

PRIMARY PROCEEDINGS

Personal Business Causes, Continuation of Political Inquiry.

Campaign Manager for Smith Is Chief Witness of Day.

CHICAGO, July 29.—The senate anti-trust investigating committee started today in the trial of alleged political graft in the Illinois primary and after hearing unimpeached witnesses relate their stories, adjourned next Tuesday.

Chairman Reed was recalled on personal business in Missouri and Senate La Follette's repudiation, Wisconsin, his only connection thus far in the committee investigation had main campaign speaking engagements in Wisconsin.

So far the committee has uncovered about a million dollars expenditures in the primary campaign of Illinois, and chief Thomas Cunningham, Philadelphia politician, to the senate for contempt.

The chief witness of the day was Allen Moore, campaign manager for Frank L. Smith, successful republican senatorial nominee who related his previous refusal to tell the committee who contributed to his $25,000 fund and lured by records.

Upon re-examination Tuesday the committee will hear Samuel Inall, public utilities inquirer upon the question of his refusal to disclose to what local campaign committee he contributed funds.

Moore's list as given to the committee is accounted for only in fractions. The total campaign fund, he explained that the balance was paid up in the county financial drives of which he had no direct knowledge.

The two largest amounts listed by Moore were $25,000 given by J. C. Cozart, Aurora, publisher of the Chicago Illinois newspaper and $10,000 controlled by Clement Stuebker, anti-communist agitator, manufacturer, and secretary of National Youth in the public utility industry.

Moore denied any knowledge of the list to Timothy McCarthy, last St. Louis newspaper man the $2,000 was paid to Charles Swenson, secretary of the Foreign Voters' League, for his support.

Committee Will Probe Exportations

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—Many members of a joint committee to investigate whether Germany is paying export bounties on iron and steel production, instituting an embargo in American tariff duties, was named by the state department today.

This investigation will begin next month in Berlin and it comprises, under Germany's request, an investigation before putting into effect the proposed increase.

Germany denies paying export bounties.

SON OF STOKES SHARES MONEY

NEW YORK, July 29.—The battle against his wife, when J. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel man, fought during the last year of his life, has defeated him in death.

Mrs. Helen Edmond Stokes, his second wife, and their two children, Stanley and James, were out of his will left by their father. The sole heir of the aged J. D. Stokes, the son of J. D. Stokes, died on July 28.

But scarcely more than a few weeks since the death of his father, the heir agreed yesterday on a settlement of the will by which his half sister and half brother will receive between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

SHAME DEATH MEN ACQUITTED

Four Defendants Accused in Connection with Pelece Case Hugged and Kissed by Countrymen.

MEXICO, Mexico, July 29.—Four Mexicans accused of vicious acts in connection with the "share nothing" case of Thomas D. East. His wife and two daughters, today today acquitted by a jury of also of their countrymen. The verdict was returned after two hours and fifteen minutes deliberation.

When the jury's findings were announced last night by Judge Velazquez, spectators weeping, Mexican newspapermen, relatives and friends of the defendants rushed upon the men, embracing them with vigorous demonstrations.

The men freed by the verdict are Zenobio Alvarez, former chief of police; Luis Amador, editor; Alfredo Alvarez, bartender, and Francisco Guzman former policeman.

The chief witness of the day was Allen Moore, campaign manager for Frank L. Smith, successful republican senatorial nominee who related his previous refusal to tell the committee who contributed to his $25,000 fund and lured by records.

Upon re-examination Tuesday the committee will hear Samuel Inall, public utilities inquirer upon the question of his refusal to disclose to what local campaign committee he contributed funds.

Moore's list as given to the committee is accounted for only in fractions. The total campaign fund, he explained that the balance was paid up in the county financial drives of which he had no direct knowledge.

The two largest amounts listed by Moore were $25,000 given by J. C. Cozart, Aurora, publisher of the Chicago Illinois newspaper and $10,000 controlled by Clement Stuebker, anti-communist agitator, manufacturer, and secretary of National Youth in the public utility industry.

Moore denied any knowledge of the list to Timothy McCarthy, last St. Louis newspaper man the $2,000 was paid to Charles Swenson, secretary of the Foreign Voters' League, for his support.

This investigation will begin next month in Berlin and it comprises, under Germany's request, an investigation before putting into effect the proposed increase.

Germany denies paying export bounties.

This investigation will begin next month in Berlin and it comprises, under Germany's request, an investigation before putting into effect the proposed increase.

Germany denies paying export bounties.

DAWES BALKS AT POSING FOR CAMERAS

CHICAGO, July 29.—If President Coolidge wants to be photographed in a formal setting, but you can count me out," Vice President Dawes told camera men who were posing for a Rocky mountain picture.

The vice president, his wife and their two children will leave Chicago today for Denver, where Mr. Dawes will speak Sunday. He will then go to Aspen, Wheel Gap, Colo., for a ten days' fishing expedition.

