PAYS TRIBUTE TO HEROISM

President Outlines Accomplishments of American Airman in Speech.

BY PAUL R. MALLON,
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 11—President Coolidge today personally welcomed home Charles A. Lindbergh as "our ambassador without portfolio" and decorated him with the Distinguished Flying Cross for the first non-stop New York to Paris flight.

"He has returned unspoiled," the president declaring after describing the flyer's epochal flight and the tributes received by him abroad.

Messages of appreciation came in from all parts of the world. "In showing applause and honor upon this general, modest American youth, with the naturalness, the simplicity, and the poise of true greatness, Franco had the opportunity to show clearly her good will for America and her people."

The president opened his address with praise of America's leadership in aviation, listing the record flights of army and navy fliers around the world and culminating with the culminating flight of Commander Evelyn Byrd to the North Pole.

Turning to the young hero, and his mother, the president spoke with deep feeling of Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh.

"His mother, who devoured her son with her own modesty and charm, is with us today. Engaged in the vituperations of school teaching, she has permitted neither money nor fame to interfere with her fidelity to her duties."

The president's address in part follows:

"My fellow countrymen: It was in America that the modern art of flying machines and their machines was first developed. As the experiments became successful, the airplane was devoted to practical purposes. It has been adapted to..."

Charges Slayer Won Wife With Shady Methods

Man Who Slays Senator Over Woman Stole Her, Says Ex-husband.

DENVER, Colo., June 11—With formal murder charges to be filed against Joseph Minter Monday for the slaying of State Senator Albert E. Bugdon, Guy Kennedy, former husband of Minter's wife, today told a story strikingly similar to that related by police to Minter.

"Only I didn't kill Minter," Kennedy said.

Minter told police he shot and killed Bugdon Thursday night when he found him in his estranged wife's apartment.

"I loved my wife," Minter said. "When I saw that fellow with my wife I went crazy."

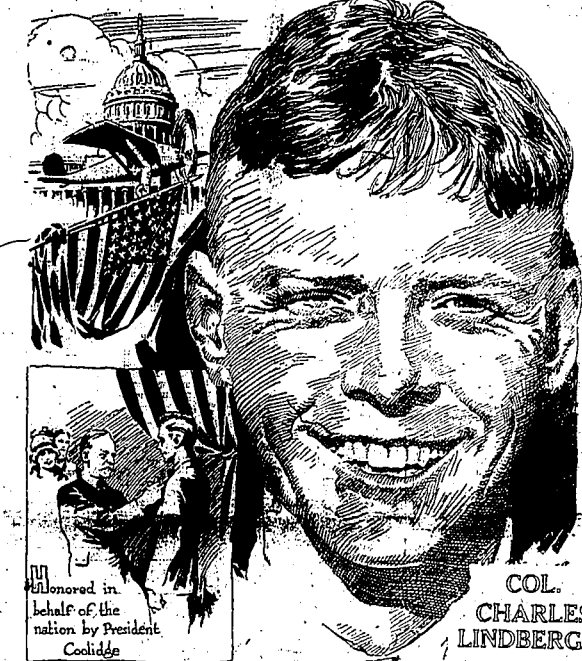

Kennedy and the present Mrs. Minter were happily married in 1921, Kennedy said.

"Then Joe Minter came into our lives," Kennedy continued. "One night I found my wife in Minter's arms. I could have killed him that night—but I didn't."

When Minter saw me, he covered; but I didn't touch him. I just left him alone and went home."

Shirley afterwards Kennedy was divorced from his wife and Minter married her.

The Nation Is Yours, Lindy, Take Your Choice

The Times Is Offering to You a Real, Genuine Business Proposition

Your Spare Time the Next Few Weeks If Used Properly Can Secure for You a Gift Valued at $1,020; $1,080; $1,087 and Up to $1,745.

Campaign headquarters, located in The Times' building, will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight (Saturday) for the purpose of receiving subscriptions to count on the "OPPORTUNITY, WISE" bonus vote which are in effect until 9 o'clock tonight only.

Any candidate in the Times' office by 9 o'clock tonight will be waited on and their subscriptions count on the present big offer, but no one will be allowed to enter this office after 9 o'clock tonight for the purpose of turning in subscriptions on the bonus vote offer.

In a campaign of out-of-town candidates and those who may work out of town today, arrangements have been made whereby ANY subscription mailed in ANY postoffice, ANY WHERE which bears a postmark no later than 9 o'clock Saturday night, June 11, will count on the present big vote offer, even though they do not reach this office until Monday or even later.

