The sentence was imposed on him some time ago on charges of petty larceny and he was out on parole, which was cancelled when it was charged he had conspired with his brother, Vern Taylor, and the latter's wife, Vern was arrested today on a charge of a misdemeanor or charge connected with the parole, but was released on a suggestion of County Attorney D. Japanese Laundry Work

Much of the washing of garments in Japan is done out of doors with plenty of cold water and no soap. Cotton garments are hung up on bamboo poles, passed through the sun and air-purged smooth and straight before they dry. Usually, silk garments are washed in place before washing, are smoothed out on a long board while wet, then are set up on the board to dry in the sun. Ironing is unnecessary.

Peculiar Glass Drop

Prince Rupert's drop is a kind of glass drop with a long tail, made by dropping molten glass into water. Petticoat Man's Garment

Originally (1893-1894) the "petticoat" was a short coat or garment worn by men under the long overcoat. Later (about 1922) the name was applied to the skirt of a woman's dress or robe. Modern usage refers to it as an under-shirt.

The New Bathing Suit Copies the Printed Silk Jumper Frock to Wear Over the One-piece Jersey

GWEN LEE Metro-Goldwyn Mayor Player

The one-piece bathing suit is only half of the made in bathing suits this season. Although this choice fitting garment is preferred by those who actually go into the water when they go on the beach, the smart printed suit which makes such a decorative display on the beach is at least fifty per cent of the mode. Some of the new bathing suits, in fact, look for all the world as if Madame has stepped out of her boudoir in her new gay pajamas or lounging robe to stroll happily on the warm sands and chat with her friends.

Those who wish to combine decorative effect with practicality wear jumpers fashioned of smart materials over the one-piece jersey so that the top can be removed when one wants to go in for a dip. Palmans, corded coats and beach robes follow the same for "beach" colors and pleasing prints and are expected to find in fashionable beach attire this summer.

Illustrated here are new bathing suits which will be seen on the smartest beaches this year. The one-piece affair of jersey worn by Gwen Lee, charming Metro-Goldwyn Mayor player who has recently completed a feature role in "Adam and Eve," in which Allison Triggs and Lew Cooly costar, is the type one will see by itself or beneath smart silk jumpers. The round necked belted jumper of printed silk at the left covers just such a bathing suit as worn by Miss Lee. A more decorative affair which reflects the new vogue of architectural in this season's decorations is also shown. Notice the square necked, short sleeved, belted jumper of the printed silk of this suit which duplicates the fashionable two-piece dress, ribbed, ribbed pulsed trousers worn with it.

Buhl Boy Wins Fame in Races at Aurora, Ill.

Special Dispatch to The Times

BUIHL, June 6.—Page Horatio Alger. There is a Buhl boy he could tell about. Many stories are written about the boy who breaks away from his home on the farm and goes out into the world where he finds wealth and fame.

Most of the stories on such an overworked subject are hatched from the fertile brain of some author. But now comes an instance of such a boy, raised on a farm near Buhl who went "out into the world" and is making a great success.

A story of his experiences would make one of Horatio Alger's heroes turn green with envy.

The boy, for he is just a boy being only 17, left his home on a farm near Buhl about a year ago.

He had no particular objective but went to Willow Park, a racing establishment in Hollywood, California. There he became acquainted with A. C. Smith, race horse owner, and was given an opportunity to show his talent on "Ree Schow" prize horse of the Smith string.

Vernel Peterson was elected and determined to put every effort into winning the race. He rode "Ree Schow" at Lumbardine Park and finished in ahead of the field. Before the echoes of the cheering had died, "Pete," as he is called on the track, had been signed by Smith as a regular jockey.

This was quite a boost for the boy who was then 16. "Pete" threw himself into his work and in a short time was recognized as one of the best leading jockeys.

Smith took his string of horses and his "find" to the Florida where there were new fields to conquer. "Pete" with but a few months' experience was quickly recognized in the Latin-American sport town as one of the best boys entering color. He won race after race and was touted as a sure first or second in the California handicaps if only given a fast mount.

When the gun sounded and the finest racing horses in the United States jumped into stride for the great Tin Drum classic, "Pete" was sixth to start. He finished in the same place. Although he did not win the race his popularity increased.

B. W. Creech, one of the leading stable owners had been smarting under defeats administered by horses ridden by the "new" jockey. He wanted to do something about it, but didn't know exactly where to start.

After thinking it over he decided the best thing to do would be to buy Smith's consent on "Pete" and have the "jack" wearing the Creech silks. This he did, paying Smith $2,500 for the turnover.

Creech had "Pete" go into intensive training and soon had the boy weighing 132 pounds. Within two weeks after taking over the lad's contract, he was offered $5,000 to relinquish his rights to the Tin Drum service.

