Now comes the agricultural department of our government and states that radium used in many patent medicines is likely to do as much harm as good to the human system. This department makes special mention of such treatments in the shape of hair tonics.

During summer vacation season is perhaps the greatest time of the year for accidents and folks should take unusual precautions against collisions. Drive a little slower and watch a little closer at the corners and where there are sharp turns and Idaho will reduce her accident list as a result.

Kansas folks of this county will hold their annual reunion in the Filer fair grounds Sunday and will recreate again some of the early traditions of the Sunflower state. All who hail from that state are urged to attend and participate in the festivities by bringing their own eats. Kansas people are a good deal like other folks, some good and some not so good.

As the primary election draws nearer it appears more and more that the Old Boss of the Progressive party, who has played into the hands of the G. O. P. for years, might be ousted and the reins of authority taken over by one who is a real progressive at heart and not just a politician who is working mostly for ill gotten gain. The quicker we get rid of this class the better our political system will function.

The Elks lodge has dedicated a National Memorial to the men who lost their lives in the World war. This monument cost in the neighborhood of three million dollars, and is a fitting memorial to the men who paid the supreme price. The monument was formally dedicated yesterday in Chicago.

Those who go into our mountain fastnesses came back praising the wonderful scenery of Idaho's mountainous region, together with her beautiful lakes. Few states possess such remarkable scenery and we should adopt the slogan "See Idaho First," and then take a hike across to other places. One of the grand spots which is sometimes overlooked is the Teton trio just south of Yellowstone park. These are Idaho mountains but it is necessary to go into Wyoming to get the best view of them. They are almost equal to the Alps according to those who have witnessed both places.

The entrance of W. J. Hall into the gubernatorial nomination contest is stirring the republicans of Twin Falls county. Heretofore, H. C. Baldrige, lieutenant governor, and hand-picked machine candidate, seemed slated for the throne, but the Hall announcement makes the Baldrige men fear that the local barons will raise the standard of the northern pretender. The contracts received from Hall by the Duke of Clarence, sometimes called by his foes, the non-resident Warwick, and the interests and necessities of King Frank both make it seem likely that Hall will have the Twin Falls cohorts and that the heir apparent will not be recognized as even heir presumptive in this county.

WHO WERE THE BIG MEN?

Consciously or unconsciously every man is in a conflict with oblivion. We all want to be remembered after we have passed from the stage of human affairs. One of the supreme questions of life is what to do to be sure we will not be forgotten.

Is there any short cut to immortality? Who was the richest man in the world on the day that Martin Luther nailed his ninety-five theses to the cathedral door? No one knows! Yet there were thousands of men who were struggling desperately to accumulate money with which to build monuments on which to carve their names in letters that would not fade. But they are all forgotten. We do not even know their names. But the little Wittenberg monk still lives.

Who was the greatest politician in the world when William Herschel was peering through his little, home-made telescope and discovering new worlds? No one knows. At least his name is forgotten, but the musician who made astronomy his hobby has survived the ages and will be remembered as long as men undertake to chart the heavens.

Who lived in the biggest house in Amsterdam when Spinoza, the poor lens grinder was working at his bench and teaching a few fascinated pupils? No one knows. Yet some man in Spinoza's day walked the streets of the city and the people called him great because he lived in a big house. But the big man and the big house are both forgotten while the name of the little lens grinder will live as long as men ask the great questions of life and philosophy.

The only reason Herod is remembered is because he threw John, the Baptist, in prison. Pilate was rescued from oblivion because he delivered Jesus of Nazareth over to the mob to be crucified.

Galleo was a poor and humble investigator without money or friends at court. But he had an idea. Copernicus, Newton, Columbus, Watts, Fulton, Arkwright—all these were poor men who became great before they became rich. Evidently immortality is not to be gained by bribes. It is won by brains, or secured by service.