Stretch out Your Hand

Can you afford to see $1,020, $1,080, $1,087, or $1,745 within your reach without stretching out your hand to take what you desire? NO—thousand times NO! Few roads to success are paved with less obstacles than the one that is now open to you. It is the opportunity you have seldom for. The efforts that you will put forth will be more pleasant where your stimulus to start your blank elsewhere in today's Times awaits your stimulus to start your campaign department of The Times. NOW is the time.

In a campaign of this kind, the candidate as in any activity, it pays to use your hand as well as your feet. A little mathematics used will show any candidate or non candidate, how to jump to the top of the list.

You receive the maximum vote on subscriptions now. The Daily Times plan provides a DECREASING VOTE schedule. There are four periods with the vote reduced each period. The final period is of least consequence because the votes given then are few.

This campaign is a plain out-of-town business proposition. You are afforded opportunity to make your spare time these next few weeks pay you better than you ever could before, or you must WILL it to make it so.

Some candidates there are who will give you very well for a few days. They will bubble over with enthusiasm. But it won't last. They are not ready to quit. They haven't the stuff in them that will urge them on.

MAD ORGY OF JOY SWEEPS CAPITAL

Lindbergh Greets Him All and Salutes As Thousands Wildly Cheer Him and Cannons Thunder; Mother and Mrs. Coolidge Embrace Young Hero.

BY CARL D. GRAY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(United Press)—A sandy-haired boy with a clear eye, Charles A. Lindbergh, was acclaimed by President Coolidge and a hundred thousand persons here today as America's greatest modern hero.

The boy, who flew across the Atlantic ocean alone, met a madly joyous demonstration.

He greeted with a smile the thousands who cheered him down America's triumphant way. Pennsylvania avenue. He wore no uniform and looked even younger than his 25 years.

But if he was composed, the crowd was not. Greeted at the monument grounds after a parade through town by a crowd which extended as far as the eye could reach, he found himself acclaiming as no one has been hailed in modern history.

He is called "Ambassador."

Mr. Coolidge made a speech calling him "our ambassador without portfolio" and named upon his list the Distinguished Flying Cross. Lindbergh held unmoved. He straight ahead as a top sergeant and smiled at the cresting of the crowd.

On the evening of the 21st day of May just arrived at Paris, he said "During the week I spent in Paris on the line I spent at Brussels and London, the people there and here told me I bring back one message to the people of America."

Mr. Coolidge gathered I heard that you were, you have seen the affection of the people of France for the people of America, demonstrated to you," he said.

"I want to bring back to you the message of welcome."

"That was the whole of Lindbergh's message."

"I thank you," he smiled and bowed.

The president's speech and Lindbergh's simple, unassuming answer elicited a glorious day.

The U. S. S. Memphis which bore him across the ocean, had hoisted an hour at dawn and making her way to the Potomac, had put his ashore just before noon. The mother and Mrs. Coolidge's enthusiastic and most joyful husband, was first to greet him. She folded him in her arms.

Then came the triumphant march up the avenue, escorted by 2,000 police, followed by the crowd of thousands, throngs wild with joy, marked the onward path. Thousands swarmed the monument. But their cheers were deafening.

After he had spoken at the monument grounds, Secretary of War Duggan patted him on the back. Mrs. Coolidge put her arm around him. The crowd was tremendous—drastically. The bands played patriotic airs and showers of emotion-stricken crowd.

The monument ceremony was over in 20 minutes.

Cheers and fanning.

As he drove to the White House in a car with the president's chauffeur burst into fresh cheers and he came back to the president only momentary rest to be made. He looked brightly serious but with a square jaw and a little smile.

Gun boomed in the background and daylight fireworks were set off. Toy balloons and American flags across the sky.

It was by far the greatest gathering ever held in this city—accustomed to inaugurations and big receptions. There was a spontaneity about it which was not to be expected by the celebrators. The folks just rose up on their tiptoes and yelled.

There were several blocks away could be heard distinctly.

At exactly one p. m. Lindbergh stood up to the president and his family band. Mrs. Coolidge put her arm around him and smiled at him. The boy looked wild but he smiled.

"Andy" Peterson.

Perseveration poured from his brow, face convulsed, the crowd cheering, the weatherman cast a shadow of prospect for the afternoon.

