Hulwark, Are Being Thrown Up and Down in Ackerly Quarter to Protect American Lives in China; Students Excited.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17.—Rioting at Puchow, which resulted in attacks on the Y. M. C. A., and the Spanish Dominican Holy Childhood Orphanage, were caused by slanders of the bodies of several Chinese children who had died at the orphanage, dispatches reaching here today said.

Following the removal of the bodies, Chinese mobs, recruited mostly from the soldiers, attacked the Y. M. C. A., two mission churches and mission residences.

The mob accused the orphanage authorities of murdering the children. Fearful of further anti-foreign outbreaks, authorities in Shanghai were pushing the creation of defenses in the French concessions.

Concrete blocks, portable steel pit boxes and eight foot picket fences barred the roads leading from the concession into Chinese territory.

HONGKONG, Jan. 15.—A tense situation, resulting in a request for an American gunboat, developed in Kowloon, China, today after an attack upon the Rev. H. Mrs. Page, the students charged, joined her husband, with a revolver, and added in beating off the charge. His wife, however, was the one who attacked. He was said.

The dispute, which followed charges by the students that Dr. Page had "killed" a child, resulted in a mob which so wrought up anti-American feeling that the American colony there was repugnant of further outbreaks. The consular here has been asked to send a gunboat immediately.

IS IT POSSIBLE TO ENFORCE PROHIBITION

Twin Falls Minister States That Prohibition Enforcement is Possible if Majority of People Favor It.

Rev. P. H. Miller, Minister of the First Baptist Church, Twin Falls, and Idaho Officer and Leader of the Idaho Prohibition League, stated tonight that it is possible to enforce prohibition if the majority of the people favor it.

Speaking on the anniversary of the 18th amendment to the Constitution, speaking Rev. C. C. Curtis of the Christian church took for his text: "All Things Are Possible to Him That Willeth." He then gave his reference. "For what shall a man be profited if he shall gain the whole world and forfeit his own life?"

In accordance with the anniversary of prohibition, Rev. Curtis' own life, his subject differentiated the terms, temperance and prohibition, explaining prohibition on the corner of the traffic in intoxicants.

"Continuing he asked, 'It is possible to enforce our prohibition laws?' and answered with a positive and a negative. "Yes" and "No." "Yes" it is possible, entirely possible to enforce any law where the people, or the majority of the people, favor it. "No," enforcement, really desire that evil shall be prohibited."

It is possible to both prohibit and to enforce.

"If we have already shown the possibility of prohibiting traffic in intoxicants."

"Prohibition requires a certain authority. That authority requires, in a democratic form of government, a certain majority. That majority is not necessarily a majority of the people, but a majority of those who are interested in the 18th amendment."

"Hence, the possibility of prohibition is no longer an issue."

"But, let us not become confused in our terms. 'If enforcement of that prohibition is possible?'"

"There is no necessary connection of a law in a democracy, depends also upon a certain majority, but that majority must be greater for an enforcement of prohibition than for its enactment."

"To every law-abiding citizen, a prohibition means an enforcement. There is no necessary connection of a law in a democracy, depends also upon a certain majority, but that majority must be greater for an enforcement of prohibition than for its enactment."

CANADIAN YOUTH WINS SWIMMING CONTEST

WRIGLEY - PRIZE OF $25,000 GOES TO MERE LAD

Young Canadian of 17 Years Wins Great Swimming Marathon and Gets Wrigley's $25,000; His Brother, 15 Years Old, Wins Two Women Swim to Within One Mile of Goal.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 17.—With fame already his, George Young, 17 years old, winner of the Catalina Channel, today prepared to reap the fortune which was assured by his swimming conquest.

Francis Williams, Wrigley, showing swim magazine and owner of Catalina Island, Young will receive today a check for $25,000, the amount prize of the ocean marathon, in which the Toronto boy held a field of 192 contestants. Young was the only one of the entrants to complete the frigid swimming conquest.

The Young's crossing of the previously unacquainted 23 mile stretch, extending from Catalina to the mainland, soon to be known as the Catalina Channel, was indicated by handbooks of the Catalina youth, who said C. C. Pyle had offered him a contract to appear with his professional troupe.

