LARGE NUMBER AT EXERCISES OF BUHL HIGH

Special Dispatch to The Times
Buhl, June 3.—The exercises of the seventeenth annual commencement of the Buhl high school were held this evening in the new high school auditorium, in the presence of a large crowd of friends and relatives of the forty-seven graduates. Many who sought entrance could not be accommodated.

Following the recitation by the high school, afterwards the house was darkened and a large "E" in crimson light shown from above the stage as the curtain was raised revealing the class of 1934.

John Sandmeier as Salutatorian compared the class of '34 to a ship setting out on a voyage across the sea. Just as the ship may encounter storms, so may the student meet hardships and obstacles on his journey through life.

Mr. Ogers is one of the best and most widely known mechanical experts in the west. He comes to The Times from the Great Falls Tribune at Great Falls, Mont., where he had charge of a battery of 18 Linotype machines. Also, he is a writer of mechanical equipment, he is a feature writer of well known ability in the Northwest.

Mr. Ogers did not bring his family with him but Mrs. Ogers and their son will join him soon. They expect to make their home here permanently.

REV. BAUGHMAN DIES AT HOME

Father of Carl and Will Baughman, died Friday at home in Chemute, Kansas—92 Years of Age.

Special Dispatch to The Times
Buhl, June 3.—Word was received here Friday from Chemute, Kansas, that the Rev. John Wesley Baughman, 92, father of Carl and Will Baughman of Buhl, had died. Rev. Baughman is well known in Buhl and Twin Falls as the best kept man's summer here with his sons for a number of years.

Reverend Baughman was a Civil war veteran and a member of the G. A. R. He made his home at Chemute, Kansas, for 68 years. His father had spent his lifetime in the same section. One of the old stumps for which he will be remembered here is his, says the Rev. Baughman. He was generally considered 20 years younger than he was.

Wood Not Injured

The forest products laboratory says that as far as it knows the treatment of wood with fire retardants such as ammonium phosphate, ammonium sulphate or ammonium chloride does not injure the mechanical strength of wood so as to make it unsuitable for use as joist, studds, rafters, etc.

Honey and Honeydew

There are two kinds of nectar honey, known as floral, or normal, and honeydew, or abnormal, the former being made from nectar, a sweet liquid secreted by flowers, and the latter from honeydew, a sweet substance deposited on the leaves of plants by plant lice and other insects.

Sea Shells

The bureau of standards says that shells are made up of alternate layers of a heavy material and calcium carbonate containing a little organic matter.

Hares and Rabbits

The meat of hares and rabbits is quite similar to that of other mammals. The flesh of the former is dark and dry in comparison with the latter, which is in some respects superior, being more savory and of higher flavor.

THE SOCIAL REGISTER AND THE WEST

Yorkers, at least those of the so-called "400" and their publication, The Social Register, have taken their playthings and gone home—to stay, insofar as their efforts to make western people take on the snobbish ways of their alleged society are concerned, it is hoped.

A news story from New York yesterday indicated that because western people refused to "go wild" over their names appearing in the Social Register that publication would no longer list the names of those whom it believes are entitled to be known as "society." The only exception in the west is that San Francisco will be listed.

Oh! How, Woe is us! We want what we need to be. 'Tis a cruel, cruel blow, this being out of "society."
At the time this was written, however, the editor had not heard of anyone in this district "passing away," after reading the startling news from New York; in fact, southern Idaho was calm as the crisis came. It took the blow with remarkable fortitude—the one who was interested. The other half million or so expressed no surprise whatever.

The editor of The Times yesterday, for the first time since his arrival in the city, due to being confined to the office on account of reorganization of The Times under the new management, met several city and county officials and many of the business men. He found that the spirit of Idaho was just as cordial and plain as it was a year ago when he left the "City." Upon returning to the office and reading the "sensational information" contained in the story from New York, the contrast in the people of the East and West was brought sharply to his mind.

How trivial this alleged "society" standard of New York seems to the people of the West. When the editor met the business and officials yesterday, there was, in every case, the smiling, willing, firm, warm handshakes, unaccompanied by a snide which makes real men and women of Westerners. How would a stranger face among New York's "society"? It is to laugh, when a mental comparison is made, and comment is useless. We in the West know what we are—we are men among men, all for one and one for all.

With the edict of the Social Register staring us in the face, the demography of the pioneer days again prevails (if has never really been otherwise) and each man may now be safely labeled a "damn dude" or a "good stiff," and the charming hostess, Mrs. Stidderman-Johnson, will forever be regarded as a common girl's meeting of "a tall, lumpy gal." Such terms were never really applied in the West but New York seems to think they were and we are willing to let their bubble go unbroken.
Let's keep on being "just folks!"