At 1:02 p. m. Lindbergh was no longer in all the smiling. He did not share his brow and the sun faded upon him as Mr. Coolidge spoke.

The crowd broke into cheers before Lindbergh had finished his speech and it applauded and shouted when the president called Lindbergh "our son." The president's speech of the boy's modesty, a tremendous demonstration started.

ACE IS HONORED BY CHAMBERLIN

BERLIN, June 11—Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine today paid tribute to Germany's ace pilot, Manfred von Richthofen, who brought down about 125 Allied planes before he himself was killed in a duel in the air several months before the armistice.

A crowded schedule was ahead of the Americans for their last day in Berlin as they fly to Munich and Vienna tomorrow.

The Americans placed a laurel wreath on the grave of von Richthofen. He painted his plane in fantastic colors to identify it during his engagements in the air.

GRAY APPEALS DEATH DECREE

LONG BEACH CITY, N. Y., June 11.—Attorneys for Henry Judd Gray today announced they had filed an appeal from his conviction of the murder of Albert Taylor, for which he and Mrs. Ruth Brown Sawyer are under sentence to be executed June 29.

Assistant District Attorney James A. Dayton immediately wrote Warden Lewis Lawes of Sing Sing prison instructing him to stay the execution of Gray.

An appeal on Mrs. Snyder's behalf is expected to be filed today or Monday.

TO OVERCOME THAT SERVICES

WASHINGTON, June 11—Seventy-seven persons, mostly women, were invited to the presidential ceremonies at the monument grounds here today for Colonel Charles Lindbergh, Red Cross official.

The Red Cross maintained two first aid stations on the grounds. Three children were lost but were found by their parents. The other is being held by police.

Wilson's Nominator Dies in New Jersey

By United Press
CAMDEN, N. J., June 11.—John W. Westcott, former attorney general of New York, who nominated Woodrow Wilson as first democratic president at a convention, died after a long illness.

SHOWERS NEXT

Although tonight the showers during the weatherman cast a shadow of prospect for the afternoon.

At 1:02 p. m. Lindbergh was no longer in all the smiling. He did not share his brow and the sun faded upon him as Mr. Coolidge spoke.

The crowd broke into cheers before Lindbergh had finished his speech and it applauded and shouted when the president called Lindbergh "our son." The president's speech of the boy's modesty, a tremendous demonstration started.

TAX SAFETY IS COOLIDGE PLEA

WASHINGTON, June 11—Although the treasury will have a surplus of $600,000,000 at the end of this month, next year's surplus may drop to $218,000,000 and hence taxes cannot be ruthlessly slashed, President Coolidge, warned at the annual business meeting of the government.

Extreme caution should be exercised in tax reduction to keep the government on the safe side, he said.

The $200,000,000 surplus this year is being applied to reduction of the public debt. Next year the estimated $228,000,000 will be influenced by appropriations for Mississippi flood relief and many refunds of taxes which must be made, he said.

Mr. Coolidge said his economy program had brought beneficial results, adding:

"I do not hesitate to say that one of the greatest safeguards of this nation financially, socially and morally, lies in constructive economy."

CONFESS GANG KILLED COUPLE

NASHVILLE, Ill., June 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Zeeman, confessed members of the Charlie Birger gang killed Lory Price, state highway patrolman, and his wife, Charles John Slack of the state highway patrol and H. H. House, state attorney of Washington county, announced today.

The announcement was made at the receiving of the county grand jury which will be asked to return murder indictments on the basis of the confession. Authorities claim the confession will clear the mystery which has surrounded the Price murder since the disappearance of the couple on June 17. Newman recently has returned here from Los Angeles.

SOCIETY NEWS

Federation Members Appear on Program

The Lend-a-Hand club met in the parlors of the Christian church Friday afternoon. The president, Mrs. L. L. Wallington, was in the chair during the business session. The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. C. J. Schraeder, chairman of the district federation. A community sing, led by Mrs. W. H. Chase, was much enjoyed. Mrs. Schraeder gave an instructive talk on the work of the year in the district, federation, and Miss Thompson, the corresponding secretary of the federation, told of the importance of club correspondence. Mrs. A. C. Rutherford gave an instructive talk on "Efficiency," and read a paper on "Education." Mrs. W. C. Clouch gave a splendid talk on "Legislation." The rooms were prettily decorated in the afternoon. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. W. A. Cawood, Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Powell. Mrs. Flynn, Mrs. Feltus, Miss Hess and Mrs. Loughlin were guests of the club.