Pyle's offer is said to be the forerunner of a number of similar and similar contracts that will doubtless build for him a fortune.

Young was recovering today at the Seattle hospital, Lord Bode's, from the contending which attended him yesterday as an aftermath of his battle with currents and cold over a period of more than 16 hours.

Mrs. Margaret Bauer of Long Beach, Calif., and Miss Martha Stager of Portland, Ore., who were dragged from the water almost at the moment and all other contestants had dropped out.

Wrigley, millionaire sportsman and sponsor of the "Wrigley ocean marathons" said that the event would probably not be a regular affair.

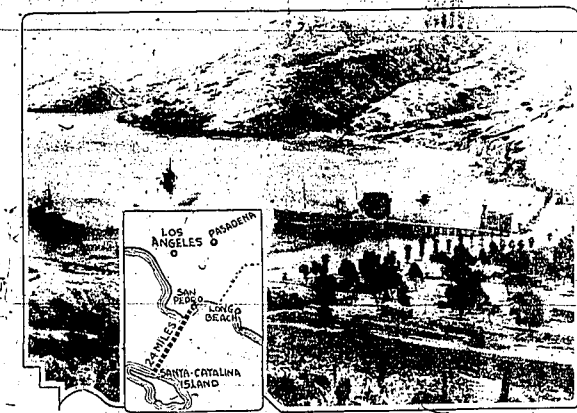

"Channel races, according to present plans, will be held in the future," he said. "It is practically certain that there will be no sea deity next year.

The only regret over this race was the failure of any woman to negotiate the crossing. Both Mrs. Hauser and Miss Stager gave such a heroic exhibition that I could not help but offer them a 'consolation prize'."

The exhibition of skill shown by these two, together with the successful finish of the youth in his own marathons, fitting climax to one of the most spectacular events in the history of sporting contests.

The tense drama of two women, one middle-aged and married, the other a young working girl, fighting against insuperable odds, for three and a half hours, attracted the respect of the entire sporting world. No man who was able to remain in the water for so long a period.

"Governor Al Smith will never ride into the White House on a beer keg or on a platform favoring return of light wines and beer," said Rev. E. V. But if this is true we should repeal the Ten Commandments."

"The most of my bill we could make better after recalculation for the city of Twin Falls. The bill amendment and some motorists drive right past these stop stands but whether you agree with these regulations or not they are law and should be obeyed. NATIONAL GRANGE GROWTH

Since the Idaho State Grange meets here this evening for a three day session some facts concerning the growth of this organization will not be out of place at this time. Twin Falls has a remarkable opportunity to show her hospitality to these tillers of the soil and those striving to make conditions better for the farming element of this state. Here are some facts gleaned from the publicity bureau of the National Grange.

The year's reports of National Grange officers indicated substantial progress and the organization as a whole in the most prosperous condition of any time during its entire 60 years of existence. During the year just closed 126 new Granges were organized and 38 reorganized; also 12 new Pomona Granges and 110 Juveniles, the state of Washington leading in new Granges organized and Maine in largest net gain in membership. The treasury of the National Grange comprises $150,000 of well-invested funds, largely in Liberty Bonds and Federal Farm Loan bonds; with a present paid membership, in 33 different states, in excess of 800,000. Nearly 3100 halls are owned by Granges, with a replacement value estimated at $20,000,000.

The Portland session made several improvement changes in its ritualistic work, approved a revised form of its sixth degree and voted complete new paraphernalia for the annual exemplification of the seventh; authorized an energetic organization policy for 1927, looking especially to strengthening the work in some weak states and possibly one of two new ones; and provided the means for increasing its magazine and publicity work.

Reports from several states show a steady increase in the various cooperative agencies conducted by the Grange, particularly in insurance lines—fire, tornado, hail and casualty; with a good showing in life insurance lines and a remarkable record of success made by the automobile liability company which the National Grange operates for the benefit of its members.

