STIRRING INTERNATIONAL HATE

BY JAMES D. WHELAN.

Pleasant refutation is now being furnished to the quotation, "It is impossible to indict a whole people," and politicians on both sides of the water, discussing either Shillocks or deadbeats, depending on which side of the water the particular politician may be found. The dishonest Rothermere press in England and the Hearst press in America seethe with dishonest abuse.

On the other side of the Atlantic, the monopolistic elements are stirring up the masses by denouncing the greed of Americans, with that great opportunist, Winston Churchill, as their spokesman in England and certain fly-by-night demagogues as their mouthpieces on the continent.

Just as these charlatans fail to discriminate between Americans, so do those grandstanders who prefer to swim in troubled waters on this side of the ocean, assume that all Europeans, or at least all influential Europeans are of a piece, and that the very worst sort of piece. In this way a lot of international misunderstanding and hatred can be piled up, the result that popular attention will be everywhere withdrawn from the grafts of the predatory and the privileged.

There is no reason why Europe should not have been made to pay all possible. Senator Fletcher of Florida had a sensible idea as applied to the Italian settlement, that we should assume that Italy expected to pay all the debt as she said she intended to do. Should she later prove unable to do this we might settle as with any other more or less insolvent debtor. But when we went into a settlement deal at this time and abused the Italians while doing it, we sacrificed more than necessary, and gained no gratitude while doing so. Discussion of the character of Mussolini, who is a bad egg, running a course that will end in his downfall, might have been germane in considering other things, but it made matters no easier in getting a good adjustment of Italian debts.

The fact is that those who talk loudest and longest in favor of stringent debt settlement do not want them settled at all. The American Protective Tariff league took the lead in fighting the 14 points and the League of Nations, and rightfully boasts of having defeated the latter with the aid of senatorial puppets. The whole fight was based on the demand in the 14 points for the removal as far as possible of economic barriers. Yet removal of economic barriers is necessary if debts are to be paid at all. Even the merest tyro in political economy, or any person of common sense who has never read a line of conventional economics, knows that all a nation can pay consists of the excess of value of its exports, over its imports. Conversely, all a nation can receive consists of excess of value of imports over exports. Of course a debtor nation may trade its excess with a third nation and pay with what it gets from the third, but the principle is the same, and the process simple. Obviously, the Tariff league and its executive and senatorial instruments, while howling much for speedy and complete settlement, want no international hatred, want no real adjustment whatever, and similar elements abroad want no settlement or goodwill either.

There is just as much difference between parties abroad as here. The Liberal party in England denounces abuse of America, so does the Labor party.

The difference between the Liberal and the Conservative attitude in England is real. It was shown in handling the tariff, in handling affairs in South Africa for many years; in handling the affairs in Ireland. Just so as the democratic policy differs from the republican in domestic economic matters and in dealing with the Philippines and with foreign affairs. Winston Churchill, renegade Liberal, falls in with snobbery and plutocracy. Lloyd George, horrible example of what coalition with Tories will do to a man, is recovering his really broad viewpoint and attitude. The policy of every nation through popular will is felt fluctuates, and those who denounce as something permanent, America or England or France, and assume that any of these pursue an unchanging course are either ignorant or demagogic. Let us hope that we collect our debts, so far as we are able in the only way that they can be collected, and ignore those who demand "the pound of flesh" on the stump when they do not want any flesh at all.

The meeting of the State Press Association at Payette Lakes last week proved to be very interesting, and the editors had the time of their young lives, besides mixing up quite a little political medicine for future use. gubernatorial candidates Hall and Glenn were there and the former took advantage of the occasion to promulgate his formal entry into the race. Ike Nash and Dave Burrell held keyhole conferences with each editor present and Lloyd Adams, secretary to Senator Gooding, saw his duty and performed it manfully. Joel Priest got a prize of five dollars for the homeliest member present. Secretary Guy Flenner was entitled to the prize, according to the committee of awards, but was declared not eligible. The only member editor in Idaho, Mrs. Evelyn Melvin, of the Salmon Recorder, was present and was enthusiastically received. —Idaho Pioneer.

SUGGEST CONTROL IN CHINESE BIRTH RATE, ONLY CURE

PEKING—If China's present rate of population increase continues another century will be 500,000,000 inhabitants. The one alternative to this would be a voluntary restriction of the population increase. In view of many Chinese workers, in short, birth control means the Chinese masses.

Walter H. Mallory, secretary of the Chinese International Finance Relief Commission and author of "China: A Land of Plagues," which will be published in book form soon by the American Geographical Society, has been a strong advocate of birth control in China as a result of several years of close study of the country.

"What is the use of saving a man from death from cholera today, only to see him die of starvation tomorrow? We are doing all we can for China in every way, yet that is precisely what we must see occur if the death rate increases materially and the birth rate remains at the present level.

"We are spreading modern ideas of sanitation, we are teaching methods of controlling the spread of disease, preventive medicine and modern surgery are helping starve lives—but all this will still mean increased misery if we are to see our work go to overgrowth. Still more a country already overcrowded. We should have methods that there should be a lower birthrate to correspond, otherwise calamity is ahead.

