SOCIETY

Spanish Program Given—The meeting of the Order of Eastern Star, held Tuesday evening in the Masonic temple, was especially entertaining. At the business meeting, with Mrs. C. A. Bignia as presiding officer, arrangements were made for the dinner in honor of the Grand Matron to be held November 23 at Pariah hall, the Episcopal Guild serving. The program which followed, favored the Spanish motif. Mrs. H. Masters, accompanied by Miss Charlotte Vazel, sang two Spanish solos. A Vargas, Spanish instructor in the Twin Falls high school, gave a most informative talk on Spain and the Spanish language and read two poems in his native tongue. Amusing stunts completed the evening's program, of which Mrs. E. D. Bloom was chairman. Refreshments, appropriately Spanish, were served by the unaffiliated members at the close of the evening.

Drama and Literature—The drama and literature department of the Twentieth Century club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. M. Wolfe, with Mrs. O. J. Koster assisting hostess. The first part of the afternoon was devoted to a general meeting in discussion, with Mrs. J. L. Price presiding. Mrs. M. W. Hout gave a very complete outline of "The History of the Drama in America." Miss Cleo Hunt gave two beautiful piano selections. At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Wolfe and Mrs. Koster served delicious refreshments.

W. W. H. Meets—The W. W. H. of the First Baptist church met at the home of Miss Edith Johnson, 251 Fifth avenue west on Tuesday evening, Miss Beulah Wynland presiding over the business session. The program included a discussion of Red Cross work, the reading of the Book of Ruth, and musical selections. The meeting concluded with the benedictory song, "Blest Be the Tie." During the social hour delicious refreshments were served by Miss Edith Johnson and Miss Beulah Wynland. At the next meeting, the evening will be devoted entirely to Red Cross work.

Hostess Club—The Unity club was hostess to the Women's Progressive club at an unusually interesting meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Belleville. Mrs. Roy Evans presided at the brief business session which preceded the program. Reports from the district federators were given by Mrs. A. C. Rutherford and Mrs. A. Pustzer, who represented the rural federation at that session and a report from the state federation was given by Mrs. A. J. Green. Unity club delegates. The afternoon was concluded with a short musical program and stunts, and a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. Edgar Patrick were in charge of the refreshments.

GIRLHOOD TO MOTHERHOOD

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

"Vinton, Iowa.—When I was seventeen years old I began to suffer from the same trouble which I finally had to quit school. I was so weak, I suffered for about two years before Mrs. Edgar Patrick, then I picked up one of your bottles and began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all your books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me. Dark Blue Package, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning through their own personal experience the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it when they were young are glad to recommend it to their daughters.

For over half a century, women have praised this reliable medicine.

Misses Katherine and Julia Hood are here from Pocatello visiting friends.

John Hood, of the Golden Idle stores came down from Pocatello last evening on business.

Robert Campbell was up from Idaho on business this morning.

A great child specialist

Who said, "You cannot destroy the mind of a child?"

The great remedial rule for health for both adults and children, is regularity in all the details of life. Regular food—regular rest, and above all, regular and complete stimulation of waste.

You can train your body in the habits of perfect absorption of food, and perfect elimination of wastes if you will but rely on the one safe and intelligent, means of doing so. Perfect—action—Food!

ROMAN MEAL, the "Happy Medium" in cereal foods, neither too-refined nor too-composed of unrefined grain, will build your health on a sound basis and maintain it, provided if you eat use this wonderful food each day, some way.

Makes Hair Behave But Doesn't SHOW!

There's a way to keep your hair just-so, without any of that objectionable "pig-tired-down" look. Just use a few drops of Danderine—comb it through hair, or use a Danderine-impregnated towel—you'll be amazed at the way your hair then behaves, and the beautiful lustre!

Of course, you know what Danderine does to hair. It's the blood-keeper, every bit of it. Put scalp in the pink of condition. Invigorates hair and hair-tops. Why use anything else?

Win or lose—here's a "victory cup" for everyone!

There's a Happy Brotherhood of those who keep their "place in the sun"—no matter what! Their team may win or lose; their "bets" may go right or wrong, they may or may not outshine and out-shout the rest of the "rovers" in the Grandstand of Life—but this much they know:

There's always a "victory cup" waiting for them in MJB!