Every state master expressed confidence in Grange prospects for the year ahead, which is expected to show more Granges organized, more halls built and larger membership gain than any year in a decade past. Greetings received by the Portland session came from President Coolidge, from the Farmers' Union, Farm Bureau Federation and from the American Farm Congress; also from the Farmers' Union of England and Ireland, the latter heartily congratulating the Grange on what it has accomplished for American agriculture.

BILLBOARDS OBSTRUCT SCENERY

The artistically inclined dream of the day when we will be able to look at the scenery along our wonderful motor highways without having a billboard tell us of the wonderful properties of Juniper Root for Chill Blains.

Those who drive at night over strange roads, watch carefully along the right of way for caution signs. They know what it means to see just ahead a sign with the word "Detour" and snow down to find that the rest of the smaller letters read "Smith's Garage three hundred yards ahead, for repairs." No matter how saintly a motorist, profanity is difficult to avoid.

After seeing six or eight such signs, the motorist becomes careless. When he next comes to a real detour sign or a caution to watch for the bad curve, he pays no attention and dashes to death or serious accident.

A motor trip through the northeastern part of the State of Tennessee recently showed at intervals along the road a sign, "No signs along the right of way." This is a state or county law. If advertising signs are to be permitted along the road they should be set back from the right of way where they will not interfere with the proper caution signs set out for the guidance of tourists.

Such a law should be in every state and province. If there is no such law, advertisers who are indiscreet and ill-advised put confusing signs imitating in size and lettering the signs placed along the road by the highway commissions. All such should be informed by the public that they disapprove of such advertising. If the citizens of any community, the Kiwanis club or others, should inform such advertisers that they are menacing life and property by such confusing signs, they might be made to understand that this is poor, not good, advertising.—Kiwanis Magazine.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NBA, Service Matter.
WASHINGTON—If you have any idea regarding the die positions of the $100,000,000 government surplus, you might as well think of it as a gift to the President Coolidge.
Others are getting their suggestions for and approval, may be too late.
The government employees, for instance, have entered their bid for the $100,000,000. Some of it, ought to be spent on salary increases for underpaid government workers.
They argue that there might not be anywhere near so large a surplus had they not co-operated wholeheartedly with the administration economy program.
The National Federation of Federal Employees claims that its members have participated in national prosperity and improved economie conditions less than other groups in the country. It earnestly suggests that the members be made the beneficiaries of a federal profit-sharing scheme somewhat similar to that operated for employees by some business concerns.

They would have Congress translate some of the surplus into higher salaries, proper administration of the 1922 Classification Act and abolition of inequalities and alleged discriminations.
The present financial condition of the national treasury is due to no small part to the intelligent activities of the employees themselves.
President Coolidge's stewardship of the federation. "A reasonable increase in expenditures for productivity and social betterment would bring the compensation of federal employees more nearly on a par footing with other wage earners in comparable positions and would not constitute a drain on national resources."

HOME ACCIDENTS KILLED 20,000 LAST YEAR— THIS WILL HELP MAKE YOUR HOME SAFE

Are you safe from accidents in your own home? You may think so—but see the dangers that the National Safety Council has illustrated for you.

Rugs are more snaffery than carpets, but more often cause kidding accidents. Avoid using flammable rugs that give too high a polish. Don't polish the space covered by the rug.

Bottles containing poisons should be plainly marked and should not be where children can reach them. Poisons should be poured into bottles that once hold some harmless medicine.

The hearth can do not being for a fireplace. All appliances should be kept outside of the house. Never open a gas valve can where its fumes can travel to an open flame, spark or live coal.

Rocking chairs are no substitutes for a step ladder. More than 20,000 men, women and children were killed in home accidents last year and more of them were attracted to falls than any other cause.

IS IT POSSIBLE TO ENFORCE THE PROHIBITION ACT

to enactment, stands behind its enforcement.

This is the fact which causes right thinking men and women to shudder at the suggestion in the present that we should not have a law.

And we see the same contempt for man-made law, and the one follows the other.

Such normal thinking men and women know that every violation of spiritual-law will result in the suffering of men.

Just as it does in the law of nature, for which we are indebted to the same absolute authority.

