearance of Mr. K. S. Peters of 219 Newport avenue, Long Beach, California. Mr. Peters left Long Beach the morning of June 24, 1926, en route to Death Valley Junction, California, in the interests of the California Lumber & Lumbermen's association, Los Angeles, whom he represents and intended to return within ten days. Mr. Peters had made this same trip on May 10, but was contacted by another representative of the company and after visiting at his destination immediately wrote home stating he had arrived safely. Mr. Peters left an address with Mrs. Peters where she could reach him in case she should hear about him. After the number of days passed and no word was received all members of his household family worried sorely, each one sending their prayers to heaven to save one another. But on Sunday, June 12, Mrs. Peters recalled that the suspense, longer and longer, that she was to ascertain whether or not Mr. Peters arrived and was advised within an hour after putting through her call that Mr. Peters had not arrived at Death Valley Junction, California. Search was started in every direction immediately and we here in all your attention to the fact that the California authorities have not in any way given up the search as stated in a copy of your paper recently, but have for one moment.

However, upon receiving word Mr. Peters had not arrived, Mr. Howard J. Johnson, mechanic and Mr. Joe Astal, formerly of Idaho, left to go over the same trail Mr. Peters had taken and upon arriving at Bartlett, Idaho, learned Mr. Peters had registered at the Melrose hotel on the night of June 1, and the morning of June 2 was known to have gone to the gas station and purchased twelve gallons of gas and that a dance man set in Mr. Peters' Hudson car. They were known to have left Bartlett between the hours of three and four o'clock in the early morning so as to make the desert before the heat became intense, and to have started towards Death Valley Junction.

From Bartlett, Mr. Johnson and Astal traced the Hudson car to Cave Springs, California, 65 miles from Bartlett, where the Hudson was known to have passed through at the hour of 8:15 traveling at a rapid rate of speed and Mr. Peters was not with the car. The facts are herewith stated and a reward has been offered for the recovery of Mr. Peters' body. It is absolutely certain Mr. Peters met with foul play and was disposed of on the desert between Bartlett and Cave Springs. Every effort is being put forth to solve the mystery surrounding this case although it is not an uncommon occurrence in that part of the state. Many a person encounters misadventure in that locality.

Your cooperation by printing the facts will be greatly appreciated as the newspapers in our state are aiding us greatly in the search and present a good example to be followed by other newspapers throughout the country.
