

SO-CALLED SOCIETY

Complimenting Mrs. Hinton—Mrs. C. A. North entertained informally at her home on Seventh avenue north Tuesday evening in compliment to Mrs. Otto Edward Hinton, Twin Falls musician who has recently returned from the east, where she took part in the work in connection with the school, playing selections by Gleditsy O'Hara and Mrs. McCowan in illustration of several technical points. This was especially interesting to the town's piano teachers who were numbered among the guests. To the delight of the guests, Mrs. Hinton played a number of her own compositions, "Securities" and "Whimsy," which are the result of her recent study, and which have been put on the market, and "Way of Life" and "The Book" compositions. Mrs. Hinton contemplates publishing soon Mrs. Hinton had the distinction of having her work examined by Mrs. M. J. Kelly while in Rochester. Directly preceding her return to Twin Falls, Mrs. Hinton took a brief course at the Conservatory of Music of which she is a graduate. At the close of this beautiful evening the hostess served delightful refreshments.

Public Welfare Luncheon—The public welfare department of the Twentieth Century club met for a luncheon Tuesday at the Rogerson hotel with Mrs. J. D. Whalen presiding. W. Orr Chapman was present and spoke on the conditions on the coast of Mexico and China. Mrs. L. H. Masters directed a community sing which was a pleasant feature of the luncheon. Mrs. Sturgeon presided over the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Masters also sang two selections, "A Chinese Tragedy" and "The Rose Tree." Mrs. Orr presiding the accompaniment. During the business meeting election of officers was held with the following results: President, Mrs. Sturgeon; Vice President, Mrs. W. Orr; Chairman, Mrs. P. W. McRoberts.

Eastern Star in Session—The Order of Eastern Star met in the Masonic temple Tuesday evening, March 22 with Mrs. J. A. Keenan, worthy matron presiding. Following the business meeting, the officers oversaw the work of the chapter. During the brief social hour following, delicious refreshments were served by the committee with Mrs. W. S. Dunson as chairman. Other members on the committee included Mrs. J. C. Beebe, Mrs. J. M. Hutton, Mrs. Frank Howman and Mrs. Nancy Booth.

Dinner for Mrs. Bowman—The Twentieth Century club and the Order of Eastern Star are sponsoring a formal 6 o'clock dinner in the private dining room at the Rogerson hotel on Thursday, March 24. Mrs. E. K. Bowmen, who gives an address, will be the feature on that date will be the guest of honor at the dinner. Mrs. Bowman will discuss "The Women of the Past and the Future." The women of the community interested are cordially invited. For further information phone 5454 or 1667.

THIRDS GALORE AT THE IDEAL
 If you remember back to the third you experienced when you saw "The Third Degree" on the stage you will not want to miss the third now being given by the latest version of this well-known melodrama, which opened today at the Idaho theatre.

Adapted for Warner Bros. by Graham Baker, this Charles Klein melodrama brings to Idaho, Costello, the most dramatic tale of her highly successful career. Says Annie Little, trapeze performer of a solo show in Coeur d'Alene, who married the man who married her, "I give a beautifully balanced emotional performance. Mrs. Costello is the greatest thing of recent years on the screen."

Kate Price is delighted as a stage performer and the tenderness of a new excellent.

"The Third Degree" gives you the highest degree of thrill and entertainment of any of the recent films because of story, acting, and the marvelous direction of Michael Curtiz from Triumphant success.

TWIN FALLS DAILY TIMES

Published Every Evening Except Sunday by The Times Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho. I. H. MASTERS, Editor and Publisher. Entered at the Twin Falls Postoffice as Second Class Matter as a Daily Publication, April 11, 1918.

John Adams once said that man is a reasoning but not a reasonable being. That is true. And sometimes the greater his reasoning capacity the more manifest is his unreasonableness.

If no heavy rainclouds ever drifted across your sky and shut out the sun for awhile, some day you would long for the splash of rain in your face.

In those reasonable days one wonders if fishing makes the liar, or if it is only the liars who fish. When the time comes on for the fish-story tale, it makes the rounds.

Someone declares that when drowsy American manhood stretches itself up to its fullest intellectual stature an awakening, such as the world has never seen, will take place. Then the toiling yeomanry of this land will not be ruled by predatory wealth, and her daughters will not be insulted by the rich, bejeweled daughters of the tribe. These shall be the days when none shall find their place by molding sweat into profit.

"SECRETS OF THE WHITE HOUSE"—A REVIEW

If you are looking for dark, scandalous tales like those said to be found in so many popular magazines, intimating infidelity or infelicity, you will not find them in "Secrets of the White House; the Intimate Story of Elizabeth Jeffray, Housekeeper from the Days of Taft to Coolidge," just issued by the Cosmopolitan Book Corporation of New York. But if you want an interesting story well written which tells things not generally known, you will find what you want.