For a positive declaration of this fact, we refer to Gal. 6:7-8. "He that sows to himself shall also reap to himself; he that sows to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption and he that sows to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap everlasting life."

Law, both natural and spiritual are referred to in text just quoted.

One says, "I do not see spiritual law so enforced." Remember, "God is not mocked." In the spiritual world penalties are largely deferred into the future.

But, what shall we say of the laws enacted by men? Can they be enforced?

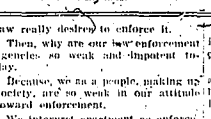

Yes, just in the proportion that the authority making that prohibitory

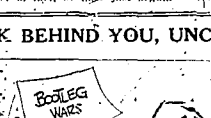

Be careful with hot stoves. Don't put them in a wooden box or basket near a fuel pile. Like this man is doing. Such thoughtlessness has caused many fires.

Women who like to adorn their electric light fixtures with paper shades don't stop to realize this is a dangerous practice, which has caused many fires. Below is shown what often happens when a hot iron is left without a guardian.

Never look for gas leaks with a lighted match or candle. Such a light near lead meter connections may cause a tiny invisible flame, which will melt the metal, causing a larger leak and eventually a serious fire. Call the gas company.

Why? Because it is infinitely easier to secure enactment than to secure enforcement.

Again we may ask, Why? Because a named majority may enact and becomes a law, in spite of the minority.

Whereas, in enactment the majority must be sufficiently strong, minority say we are through, when, as a matter of fact, we have just begun.

LOOK BEHIND YOU, UNCLE!

and you. Because a law does not enforce the enforcement is impossible to the law? Would you leave it to the officers? But the above does not argue that enforcement is not possible. Any more than it acknowledges in prohibitionists that a few could not enforce a conclusive argument that it was impossible to enact.

It was possible, if not with the few, then with the many.

Hence, it was ours to wait, not passively and patiently, but actively and with great desire and anxiety. If we could through every possible means, create sufficient sentiment for enactment to make the same possible. Likewise, we must now wait and how long depends upon you and me—until we shall build a sentiment which will demand enforcement just as our sentiment upon your sin demanded enactment.

We have a strong sentiment for enforcement, and I believe, a sufficient sentiment for conservation of what we have gained.

But, what is our sentiment for enforcement?

It is impartial and impartial. We are acting like a nation of silly children.

We want to play with a wasp and we insist upon it.

We want to do it in our great-grandfather's and we insist upon it.

How much deadly poison is sold in the United States? More than 20,000 men, women and children were killed in home accidents last year and more of them were attracted to falls than any other cause.

I like to see men advised by more than one citizen of Twin Falls that during a recent period of two weeks to ten days there visited our town, a representative of a California wine concern. He was openly selling this product in saloons and guaranteed to leave them sweet and rich the purchase was sweet, but by the remaining of the time and the following of the directions found upon a card which he would leave with a customer, within a period of 30 to 60 days it would become a beverage containing 14 percent alcohol.

This prohibition in substance was to land our customer with 14 percent liquor, but by evading, protect himself and the customer. By his own statement it has been reported to me, that a number of saloons, during six months, he said that upon his visit to one of our Idaho towns he bought six months ago he sold 30 gallons and after a six months' trial of the product, he sold in the same town 300 gallons.

With the same proportional success here, how much of this percentage 14 percent liquor, as now or will be found within 30 or 60 days in the cellars of Twin Falls?

Now, if we believe in this to be found? Do our officers know or can they know? What are we doing to challenge our officers in this matter?

What are we doing to co-operate with them? I am not making any charges against our officers. So far as I know they are doing as well as those in other localities, but what are we doing to strengthen their hands and to challenge them to an investigation as to where this high grade article is in our midst?

To my mind the most contemptible offense imaginable is the evasion of laws by those who do this, and all the penalties of an outlaw plus an infamous cowardice which forbids of an open violation. We should hold such a one in contempt and stamp him as an unwelcome in our community. One in our midst, who contemplates such an offense, participates in it or acquiesces in the same is equally guilty.

The question is answered in that double answer to a like question earlier in this discussion. Two replies which seem to be contradictory. No.