"The problem is much less difficult than it is first appears. Birth control, if it is to be a reality in China, while it takes centuries to build up, a population that will be the most desirable condition, a population can be cut down within a single generation. "If the people of China should be content to have half as many children during the coming generation as they did during the last one," he suggests, "the population probably would be reduced by such a considerable proportion that the problem of maintaining the very largest population, even with a corresponding reduction in the death rate due to modern assistance in every life.

of basic social concept on the part of the Chinese would be necessary. From present indications it is now merely a utopian dream.

Rigby High School Student Dies from Spinal Meningitis

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, July 25.—Blaise Higgins of Rigby, high school student, who died Monday following an attack of spinal meningitis, was buried from the First ward chapel at 10 a. m. Bishop Corbett conducted the service. The cause of death was the meningitis which was in the spinal fluid.

Blaise, with two companions, was working at the bank of the Wood Livestock company when he was taken ill. His death followed shortly. The two companions complained of sore throats and were taken, immediately to the I. D. S. hospital, but examination showed them to be suffering from "flu-like" results.

Services for Blaise were held on the lawn of the First ward chapel at 10 a. m. Prof. Higgins and Mrs. Higgins, Justin Tallman and Jack Bayre spoke at the services. The chorus of friends who were composed of Mrs. Dixon, Lulu Bell, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Collins, Alonzo Cole and Lester Green, pallbearers were selected from school mates of Blaise.

The young man was graduated from the Rigby high school in June.

Problem in Proportion

If you were to enlarge a tennis ball the size of the tennis ball, says the New York Times Tribune, the one would be as big as the earth before the other attained the size of an ordinary baseball.

When Bill's dog was killed by an automobile, it was a real going tragedy, remarked the witty quip, "What do you mean? said the fair stranger to his wife. "A bark goes for every 'wo' was it replied.

AT THE THEATRES

The human actors in this picture however are of the very best. The ability of Mary Carr, Gertrude's famous delinquent "mother," roles, is well known and George Hackaborn one of the few leading men in the screen who are also character actors, portrays a very unusual character. Marjorie Daw, the heroine is both capable and sweet.

The high lights of the picture are the spectacular battle scenes and the unusual intelligence displayed by "Thumper." To see a dog plunging headlong into a maelstrom of burning shells and blinding flares to find a man through fire and water is unusual but to notice the skill with the front is a practical deal with which the animal works his position that animals really think.

A HAPPY END

1. Be in love with at least four people at once. 2. When you are introduced to a man, ask him name three times—then forget it. 3. Tell him your phone number but don't encourage him to call. 4. If he does, don't remember him. 5. Give him a date three weeks from Sunday. 6. Break it the night before. 7. When he does take you out, no more.

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Non-ditch, Ill., in a new magazine, says 17 years ago, knew that constipation was the cause of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary. To him, it seemed crazy that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartics, pills, salines, castors and nasty oils.

HER STOMACH TROUBLES ARE THING OF PAST NOW

Karnak Just Seemed to Make a Well Person of Her—Almost Overnight, Declares Happy Tacoma Woman.

"You know, for months I looked for a medicine such as Karnak, and why that I have found it, why, I just can't say enough for it," is the enthusiastic statement of Mrs. A. Dahl, of 905 E. Morton Bl., Tacoma, Wash. "Oh, the misery I suffered the past year with stomach trouble and indigestion," continues Mrs. Dahl, "it seemed like everything I ate just turned to gas in my stomach and bloated me up till I felt like my breath was being cut off. "It just frightened me the way my heart would palpitate, and I kept losing strength and energy and it became increasingly hard for me to do my work. I felt stupor and worn out all the time. Even my sleep was so restless that I never got up any cool, and indigestion and gas pains just kept me feeling wretched. "I tell you, you can't imagine how happy I was when I started improving on my very first bottle of Karnak. Why, my troubles just seemed to leave me almost overnight. "I have taken three bottles of the medicine now and all the indigestion, gas, pain and shortness of breath are things of the past. Next I step like a child. That tired worn out feeling has completely disappeared and I have energy to do my household work once more. After all Karnak has done for me, I just know it would help anybody else who is in the condition I was in. Karnak is sold in Twin Falls by the Schramm-Johnson Drug Co., and all leading druggists.

Experiment Station Plans Rotation of Crops and Program

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho.—Experiments on various crops, rotation of crops, time of seeding and other farm problems, will be staged at the annual field day of the Potlatch experiment station, conducted by the University of Idaho extension service. The experiments will be shown July 28th at 10 a. m. at the field station at Fall. The field day is held annually for the benefit of the farmers and business men of the upper Snake river valley and especially those interested in dry farming problems.

The program has been arranged so that farmers from almost any part of the valley can leave their homes in the morning, attend the exercises and return to their homes at night, 20 F.M. is within easy driving distance from the Idaho Falls section.

Director Moss of the station anticipates that the largest attendance in the history of the high altitude station will be reported this year.

Every effort has been made to make the program this year the largest and most beneficial of any ever presented.