Creech made no mistake for a few weeks later at Aurora, Ill., "Pete" pulled his horse in a winner in a $50,000 derby. In 22 starts at the Aurora races, "Pete" took 18 firsts, which will be recognized as a record even by those not acquainted with racing.

All this time "Pete" has been making money and making it fast. He is paid a good salary and receives a large percentage on races won. However, success has not turned his head and "Pete" is very generous in sending money home to his folks and relatives. The spirit which is shown is appreciated even if the money is not needed. He has sent $1,300 home in the last few months with the request that it be saved for him. "I am growing fast and will soon be heavy for the races. I want to save this money to start myself in the racing game as an operator," Pete says in writing home. "Pete" had only experience "Pete" had before leaving home was one race at the Elder Pair two years ago when he rode a Buhl horse called "Scorpion."

CHAMBERLIN SETS

starting across Europe late today, however, the plane ran into rain and fog which almost dived the aviator considerably.

Chamberlin again had had luck on returning his flight from Berlin. He encountered heavy rain.

100,000 Ansat Arrivals. A crowd of nearly 100,000 gathered at the Tempelhof air field near Berlin during the night.

Shortly after midnight leading Berlin newspapers treated extra editions announcing the impending arrival of the Columbus.

They predicted the Bellanca would reach Berlin at 3 a. m. Thousands of people, including most of the American colony, district government officials, ranking army and navy officers and Berlin business men kept an all night vigil at the Tempelhof field. The ways to and from the airfield were thronged.

Tempelhof field, seen and by many of the American colony, for rooms overlooking the air field. Scores of Americans lined all available air-planes in which they hoped to find the Bellanca on the outskirts of Berlin.

Announcements by officials of the Luftwaffe of the progress of the flight were greeted with cheers and enthusiasm and the spectators to remain during the chilly night.

By 6:30 a. m. the sun was shining, the weather was perfect and crowd in a holiday mood awaited the arrival of Chamberlin and Levine.

Planes Start Search.

At 4:50 a. m. German planes took off from the Tempelhof airfield in search of the Columbus. Twenty minutes later six more planes, filled with American newspaper correspondents, followed them.

Jacob Gould Steinhilber, American ambassador, and Julius Curtius, German minister to the United States, were at the field at 5:30 a. m. Curtius was appointed by the German cabinet to welcome Chamberlin and Levine.

At 5 a. m. it was announced at the field that the Columbus was expected between 6:30 and 7 a. m. It was reported Chamberlin flew through a heavy rain over Germany. At that hour planes were circling over Berlin waiting to sight the Bellanca. Bellanca continued to arrive that day. Chamberlin was near Berlin but at 7:15 four of the Luftwaffe planes failed to find more than two hours previously returned to the Tempelhof field and reported the search for the Bellanca had been fruitless. Finally came the word of the foreign landing at Forst.

BETTERS 'LUCKY'S' MARK

NEW YORK, June 6.—Charles D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine today had broken the nonstop speed record established by Captain Charles A. Lindbergh a fortnight ago.

Chamberlin and Levine flew approximately 4,000 miles from New York to Berlin, Germany, 100 miles southwest of Berlin, in 44 hours and 15 minutes.

Lindbergh flew approximately 2,620 miles from New York to Paris in 33 hours and 21 minutes. With today's achievement, the Bellanca monoplane, designed by Giuseppe Bellanca of New York, possessed both the nonstop and endurance records. The craft remained in the air more than 60 hours last month.

By HENRY L. FAIRBELL
The United Press Correspondent, NEW YORK, June 6.—Babe Ruth, Buster Cohen, schoolmaster Combs, Dutch "Big Boy" Lazzeri and some of the best celebrated athletes who are known nearly all employees of the New York Yanks, seem to be in the act of running away with another American League pennant.

Miller Huggins, who has survived a number of stormy years as the manager of Colonel John Huggert's walking ball club of athletes in his wonderful outfit as Gil Dule, the weeping football coach of Cornell university.

Modern smokers praise the integrity of Camels

Early Millionaire
The Jewish shopkeeper, a man's born strategist and shrewdness, is the only ancient musical instrument actually preserved in the Musée rituel and the oldest musical instrument known to be retained in present use in the world. It is still sounded by the Jews on the New Year and on the Day of Atonement. It is first mentioned in the Bible as sounding when the Lord descended upon Mount Sinai.

THIS is the age of frankness and plain-speaking, and it rates Camel first among cigarettes.

For Camel is that kind of a smoke. Camel is all quality and no false front or show. Camels are made of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown—no substitutes. And the finest blending ever given a cigarette.

It is Camel character that has won the smokers of today—such honesty of taste and fragrance as never was known in a cigarette before. You'll find all dreams of smoking pleasure realized in this modern, quality cigarette. "Have a Camel!"
