FLYERS TESTING SHIP FOR 2,400 MILE OCEAN TRIP

Biplane Takes Nose Dive As Davis and Wooster Were Taking Off.

By United Press
NORFOLK, Va., April 25.—Lieut. Commander Noel Holm, commanding officer of the biplane, was killed today when the plane, while testing for a 2,400-mile ocean trip, crashed into the water near Norfolk, Va., one mile from Langley Field.

The plane had just taken off from Langley field with 17 men aboard, on which was planned as its final test flight. It went into a nose-dive during its take-off, and the pilot, buried itself in the mud. Lieut. Commander Davis and Lieutenant Wooster received injuries, but none of their immediate death. Little information in regard to the accident was being released at Langley Field.

The American Leifland plane is a total loss, it is said. The biplane was a two-engine, open-cockpit, high-winged, 100-horsepower, 100-gallon gasoline tank and was similar to the one used in the test flight. It was equipped with a number of instruments and instruments, but the average pilot of its size.

Today's crash was the second fatal accident in as many years in attempts to make the great 2,400-mile voyage. The first fatal accident occurred in 1924 when a biplane, piloted by a French man, crashed in taking off from Langley field a year ago, when his plane crashed into the water. The plane was damaged and a delay of two or three weeks and possibly an

LOUISIANA GOVERNOR WANTS PERMISSION TO MAKE HOLES TO SAVE RICH FARM SECTION

Thousands of Acres It Is Believed Would Be Saved by Releasing Water Below New Orleans; City Is Not in Path of Overflow.

By United Press
Dynamiting of levees below New Orleans, the crest city of the south, was contemplated today to save thousands of acres of rich farm land from the rising tide of the turbulent Mississippi flood waters.

With levee breaks feared at many points, Governor O. H. Simpson of Louisiana sought federal permission to blow up the levee 10 miles below New Orleans.

This measure would hasten the passing of the flood crest by permitting millions of gallons of water to drain off quickly from the main channel of the river below New Orleans and prevent great damage upstream.

Advices from government engineers at New Orleans said the city itself was in actual danger.

Yanks, Pittsburgh Pirates Play Best Ball

PIRATES WIN 7 OF FIRST 10 GAMES; YANKS TAKE 8 OF FIRST 11 ENCOUNTERS

By HENRY L. FARRELL, (United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, April 26.—Pittsburgh's speedy Pirates and the fast moving New York Yankees are playing the best ball in the major leagues and are showing enough class to make them favorites to win the championships.

The Pirates won 7 of their first 10 games and the Yankees eight of their first eleven and the two clubs have been meeting real opposition.

The Yanks fanned up, put three games against the lowly Boston Red Sox. It is true, but they also knocked out the Philadelphia Athletics in four games and the Athletics certainly can not be rated as a pushover.

The Pirates started against the Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs took five games away from the Reds and two from the Cubs.

The Reds, so far, are the biggest disappointment of the year. They were considered seriously as a pennant contender on account of a first baseman that looked like one of the strongest in big leagues.

The loss of Eddie Roush in center field was admitted to be serious but many of the critics, knowing Roush was the best in the league, were sure the management and the players, figured that George Kelly would be a more valuable player than Roush.

Kelly then tugged up with some physical disabilities and Hugh Critch held out so long that the team could not get away in step.

The St. Louis Cardinals are moving along much better than their former manager, Rogers Hornsby, heaved himself out of the Cardinals in a good ball game, and they are coming in the big league in the big league. The Cardinals, the big news, has a new manager, but Haines and Sheridan are pitching the best ball of their careers.

Considering the quality of the opposition they have been facing, the New York Giants are doing none too well.

We ought to win at least sixteen out of our first twenty games and get away on our first trip through the west with a lead that will hold us through the season.

After the season opened, the Giants won only seven of their first eleven games. That means a bad percentage but the club should have done better.

The Giants can hit the ball, but they need better pitching and no one knows better than McGraw that he has to have at least one pitcher who can be depended upon to win nine innings.

The Brooklyn Robins have been the biggest flop of the early season and they will probably remain that way. The Boston Braves and the Philadelphia Phillies are higher than they should be in the standings but they will find their place and that place may be above Brooklyn.

The St. Louis Browns are attracting attention in the American League and it is not too shocking to see them in the first division because Sam Bowley is a smart baseball man and a good leader.

NEW YORK.—St. Louis and Eddy Goldenstein, lightweight, have signed for a six round bout at the Polo Grounds June 15, the battles to receive a total of $50,000. It is understood they will split it $25,000 each. It is the highest amount ever paid for a six round bout in New York, and the greatest sum ever paid either boxer for a fight.