Little incidents of the characteristics of four presidents and their wives are told, and are summarized in the following sentences:

- "Taft was the best-natured president."
"Wilson was the kindest president."
"Harding was the best dressed president."
"Coolidge saves the most money."
"Mrs. Taft was the tiniest first lady of the land."
"The first Mrs. Wilson was the most motherly."
"The second Mrs. Wilson was the most affectionate."
"Mrs. Harding had the loveliest clothes."
"Mrs. Coolidge seems the happiest."

It appears that President Coolidge is the first president who in the interest of economy visits the kitchen of the White House to supervise the meals. On one occasion he emitted something as close to a roar as one could imagine Coolidge uttering because of the purchase of six small-Virginia hams to serve 60 guests. The author says: "I imagine many people will feel that he is right in exercising a close watch on all-White-House-expenditures. One may wonder, however, if a man who draws down a salary of $75,000 a year, with $25,000 if needed for state dinners and special receptions, could not find some occupation that would be more profit to the nation than saving the cost of a ham. He is certainly a rather high-priced superior officer."

On the other hand it cannot be said that this characteristic means that he may not be an able executive. Frederick the Great had the same habit. Macneaney says that if the famous Prussian found that his head chef had spent a few extra dollars on a state banquet, he stormed as fiercely as if one of his generals had sold an important fortress to his arch-enemy, Maria Theresa, the Empress of Austria.

WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Special Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The Hon. William D. Upshaw, lately appointed to the congressional district of Georgia, has got himself a job and a good job, too, from all appearances.

Upshaw challenged John Philip Hill of Maryland, during the closing days of Congress, to a series of debates on prohibition. Hill turned him down. But the people of the country will not lose their opportunity to hear Upshaw.

After eight years in Congress, Upshaw will go up to the capitol of the recent Foundation for the Home-Betterment Foundation.

The official publications and literature of the organization are: Single, Part B. Anyone can belong.

The president is Dr. E. F. McConnell, president of the Virginia state normal school; the general secretary is Dr. J. E. McCulloch, former state secretary at Vanderbilt University, and the executive secretary is Jacob Taylor, director of the Home as the foundation of the National Speakers' Bureau.

The purpose is "to exact and enforce the Home as the foundation of the National Speakers' Bureau. aid in raising the standards of community environments, improve the character in every home as a stimulus of patriotism, create respect for citizenship, build health, physical strength and character as the basis of substantial accomplishment, and create in every home an atmosphere of reverence that will build an altar to God as the foundation of an enduring life."

UPSHAW is announced as "the central figure in a program of nation-wide activity." Of him, the Foundation says: "No man is better, or in any way so well equipped to lead the nation to a new youth and an onward way to build a campaign for better citizenship through better homes."

Skim Milk Good for Farm Stock Can Be Made Into Concentrated Product for Poultry and Hogs. Around Orchard SAY ORCHARDISTS PRUNE TOO MUCH

Surplus skim milk at creameries and city milk plants can be made into a concentrated product suitable for poultry and hogs, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Improved methods of sorting and concentrating skim milk, developed by the Bureau of Dairy Industry, make it possible to manufacture a product that will keep without spoiling, thus overcoming the chief difficulty encountered in the past in using skim milk in this way. The method is described in department circulars, the first of which is now ready for distribution. Special Culture Used. Concentrated skim milk must have an acidity high enough to keep it from spoiling. This is usually accomplished by adding a certain amount of bacteria to the milk to produce sufficient acidity for this purpose. In the new method, a special culture which develops a high acidity is used. By this method the Bureau has been able to develop an acidity in concentrated skim milk of 9 per cent which is sufficient to keep the product indefinitely without appreciable change. Many concerns are now producing poultry and hog feed concentrates concentrated by these improved methods. The product usually sold in 50-pound cans at the factory when sold in car lots is 4 cents in small packages. No difficulty has been experienced in disposing of large quantities of this product and hog raisers in the vicinity of the plant or to jobbers who specialize in poultry feeds. Estimated Cost of Production. On an estimated production cost of 1 1/2 cents per pound for the product, a price of 3 cents at the factory would mean 25 cents per hundred for skim milk and 4 cents for the concentrate would be about 28 cents. As a means of disposing of surplus skim milk, the Bureau estimates that the advantages, says the Bureau of Dairy Industry. It is a staple product with an established market. It can be made in any season and in any quantity to supply a uniform demand, or it can be sold to jobbers whenever a sufficient quantity for shipment has accumulated. Copies of the circular may be obtained, as well as the supply lists, by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Three Good Methods of Treating Oats for Smut. Three methods of treating seed oats for control of smut have been suggested. In the formaldehyde treatment 100 pounds of seed require 100 pounds of formaldehyde solution. The solution is applied at the rate of three ounces of solution to each bushel of the grain in a shoveler and then the pile covered with a blanket or canvas for two or three hours. After the seed has been spread to dry, it should be sown as soon as possible to avoid injury to germination. In the dry method, 1 pint of formaldehyde is diluted in 10 gallons of water. This dilute solution is applied and only 1 pint per bushel is required and may be spread with a vapor sprayer, after which the grain is covered for two or three hours. The dust treatment, though more expensive, has an advantage inasmuch as the grain may be treated at any time and in any quantity without the germination. The dust is prepared by thoroughly mixing and pulping together 100 pounds of coarse positive sublimate and 100 pounds of superphosphate of lime, and dusted on, 3 ounces to each bushel of grain.