For sheer coffee-contentment, nothing scores day in and day out like MJB. And it's all because of a flavor—a rich, full-fledged flavor that gives you the "contented feeling" you expect from coffee. A flavor that belongs to MJB—to MJB alone.

What's more, this flavor isn't fickle or fleeting—it's constant! It's always there to match your mood, no matter how you make your coffee, no matter how you like it—strong, medium or mild.

TWIN FALLS DAILY TIMES

Published Every Evening Except Sunday by The Times Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho.
I. H. MARTELL, Editor and Publisher.

Entered at the Twin Falls Postoffice as Second Class Matter as a Daily Publication, April 11, 1918.

It seems that hotel keepers of Canada are waking up to the fact discovered some time ago by American hotel-keepers—that liquor is not so good for their business. It is reported that the hotelkeepers of Saskatchewan have forwarded resolutions to the Attorney General of the province asking for changes in the Liquor Act with respect to drinking of liquors in hotels by registered guests.

The office of probate judge is an important one in several respects. Both civil and criminal cases come up for hearing, hence the judge should have a good knowledge of law. Estates come up for settlement and this always requires legal knowledge. The juvenile officer is under the control of this department of the county and a person of safe and sound judgment should be kept therein and supervised by his superior.

About the strongest endorsement we have heard for Asher B. Wilson for governor and John F. Nugent for United States senator is the fact that many Republican voters will support each of them. If these men are worthy of the support of the voters from the opposite political faith it would seem that they are worthy to be elected to the high offices to which they aspire. Senator Nugent will speak here on the twenty-third of this month and the people of Twin Falls county will have an opportunity to hear him and look him over also. Many of his republican supporters are paying for full page advertisements in the leading newspapers of Idaho in order to guarantee his election.

Word comes from Filer and the west end of the county that H. G. Munyon will run splendidly in that section of the county. "Dad" Munyon, as some folks know him, is one of the pioneer settlers of Filer and helped to establish the village. He owns a great deal of property in Filer and established the first drug store and with the other early settlers did much in establishing here a town. He has served on the town board, the board of education, and has taken part in all the civic movements for a better commonwealth. His son is well known throughout Twin Falls county as one of the leading auctioneers in Southern Idaho. Earl is following the same line as his father, that of auctioneer. People generally like the jovial disposition of "Dad" Munyon and from all reports he will get a very large vote in Twin Falls county as a candidate for the board of county commissioners on the Democratic ticket. He was also the founder of the Twin Falls County Fair association.

DOWN STILL GOES THE FARMER'S DOLLAR

The purchasing power of the farmer's dollar continues on the down grade. Calling that dollar a 100-cent dollar during the five years just preceding the great war, it became a 98-cent dollar in August of last year and only an 82-cent dollar in August of this year, with the tendency still downward. While the whole price level is falling, says the department of agriculture at Washington, farm products have fallen faster.

But the steel trust's dollar, the aluminum trust's dollar, the woolen trust's dollar, the harvester trust's dollar—how much has their purchasing power fallen? Rather the question is: How much has their purchasing power increased and particularly as against the whole range of the farmer's raw material and food products which are off 11 to 12 per cent in a single year?

Prosperity is the great republican issue of the coming elections. Here is the meaning of it—prosperity for the trusts and the tariff-privileged employers of labor and something else for the farmers all over the country in the congressional elections and for upstate New York in the Wadsworth and Mills campaign.—New York Evening World.

BETTER TRAINED RURAL TEACHERS

Regardless of better buildings, equipment, supervision, and administration, a poor teacher makes a poor school; a good teacher, a good school. Realizing that rural schools are in the most serious need of trained teachers—teachers who are high school graduates and, have had, in addition, at least two years of training especially related to teaching in rural schools—a large number of colleges and universities and more than two-thirds of the State normal schools and teachers colleges in the United States offer courses in rural education.

To assist in supplying the demand for trained rural school teachers a number of States offer normal training courses in selected high schools. These courses appear to be temporary expedients. According to Rural School Circular No. 15, U. S. Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, the number of schools offering such courses has decreased considerably since 1922. Six states have 21 or fewer schools giving the work. Five of the 26 states that have offered such work in past years have discontinued it. Five states—Michigan, Minnesota, New York, Ohio, and Vermont—maintain the work on a high school post graduate basis and two additional states—North Carolina and Wisconsin—plan to do so beginning this fall. Although standards are gradually being raised in those schools that continue the work, such schools will, no doubt, be eliminated as soon as State normal schools are prepared adequately to supply a sufficient number of trained teachers for rural schools.