A GREAT AMBASSADOR

As an ambassador of good will our own Lindbergh has just about made a world's record.

The flight of Lindbergh of Wales has been lauded by newspapers here as the best bet for creating international confidence, for striking a popular thought and making other peoples feel kindly toward his native land.

But now our own "Landy," typical, trim, athletic, courageous American, has made the prime time headlines for many months of European hatred for us. Some of our leading citizens have come back from across the water with stirring tales of this hatred, admitting it to various reasons which to us seem far fetched, even though we acknowledge them as true.

There have even been many warnings of possible outbreaks in France during the time of the Legion convention.

But Lindbergh's spectacular feat and his warm reception has done what all the politicians in the world could not do: what diplomats did not dream of accomplishing, nor know how to approach. In a huge burst of feeling for an American figure, who typifies a country for which they have had an admiration, for a country they have come back into friendly contact.

That is the greatest part of the achievement—Idaho State Journal.

Girl Accompanies Five Boys on Trip to Buhl from West

Special Dispatch to The Times
June 2.—Miss M. J. Herthel, 16, arrived in Buhl May 17 in company with five young men from the west who have become acquainted in Oregon. She is now being held by authorities in Twin Falls, Idaho, and while an effort is being made to apprehend one of the five boys with whom she is alleged to have been particularly intimate.

Miss Herthel was arrested in Twin Falls last Wednesday night as the result of a telephone call from Chief of Police Jess Husted to the sheriff's force. She attended the state here the night before and prior to leaving Buhl on the day of her arrest, borrowed some clothes and went to school with some local acquaintances.

LINDBERGH'S LIFE

The story of America's Hero, the first man to fly from New York to Paris in a non-stop trip.

BY MORRIS DEHAVEN THOMPSON, United Press Staff Correspondent. Copyright 1927 by United Press.

CHAPTER 6.
Two cats have been honored places in any story of Charles A. Lindbergh's career.

The first was a petred Angora, a rhapsodist of the feline family. Lindbergh dropped it from a second story window.

The second was a litter of unknown antecedents. He treated it with such kindness that it grew into a magnificent, insatiable of human sorceries and painful lavers the country over.

In addition to these two cats, which now have named such great kind, dogs, horses and animals of every kind, Lindbergh has a pet bird named "Landy," for he is one of those men who never is alone as long as there is an animal in the house.

One of the earliest stories of Lindbergh was told originally as a descriptive of his early development of the experimental urge. Some one had told him that a cat, no matter how far it dropped, would always land on its feet. He was then aged six and the family was living in the upper flat of a "two-family home" in Minneapolis.

The folks down stairs had a valuable Angora. Charles approached it and decided that it would be a good bit of material for an experiment to determine the truth of the stories of cats always landing on their feet. He prepared the Angora, took it up stairs and dropped it from a window.

It landed on its feet, he evaluated to his mother, when she took him to task for his experiment.

The other cat was the one which adopted Lindbergh at Curtis Island, Long Island, New York, while he was on his trans-Atlantic flight.

He proved that his long love of animals was still with him for he never was too busy to stop a lullabying play with the kitten. Often he would sit around the kitchen on his trying days, with the kitten on his shoulder.

When, in the excitement of the start for Paris, some one attempted to put the kitten in the airplane with him, Lindbergh was not too busy to object.

Refuses to Take Kitten.
"It may be cold, and the kitten might die," he said, as he insisted that the kitten stay, it must be left behind.

"But that was Lindbergh's real companion. As a youth he wandered through the Minnesota woods around his home, often being alone all day long and his dog and cat were his only companions.

He built a log cabin in Minnesota and on it he and his dog, bucked day after day on long excursions over the nearby waters.

It was in these days in Minnesota that he became known first as a youth who always traveled alone. He did not dislike the company of others, but he was engaged in his happiness and when he was engaged in the things in which he was engaged in, he was not interested in the company of others.

It was hardly a year or a half in the cabin, that Lindbergh, who did not know of the time he was 14 years of age.

He was a good swimmer, a good shot and he was a good woodsman. For a cupped was one of his first school of the land he always wanted to be alone and have all the responsibility himself.

which he robs the ice of Lake Michigan. The best shot came to grief in a collision but after a couple of weeks it was in commission once more, repaired through the resourcefulness of a youthful builder.

Was Skilled Driver.
He learned to drive an automobile and his friends say that he is an excellent driver. He learned to drive a motor car on his own.

With the family being forced to reside in the town of Washington and Little Falls, Charles had his difficulties in the matter of his early schooling.

