Balance of Power Shifts to Canton In Chinese War

Editor's Note—This is the second of a series of articles on the recent Goull describing present conditions in China. PEKING—So rapidly have military movements in China proceeded during the past few months that it is difficult even for residents here to realize how the balance of power has shifted. Everyone in China or out has been beyond measure by the purchases of arms and munitions by Goull. Chang attacked Wu, Wu chastised Chang. Feng trussed both of them, and so on. In the minds of many, China has been a mere puppet state, a plaything and a quarry, signifying nothing. Yet suddenly, within the space of three short months, significance has entered the drama. From a position of comparative insignificance, the Cantonese have swept up out of their native Kwangtung and, by their own ability, have become a factor in the divided country of their opponents, who have achieved practical domination of what they call their own half of China. Generally speaking, the middle Yangtze river, China's chief trade artery, is the dividing between Canton-controlled country and that still held by others.

The plot features the whole affair in the background of the great land rush to the Black Hills when the gold fever struck. It was taken out of the Sioux reservation and thrown upon. Few recall the rushes into Oklahoma and the Indian territory, which culminated in the method of settlement and resulted in the adoption of the Dredge to Canada.

The Three Had Men were Bill Stoney, the terror, Steve Allen, the coast guard, Mike Costigan, the horse rustler. Three had men on whose head a price was set in every state from Alaska to Canada.

They rescue the heroine from the sheriff's hand of brute force, because her husband, being not in contact with the law, finally give up their lives in successful defense of her rights.

when given time and money, and with officers whose loyalty is rather more than open to question, and who seemed only by the threat of personal expostion. If the peace, Canton, it is only because they feel that the Cantonese policy of assimilation to their northward march is to be preferred to the "spoils system" of the Manchurian Expedition. The Chinese and their followers are General Chang Fumei, chairman of Shantung, who of course are endeavoring to close in on Jomo.

It is Chang Tso-lin, after all, who provides the only real "anti-fief" leadership today. He will be hard put to erect when it comes to public life, the "anti-fief" of the provinces of Manchuria, to which he has his headquarters when the Peiking-Beiping area becomes too hot for him. Wu Peifu, the old warlord, was able to provide such a situation—in Manchuria Chang Tso-lin is certainly king of all that he surveys. Only once has he been seen in public. This was when a Manchurian, Kao Sun-jing, revolted against him a matter of months ago. Sun was the trusted teacher of Chang Tso-lin, the "Green Prince" son, Chang Hsueh-shan, and he caught the warlord napping. There are many stories of how he always kept a "back door" out of public exhibition in Mukden. It is no doubt whatever that the Japanese action in the Manchurian frontier has been a serious threat to the Manchurian territory.

WRESTLING AT UNIVERSITY MAY BE ABOLISHED

MOSCOW, Jan. 27.—Members of the University Wrestling club would request the inter-collegiate competition when they find the fouls and bruises laid down by the student body constitution. It was voted recently by the "Y" club, organization of Johns Hopkins. The action was taken as the result of a move to abolish wrestling as a school sport.

There has been discussion on the campus favoring removal of wrestling from the list of college athletic activities because of the compulsory nature of the student body, which will not act until a definite expression against the existing constitution is made. The Y club gave its opinion at the request of Henry Baughman, president of the student body.

WANTED, A POSTMASTER AT BUHL

Cal says that he wants a new postmaster at Buhl. Not that he dislikes the one we have but just naturally about every four years he says he likes to look 'em over.

There are no politics in this, mind you, not a bit. It's under the civil service commission. An examination will be taken and, the notice says, "nothing will be permitted to appear in the evidence upon which ratings are assigned which might even suggest the political affiliation of any candidate."

Still, we believe that democrats will save money if they pay no attention to it.

A scholarship test will be taken and the education, business training and experience of the candidate will be considered.

The job pays $2,600 per year and the time limit for filing applications for it is February 8. You can obtain necessary information at the postoffice or you may send to the civil service commission at Washington.

If you don't like this position a new man is wanted for a similar job in Texas which is also beyond the interference of political considerations, we are told.—Buhl Herald.

BUT WHY THE SECRECY?

As the secret senate debate on the Lausanne Treaty with Turkey entered its final phase, a factor developed which may prove an important influence in determining the question of ratification. It is contended that William E. Borah (R.), senator from Idaho, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, a persistent advocate of establishing diplomatic contact with Moscow, if successful in putting through the Lausanne Pact, would be in a position to call on the administration to establish relations with Soviet Russia.—Washington dispatch in Christian Science Monitor.