And then I shall nip in quick and drop the first gas. Christ's keeping the mad as they go any further. Good old Christ! "But there won't be another real war for five or six years," said Pollock, reverting without shame to his old role of prophet. "But he doesn't care enough men all over the world to take up arms again—such a matter of fact there are thousands like yourself—but simply and solely because the busy little gentleness who hold the political reins are quite unable to interest finance in that direction just at present. But as soon as Germany permits herself to recover after a long period of feigned bankruptcy, behind which she will put her house in complete order, then will be your chance. She will sell her soul to possess Paris."

And in June there was Sherwood, loudly examining the chart.

"Oh, well, I shall have to wait," said Tony. "Unless, of course, Americans come over in increasing numbers. Then, depending on it, may be able, after a brilliant season, to do up of an attempt."

"What a car of your own do you mean?"

"Oh, Lord, no," said Tony, with a flash of his eye and a strained note in his voice. "Nonsense! I've got my hand nailed to my hold of the chart."

The false notes and pathetic screaming were by no means muted by the thinnish walls. Sherwood written again, his nerves at flying, and covered his ears with his hands. "What a curious idea! I was not to have had that piano carried away," he cried out. "I ought to have remembered that Kitty love to sing."

"Tore old soul. Why shouldn't she never can do it at home?"

"Why not?" asked Pollock. "Dorothy Linsley threaten to divorce her husband singing is worse than my faithfulness. Or is there no piano in Hill Street among that writer of articles?"

"That's it," said Tony. "Ta-ra-ra-Boom!"

She rose springing to his feet, his horror. "If that damn cow goes on," he said, "I'll start a counter-suit. I'll see inferior human on fire." "He would have put his head up the chimney if it hadn't have been the gears."

Pollock was naturally only fairly sympathetic. He was very economical of sympathy, leaving it also gathered for himself. "What would you have done if, like me at one of my best, you'd had the same year you've done to me?"

"Cut my throat or gone to live on an island."

Island! The word touched a spring in Tony's heart. Forgetting Christ's strange request to "keep his father's letter dark," he went to the desk, opened a drawer and brought it out with a flourish. Like a man with a secret, a boy with a new toy, he had longed to show it to the world. "This is the letter," he said excitedly, "you might like to listen to."

"Ta-ra-ra-Boom!" "That? Why? What is it? Anything to be smothered," said Pollock, "or a look-out for the girls box?"

Whereupon, standing with his hand on his forehead, as every Englishman does, Tony read old Lord Sherwood's letter and then displayed the chart.

"What about that?" he asked. "The King and Queen of Paradise in white. There are your host and night." And with a photograph which he said he had taken from a picture taken from a side as though passed through a stereoscopic camera. "I'm sure, my dear George, that attention Sherwood was under control. He listened to the reading with interest and eager interest, the worm in his brain awake. God, was this the way to show things, to make one more wiser in the land?"

The island, the island! It called him, it caught his spirit, it made him homesick. "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said. "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said. "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said.

Pollock asked for the letter and read it all over again. "Why characterize the busy little gentleness who hold the political reins are quite unable to interest finance in that direction just at present. But as soon as Germany permits herself to recover after a long period of feigned bankruptcy, behind which she will put her house in complete order, then will be your chance. She will sell her soul to possess Paris."

"Yes, and as your moral parent said, saying 'Tedy,' Pollock laughed. "Nothing to be done," he said, "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country." "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said.

But before he could make a proposition, an offer to finance a voyage to the island, he was interrupted by Tedy. "Tedy got up. He was not a slip of the old block for nothing. He didn't get up for nothing. He didn't get up for nothing. He didn't get up for nothing."

He looked up quickly from the chair, covering all that with a built-up expression of surprise. "Now, then," he said. "When would you like to have a dash at it? It's almost too good to be true."

"God, God," said Tony, hardly raising his eyes. "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country." "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said.

"Yes, I do. Of course I do. Why not?" he said. "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country." "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said.

"Well, then, how about the end of the week? I can wind up with my hand over as per Mr. A. F. Tedy, my dear old Tedy, it is a good thing to see you. I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country."