Attractive Shower for Bride-to-Be

Complimentary to her daughter, Miss Ada, who is to be married early in July to Mr. E. C. Stutz, of Phoenix, Ariz., Mrs. G. F. Avitt entertained with an attractive shower Thursday afternoon. Baskets and vases of yellow roses and white lilies decorated the rooms. A small wagon trimmed in yellow and white by LaVonne Johnson, of Los Angeles, niece of the bride-to-be, held the lovely shower gifts. A color scheme of yellow was evident in the table decorations at which luncheon was served late in the afternoon. Mrs. Clayton Johnson and Mrs. J. F. Avitt assisted the hostess. A number of town guests were Mrs. Sarah Beem and Mrs. Harry Hammerquist of Piler, Mrs. C. A. Armstrong of Buhl, Mrs. Clayton Johnson and daughter, and Mrs. W. H. Johnson of Stourcure, Neb.

BIBLE SCHOOL PROGRAM HAS LARGE CROWD

Audience at Program in Methodist Church Last Evening
A program which marked the close of the daily vacation Bible school attracted over 200 people to the Methodist church last night and received much commendation from those in attendance. The handiwork of the children who have been taught by a number of local instructors under the direction of Miss Ruth Mead, was highly commended.
There were seven dramas and a dramatization of the "Good Samaritan," by the primary grades, the members of which then gave a number of recitations, showing good training.
An appeal "Put on the Armor of God" was given by the children of the upper grades, who gave a demonstration in memory work. Ribbons for accomplishment and perfect attendance were presented by Miss Mead. Miss Mead will open a school in Hurley next week, beginning at a 1 o'clock Monday morning.

Ogden Gunners Make Count 10 Straight Over Bruin Squad

MICHAELS HOLDS LOCALS SAFE AS MATES HAMMER OUT 9-2 VICTORY

Gardiner Revamps Lineup But Fails to Shake Off Jinx Which Has Followed Team in Two Series; Play at 3 p. m. Today and Sunday.

The Ogden Gunners made the count 10 straight over the Twin Falls Bruins yesterday, the final score being 10 to 2. The Bruins started early and put over three centers in the second inning off Hickok. The scoring then lagged until the fifth when Ogden ran six more over the Bruins, the total 10 runs. Farrell, who pitched Hickok, then hurried a home run, allowing the Bruins to get back into the game. Manager Gardiner yesterday revamped his lineup, benching Hickok and sending Alloway to first and pitching Flynn in center field. The new combination failed to shake off the jinx which has plagued the locals throughout the series with Ogden and the visitors continued to keep a 75 percentage in the standing column.

Michaels, pitching for Ogden yesterday brought his total, 28, less than hitting his stride. The Bruins in the two series to 12, he previously had shut out the Bruins for 22 innings and pitched nine yesterday.

Hog, Bruin left fielder, was hit for an allowing one run but only man to get an extra base hit for two sacks.

Michaels and Lund garnered two base blows and Lumping Lombardi smashed out home runs for the Bruins.

The Bruins made a total of six hits against 11 for Ogden.

The game today starts at 3 p. m. as will the one tomorrow. The box score of yesterday's game follows:

TODAY IS THE DAY OF DAYS

Of all days, today is the day! Why?
Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is home—home from the conquest of the air between the United States, and France, home from the round of receptions and greetings of foreigners, home after receiving decorations from the president of France and kings of England and Belgium—home to his own people.
And what a welcome, what an ovation "Lindy"—our "Lindy" received. Washington was wild with excitement. Thousands and thousands—and more thousands of people lined the streets of the capital as the nation's hero rode in triumph amid their cheers, screams and other expressions of joy.

Arduous and arduous, campaigns at the distant Fort Meyer honor salute after salute, the country's officials were given in his hands—only "messenger boys." Honors, honors and more honors were heaped upon him before, during and after the parade in Washington and "Lindy" probably never will be able to read all of the letters and telegrams which he received today from people all over the country. Several truck loads of them followed the automobile in the parade.
And then this young man stepped before President Coolidge, commander-in-chief of all the nation's land, air and sea forces. The president, the highest official in the land, moved forward and pinned upon the broad chest of this great American youth a medal known as the Flying Cross—the highest award in the power of the executive to grant.
More salutes from the distant common, a visit to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington with the coming of night and then more receptions and the nation had paid his homage to Lindbergh, the pioneer of trans-oceanic air travel, the man who blazed the trail for the future mode of transportation—Lindbergh, the American.