He attended school part of the time in Washington, D.C., in the schools of the term, would go back to Little Falls and become a student there.

He was a student in the Little Falls high school and entered the University of Wisconsin. He began the study of mechanical engineering, but later was not to Lindbergh's liking.

He took up a small part in college life, preferring to be by himself. Finally he gave up college in 1921 without completing his course, and soon thereafter began his amazing career as an aviator.

He studied writing up his notes and was through her errors that he was able to keep up his studies despite the many interruptions.

There came a time during the war when Charles' father was in Washington, D.C., in the position of chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics. He was forced to devote practically his entire time to affairs in Washington and away from home.

Charles of the engine to a homemade ice boat in the farm where the family lived, accordingly fell upon Charles, many through manner, but soon decided that there was not enough use made of mechanical power. He set about to remedy the defect.

Finally Lindbergh, when he finished about everything around the farm house was mechanically repaired and that farm became a center of much interest in the community.

About that time he was graduated from the Little Falls high school and entered the University of Wisconsin. He began the study of mechanical engineering, but later was not to Lindbergh's liking.

A sure cure for traffic "BUCKERS"

YOU'LL be amazed at the ease with which Conoco Ethyl Gasoline darts your car ahead in traffic. No sputtering and fussing—just a steady even push on the pistons that lets you glide quietly along. Conoco Ethyl gives a quick sensitive response to the slightest touch on the accelerator.

But, of course, Conoco Ethyl does lots more than that. It absolutely eliminates knocking, turns carbon into power, literally flattens "second-gear" hills.

The best way to prove these claims is to give it a test. One tankful of Conoco Ethyl (undiluted with any other gasoline) will convince you that there is no fuel to be compared with it. You'll know that it is a real money saver in the extra satisfaction it gives you under all motoring conditions.

Conoco Ethyl Gasoline has no substitute. None of the other so-called "special anti-knock fuels" can be compared with it. It is the pace-setter—developed after seven years of exhaustive research.

You can get it wherever you see the Conoco sign.

Bruin Combinations Fail and Ogden Trims Locals, 11 to 7

GARDINER MEN HIT IN GOOD FORM BUT HURLERS FAIL TO CHECK FOE

Manager Uses Several Combinations in Vain Effort to Check Opponents Who Chalk Up 15 Bingles Off of Sunseri and Farrell.

Special Dispatch to The Times
OGDEN, June 3.—Manager Gardiner used the Twin Falls Bruins in every possible combination of his players here yesterday in an effort to halt his team's losing streak but the local boys again hit for 15.
Apperson was back in the game and when Horton was injured in the third inning, Gardiner pulled Altmeyer from the catcher's box and put him at second base. Later in the fifth inning, in center and right pitchers in addition to a pinch runner, Sunseri and Farrell were unable to hold the Bruins, however, and they collected a total of 15 bingles.

Latzo and Dundee Clash Tonight for Welter Title

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
The fight was the written scenario. NEW YORK, June 3.—Pete Latzo and Joe Dundee, when they meet at the Polo grounds tonight, will be fighting for the welterweight championship title. Latzo, who has won the title by a knockout, will give the exerts another chance to go wrong.

From the way the betting is going about one half of the fans will bet the wrong way on the written scenario. Latzo, who has won the title by a knockout, will give the exerts another chance to go wrong.

One of the few experts who is not betting on an option in Jack McAuliffe, the retired unbeaten Irish welter champion.

McAuliffe, who is trying to make the horses run at Belmont Park the way he picks them, was asked today what he thought of Latzo and Dundee and replied:

"What race are they in?"
The question without shame that he never had heard of them.

Benny Leonard fears that making the weight will hurt Latzo. The former lightweight champion admitted he knows something about the trials of weight making.

"There are perhaps more qualifications than on the opinion on Latzo and Dundee than on any principals in a major championship fight in years. Hunch players always strike along with the champion.

Scout "Chin," as some of the boys persist in calling it, in which, Gene Dundee, mustered a few dollars and money left to figure.

Despite the fact that Dundee is an inter-bred, supposed to be a future champion.

DEMERS READY TO SET RECORD
By United Press
CHICAGO, June 3.—School boy athletes from 182 schools today will start competition in the annual, national interscholastic track and field meet at the city field.

More than 1,000 youths, coming from 23 different states, will compete. It is the largest one-day meet in the history of the track meet which was first run in 1923.

A. S. Stues, athletic director at the University of Chicago originated the meet and is directing it today.

One of the favorites to enter is the Port Collins, Colo. team, which won in 1925 and 1926. The team this year is again represented and strong although the competition will be more severe than heretofore.