"I'm in it," said Pollock. "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country." "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said.

"Yes, she had guessed it. There had been a dash at it. They had to see the chart spread out. He had been something suspiciously boyish when he had taken the chart out of the wall at the moment when Kitty Corning had lost her heart. The old boy had guessed it."

"I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country." "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said.

"I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country." "I shall have to pay for the journey back to my own country," he said.

CAMPAIGNS TOO TAME

(Continued from Page 1) or over-caution, and strangely enough in competition with his own political caution. Instead of putting it on a shelf from which it is sure to tumble during the next legislative period, the party ought to have unfurled it before the world and championed, with all the pomp and bluster it could muster, the University of Idaho, the state board of education and the "Idaho system."

It may possibly be, the wisecracker admits, some personal opinion, but he does not doubt that the one state board and the Idaho system are doomed. By the chance of the party ought to have unfurled it before the world and championed, with all the pomp and bluster it could muster, the University of Idaho, the state board of education and the "Idaho system."

Senator Nugent Makes His Campaign Early—said he is in many ways the best now on the stump, in any party—but he weakened his chances by relying on his own weapons and risks and providing himself no help, Senator Goodrich's for instance, was in making speeches instead of sitting on hot seats.

The big mistake of all, to be charged as the critic was, is in allowing a colorful campaign after ten years of preparation for a haul and appropriation of the party in power. The possible election hour approval, however, this would naturally be to the advantage of the party in power.

For, since the best sounding bluffs in all platforms fall short of making real issues, the one issue is continuing or ending republican state control.

It is not given its just importance, though, to call it merely a scramble for office. It might well amount to the proportions of a serious test of the cabinet form of government. Opposition parties might make some awful noise in it, with careful preparation and proper presentation of imitations instead of it. "Return to constitutional government" could be come a powerful slogan. But—returning at this point to the wisecracker's conclusions—which are based on the way the book right now—Idaho voters have their minds pretty well made up at the moment, and in the short remainder of the campaign they cannot be upset by the ink-and-water efforts all the campaign managers are making up to the time the capital gears were consulted and this was written.

CHICAGO POLICE

Monday's shooting according to police, is but the forerunner of a general outbreak among the gangs who fight their own "war" of extermination for the fruitful control of the city's illicit liquor business.

The police patrol, Collins said, are calculated to put policemen in every section of the city in the hope that they will be fortunate enough to run into an actual killing "which is the only way of getting the murderers."

Police have started little toward solving the latest murders, that of Myrtle Weiss, gang leader, and Patrick Murray, one of his lieutenants. A vital gang leader is suspected but there is no evidence against him.

The three other men who had been shot, one of which is W. W. O'Brien, mutually known criminal lawyer, are expected to recover.

Grinding Valves

Removing Carbon

how much longer must these twin evils pick your pocket and mar your motoring enjoyment

TWO items alone—grinding valves and removing carbon—account for at least one-half the up-keep cost of the ordinary automobile. . . . Every owner knows that . . .

The Willys-Knight Great Six wipes out all this expense . . . in its Knight sleeve-valve engine—patented, exclusive—there are no valves to grind—no carbon to remove.

Carbon cannot harm the engine of the Willys-Knight Great Six. Hence, carbon troubles, and the expense and inconvenience of remedying them, never enter into its owner's calculation . . .

In fact, the presence of carbon in the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine only serves to seal compression, to prevent waste of power . . . It is a desirable agent. Instead of hampering or harming, it actually helps this engine to perform.

Willys-Knight Great Six prices from $1750 to $2495. Prices (e.o.b. factory) and specifications subject to change without notice. The Willys Finance Plan offers unusually attractive credit terms. Willys-Owensland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio. Willys-Owensland Sales Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

Illustration of a man and a woman talking. The man says: 'BY GOLLY, I KNEW I'D DO SOMETHING TO DO THIS MORNING, BUT FOR THE LIFE OF ME I CAN'T THINK WHAT IT WAS.' The woman replies: 'OW! MARGIE WAS COMING IN ON THE NINE O'CLOCK TRAIN AND I WENT TO MEET HER, AND IT'S NOW ELEVEN O'CLOCK!' The man says: 'MAYBE SHE DIDN'T COME—MAYBE THE TRAIN WAS WRECKED—MAYBE SHE WENT BACK.' The woman replies: 'AH, WELL.'