Whether the real object of the Lausanne treaty is, as the above dispatch implies, to pave the way for entering full diplomatic relations with the Bolsheviks, or not, that is not the real matter for surprise is the fact that Senator Borah, former champion of open discussion on treaties, now leading the forces striving to push through this treaty under the cover of secrecy, did not demand open discussion until today. Efforts to demarcate to secure open consideration were denounced and Borah gave them no support.

Senator Borah was one of the senators who signed the "round robin" against the League of Nations and gave it publicity before the full terms of the covenant were completed. Senator Borah denounced the alleged secrecy enveloping the formation of the treaty and scornfully held up President Wilson to ridicule because he failed to change the customs of the world at once.

Afterwards the most sweeping assaults were made on the covenant in open session by Senator Borah and others. Why did not the senator at once demand open discussion as he did then?

36-Year-Old Alligator His Pal

Zoo keepers always have said that alligators couldn't be tamed entirely, but Theodore Owen, New Orleans, has proved otherwise. Thirty-six years ago while on a hunting trip with Sarah Bernhardt, Owen, in Hunter and Smith, caught a baby alligator and kept it. This picture shows Alex (who looks much more ill-tempered than he is) and Owen today. Alex, says Owen, is as tame as a dog.

New Gold Treatment for T. B. Found at Berlin

London, England.—Preliminary announcements of a new gold treatment for tuberculosis have reached this country from Berlin. Prof. Felix Lieber of the medical faculty of the University of Berlin has been working with a new gold compound called "trypal," according to the first correspondence of the medical journal, Lancet. Injections of compound of a grain of the new compound are administered every four days to patients in various stages of the disease, and it has also been used before performing the operation known as pneumothorax, when there is a cavity in the lung. In the other, pneumothorax is a process whereby one lung is collapsed to give the tubercular focus a chance to heal.

The results so far are encouraging, according to Professor Lieber, but he is unwilling to give out more information until he has made further studies. All the remedy has been completely tested.

Select Breed of Fowls for a Certain Purpose

In selecting your breed of fowls for fattening and market purposes, it is well to remember that the mid-western and heavy breeds, such as the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Whites, Orpingtons, Braunkens, etc., will stand confinement better and will put more weight than will the lighter breeds such as the Leghorns, Anconas, Andalusians, etc. These lighter-sighted breeds are of a more nervous disposition and seem to fret it off after than you can feed it on.

Many experiments prove that where a large amount of Leghorn cockerels have had a small amount they made more and less and had better than those that were confined in the crates. There has been a great deal of talk the last year or two about the low prices paid for Leghorns. On account of the rapid development of the specialty egg farms, most of which are the Leghorns, there have been a lot of Leghorns "dipped" on the market more so than in years gone by.

No one will blame Leghorn breeders for waiting to get all they can for their surplus and old hens, but there is no use trying to make a market from them that will top the market. The meat is of longer fiber, is harder, and there is not so much of it.

Leave Foal in Barn

It is a better plan to leave the foal in the barn when the mare goes to work in the field, rather than allowing the foal to follow the mare. Both will soon become accustomed to this separation and less trouble results from this method. If possible, the mare should be brought back to allow the foal to suckle once during the forenoon, and again during the afternoon for two or three weeks. By leaving the foal at the barn there is less interference with field work, less risk of injury, and the foal usually grows faster.

Profitable Sheep Flock Is Result of Hard Work

A profitable flock of sheep is the result of careful selection and breeding along a well planned program. The goal of the fine-wool sheep grower should be a lamb and a 22 to 150-ounce fleece a year from each ewe. The down breeds should weigh 120 to 150 pounds and lambs marketable at five months of age.

About two-thirds of the income from Merino flocks is derived from the sale of wool and two-thirds from the lamb. This emphasizes the fact that, regardless of the breeding of the sheep, heavy fleeces and a large percentage of lambs are worth while.

YOUTH BETTER THAN PEOPLE BELIEVE; SMITH

Methodist Secretary Says Old Folks Are Responsible for Filling of This Year's Generalist Conference Organized for Gooding College Education.

While we are inclined to denigrate the young folks of today for many of their fads and habits, it is surprising that we have so many honest, earnest Christian boys and girls constituting the vast majority of our youth. This is the declaration of Bert E. Smith, of Chicago, secretary of men's work for the Methodist conference at the closing of the conference last night. An endorsement of a quarter of a million for Gooding college was endorsed last night.