REGULATION CONTINUED

LONDON, July 29.—Continuance for several months of the emergency regulations whereunder Great Britain, has been governed since the industrial crisis became acute three months ago, was authorized today by the house of commons.

INDIANS SUE GOVERNMENT FOR DAMAGES

Thirty-five Tribes Have Actions Totalling $1,250,000,000 in Claims Court.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—Thirty-five Indian tribes have management suits aggregating $1,250,000,000 pending against the United States in the United States court of claims. It was learned at the justice department today.

Alleging 45 causes for action, the Sioux nation is attempting to collect $50,000,000 from the government. The Indian charge that Sam Toot, the Black Hills of North and South Dakota without adequate compensation, failed to educate their children as required under a treaty of 1851, permitted citizens to destroy their buffalo and unappropriated or diverted in purposes not benefiting to the Sioux.

Jackson Treaty. The Creek nation has the next largest suit, claiming $120,000,000 damages. This tribe asserts it made a treaty with Andrew Jackson in 1813 whereby it agreed to give the government 2,500,000 acres of land in western Georgia and eastern Alabama. The government, it is charged, failed to pay for the property.

Dakota Indians seek to recover $150,000,000. This tribe contends a government clerk years ago stole about 300,000 acres of state lands belonging to the nation and that the clerk failed to pay the full value. Government in making reimbursements of acres of their lands, the Arkansas Gros Ventre and Mandan tribes of North Dakota charge in suing the government for more than $124,000,000.

Others suing for alleged treaty rights, unfulfilled hunting privileges, and appropriated lands include the Shoshone, for $180,000; Cheyenne nation $170,000; Iowa tribe $152,000; Kansas or Kaw tribe $85,000; Kiowa tribe $100,000; Modoc and Yahooswin Snake Indians; $144,000,000; Flathead band $472,000; Osage nation $240,000; Wichita tribe, $11,237,000.

Executive orders took away certain rights from the tribes, the government is charged.

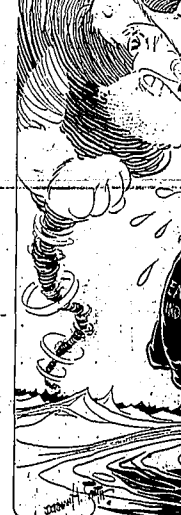

The train was proceeding from Missoula, Alaska to Park. The engine jumped the track between Rocky Lake and Rosy.

SALT LAKE SEEKS SUITABLE CANDIDATES

SALT LAKE CITY, July 29.—There is a well defined movement here to impress qualified business men of the city and state to run for legislative office this fall.

Preliminary to this end have been held a number of camps of suitable candidates to be made. The movement is backed by interest foreigners who term it as a local government.

RUB-A-DUB-DUB

BALKANS TORN BY INTRIGUE AS WAR BIRTHDAY PASSES

Twelfth Anniversary of Titanic Struggle Finds New Fires Smoldering.

BY CHICAGO, ILL., (By) LONDON, July 29.—In the twelfth anniversary of the battles which shook the world war, the Balkans show the first signs of a respite and cheerfulness. It is only in the last few days that the specter of war in Europe has been almost forgotten.

The latest of the respite has been reported by the Balkan press. The latest of the respite has been reported by the Balkan press. The latest of the respite has been reported by the Balkan press.

Many informed observers believe the Balkan influence is waning, particularly because of the recent outbreak of Greece and the failure of the League of Nations to bring about a peace and security.

The Balkan press is making it possible to see the spread of hostilities once they begin in earnest.

The Near East, too, is a disturbing factor owing to the difficulty of maintaining the peace established by the League of Nations.

FOUR KILLED IN RAIL CRASH

LONDON, July 29.—Four persons were killed in the wreck of an express train derailed outside Paris today. The locomotive and six coaches were overturned.

Three of the ten injured were taken to Paris hospitals where their condition was reported as hopeless. Other victims were believed to be recovering.

The train was proceeding from Missoula, Alaska to Park. The engine jumped the track between Rocky Lake and Rosy.

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—Deputy Jose Alvarez called a political candidate late last night but by showing to date, Senator I. Ramirez Galvan.

During the fitting, Judge Salgado, of the second penal district, arrested doubly fitted a bookstall with a wild shot. Alvarez had not been arrested early today.

FINAL CHURCH RITES TODAY; MANY ATTEND

Catholics of Mexico Prepare to Abandon Shrimps in Face of Epid.

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—Millions of Catholics today gathered at St. Peter's and St. Paul's churches in Mexico to participate in the final mass for the dead before the doors of the sacred places in front of the St. Peter's Basilica closed by the Catholic government.

Today is the last on which the faithful will find the "pope" in their temples.

Meanwhile the government ordered Catholics and all other sects with solemn rites for passing arms to be defined of their weapons.