Fifty-Gallon Still with Supply of Whiskey Captured Near Casala County Line; Raid in Northern Nevada Finds Supply and Manufacturing Apparatus

With 50 gallons of booze and a still awaiting determination of value, the county of residence, and with another subject to be interviewed in liquor making on his way to Nevada in the hands of the federal, state, and county officers, having on hand two tons of the stuff. Saturday evening deputies returned from the Casala county line where they were in search of a still which they suspected that the liquor taken from the auto in which it, R. K. and Jim Knox had been made. There has been a still and 50 gallons of whiskey found on the line, but officers refused to divulge whether they have any evidence connecting the ownership with the men in custody. They made the search Saturday in company with Sheriff Pare of Casala, and it is close question to decide which side of the county line it was on. The hauling of R. K. and Knox will be before Judge Kennedy tonight Thursday at 10 o'clock.

Yesterday deputy sheriffs accompanied federal to drive creek beyond Nevada line where they were working were found. The deputies did not set the name of the man arrested as he was taken at once by the federal. He returned to Nevada.

An old man named Jesse Lynch was arrested this afternoon for alleged possession of 22 bottles of home brew and awaits determination of possible alcoholic content.

BUSINESS MAN TO BE PLACED IN TREASURY

New Assistant Secretary Will Have Charge of Vast Building Program

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—The new assistant secretary of the treasury, to succeed McKim, has been appointed to a federal judgeship. He will be a financial expert and practical business man, selected to handle the $165,000,000 government building program. He is the secretary of the Treasury Winston acid today.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will recommend a man who has been a soon as he returns from Europe. He already has the man in mind and conferred with President Coolidge. His appointment before the chief executive left Washington.

Officials of the treasury said today that on October 1, 20 per cent program would be instantly suspended.

Farmer Who Balances His Poultry Ration Gets Most Laying Eggs

Laying hens need a balanced ration. This fact is demonstrated by an experiment completed recently by the South Dakota State college poultry department in which 100 hens were each were fed under the same conditions but with different rations. It was the hens which received the best ration which laid the most eggs. The hens which received the best ration laid 27.94 eggs per bird for the two-month period. The hens which received 26.36 eggs per hen. The cost of the feed was practically the same in each case because the first job was to make sure grain to balance the cost of the meat mass, thus proving that the farmer who will balance his poultry ration will receive a greater profit.

Most of Us Do

When you incline to have new clothes, look first well over the old ones and see if you cannot still use them many years, by repair and mending or even patching if necessary. COCCIDIOSIS IS FATAL ILLNESS

One of the most serious maladies which poultry-raiser owners have to combat is coccidiosis, a destructive disease which is fatal to chickens. It is caused by a large number of birds are raised on a limited area.

Chickens between the ages of four and fourteen weeks are the most susceptible to contract the infection, and suffer the greatest mortality, according to A. Beach of the veterinary department at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, in a recent circular published by the college. He says that although there is a continuous contact with disease, they seldom die directly from it.

"The disease is the result of infection by a small parasite, known as the coccidium, which is spread in the droppings of infected birds. Beets, in eating the droppings of one or two chickens, their feathers become soiled, and its wings droop. Contaminated soil and water are the chief sources of infection. In certain localities birds, which are infected, though showing no outward signs of the disease, may be the cause of infection and a menace to all chicks that are permitted to run with them.

"No medicinal treatment has yet been found of decided value to ward off the disease," Beach declares. "It must be both the preventer and the cure."

As soon as coccidiosis is diagnosed, Beach says the steps to be taken are to remove all of the apparently healthy chicks to clean quarters—free the chicks from brooder houses—remove all litter from the brooder house—clean up the brooder house—feed light on scratch feed, and keep up with the chicks at all times.

Normal Crop is Expected in Spite of Drought; Healthy Grain Ripens.

Investing is on in earnest here this week and on every side fields of grain are ripening faster than the weather. The yield and quality of wheat are excellent. Barley, which was harvested first, turned out well. Similar conditions exist throughout the state, according to the following report from Paracello.

Instead of becoming drier, as it should in conformity with the general spirit in a season of drought, the harvest outlook in southern Idaho is becoming brighter as the grain ripens. The grain state is commencing a harvest that promises at least a normal yield. The yield will be equal to that of last year, which was a result of unusual production, but this year is far in excess of 1924, the last drought year, and on a par with the normal year to year average. In some instances the dry farms have exceeded the normal yield. There has been no serious damage to the crops from the drought. The grain is ripening and the farmers have only to wait for the harvest. The grain is ripening and the farmers have only to wait for the harvest.

Instead of becoming drier, as it should in conformity with the general spirit in a season of drought, the harvest outlook in southern Idaho is becoming brighter as the grain ripens. The grain state is commencing a harvest that promises at least a normal yield. The yield will be equal to that of last year, which was a result of unusual production, but this year is far in excess of 1924, the last drought year, and on a par with the normal year to year average. In some instances the dry farms have exceeded the normal yield. There has been no serious damage to the crops from the drought. The grain is ripening and the farmers have only to wait for the harvest. The grain is ripening and the farmers have only to wait for the harvest.