"We criticize the fads of youth," he said, "but we have our own fault in our youth. This is, indeed, an age of faith; they change so fast that by the time we have a sermon prepared, it seems a particular fad. It is out of fashion and another has taken its place. I have a sermon which I prepared on this very thing, namely, the continual changing of fads, but it was so much out of date when I finished it that it has never been delivered."

Gully of Axielict.

"We neglect our youth shamefully in a religious way. We attend to our private business and expect others to look after our children instead of giving them religious instruction and religious example. There is a great need for teachers to be in the classrooms in Sunday school. It is not so hard to supply this need in rural places, but this boys are all rough-necked, filled with vulgar slang, which need to be turned into religious and spiritual channels. We should personally encourage rational conversation and religious instruction. We cannot expect others to do for our children what we show by our actions; we are not willing to do for them."

As Bishop H. Lester Smith had been called to Idaho in the evening, the report on the success of the meeting was told by Bishop C. E. Roberts, Dr. Smith at the close of his address.

Those included the launching of a campaign for "endowment" of a million dollars, with J. W. Porter of Pocatello as temporary chairman, and C. E. Roberts of Gooding, as temporary secretary.

Committee on educational institutions composed of Rev. H. G. McCallister of Gooding, Rev. C. L. Crabtree of Twin Falls presented a recommendation for the adoption of a resolution calling for the support of the eastern district in the campaign recently launched for a $250,000 endowment for Gooding college by unanimous vote. The committee brought in with it a report of President C. W. Tenney of the school, which showed enrollment figures that were before and conditions good with the exception of a want of more facilities and room.

Conference also voted to authorize the organization of a district brotherhood and appointed J. W. Peters of Pocatello president of the eastern organization and C. E. Roberts of Gooding as secretary. Permanent organization will be effected at a meeting to be held at the time of the next annual conference convention.

Committee on world service which also reported was composed of Rev. Horace Turner, Idaho Falls; Rev. Samuel Allison, Aberdeen, Dr. J. G. Humphrey of Twin Falls and Rev. Valentine Deleh of Hansen.

Recommendations were adopted urging more efficient support of church papers was brought in by a committee composed of Rev. H. E. Meredith of Axilan, Dr. J. E. Gilbert of Piler and Rev. F. E. Frisbie of Triefield.

Committee on evangelism composed of Rev. L. E. Small of Idaho Falls and Rev. C. E. Heath of Rupert brought in reports on methods for clergy-men which were adopted and the Rev. William Ewing of Pocatello, Rev. John Garver of American Falls and President C. W. Tenney of Gooding presented resolutions expressing appreciation of co-operation of the press and public in the council here, which was passed by a unanimous vote.

Canadian Big Game Attacked by Ticks

BIRMINGHAM, Jan. 26.—Northwestern Canada's game, notably its world renowned moose, has suffered extensive losses this season from "spotted" fever, a strange malady induced by an unknown species of blood-sucking ticks.

A forest ranger who spent three months on the trails of the foothill forest reserves, traversing hundreds of miles of little known wilderness, reported moose had visibly decreased in number presumably due to the strange "spotted" tick. Other game had been affected by the ticks, though not as extensively, the ranger reported.

In addition to attacking all species of moose, the ticks have frequently attacked sheep in the mountains, according to reports from travelers and woodmen. They cause a serious illness commonly described as "spotted" fever, or "tick" fever. The man attacked does not become aware of it until two or three days after infection, which is accompanied by fever.

TRIGUIERO NET ASSETS $80,000.00

Early Estimates of Value of Estate of Sheepman Were Exaggerated; The Plaintiffs Push Incompetency Claim

The Tribunal set aside an $80,000 net assets of $100,000, according to a trustee Barker, cashier of the Bull State Bank in his testimony this morning before the probate court in the estate of Frank Triguiero, who died in 1932.

Dr. Barker's contention that the assets of the estate were $100,000, and liabilities of $20,000. Of these liabilities, $10,000 had been incurred in the past; $90,000 must be spent on such liabilities as are now due. She made no allowance for the value of the estate of $80,000—just $10,000 less than the previous valuation.

An interesting feature of the trial was the testimony of Joe Triguiero, who stated that his brother Frank had a certain habit of "bluffing" in 1932.

That Frank Triguiero was unable to sign his name a year ago without someone holding his arm was sworn to by Miss Bertha Higgins, Miss Mickey Higgins, in the probate court's office, and a year ago without the Triguiero ranch to not Frank's signature on the same card was stated by one of the trustees.

Dr. A. Dwight of Pinar and Dr. C. H. Halley of this city corroborated previous medical testimony to the effect that Frank Triguiero was mentally unbalanced.