The situation today is that the government's law remains in force, the activities of priests or ministers of any sort becoming prohibited. Almost as planned, in protest the Mexican episcopate has demanded to abandon the churches and the Catholic League for the defense of religious liberty.

Actively organizing the boycott with which it hopes to force the government to change its position.

Conservative opinion today, however, seemed to prevail to meet the "trouble" epidemic which the state has uncovered.

The labor demonstration is to be in the form of a parade, and some church men say the faithful will remain passive in the face of his anarchistic noise. It is alleged that a considerable body of troops will participate in the parade dispersed as witnesses.

Secretary of the Interior, Jesus Torres, said today that all necessary precautions to suppress disorder had been taken by the government. Troops have been ordered to be on call in their barracks.

Comprising the clergy's move to abandon the churches the government ordered municipal authorities to appoint committees to take over the buildings and property. The value of the property involved is inestimable.

Conservative opinion today, however, seemed to prevail to meet the "trouble" epidemic which the state has uncovered.

The Spanish minister today denied the rumor that Spain would withdraw recognition from Mexico because of the religious laws.

There was no set up today in the planning of the Catholic and infant children continued unabated. Troops have received orders to remain in the streets until the afternoon of the new disorders occurring, but it is thought improbable any need for them will occur.

SIX ARE HELD IN RAILROAD TUNNEL

DENVER, July 29.—Six men were imprisoned and one man was wounded today in a cave-in in a tunnel in the west portal of the Moffat tunnel at 11 o'clock this morning, according to a report received here this afternoon.

Engineers are trying to effect a rescue recovering the report of the commissioner.

WILL ATTEMPT SWIM CAPE GRIS NEEZ, France, July 30.—Gerrardo Ederia may attempt to swim the English channel tonight, she announced today. She is an Egyptian swimmer, planned to begin the long swim at midnight and Oertrude decided to accompany her on a short distance from there if she felt ready for the feat, to attempt to continue to the English coast.

NOT WAVE HERE IN THIS CITY The thermometer at the depot registered 92 above today at 1 o'clock. Late yesterday it went up to 95 above.

AMEE RECALLED BY L. A. GRAND JURORS

MRS. HALL WILL SEEK RELEASE

State Guards Secrets in Case of Pagan Charged with Slaying Pagan-Husband and Choir Singer.

SMITHVILLE, N. J., July 29.—Arrangement of a secret hearing of Mrs. W. Pagan's slaying of her husband will set her free on bail on a writ of habeas corpus and a declaration by Judge A. Henry Moore that a special grand jury ordered to be held should take full charge of the returned Hall-Moore investigation.

The hearing of Mrs. Hall will be at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Prosecutor Ernest L. Brown announced that a new hearing would be held from the hearing. He said that he had determined that the state's case against Mrs. Hall and others to proceed shall not be weakened by injunctive publicity that would also offer them to be arrested.

Moore is preparing to meet the "trouble" epidemic which the state has uncovered.

PRELATES BOW TO GOVERNMENT

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—The prelates who were summoned to the grand jury and face the Monterey witnesses.

J. Buchanan, Los Angeles branch manager of the Bureau Agency, here last night, presumably for Monterey awaiting a conference with Judge Kirby.

The Mexican episcopate reacted the election yesterday as this country prelates would attend a temporary council in Mexico City.

Secretary of the Interior, Jesus Torres, said today that all necessary precautions to suppress disorder had been taken by the government. Troops have been ordered to be on call in their barracks.

Comprising the clergy's move to abandon the churches the government ordered municipal authorities to appoint committees to take over the buildings and property. The value of the property involved is inestimable.

Conservative opinion today, however, seemed to prevail to meet the "trouble" epidemic which the state has uncovered.

PROMOTER NAMED IN INDICTMENT

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 29.—Charles E. G. Lewis, promoter of the promotion of the California II, is charged in the indictment today by a federal grand jury.

Also indicted with Lewis were James Louis Cohen, William Abrams and I. I. Kramer, asserted officers in the promotion of the California II, who were charged with conspiracy to defraud.

There was no set up today in the planning of the Catholic and infant children continued unabated. Troops have received orders to remain in the streets until the afternoon of the new disorders occurring, but it is thought improbable any need for them will occur.

WILL ATTEMPT SWIM CAPE GRIS NEEZ, France, July 30.—Gerrardo Ederia may attempt to swim the English channel tonight, she announced today. She is an Egyptian swimmer, planned to begin the long swim at midnight and Oertrude decided to accompany her on a short distance from there if she felt ready for the feat, to attempt to continue to the English coast.

IDAHO FALLS IS TO BUILD HOTEL

IDAHO FALLS, July 29.—O. A. Robinson, president of the Idaho Falls Community Hotel corporation announced today that the organization had secured 450 subscribers and that the hotel, Donnellville, to be a reality.

Robinson announced that the option on the property at Park avenue and C street had been exercised, and the valuable property of the hotel building corporation.

The architects and contractor have been requested to begin construction on the hotel building.