WILD LIFE IN IDAHO

Idaho is one of the few remaining states in the union where wild life abounds. This is the fact as attested by the coming of night and then more receptions and the nation had paid his homage to Lindbergh, the pioneer of trans-oceanic air travel, the man who blazed the trail for the future mode of transportation—Lindbergh, the American.
Lindbergh was said to receive all of these honors. As the warship on which he returned from abroad steamed up to the Washington navy yard with hundreds of airplanes soaring overhead and the cannons thundering and belching forth the salutes, the heart of this youth must have heaved the burning point.
The proudest moment of the day for Lindbergh, however, was that in which he walked down the gangplank and rushed into the arms of his mother, widow of the late Congressman Lindbergh of Minnesota. She now is a school teacher in Michigan. Last night she was the guest of President and Mrs. Coolidge and she accompanied the president's cabinet committee to the fleet.
If there is a weak spot in Lindbergh's makeup it must have brought tears of joy to his heart as he stood there in the arms of his mother and faced that vast multitude of cheering, screaming humanity.
All hail to you, Colonel Charles Lindbergh! The country is yours. All hail to you, Colonel Charles Lindbergh! The country is yours.

LINDBERGH'S LIFE

The story of America's Hero, the first man to fly from New York to Paris in a non-stop trip.

OVER 3 BY HORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY (Editorial Press Staff Correspondent) Copyright, 1927, by the United Press.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Charles A. Lindbergh's decision to fly to Paris was made sometime last fall while he was still carrying the night mail between St. Louis and Chicago. At least it was then that he began to talk of such a flight. To many people such a project then sounded foolish, but it was typical of the confidence Lindbergh's friends had in him that the aviators immediately took the idea seriously.

"We know that Lindbergh was extraordinarily well fitted for the job," one of his associates said in telling of those days. "We knew also that he would see out himself very long with air mail flyers."

In December he resigned from the air-mail service telling his friends he was proposed to fly to Paris. It was at that time that he was credited with saying that the government had not taken any action to make the night mail by lighting the St. Louis-Chicago route and robbing it of its thrill.

FIRST MOVE IN 1926

December 27, 1926, Lindbergh made his first concrete move toward organizing his flight. He called upon Major William B. Robertson of St. Louis, the man before him and asked for advice and financial assistance.

"He had a clear idea then," Robertson said, "of the sort of plane he wanted to use and had decided it was best to use a single motor."

"We talked it over with my brother, Lieut. Frank Robertson and finally called upon a newspaper reporter for January 9, 1927, a conference was held and Harry H. Kuletz, a young broker-interested in flying, Albert Bond Lambert, a St. Louis banker and the father of the development of aviation in St. Louis, and Harold Wiley, now in the United States Chamber of Commerce, were interested in the project.

Kuletz set out to finance the flight. He and Wiley signed a note for $15,000 at a bank and that amount was put on deposit to the credit of Lindbergh and his associates. Then the note was underwritten by subscription. Lindbergh drew $2,800 which was the largest single subscription to the project. Harry F. Knight, father of H. H. Knight, Major Lambert, J. B. W. Lambert, Earl C. Thompson and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat subscribed from $500 to $1,000 each.

It is interesting to note that the loan from the bank will be in effect that Lindbergh used only $12,500 of the $15,000 raised for him. The remainder still is on deposit.

With the flight financed to this satisfaction, although $15,000 seemed a paltry sum when the magnitude of the project was considered and the anxious apt on other like projects are recalled, Lindbergh started out to buy an airplane.

He favored a DeLairan monoplane and opened negotiations for the purchase of one from the DeLairan interests. But he could not come to terms with the New York firm and with characteristic decisiveness, broke off negotiations and started for California to deal with the Ryan Aircraft company there. Lindbergh was just turning 25 years of age and R. F. Mahoney of the Ryan company was just turning 26 years.

It didn't take these two youthful spirits long to get together. They mutually agreed to build the plane which would cost $14,000 to manufacture. It was modified that the controls be set up, allowing for royalties and payment for patents, would be $25,000.

...way of meeting the difficulty, he would make it out.

Lindbergh had ordered especially for the flight, arrived he considered the end of that time he slept but a few hours a night and only appeared out of his room for meals and to eat. He had stored away in his mind a course of study in navigation that others report years to gain and had worked out the plan for the navigation of the Atlantic from which he never deviated and which never even threatened to fail him.