BRUINS ARE WORKING HARD FOR SUBDISTRICT MEET ON SATURDAY

A spirit of haste and work prevailed at Lincoln field yesterday afternoon when the Bruins were beginning another week of work. The excellent work was a result of hard work and the whole team was busy at something or other.

The immediate object of the Bruins' endeavor in the sub-district track meet which will be held at Lincoln field next Saturday. The team, represented in the meet will be Phil, Bill and Twin Falls, and also probably Hollister, Kimberly, Hanson, Houston and Idaho. The Bruins should win this meet by a top-draw score, although Phil will be the favorite.

At the meet Twin Falls should qualify soon in every event for the district meet to be held at Albert Snyder with the Hanson team. Idaho track and football star is proving a valuable addition to the coaching staff. He is helping much with the sprints, with the shotgun and with other events in which he excels.

A five-panel window, weight, made of iron, with which Henry Judd Gray is alleged to have crushed the skull of Albert Snyder, while Ruth Brown Snyder looked on, was drawn out of its wrappings, and showed before the eyes of Gray in court today.

Gray, following closely each move of the state attorney, directed his attack against him, whipped the attorney but never lost his composure. He is a law-abiding clerk, and a merciful father, told of selling Gray the ugly gray iron bar.

The window weight, shown in evidence, followed testimony laying a foundation for the introduction of Gray's purported confession.

Arthur K. Bailey, a hardware clerk, told of Gray buying the weight on March 4, two weeks before the murder.

Then came Martin Mulvihander, a waiter, who told how the night Gray and Mrs. Snyder had come to "Harris' Restaurant" which was one of their favorite dining places, and how Gray was carrying a parcel under his arm, leaving an inference that it was the window weight.

"I remember the date," testified the waiter, because it was Saturday and I served them a special chicken terrine on that day."

BUSINESS MEN HEAR BULGIN TALK ABOUT COMMERCE AT 1000

Nearly 100 Merchants and Members of Professions Listen to Evangelist Speak at Luncheon; Many Suggestions Regarding Standards to be Maintained are Set Forth.

Between 80 and 100 business and professional men sat down to luncheon at 1000 today to hear "The Flood in Business" by G. Humphrey, president of the Institute and introduced the speakers, among the laymen who spoke on "Our Man in the Christian Business" were Commissioner of Commerce, for Mayor E. L. Ashton, W. A. Parker of the Pacific Trust Company and T. L. Masters as a publisher.

Some of the suggestions which Dr. Humphrey gave out today are as follows:

"The man who succeeds in business must concentrate. If Webster was here he would say 'Don't do two businesses. Every business must be up or down. The average business man is called on for this and that and then he is a lot of his fellow's best way to multi-ordinate himself when you are engaged. How many of you will be engaged to write the mail order house when you want to build a church or a library? There is a great deal of prejudice against the church and it takes time to break some down. But we must do the truth."

"What should occupy your time here. You men speak just each of you your own comment yet each of you have the work of Almighty God within you. This is the blizzard of the present. The great shoe manufacturer of St. Louis has over $100,000,000 in assets and is in a bad way. One hundred years from today one of you men will be here."

"What is success? Some of the by-products of Christianity are honesty, integrity, loyalty, purity, sobriety, charitableness and gentleness. But these are the fruits of Christianity. You may practice these and yet not be a Christian."

Another business men's luncheon will be held Friday at 12:10.

CITY REFUSES TO WAIVE ITS LEGAL RIGHTS

Council Declines Offer in Favor of Standing Behind Arrest of People on Sunday Movies.

Following a referendum by E. M. Sweeden, city attorney, the opinion that the entire prohibition connected with the submission of the ordinance on Sunday movies was null and void and that there was no effect in the law of this state regarding the matter, the council last evening decided through individual expression of opinion to refuse to waive any legal rights which it might have, should any attempt be made to set aside the ordinance.

The city council could, of course, instruct the city attorney to waive any or all of these legal rights, but in that case it would be necessary to have another city attorney, said Mr. Sweeden. "It is a conviction that the law is perfectly clear and the action of the council valid, and its submission passed unanimously and the people have passed upon it. It is in the duty of the council to use every means in its power to see that Idaho expressed will is carried out."