Discussions of the matter will be held at the office of the Idaho Falls Community Hotel corporation.

Robinson announced that the option on the property at Park avenue and C street had been exercised, and the valuable property of the hotel building corporation.

The architects and contractor have been requested to begin construction on the hotel building.

Discussions of the matter will be held at the office of the Idaho Falls Community Hotel corporation.

AIR MAIL ROUTE TO HAVE LIGHTS

IDAHO, Nev., July 30.—Seven markers on the line of 21,000 and the city of Elko, Idaho, for the guidance of pilots who fly over the Elko-Pass air mail route, are now being installed, and emergency landing fields are being constructed at the Elko-Pass air mail route, are now being installed, and emergency landing fields are being constructed at the Elko-Pass air mail route.

The markers are being placed on the route of the Elko-Pass air mail route, are now being installed, and emergency landing fields are being constructed at the Elko-Pass air mail route.

The markers are being placed on the route of the Elko-Pass air mail route, are now being installed, and emergency landing fields are being constructed at the Elko-Pass air mail route.

IDAHO FALLS IS TO BUILD HOTEL

IDAHO FALLS, July 29.—O. A. Robinson, president of the Idaho Falls Community Hotel corporation announced today that the organization had secured 450 subscribers and that the hotel, Donnellville, to be a reality.

Robinson announced that the option on the property at Park avenue and C street had been exercised, and the valuable property of the hotel building corporation.

The architects and contractor have been requested to begin construction on the hotel building.

Discussions of the matter will be held at the office of the Idaho Falls Community Hotel corporation.

Robinson announced that the option on the property at Park avenue and C street had been exercised, and the valuable property of the hotel building corporation.

The architects and contractor have been requested to begin construction on the hotel building.

SOCIETY

MAROA NEWS

Birthday Party—Little Miss Marjorie Cole was guest of honor at a delightful lawn party given in honor of her fifth birthday Thursday at the home of her parents on Seventh avenue north. The guests numbered thirty-seven. Jolly lawn games and contests amused the little people during the afternoon. Prizes went to Grace Smith and Frank Toolson. At a late hour delicious refreshments consisting of individual cakes and ice cream in Dixie cups were served. Mrs. Cole was assisted in serving by the dainty girls of the neighborhood.

Lawn Party—Miss Helen Severin celebrated her eighth birthday with an attractive lawn party given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Severin on Walnut Wednesday afternoon. Games and contests furnished the afternoon's diversion. Refreshments were served at the large table, all details being carried out in pink and blue. The centerpiece was a lovely birthday cake ornamented with eight pink candles. Prizes were marked for twelve.

Outing at the Twin Falls. The members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Christian church are entertaining with a wicker road and party at the Twin Falls this evening. The party will meet at the church at 7:30 and go from there to the canyon in cars. In addition to the camp supper which will be served the evening program includes athletic games and aquatic sports.

ODD FELLOWS TO MEET IN BIG PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Odd Fellows and Hibernians of the Twin Falls district will be held Sunday at the Filer fair grounds and there will be a fine basket dinner with an address by Rev. E. C. Horton, pastor of the First Baptist church of Twin Falls. Filer, Twin Falls and Kimberly members of the two organizations will be present from their respective lodges.

Buhl May Have Weekly Concert

BUHL, July 30.—A movement is underway to furnish Buhl with a free band concert every Saturday night. Several local business men are setting up the movement which will bring the Buhlers back to Buhl for the concert. It will be a stimulating treat and good will among the town and folks.

Arrangements have not been made as yet but are under consideration. Mr. Buckner, manager of the Hibernian band, expects to have these plans made by the close of this week.

The band consists of twenty-five pieces and is under the direction of a Holms musician. Some very good concerts have been given in Hagerman and on July 24 the band was engaged to play at Wendell at the request there. The reports of the concert were very good and the band is highly recommended.

DO YOU KNOW AS MUCH AS YOUR CAT?

She's a knowing cat. She asks for little—just her meals, a saucer of milk and a place in the sun. She gets plenty of sleep and exercise. She never worries, never frets. What do you want? Eat healthily and be sure that you, like cats, have no ill effects.

What does your cat do when she is not green? She eats catnip, if she can find it. She cuts grass and chews green plants to which her instinct leads her. Your cat takes herbs for a tonic. Did you ever stop to think that Old Mother Nature, who supplies the herbs necessary to keep your cat healthy, has provided the herbs necessary to your own wellbeing?

You don't have to hunt for them as the cat does. The herbs you need are available in the Lyell's E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an old-fashioned tonic that will help to restore your energy.

Mrs. Gust Olson of 401 Lincoln Park Boulevard, Rockford, Illinois, writes: "I have been ailing for some time and Vegetable Compound has helped me and I feel better now. I recommend it to all women who need more strength."

For more than a half a century this medicine has been taken by women with very satisfactory results. If it has helped others, why shouldn't it help you?