PUSH BUTTON RUNS HUGE CATTLE RANCH
Successors to Texas Pioneer Use Electricity.

Menard, Texas.—Otto Carlin lighted a torch on the hillside of a sheep camp, extinguished one of the new lanterns which were rapidly extinguished by the old wooden ones, and thought it was progressing but he had not yet reached the old ranch on hand and pressed the old push button for safety. That was 1877, and the place was the famous Menard ranch.

Otto's presses and descendants now press a button. Made lamp, show, "heath" cook, efficient hatch pump, straw water, sheep are clipped, refrigerators, refrigerator, grill-ovens, sink, and water fountains. They just push a button.

Electricity also is transforming the cattle ranches.

Life Moves with a Soft Touch on the Hand
Otto Carlin looked on the hand which had held the pen for 50 years ago, Otto would not have known it.

Following the valley of the Colorado river from Austin, Texas, in the summer of 1877, in a train from the clear stream of the Little Colorado drawing up at a spot on the San Sabo river in Menard county, deposited a cargo of lumber and engine parts. Otto Carlin had a hand on the handle of each horse in the double team that was then used.

Electricity does it. Descriptions of Otto Carlin's life are much read out by electric change circuits, give their talk to an electric milking machine and are controlled by electric fans which were formerly by hand. Another horse can play barnyard bridge, while an electric incubator hatches their chickens and an electric house raises their chickens. They are branded by electric fire and clipped by electric clippers, while electric iron of a different type makes the hair and ton the men's shirts.

NICARAGUA HAS MANY ILLEGAL MARRIAGES

Polity and Faith Are Two Great Evils in Latin-American. According to Baptist Missionary Address in Twin Falls.

Rev. P. A. Putty, speaking in the Twin Falls Baptist church last evening on Latin-American stated that the greatest evils in Latin-American countries is the custom of every man having several wives or concubines and the terrible fifth which is the "Tercera" or "cuarta" job, according to the "city and such law" with women in a sort of free "harem" without any marriage ceremony.

Just within the past few years the government of Nicaragua has passed a ruling that no one but state officials can legally perform marriages. The provision is, however, the power classes that the priests had charged such exorbitant fees for marriage that many of the legal wedding ceremony. Now the state is urging some sort of legal ceremony and many times the parents with girls in custody are to be mated together as witnesses of the marriage law.

Dr. Putty preached the sanitary foot of the present evil and stated that the reason the French could not build the canal was because they were defeated by the mosquitoes, which were strictly unclean. The Rockefeller institute had done a great work in stamping out yellow fever in that district and the cause of the deaths occurred from that plague.

Most of the cities have no sewerage system and consequently the feet of the present evil and stated that the reason the French could not build the canal was because they were defeated by the mosquitoes, which were strictly unclean. The Rockefeller institute had done a great work in stamping out yellow fever in that district and the cause of the deaths occurred from that plague.

Our work is to train these boys and girls to become good citizens. The children are really destitute.

The average loss per case ranged from 34 cents to 2.65 cents for the eight cases which were examined in detail in Department of Agriculture.

Inspected shipping instruments were found in each car and a record of the number of the cases received, according to the report.

Historical Writings

New Concluded Story in Open in The Twin Falls Daily Times.

The purpose of securing the utmost realism, a Scout troop of boys recently were featured in the first serial, "The Boy Scout," which was made by Fred Thomson for The Twin Falls Daily Times.

The story appearing in the picture came from California; they complete Sierra Mounted troop, No. 12, in real as well as in real life. The story is one of the many Pacific coast and western units of the Boy Scout organization who utilize the horse in their activities.

These boys fully demonstrate their riding ability, the plot of the story culled for a great deal of action. The manner in which they handle their mounts will be enjoyed by the audience and instruction to the thousands who see them on the screen.

Fred Thomson, star of the film, is a former Scoutmaster, and is a thoroughly well-versed rider. He and the other boys of the troop are all members of the Boy Scout organization.

Unproductive Land Best Site for Growing Trees

Producers are overlooking a good bet when they allow unproductive land that might be growing trees to remain idle and fallow over a number of years, says the department of forestry of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca.

Implying concerning reforestation of land, the department of forestry has been very farmers here the idea that tree planting pays well only on large tracts, which are owned by the government, communities, or large land holders. Actually, say foresters, more wood is cut from farmers' woodlots every year to "keep the home fire burning" than is cut for building material by lumbermen.

YOUR PRINTER

Do you make him your partner or your victim?