City Councilmen Unanimous. E. M. Sweeden's opinion is that the council has acted in good faith and he believed in the right that the city might have to test the result. They had not asked to nullify the ordinance, but had submitted it to the people. J. E. White said in his opinion that he had always declared he would stand by the action of the people. E. M. Sweeden said that the ordinance was not worked against on the city should either act on the ordinance.

The plane was a biplane and it was flying at an altitude of about 200 feet from the ground, and suddenly it began to wobble and it was unable to clear the trees, and it crashed into the ground. # Thousands Facing Poverty

Desolation Grips Great River Valley

By BRUCE CATTON
Special Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 26.—I looked and behold a Pale Horse; and his name that sat on him was Death.

The Mississippi valley region today is one vast valley of desolation.

Beneath the sodden rain clouds that a driving wind whips low over the great waste of waters, over 50,000 people are homeless and one who is minded can hear the ghostly hoof-beats of three of the Four Horsemen of legend, riding on a mission of famine, pestilence and death down a thousand mile pathway that cuts through the heart of the continent.

For mile on uncounted mile the horizon has dissolved in a gray waste of water. The Mississippi has become an ocean; the thousands have buried their bones, and towns, villages, plantations and homesteads are dissolving before their very eyes.

A Great Disaster.

The rest of the country does not grasp the extent of the flood's devastation, for the imperative need for relief work.

It does not realize that southern farmers estimate the crop loss at least five years for the south to recover from this blow; that the flood has done as much for the reconstruction of the valley as the reconstruction of the Mississippi valley following the Civil War. Dire poverty for several years faces thousands who have lost everything in the swirling flood waters.

Fully three million acres are under water today. The prospect probably will be at least $100,000,000. The death toll of storms and floods since 1900 is close to 100,000.

Five states lie directly in the path of the slowly rising of desolation. The inundated western Kentucky, southeastern Missouri, the eastern half of Arkansas, western Tennessee, and western Mississippi.

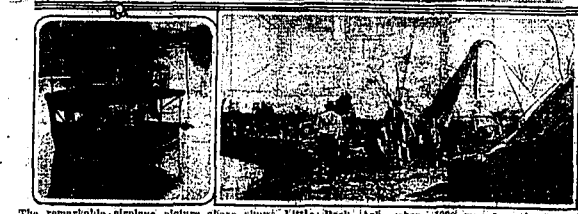

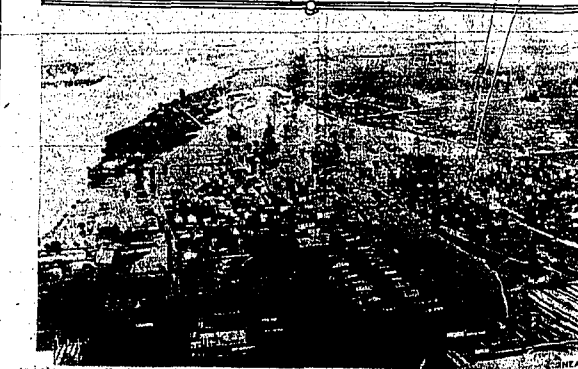

On Wild Rampage.

In most of these states the flooded area extends 25 miles inland for the full length of the Mississippi. In Arkansas a strip of 50 square miles, known as the St. Francis basin, is under water.

The Mississippi in its wild rise has abandoned its old channel, in many places, and is ruthlessly cutting out new ones, miles removed. It is making islands of white cotton. It is cutting some towns in half. It is transferring farms and plantations from one state to another.

Lands prepared for spring planting are under water. Thousands of farms will be totally unproductive this year and next. A huge section of the south will have to live on credit for months, many months, possibly, few years.

CITY DRAFTS MEN TO FIGHT FLOODS

The remarkable airplane picture above shows Little Beck, Ark., where 1000 men have been conscripted for levee-duty by the mayor following refusal of 600 workmen to carry on an apparently futile fight against flood waters. In the city, which is virtually isolated from the rest of the state, 150 homes and store buildings in the eastern section, situated here, are under water, several hundred are homeless and 25 square blocks are flooded. Below, to the left, is shown what happens to livestock left too near their creek at Pawnee, Okla. To the right is a refugee camp near Cairo, Ill., one of the many camps along the Mississippi where thousands of thousands of people are being crowded out of their homes and every life of property they own. They are huddled in refuge camps where the pestilence and famine brought by the Four Horsemen are stalking in broad daylight. And the Red Cross is the only national organization on duty.

Frank Wheeler.