MEET GIVES APPROVAL TO SAMUELS PLAN

The meeting called under auspices of the Grange and headed over by Congressman Addison T. Smith at the Parish hall, before adjournment yesterday afternoon unanimously passed the following resolutions introduced by Prof. Sniater:

"Whereas, every enterprising American has an ambition to be the possessor of his state developed and the population increased with prosperity to all and

"Whereas, the young state of Idaho has been retarded in its development on account of the high cost of fuel and,

"Whereas, one of the elements that has contributed to the high cost of fuel is the excessive freight rates and long hauls from outside the state, and

"Whereas, Idaho is favored by the development of a coal mine which will add much content to the people and,

"Whereas, the state of Idaho is asking for a fair and just rate for Idaho coal; and

"Whereas, the state of Idaho requests the Teton Coal railway, by H. F. Samuels, its president, to file a petition with the public utilities commission for a reasonable and just rate on coal from Idaho coal mines to the people of Idaho, low therefore be it

"Resolved, that we, citizens of Twin Falls county, in a mass meeting assembled at Twin Falls, this 29th day of July, 1926, believing that the present freight rates on coal are excessive, and that the rates proposed by the state of Idaho, as set forth in said petition are fair and reasonable, both to the coal company and to the consumers, respectfully requested that the public utilities commission of Idaho make an order requiring the Teton Short Line Railroad company to put into effect the said rates as proposed by the said state of Idaho in its petition."

The meeting called under auspices of the Grange and headed over by Congressman Addison T. Smith at the Parish hall, before adjournment yesterday afternoon unanimously passed the following resolutions introduced by Prof. Sniater:

"Whereas, every enterprising American has an ambition to be the possessor of his state developed and the population increased with prosperity to all and

"Whereas, the young state of Idaho has been retarded in its development on account of the high cost of fuel and,

"Whereas, one of the elements that has contributed to the high cost of fuel is the excessive freight rates and long hauls from outside the state, and

"Whereas, Idaho is favored by the development of a coal mine which will add much content to the people and,

"Whereas, the state of Idaho is asking for a fair and just rate for Idaho coal; and

"Whereas, the state of Idaho requests the Teton Coal railway, by H. F. Samuels, its president, to file a petition with the public utilities commission for a reasonable and just rate on coal from Idaho coal mines to the people of Idaho, low therefore be it

"Resolved, that we, citizens of Twin Falls county, in a mass meeting assembled at Twin Falls, this 29th day of July, 1926, believing that the present freight rates on coal are excessive, and that the rates proposed by the state of Idaho, as set forth in said petition are fair and reasonable, both to the coal company and to the consumers, respectfully requested that the public utilities commission of Idaho make an order requiring the Teton Short Line Railroad company to put into effect the said rates as proposed by the said state of Idaho in its petition."

The meeting called under auspices of the Grange and headed over by Congressman Addison T. Smith at the Parish hall, before adjournment yesterday afternoon unanimously passed the following resolutions introduced by Prof. Sniater:

road were in Filer Wednesday on business. George Andrews, A. H. Wood and Joe Wootton returned to Twin Falls on Sunday. Edwin Bitterli, who lives on the highway northwest of Filer is threshing white clover of excellent quality which is yielding over ten bushels to the acre.

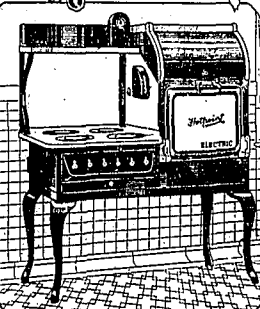

Mr. and Mrs. James Hooker and daughter Edna of The Timber, Montana, are visiting at the W. H. Reed home. Mrs. Droker is a sister of Mrs. Reed. Dr. A. A. Newberry received a telegram Thursday morning from Portland stating the death of his mother, who had been seriously ill for some time. The many friends of Mrs. E. H. Hildley who lives at 2335 East Fourth, Long Beach, Calif., will regret to hear of her critical illness. She resided for about fifteen years in Filer.

"THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR ELECTRIC COOKING"

Time for Canning!

DO IT THE EASIER WAY—ELECTRICALLY!

With an Electric Range your canning may be successfully done by the approved modern cold pack method—all in the oven. Just a kettle of hot syrup on top of the range. Cold pack canning removes the guesswork and most of the other work. No stirring of steaming hot kettles—A cooler, more comfortable kitchen to work in.

And there is little "cleaning up" to do afterwards. Pots and pans are not grimy and smoke blackened. Walls remain spotlessly clean.

Electric Cooking Is No Longer a Luxury

No longer is electric cooking a privilege of the favored few. The moderate prices of reliable, thoroughly modern electric ranges, together with the very low rates for electricity paid by Idaho Power Company customers makes electrical cooking the most economical as well as the most satisfactory method that a housewife can employ.