Instant stars are in abundance. Jimmy Demers, Sandpoint, Idaho, holder of the world's best record in the 100-yard dash, has arrived. He has already tossed the year far beyond his present world's record.

MEXICO RAIDS RED LEGATION
By United Press
Mexico City, June 3.—Federal secret agents and soldiers entered the Soviet legation early today and arrested 10 men, all of whom were released when the legation was notified their meeting for the legation was not of a seditious nature. The chief of the legation said a mistake had been made.

The release of the arrested men was indicated by Leon Haykin, first secretary of the legation who conferred with Madame Kollontai, Soviet ambassador to Mexico, at her hotel. The raid was made shortly after midnight.

Haykin later returned to the legation. Secret agents were still there and the building was still brightly lit when the raid was made. Haykin told the United Press the whole affair was a mistake.

HAROLD ROBINSON, SUICIDE, HAD NO TROUBLE WITH WIFE

Young Man Who Shot Himself Thursday Afternoon Corresponded Regularly with Wife, Says Mother; She Expected to Come Here to Join Him; He Dies on Elevator at Hospital.

That there was no trouble between Harold Robinson and his wife, Mrs. Zella Robinson, so far as could be learned from the statement made Sunday by Mrs. Kennedy Packard, grandmother of the young man, who shot himself at 3:30 p. m. yesterday and who died on the elevator in the Twin Falls county general hospital, is stated in letters which were exchanged three times weekly between them, and she expected to come here to join him. The young man was in low state of physical health, when he arrived and it was evident that he was suffering from mental trouble, Mrs. Packard said.

If there were any discord, whatever it arose from, it was because of relatives, whom Robinson declared wanted his wife to marry a rich man, Mrs. Packard stated. Robinson had a brother and sister in California.

Mental derangement was the cause of the suicide of Harold M. Robinson late yesterday in the tent in the rear of the residence occupied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Johnson, and his grandmother, Mrs. Kennedy Packard, at 421 Second avenue east, in the opinion of relatives and officers.

Robinson applied at several places in this city for work during the past week, and seemed greatly depressed, according to the authorities. He visited the office of Sheriff H. E. Finch and told E. P. Prater, deputy sheriff, the latter said that a man was endeavoring to alienate his wife's affections in Sacramento, where he recently married and that the man had made false accusations against him.

Relatives of Robinson are among the oldest and most respected in Twin Falls. His grandfather, the late Kennedy Packard, was the first real estate dealer and first justice of the peace in Twin Falls, and was again occupying the last named position at the time of his death a few weeks ago.

Last evening the relatives learned the following statement: "Harold M. Robinson, son of Mrs. Gus Johnson and grandson of Mrs. Kennedy Packard, committed suicide by shooting through the temple at the home of his grandmother at 3:30 p. m. Thursday.

"He arrived five weeks since from California on a visit to his mother, but was not in good health, and the family decided that much of the time he was severely affected mentally.

"It is presumed that the act was the result of extreme mental depression which had held him for several days.

The funeral will probably be held Monday although definite arrangements cannot be made until word is received from Kearney, Nebraska, from the boy's father, S. A. Robinson, who is a brother of Clarence A. Robinson, of this city.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—There is no certain method of preventing President Coolidge from becoming a candidate for a third term as it becomes more and more certain that he expects to run again. If there were, his discoverer could have anything he wanted from the Democrats and even from the progressives.

The pro-third term politicians are to be heard on every hand. Like robins in the spring after the first one is duly observed and heard, it soon as one stalwart Republican warps for breath another begins warbling the refrain which is believed so exact to the Coolidge ears.

No Concerted Movement
You may have seen certain vague assertions in print to the effect, that a concerted movement is under way to smother the president out—to demand of him whether he intends to run again or whether he doesn't. But your correspondent has been unable to track down these rumors. Borah doesn't know anything about it, Norris doesn't, La Follette doesn't, Howell doesn't, Shipstead doesn't, and neither do any other Democrats or progressive Interveners.

The attitude of most of the third term opponents at the moment seems to be that the issue is being kept before the public as the regular Republican senators, national committeemen and others continue to issue public ads to the effect that the third term is a dead duck as a bogey and that, anyway, reelection won't mean really a third term for Mr. Coolidge with an occasional blast from their side like that of Norris or Butler; they appear to feel they may well bite their time.

It seems most likely that the anti-third term movement will not become organized until the Seventeenth Congress gets into action. It's only a platitude to say that nothing short of a conflagration could smother President Coolidge out of his dugout at this time. This is not, as has been said, largely because the progressives, haven't even rehearsed their piece. Only those who constantly rush in where angels fear to tread—Senators George Norris, Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator George Moses—have ventured to lift their voices.