The worst of the storm has not been felt. The Missouri river is rising, giving alarm to a section as yet untouched by the flood. Complexes small, unheated, are being transferred to miniature Mississippians, each spreading tragedy and ruin over the countryside. St. Louis and Kansas City are beginning to cast worried glances at the gauges that tell the water levels. What the next few days may hold no one can tell.

This spring has brought some of the fiercest weather in history. Tropical winds as great as 14 inches in 10 hours, have increased the flood menace. One is reminded of the biblical torments that fell for 40 days and 40 nights. The skies have remained leaden, day after day—rather parts of the country. There are cyclones and tornadoes with "scattered" "heat waves" quickly followed by almost zero temperatures.

This map shows the vast area affected by the Mississippi valley floods. The shaded areas indicate inundated regions.

W.B. Wheeler, Dry Boss

Liver-Shaking Machine Only "Rough Stuff"

By ROSEY DITCHER
SEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, April 25.—This is a story about how a man who is sitting on top of this new dry world lives. Even the most ardent wet will admit that Wayne B. Wheeler is sitting on top of the world. In fact, it is doubtful if any unofficial personage in history ever wielded as much power in government affairs as the big boss of the Anti-Saloon League.

Shaking up the dregs.

Wheeler at his home, I found that he has bought a cooperative apartment, paying one-fifth down and so much a month. Mr. Wheeler recommends the cooperative plan.

This particular apartment house fronts one of the most beautiful sections of wild and woody Rock Creek park, where Senator Borah and other rich brokeback in the morning.

Mr. Wheeler himself rather favors the mechanical type of horse such as ridden by Frank Condit. He estimates himself with a health machine in which one places a belt around himself, turns a handle and outflows Glidin Gray herself as the machine shakes him up, down and around.

"It shakes the liver out of you," explains Mr. Wheeler.

Finding Mr. Wheeler in his accustomed seat on top of the world, we found him most affable, but desolate a landscape that reminds one of cold stewed egg plant, Handshake and all. Mr. Wheeler knows how and when to dictate, and recently when he forced the appointment of Roy A. Hagen as prohibition commissioner, he made his seat on top of the world a bit more comfy.

Bedroom No. 611.

Mr. Wheeler's twin-bed and round screen as his bedroom, office and gymnasium. It is here that he does much of his work. A will desk in one corner opposite the health machine. One of the twin beds has been occupied all the morning in the morning, is unmade.

Opened the door upon it and Mr. Wheeler in the center is a contrived similar to the back of a steamer chair which indicates that Mr. Wheeler had poured his mail and perhaps even breakfast in bed. It all looks very comfortable and so any one who has a heart warm toward Mr. Wheeler.

On the walls are pictures of personal young men and women. One realizes instinctively, never indulged in cocktails or cigars. There is a picture of a young man in a colored picture of Easter Bibles clipped from the Ladies' Home Journal.

Mr. Wheeler is sitting himself out on the untiled twin bed and looked comfortable. His shirt, with its pleated and striped cuffs, was now covered by a vest. Mr. Wheeler's appearance is not impressive. He is a slender of medium height, and would pass for a bookkeeper or look preposterous in a home suit.

The wet New York World has a photograph of Mr. Wheeler which shows him in a suit and tie. It is a photograph of Mr. Wheeler which shows him in a suit and tie. It is a photograph of Mr. Wheeler which shows him in a suit and tie.

Mr. Wheeler suggested that the records were open to anyone.

Who knows Mr. Wheeler take the prohibition commissioners job?

The real answer is that Mr. Wheeler is a big game hunter. But he realized that he had long since answered that question to the effect that he felt he could do more good for the cause in his present position, and that because officials made it a policy not to enter government service.

About Good Debates.

What good are these debates?

Wayne B. Wheeler, prohibition commissioner, is better equipped than in the early days and will be able to answer a lot of the wet bank attributed by men like Darrow and Borah.

Mr. Wheeler said, further:

"I don't see how it is possible to expect that prohibition enforcement will collapse. There is no reason for their duty and state officers are not sleeping. If we use the injunction system without harm we can't say 'quit' any more effectively and if the judges will all use the injunction system we'll soon have 'em splitting cotton."

Keepin' 'em in the Fight.

"Prohibition is better enforced than in the early days and will be able to answer a lot of the wet bank attributed by men like Darrow and Borah."

Mr. Wheeler said, further:

Mr. Wheeler beamed. Almost anything he had said revealed the extent of his perch on top of the world.

BRITAIN MAY HAVE CHEAPER WHISKEY; SEEK LOWER TAXES

By United Press

EDINBURGH, April 25.—Great Britain is about to witness a united front for cheaper whiskey.