Geranio, New Attractor for Japanese Beetle

The new attractive agent, geranio, developed by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, United States Department of Agriculture, is an aid in its control work against the Japanese beetle, has been found very successful. Methods now being used to control the beetle material may be used to concentrate the beetles in a relatively small area. It was found that by spraying these areas with geranio, the beetles could be drawn on the forward side of the orchard for a distance of nearly one-half mile without the use of insecticides. This makes it possible to destroy large numbers of beetles with a comparatively small quantity of a contact spray. Further work has been done on eggs baited with geranio, but although these capture a large number of eggs, it is not felt that a trap has been developed which can be recommended for general use. Increased efforts were made last summer to develop a repellent which could be used on fruit trees without the use of insecticides. The foliage and fruit. It was found that certain plants, particularly the odor of tar, are distinctly repulsive to the Japanese beetle, and these will be studied further.

New Fruit Varieties Are Described in a Bulletin

Thirty-two new improved fruits prepared by horticulturists of the United States Department of Agriculture are described and most of them pictured in Bulletin 230 prepared by W. H. Alderman, chief of the section of horticulture, conducted by the Minnesota experiment station. These varieties, which have been given names and introduced to growers, include: a new strain of plum; three plum-cherry hybrids, four apples, seven strawberries, four raspberries, one gooseberry, and two ornamentals.

FARM NOTES

Idle land is an expensive luxury. One of the best uses of waste land is for growing a grain crop. Linn put on the soil in the fall is best for the crops which follow and saves labor in the spring. Linn is a bulky product. The economical way to handle it is to haul it from the car to the field in 100-lb. bags. The product of this handling means added expense. Hill sits in the garden with carbon that does not operate as a fertilizer. Thrust stick into the middle of the hill. Pour in a spoonful of sulphur and cover the hole. Mixtures of sudan and soy beans grown together did not yield as much as sowing alone, but the quality of the hay was improved in test experiments carried out. Late fall and winter desiccation of manure on old stands of alfalfa have increased the hay yields by nearly one ton per acre, when the manure was applied at 2 1/2 tons per acre. The sweet clover plant is hardy but does not make good silage. It is a poor management. This crop is used in a number of different ways and its proper management is, therefore, deserving largely upon the use made of it.

Keep an Account

"Every progressive farmer should keep an account of his farm business if he is to know at the end of the year whether he has made a profit or loss year by year. It is not only a help to him in his business and make such studies in his own mind, but it also gives him a report from the standpoint of increasing his profits. Farmers interested in keeping such a record this coming year, or for any other information and help from his agricultural college.

(Continued from page 1) court went to great length to explain to the jury that some of the evidence being offered was presented as evidence of fact and some only as evidence of malice.

Under the ruling, an entire article was read to the jury. He said to read the article in the pleading of his own case. A man of medium stature, dressed neatly in gray, he stood next to the middle of the court room and read rapidly in a clear voice.

The article dealt with the "combination of law and malice." It charged that the "culture has been" on the $27,000,000 war bonus of Washington, with heavy losses to the farmers.

If a man will take a map of Idaho, Washington and Oregon, "Spain road," and with a supply of red, white and blue pins, and set a red pin where there is an outbreak of communism, radicalism and I. W. W., stick a white pin wherever the Jewish farm exploiting association has founded one of its so-called California plan co-operative associations and set a blue pin wherever one or more such associations have failed, he will find that he has a set of three pins at each point.

The jury heard Septio read detailed charges that the Northwest Hay Growers' association was matched out of large sums; that one of the organizers in the Walla Walla district of Washington was an I. W. W. agent, and that the 1923 crop was sold 4 cents a bushel less than the 1922 crop.