BRAINY MEN—men whose abilities would net them greater profits in other industries—spend their lives as printers because, each day they learn something new about the work they love. These printers, just as other notable men in other professions, are sometimes timid. Possibly it is because of their complicated subject which they fear the buyer of printing, may never clearly understand. Whatever it is, many buyers of printing construe it as an opportunity to force their opinions on the printer.

What is the result? Very often it is poor printing, a dissatisfied buyer and a disliked printer.

Why should the printer, of all persons, be the craftsman whom everybody feels qualified to tell how to run his business?

Why will many buyers of printing continue to think that printing is philanthropy? "You can't get something for nothing," is as true in printing as in any other business. And it is more evident, because nothing shows its cheapness quicker than cheap printing.

But if a printer does turn out a good job, even in face of difficulties, what is his reward? Isn't it often only an opportunity to hand in a competitive bid on the next job?

Why is the printer so seldom allowed to feel a spirit of partnership with the buyer—to feel that he is working WITH him instead of FOR him? Why is the spectre of a rejected order or a lost account hung ever before his eyes?

Buyers of printing should remember this: The first step toward better printing is to make your printer your partner.

PUBLICITY FOR IDAHO URGED BY STATE CHAMBER

Introduction of Publicity Bill Into Idaho State Legislature Is Planned; Los Angeles Secretary Urges Closer Cooperation and Boosts Publicity States.

"Idaho publicity bill will be introduced into the Idaho legislature in the near future," according to a statement made last evening by State Secretary R. E. Thomas of the state chamber. In an address before the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce meeting, Idaho has not sold itself to the world as we should according to the speaker and if we can get proper co-operation we will materially increase the population of Idaho in the next few years. Another bill which the state chamber has been working on is a tax equalization bill by the commission. This is a real head issue bill for improvements.

The state chamber of commerce is not a lobbyist organization but we are glad to give information on proposed legislation or other subjects when we are able, according to Mr. Thomas. It will take a period of three weeks before the state chamber will function as vigorously as it should because it takes time to effect co-operative plans and to get people to work with us and understand fully our intentions.

Chairman Harry J. Bonell presented the speakers and called attention to a questionnaire of thirty suggestions made by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce for the coming year. These were passed out by Secretary Newell Wright and were to be checked and answered by Charles Hayes, field secretary for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who was the principal speaker at the meeting and was accompanied by a representative of the importance of supporting the chamber of commerce of the state and of the city of Twin Falls. He stated that he had never attended a better meeting of a state chamber of commerce than that recently held in Idaho.

Importance of Tourists. One of the important features stressed by the speaker was the tourist business in California which is stated, brings in annually more than $200,000,000 into Los Angeles alone. The tourist business of Idaho can be greatly increased and we folks from California will be glad to co-operate with you Idaho people to that end.

Not only has Los Angeles become a great shipping and industrial center that is吸引着 its population 200,000 persons every year, Mr. Hayes declared, but large areas of cultivated lands in Los Angeles county are being converted into home sites. 65,000 acres of cultivated land in the county have this claim for building purposes last year.

Idaho last year supplied 44 per cent of all the potatoes consumed in Los Angeles, Mr. Hayes said. Idaho also supplied 9 per cent of the cattle, 10 per cent of the hogs, 16.7 per cent of the dressed poultry, 11 per cent of the eggs, 21 per cent of the butter, 32 per cent of the cheese, 14 per cent of the apples and 24 per cent of the wheat and wheat products consumed in Los Angeles last year.

Mrs. Evelyn West, "About a year ago," he continued, "we invited your governor and a delegation of Idaho citizens to visit us with the idea of 'selling' Los Angeles to them. They accepted the invitation and they succeeded in 'selling' Idaho to us so thoroughly that three or four months later a Los Angeles excursion was formed to visit Idaho.

Need Whole West. "We of Los Angeles recognize that we cannot continue to advance and prosper unless the entire western region shares in that advancement and prosperity. We are hoping to solve Idaho's marketing problems by reason of the growth of our industries that are increasing our population, and Idaho can contribute to development of greater markets in California for Idaho products by introducing California industries."

Service Is Defined. "In a discussion of service and co-operation in their general reports, Mr. Hayes made a number of epigrammatic statements: "Service cannot be sold, but must be delivered with the commodity that is sold," he declared.

"Service is the rent we owe for the space we occupy. "Service clubs should seek to develop in the individual a spirit of service to be rendered through the central civic organization of their community. "People who are getting their livelihood and educating their children in a community who do not support the organization that makes the community possible had better move on."