Faced by prospective wrecking of their industry due to the decline in the consumption of whiskey, the Scotch distillers are marshalling their forces for a campaign to reduce the present tax on whiskey from its present rate of 41s per gallon to approximately 25s.

According to statistics compiled by the distillers the consumption of whiskey in Great Britain has declined from 29,000,000 gallons in 1914 to only 11,500,000 in 1925. This decline, they say, is due to the abstinence tax laid on whiskey as compared on imported wine, where the tax except on champagne is only 25s per gallon.

The drinkers have found the experiment that there is more "kick" per shilling spent in wine than there is in "kick" per shilling in whiskey. In consequence while the sales of whiskey have declined severely, the sales of imported wine have risen from 1,000,000 to 16,500,000 in 1925.

But the weak point in the argument

President Is Guarded by 6 Men on Walks

By PAUL R. MALLOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

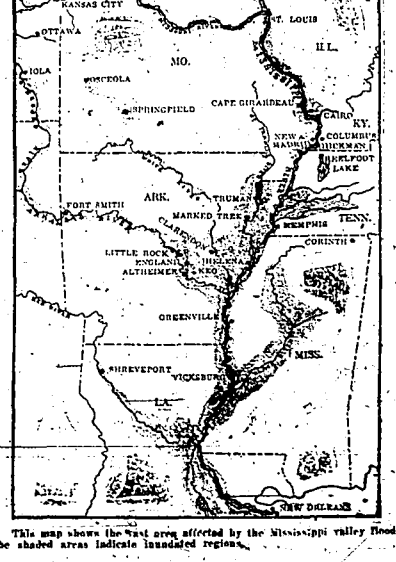

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Although no attempt to do physical harm to a president has been made in recent years, an extensive system has been built up to protect him. No king is guarded more carefully.

Every time he steps out of his house, from now on, he will be accompanied by six men in plain clothes accompanying him. One walks at his side and another at his rear. He goes on his walks through the streets. Three are usually lined up a few feet behind him.

When he travels by automobile, a secret service car accompanies him. At least one secret service man stands on the running board ready to jump at the slightest hint of danger. The moment the president's car stops they swarm up around him.

When the president travels by train the same routine of guards goes on. The train is usually run over the tracks a half mile ahead of the presidential train to lead the track and ward off any accident. All other trains must go to the sidings to let the presidential train through.

THE FLOODED REGION

AMERICANS LEAVE SUITS IN LONDON

By United Press

LONDON, April 25.—Many American suitors regard their hotels as "Londons" that let for 40 days and 40 nights. The skies have remained leaden, day after day—rather parts of the country. There are cyclones and tornadoes with "scattered" "heat waves" quickly followed by almost zero temperatures.

Londoners are regarded by visitors as the world center of masculine fashion. Opportunity is taken to replenish wardrobe by "men of taste" whose karmas are no longer in line with fashion decrees.

Visitors have been known to leave as many as ten suits behind them on leaving the hotel and the hotel authorities have to decide what must be done with these left-over garments.

The clothes are cleaned, pressed and stored, then the late visitor is notified by the hotel manager who sends a bill for the cost of the garments.

In most cases the owners of the out-of-date garments seldom reply and the various charities and institutions are the beneficiaries of the discarded raiment.

Present Best Building Time

Judging from building permits issued during the first three months of this year, 1927 promises to be a big building year for Idaho and particularly this section. A substantial increase in permits is shown over the same period last year and building operations are scarcely started. Early completion of the Twin Falls-Jerome Intercounty bridge; an abundant water supply; soaring bumper crops and the local and state advertising campaign to focus the attention of the nation on Idaho are factors in the general feeling of optimism that is the forerunner of a boom in building.

House and Garden

No real garden could be complete without at least a few annuals. They are so colorful, so prolific in bloom, even until late in the fall, and so very easy to manage that even complete gardeners of them are fully satisfied. Annuals, as the name implies, live only for a single year. We plant the seed in the open ground without the trees and shrubs are putting on their leaves, and they grow so rapidly that we begin to reap our harvest of flowers by early summer.

Seed should always be purchased from a reliable seedman, and should be planted in ground that is well dug and rich, otherwise we can hardly expect our plants to thrive. Frequent cultivation and weeding are necessary, for these little plants have to compete their whole life in a single season and can come to full beauty only if we hurry them on a bit at first. They are a longer period to which to enjoy them.

The Builders' and Home Owners page is a regular Tuesday feature of The Times. Watch for it!