A Variety of Models to Choose From

Visit our Electric Shop and see the many types and sizes of electric ranges on display. There is a model here to suit your needs exactly at a fair price.

Our demonstrators will gladly show you with what convenience, comfort and economy you may do your canning, as well as all other cookery, when you have your electric range.

Electric Shop

IDAHO POWER COMPANY

Terms as Low as $5 down $5 a Month

FILER NEWS

L. A. Heathman, traveling freight agent for the N. P. & St. L. railroad and R. G. Gilmore, traveling freight agent for the Missouri Pacific railroad.

C. Wilkins, a member of the law firm of Wolfe & Wilkins, L. D. Hildreth, Twin Falls, hereby announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Prosecuting Attorney, and adv.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Doherty entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Junken and family at dinner Sunday.

Mrs. Len Henderson at Hottelville Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Bailey.

Mrs. Len Henderson and her son, Mrs. Marie Henderson and her son, Mrs. Clara Henderson and her son, Mrs. W. O. Buhl and family were visitors at the home of Mrs. D. B. Buhl at the home of Mrs. D. B. Buhl.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Junken and family at dinner Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Sharp visited with W. O. Buhl at Knoll Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Hattie Crawford.

Mrs. Buhl who is from Hildreth, Idaho, formerly visited the ranch that Austin Grimm now occupies.

If you don't need it someone else does. Try it now.

The Rose Dawn Tonight 8:15 o'clock

Lavering Theater

ETHEL ROGERSON

Candidate for County Commissioner, Second District, subject to the action of the Republican primary election, August 3, solicits your support.

Will give conscientious attention to all county matters having to do with the best welfare for the people. Will devote special attention to putting the county hospital on an economical basis, will insist that in all instances the people must be kept informed regarding the conduct of public business by means of full, impartial and intelligible reports.—adv.

YOUR FAMILY LIKES SKINKERS' Superior SPAGHETTI

What does your cat do when she is not green? She eats catnip, if she can find it. She cuts grass and chews green plants to which her instinct leads her.

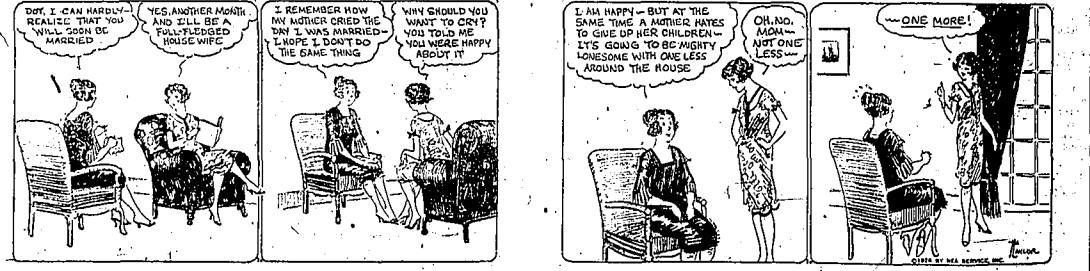

Your cat takes herbs for a tonic. Did you ever stop to think that Old Mother Nature, who supplies the herbs necessary to keep your cat healthy, has provided the herbs necessary to your own wellbeing?

You don't have to hunt for them as the cat does. The herbs you need are available in the Lyell's E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an old-fashioned tonic that will help to restore your energy.

Mrs. Gust Olson of 401 Lincoln Park Boulevard, Rockford, Illinois, writes: "I have been ailing for some time and Vegetable Compound has helped me and I feel better now. I recommend it to all women who need more strength."

For more than a half a century this medicine has been taken by women with very satisfactory results. If it has helped others, why shouldn't it help you?

Plus-Not Minus —By Taylor

DOY, I CAN HARDLY REALIZE THAT YOU WERE EVER MARRIED.

YES, ANOTHER MONTH AND I'LL BE A FULL-TIME HOUSEWIFE.

I REMEMBER HOW MY MOTHER CRIED THE DAY I WAS MARRIED. I HOPE I DON'T DO THE SAME THING.

WHY SHOULD YOU WANT TO CRY? YOU TOLD ME YOU WERE HAPPY ABOUT IT.

I AM HAPPY—BUT AT THE SAME TIME A MOTHER HATES TO GIVE UP HER CHILDREN. IT'S GOING TO BE MIGHTY LONELY WITH ONE LESS AROUND THE HOUSE.

OH, NO. I'M NOT ONE LESS.

—ONE MORE!

Illustration by MEA NEVINS for The Daily Times.

TWIN FALLS DAILY TIMES

Published Every Day Except Sunday by The Times Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho. L. H. MASTERS, Editor and Publisher.

Entered at the Twin Falls Postoffice as a Second Class Matter as a Daily Publication, April 11, 1918.

The Filer fair ground is becoming the general picnic site for this part of the county. Sunday the I. O. O. F. and Rebekahs will hold their celebration there with plenty to eat and an eloquent talk to act as sauge for the occasion.