To Clean Silk Umbrella

A lovely silk umbrella that was almost hopelessly spotted by the rain was made as good as new by going over it with gasoline which had been saturated with table salt. The gasoline will not dissolve all the salt but will leave a ring or spot. It may be used to clean other things, with the assurance that it will not leave the unsightly "ring."

TEACHERS MAP PLAN FOR THE FALL CAMPAIGN

Executive Committee Members of Support for State Superintendent of Schools. The Executive Committee of the Idaho State Teachers' Association, Inc., met in Boise, Idaho, July 23-24, 1926.

(Special to Times)

Boise, July 23.—The executive session of the officers and directors of the Idaho State Teachers' Association which ended in Boise Wednesday mapped a definite course for the association with regard to its policies in coming primary and general elections. That a candidate for the office of the state superintendent of public instruction will be supported by the association, of which Mrs. J. D. Bloom of Twin Falls is president. A secretary has been selected and will be announced later, say the directors.

Proceedings of the meeting were not made public here until today and then unofficially. The executive board was concerned not so much about where the next superintendent is chosen from, as that he or she has the right attitude on school problems, such as increased standards for certification, financial support for public education and the Idaho system of education as at present organized under the control of the state board of education.

A Blackfoot paper carried the announcement of the candidacy of Miss Gertrude Walter of Ashland, said one member of a session of the association.

The president, however, for the party in power has always been the choosing of a candidate from the northern part of the state. The present incumbent, Miss Elizabeth Thomas, is from Kellogg and her immediate predecessor, Mrs. Ethel Bedford who is now commissioner of education, and Miss Bertha McCoy, of former superintendent, were also from the north. President E. D. Bloom of the State Teachers' Association had under consideration Wednesday afternoon the forming of committees for the next year. The committee on the retirement law was continued over for another year on authority of the association. Its members are Miss Mary Hambrick of Boise, chairman, D. A. Strubbe of Boise, J. V. Ecker of Coaling, President C. E. Beck of Alton Normal, and Mrs. Laura Dutz, assistant superintendent of public instruction.

Resolutions passed by the committee at the last convention read: "We believe that a sound pension and retirement system is absolutely essential to the building up of a teaching profession. It is unfair to load them to be kept under the influence of years of faithful service have lost their vitality but who through sympathy and a sense of exaltation are retained in service by humane boards of education. Intelligent and well trained young people hesitate to enter or remain in a profession when there is little opportunity to make adequate preparation for declining years. However, such a system should be founded on a sound, actuarial basis and should be one in which the state pays in at least an equal amount with the teacher."

Committees to be named are those in the Idaho Teacher, the association's magazine, publicity, Idaho system of education, financial support, standardization of certification and professional progress.

This Commodity Can Never Be Refrigerated!

NEWS is the most perishable commodity on earth. It cannot preserve this cargo of the wires. Speed is its only safeguard—and under modern conditions that speed must be almost instantaneous.

The UNITED PRESS is a great international exporting and importing business but ships and trains cannot carry its merchandise. Over the telegraph wires, over the cables and radio, its unique product—NEWS—must be sent.

An hour's delay and the product may be useless. News must be NEWS—must be fresh. An instant after you have read a news-item it is almost stale. Therefore has developed that amazing world-wide system known as the UNITED PRESS. For size—for enterprise—for celerity—for accuracy—it has no equal on the globe.

Its reporters must be more thoroughly informed and trained than the average college president—its operators must be schooled to transmit intricate code without error or delay—its communication lines must be maintained for never failing service. The UNITED PRESS is engaged in the most amazing, the most romantic business on earth.

ROCK CREEK JACK IS HELD FOR FELONY

Wife of Joseph W. Smith Says He Told Her He Would Kill Her and Then Struck Her with a Heavy Board and Choked Her.

That her husband, Joe W. Smith, "Rock Creek Jack," strangled her with a board, on July 5, at 6:20 p. m., striking her several times, and then choked her, saying as he did, "I'll kill you," was the testimony given today by Mrs. Osa Smith at the preliminary hearing before Judge J. L. Hodson. She said they quarreled more or less from 2 o'clock on. She went to the house of a neighbor to get a light to town, she said, and on her return about her husband told her to get with the clothes she had packed. He replied, she averred, "I threw them in the canal and now damn you, I am going to kill you." He was brought to the district court on a charge of felonious assault, under $250 bond.