A WELL PLANNED BRICK HOUSE

To my mind no type of plan for a small or moderately sized house has ever been devised which combines the general hallway plan such as is commonly used for our so-called Colonial houses. The plan of the house shown may be a very good example of a residence laid out in this way.

When the front entrance opens into central hall we do away with the necessity of having a screen, entering through one of the rooms of the house. The objectionable callers—peddlers, etc.—will not so easily gain entrance and an important consideration, one of the principal reasons why they will be killed when the door is opened in winter. As an additional precaution he house above has a small vestibule immediately in back of the entrance.

Another problem which is easily solved with a house of this type, is the location of the stairway to the second floor. With a central hall the best and most logical placing for the stairway is directly in the hall.

As to the placing of the lower floor rooms in such a house, a little thought will dictate the best arrangement. The dining room must be easily accessible from the kitchen, so what is more natural than to place both on one side of a central hall?—The dining room, of course, at the front and the kitchen directly behind. In the plan a pantry lies between kitchen and dining room, making a sort of butler's pantry, but this is optional. The housewife may, if she so desires, place the pantry in the kitchen or in some other way.

Now come with both a living room and a sun room on the first floor, or only a living room, or a living room and a library, in any case the latter side of the hall will take care of this. The plan above shows a living room at the front and at the rear a sun room whose outside walls contain five windows.

The second story arrangement can be decided in just an straightforward and logical manner. The upper story readily adapts itself to contain four bedrooms, all opening from the stair hall. A bath is situated directly over the first floor vestibule, and opens into the master's bedroom and also into the hall. Another bath is placed between the two bedrooms on the other side, and may be entered from either of the rooms.

This residence, designed by Dwight James Baum, architect, is constructed of red brick. All outside trim is painted white. Window shutters and the gabled roof are a dark green.

A CITY WITH ONE DRY SPOT

The LOW DOWN FROM THE ROUSE

By A. F. DOOLEY RIDDLE

next two years in the way of a beginning toward teaching Idahoans how to drink and talk and act in ways to help the promotion along. That is the view of some thoughtful persons not necessarily pessimistic, who have been watching the growth of this state publicity campaign during its conception.

Bob Linhart, the man who put the Obelisk of the Moon on the map, in the National Geographic magazine and in the list of United States national monuments, had before a Boise luncheon club a few days ago.

"Idaho is still asleep at the switch when it comes to advertising. There isn't another state in the union which has such things as her roads with Indian inscriptions, her deep Bruneau Canyon, her Snake River canyon, her Lee caves, her volcanic formations and her wonderful Sawtooth mountain lakes and fastnesses. But how is the rest of the world to learn it until we learn to advertise?"

A week ago the thermometer dropped several degrees below the front line in the fruit sections of southwestern Idaho, and right away newspapers and press associations tried to tell everybody how disastrous it was. Next fall the very orchardists from whom this bright news was obtained will be boasting of their big crops or waiting to hush heaven that overproduction, low freight rates, rained out crops and some such things.

There are two kinds of advertising Idaho must learn to do. It has been said in this very column has indicated it in two or three ways in the months that the state chamber of commerce has scored pretty close to zero since its organization in December, 1925. But in all fairness it must be admitted that the chamber has done some good planning in the way of mission and some meetings in many communities throughout the state, prepping the teaching of Idaho to Idahoans. First we must sell the state to ourselves, speakers have repeated at these meetings.

The state chamber is still doing that preaching work, and evidence is plentiful that much of it must be done and done over again before the wheels really begin to move as they ought. It must be made a propaganda, a name, a "brand," a credo, a "bug," with individuals, firms, corporations, institutions, societies, associations, clubs, committees and every human factor in Idaho, to see the light, and breathe life into it, and use it in other and broader it everywhere with the utmost frequency and on the best possible wartime and war length.

IS THERE NO RELIEF FROM SKIN TORTURE?

Must I Continue to Suffer the Unbearable Itching?
 Are you one of those unfortunate who are going through life suffering from a skin disease, making you uncomfortable, making you less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep? You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try this? It is a new, scientific, and reliable remedy. It has been given relief in many forms of skin disease. Thousands of letters of grateful thanks testify to its worth. "I feel so happy for what S. S. S. has done for me that I want others to know about it. I suffered twenty long years from eczema. At times the itching was unbearable. During that time, I used all kinds of soaps without receiving any real benefit. After taking bottles of S. S. S. I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me."—Thomas Forde, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

It Cures Itch Pruritus
 It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to you what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.