President Coolidge is "feeling out" the political situation over the country with reference a possible third term. Richard Washburn Child has put forward the idea definitely and tentatively and all that is now necessary is to await the reaction. The people of this country are opposed to third terms for the president. General Grant, with all his personal popularity and with the backing of the eloquent Conklyn was unable to overcome this. Theodore Roosevelt failed in his brilliant canvass for nomination and election. In both of these cases it was argued that Washington, Jefferson, and Jackson had a third consecutive term in mind. In the Roosevelt instance it was further contended he had not served two full terms. This last argument had, however, previously been correctly disposed of by Roosevelt himself, when, refusing to run for a third term in 1908, he said that the objection went to the substance and not to the form and that his first incumbency was really a third term. Coolidge is not popular. Neither is he unpopular. "Cool Gal" he is to friends and critics; a person who arouses neither enthusiasm nor antipathy, one who will go over on a tidal wave, but sink in a ripple.

UNFAIR AND DISHONEST FIGHT

By JAMES D. WHELAN

The writer is not committed in any way to support John F. Nugent for democratic nomination for the United States senate and should a stronger progressive democrat enter the lists would like to see such democrat nominated. Moreover, when owing to a misunderstanding of the situation Senator Nugent in 1920, asked an embargo to offset a supposed unfair trade conspiracy, the writer strongly disapproved of this action, which though made in good faith, was capable of being misconstrued and based on incorrect information, and cost the senator thousands of votes. Of some other issues and regarding some individuals our opinions differed.

At the same time, common fairness and common honesty demand that the false insinuations of republican allies, who have kept the g. r. p. in control of Idaho for three campaigns shall not go unchallenged. John F. Nugent is no time-server. He has never sold his birthright for money or his state and country for place or position. He ran 30,000 ahead of his ticket in 1920 and far ahead in 1918. His record in the senate was sound on all economic and moral issues. He courageously fought for the people against the trusts as a member of the federal trade commission, and was a stalwart foe of the administration policy of suppressing information in trust investigations. He is able and clean. He is incapable of being a tool of Coolidge, as intimated by those who serve Coolidge well indeed. The charge that Nugent is in Idaho to serve republican purposes, while advanced by those who have served and are serving such purposes, will not be accepted by honest or intelligent people whether Nugent backers or not.

Democrats have a right to support others than the former senator at the convention if they think best. Progressives have a right to run a candidate for the senate from their own party if they desire. In neither case should a charge of dishonesty lie. But those who seek to make the people believe that John F. Nugent is capable of the sort of "political activities" of which they are themselves guilty are as idiotic as they are reprehensible. People know better.

DARWINISM NOT SETTLED

Those who assume that the Darwinian theory has been finally accepted in essentials by the scientific world will probably be surprised by the following story today by the United Press staff correspondent in London, who says: Possibility of a revival of the old controversy over the Darwinian theory follows the announcement that Julian Huxley, grandson of the famous Thomas Huxley, will address a section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Oxford on August 4.

Huxley's address will stress the general biological effects of inheritance upon the specific appearance of human.

It is recalled that it was at Oxford in 1881 that Thomas Huxley reopened the old wounds over the theory. The president of the association at that time was the Marquis of Salisbury, whose address on Darwin's theory, together with Huxley's stinging reply, revealed that the old controversy, though in a modified form, was still very much alive.

In 1860, A. Vernon Harecourt, Huxley and Hooker became involved in their famous debate over the theory with Wilberforce, but it was not until the Association met again at Oxford in 1881, that the controversy came seriously before the body.

Second in importance only to the Royal Institution as a scientific body, the Association has long been noted for its first revelations to the world of new discoveries in all fields of science.

The first public demonstration of wireless telegraphy was made before the Association by Sir Oliver Lodge.

OUT OUR WAY—BY WILLIAMS

Churches

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

C. C. Curtis, Minister. 10 p. m.—Bible school, W. A. Patrick, director; C. C. Curtis, presiding. 11 a. m.—Communion and sermon. Theme: "The Power of an Exalted Christ."

BAPTIST CHURCH

R. C. Burton, Pastor. 9:45 a. m.—Bible study hour. 11 a. m.—Morning worship. Sermon preached by the pastor. Subject: "Substitution for Jesus."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

A. G. Pearson, Minister. 9:45 a. m.—Sunday school. Good teachers. Graded departments. A welcome to strangers and visitors. 11 a. m.—Morning worship. The sermon subject will be "A Broken in Parents." Mrs. F. A. Cranston, soloist.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

H. G. Humphrey, Pastor. 9:45 a. m.—Sunday school. R. L. Ashton, superintendent. 11 a. m.—Preaching by the pastor. The Scripture call to life our theme. The music will be: Organ prelude, "Praise," "Thou shalt be Armatized," composed for the Spanish-Cretanians, and "The Lord's Prayer." "Will You Keep Him In Perfect Peace" (Wilson); offering, "Amenable" from immunities composed by Mrs. R. H. Hinton; baritone solo, selected; George W. Hill; psalms (Stanhope).