Tells Her Story.
Mrs. Smith said her husband once declared from his attic room he heard a car coming and then, against her protest, dragged her into the kitchen. She said she told her to remain while he went down stairs. She got up and ran over the canal when she faint and advised to let her children and neighbors call her. She said when he acted as his own lawyer, asked if she had had been drinking whiskey over her protest and she replied that she had never drunk a drop of whiskey in her life. Dr. Halley of Kluhner testified in numerous instances on her body and to the fact that when he was called, she was semi-conscious and getting up. Mrs. Smith, testifying in his own behalf, said that the night before a man whom she did not know, left a quart of whiskey, that on the morning of July 6, his wife complained of feeling badly and he took her to the bank. He told her that she always acted mean when she drank, but when she inhaled he gave her a drink. He said between them they drank the quart. In the evening he said he went out to change a pickled horse and an attorney named she was with him with a stick, striking him a number of times. He said at last that she struck her once and then told her he was sorry. She got up and ran across the canal and he rode to town here. He was arrested later.

Says He Hated Son.
Mrs. Smith said that her husband had whiskey and drank her to death earlier in the day and when she refused said, "Take it, it is the last time you'll have a chance to drink with me." She said that he liked the younger boy but hated the older one, to whom he carried and said, "I hate you girls." Smith claimed that they quarreled arose over a son-in-law and not over the children.

State Officers Pass Final Word on Filing Puzzle

It is all clear now, the state has told how to interpret the law with reference to withdrawal from the primary election contest and it is "all over but shouting." The thing that has puzzled lawyers and created all sorts of discussion here is whether the provision which says candidates may withdraw within ten days of election applies to the primary election, as the index indicates or to the general election only.

County Clerk C. C. Slemons on Monday, when two who had been nominated in the primaries came with a withdrawal, sent a hurry up appeal for information to Holte. The state officers took their time in saying that this morning the county clerk received a letter which said: "I believe the county attorney should withdraw." She got up and ran across the canal and he rode to town here. He was arrested later.

C. Whitlow, a member of the law firm of Wolfe & Whitlow, L. D. Hild, Twin Falls, hereby announces his candidacy for the office of county manufacturer for Prosecuting Attorney, adv.

Davis, county chairman, that the following citizens would make the race for the United States on the democratic ticket in the event that the democratic voters in the primary should vote in their names: Ross W. Wilson, Kimberly merchant, for representative; Ira E. Finney, Salmon farmer; and Fred Smith, county engineer and farmer. Also, Thos. T. Smith, Twin Falls service station man for assessor.

The committee consisted of T. H. Conner, M. E. French and J. E. Ross.

FORD COUPE IS SMASHED UP IN CRASH OF CARS

Queen Man Runs Into Incident of Nevada, was practically destroyed about 9 o'clock this morning when the Stimpfacker car owned and driven by Fred Smith, of Oregan, crashed into the intersection of Main avenue and Third street south. Both himself was severely bruised and complained of a bad neck, but his injuries are reported not to be serious.

Dodd was taken into custody and later pleaded guilty to the charge of violating the city traffic ordinance. He said that he had come into town from Oden last night and was in a hurry to get to Boise where he has business today. His batteries were out of order and had to be fixed which delayed him still more and he probably started at a greater speed than he intended to. He said when he struck Dodd, he threw on the brakes but the car did not stop and struck the Ford. Police Justice James L. May entered the plea of guilty but declared he would take time to investigate before passing sentence. He demanded bond in the sum of $50 for the return of Dodd tomorrow and when this was furnished, the defendant left for Idaho. Dodd lived at Emerson for a number of years and still operates two trucks between that town and Twin Falls. He moved to Oden about a month ago.