LUTHERAN CHURCH

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m. Morning worship, 10:30 a. m. Theme: "An Account of Thy Stewardship." Sermon the next week, "The application results in death." This applies to the soul. God's Word is the only nourishment of your soul.

ST. EDWARD'S CATHOLIC

Rev. Fr. Kreyer, Pastor. Sunday services, mass at 7 a. m. High mass at 9 a. m.

DELIVERANCE AT THE RED SEA

LESSION FIVE—The Lord to my strength and song—and He is become my Saviour. PRIMARY SUNDAY—Good Takes Care of Children of Israel. JUNIOR TOPIC—Israel Saved at the Red Sea. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How a Nation Grows. W. A. B. Young Prophet and Adult Topical—Deeds and Human Leadership.

Lesson for August 1

1. Israel in Circumstances (Ex. 1:1-2). 1. Going out of the land of Egypt (13:1-18). The tents arose from the strong hold of the Almighty made Pharaoh willing to let Israel go. The Israelites went out from Egypt on their way to the promised land with a high hand. Through the land of the Philistines the journey would have been comparatively a short but God commanded them to go from that way lest they should see war and decay in Egypt, back to Egypt. The way of the wilderness was a longer route, but it had many valuable lessons for them. By the way they escaped the Egyptians' wrath, which would have come to them at the land of the Philistines, but they learned the rewards and perils of their own hearts (Deut. 32:1-3).

take S.S.S. for SKIN TROUBLES RHEUMATISM LOSS OF APPETITE LOSS OF STRENGTH

Rich, red blood cleans the skin, increases the appetite, builds strength and stops rheumatism. You can take S. S. S. with confidence—millions testify to its merit. An unbroken record of service for over 100 years is a great testimonial to a great medicine. Remember S. S. S. is made only from fresh roots and herbs.

The Deep Well of Life. Oh, ye poor, dry and dead souls, why will ye not come hither with your empty vessels and your empty souls to this deep and sweet well of life, and fill your empty vessels. S. S. S. Help Improve the World. The world was never meant to suffer. It is the man's business to do what he can to improve his world, and leave it and pass on to a higher life to eternal joy.—W. Robertson Nicoll.

When you need a job, use The Times want column.

CASPER MAN GAINS 25 POUNDS TAKING KARNAK

Stomach Trouble Seemed to Be Killing Him Off By Inches But This Medicine Just Made a New Man of Him, Say Wickenkamp. "Indigestion and stomach trouble just seemed to be killing me off by inches before I got Karnak. I had six bottles of that medicine and really built me up 25 pounds in weight and made a will man of me." This was before then and Wickenkamp, Box 1546, Casper, Wyo. "I just nearly starved myself dieting," continues Mr. Wickenkamp. "I was a weak, waxy little fellow in about half an hour I would get sick at my stomach and have such awful stomach cramps I could hardly stand. "I would just hunch up bitter liquid that would almost strangle me, and I would get no rid of my weakness and I could not get any sleep."

DIGEST OF CATHOLIC SIDE IN MEXICO GIVEN BY SECRETARY

(By THE REV. JOHN J. BURKE) (Special Secretary National Catholic Welfare Conference, Written for the United Press.) No American can know the constitution of Mexico and the laws being enacted under it and much less the views of the Catholic hierarchy of the nation set up to enforce them and fail to understand that the tragedy being enacted in this regard is really an assault upon freedom and the right of free men. Article 3 of the constitution, after changing all "instructions" of the clergy, provides that all "primary" instruction whether public or private, given in private institutions shall be secular, and "no religious corporation nor minister of any religious corporation has established or direct control of primary instruction."

The teachers of 150 private schools in Mexico City and the federal districts protested against the constitution of Mexico, July 2, 1926, by the secretary of public instruction. To overcome this opposition, the secretary appointed a committee to study the matter with final power to act. Knowing that justice could not be expected, the teaching brethren of the hierarchy have for several years, closed their schools, unable to justify before their own conscience the perpetration of even a semblance of compliance with the regulations of the constitution. Article 27, in defining the legal capacity of an entire people, declares the "legal capacity to acquire, hold, or administer real property or loans made on real property." The constitution of 1917 declares "places of public worship are the property of the nation, as represented by the federal government, and shall determine which of them may continue to be devoted to their present purposes." The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even over the acts of civil worship conducted in a church in Mexico. Right to Inherit. Article 130 declares the students made in theological seminaries. This article abolishes the freedom of press by declaring that no religious periodical publication shall continue upon any political or religious ground. The revolutionary authorities who under Carranza enacted this legislation sought to make of the state the supreme landlord under which church property would be permitted to occupy buildings or land. Article 130 provides that the management of the church shall have no effect nor even