At last his plans and his plane were ready. The only sign of nervousness he showed was when he was all set to go, and the weather proved unfavorable. Then he began feeling impatient.

"The only sign of nervousness he showed was when he was all set to go, and the weather proved unfavorable. Then he began feeling impatient."

Finally on the morning of May 20 conditions were reported favorable. Lindbergh went to the field early. His plane was wheeled from the hangar and mechanics began fitting it with gasoline for the flight to St. Louis. Time dragged, Lindbergh's impatience grew, but he was kept so confident. A plane of the Hawk type, a type Lindbergh had never considered, was reported. So mechanics prepared his plane for the long flight from San Diego to St. Louis. Lindbergh piled into the Hawk and soared over the field putting it through a dry series of loops and turns which he knew by heart.

Lindbergh, waiting to make a 17 hour flight to St. Louis was kept out for an airplane. At last his monoplane was ready and he called away for St. Louis where he arrived almost without the morning of May 21 setting a new record for non-stop flying for a one-man plane, and arriving three hours ahead of the other aviators.

No One To Meet Him
He came so early no one was there to meet him. That night a reception was given him by his St. Louis friends and Harry Knight asked him to make a speech at the city hall home. But Lindbergh was engaged in the business of flying. He refused the offer and went to the Hotel France house, near the flying field and he kept bachelor quarters so long with the other aviators.

The morning of May 12 he breakfasted at the field lunch stand and before dark he circled over Manhattan and made his memorable landing. Curis finally came, his blue-lashed boy, full of confidence and destined to become the next popular peacetime civilian hero of the century. New York gave him an order for a ticket home. To that he added a draft on the bank for some $100,000 and on Friday May 12, later came letters of introduction which he sought because of his fear he might find no friends in Paris.

Then, after taking in Coney Island and the sights of New York, this amazing bird, who had dreamed through his youth in Little Falls of the day when he might tear away from the air, roared out of Roosevelt Field and 24 hours later the world was at his feet.

For Charlie Lindbergh, who used to "ride" a bicycle high up in a tree at his father's farm and play he was flying; who used to wear his cap backwards; and who drove automobiles too fast to suit the quiet people of his home town; proved that his dreams and his daring were not in vain. He had flown to Paris.

AN EXCHANGE IN MONEY ORDERED

U. S. BILLS TO BE THIRD SMALLER UNDER SECRETARY MELLONS PLAN

Vast Savings Are Expected To Be Made in Labor and Other Costs of Production and Public to Benefit in Reduction of Size of Currency.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The most radical change in the physical appearance of the paper money that this government has made since Hamilton set up its currency system has been ordered by Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury. The size of all the bills is to be changed. When the scheme is worked out bills will be a third smaller than they are today and of different designs.

This change in the currency was ordered because tests showed that the smaller size is handier than the present size. The attention is directed to the simplification. Simplification will reduce in size lessen the cost of manufacture. What is more important in the eyes of the treasury officials, however, is the confidence that they inspire in the convenience of the money as used by the people.

The new money will not be ready for circulation until the summer. Money manufacture for the government is a complicated process. One dollar bills make up more than half of the bills of our paper currency and bills of this denomination will be the first to appear in the new design. Next the $20 bills will be produced. The money plant will work up and down from them. It will take two or three years to produce all the denominations, revised, in circulation.

No bank notes. One kind of paper money will disappear entirely. There will be no national bank notes under the new scheme. The national banks will be required to deposit as a guarantee of the redemption of the money put out by the government. The treasury proposes to retire them, thus cancelling national bank notes, the most complicated element in the currency, and their appearance will greatly simplify the money scheme of the government.

The advantage of the smaller size paper money was demonstrated quite recently. When the United States government was asked to provide the Philippines with a currency, and it turned to its own money plant for the production of the currency, it found that the plates printed from steel engraved plates. This process is almost a lost practice, and it is more expensive than the government's bureau of engraving and printing, which has standardized and perfected the process and adapted it to their needs. The manufacture of Philippine money had to be adapted to these conditions. An impression it stamps the faces of the backs of eight notes. The job of the multiple plates is to make an impression it stamps the faces of the backs of eight notes. This smaller paper currency has been produced for the Philippines for 25 years, and the Philippines have signified their satisfaction with it.

Tests showed that the new size is better adapted to the pocket of the note holder, and that it is easier to handle. It fits better into the pocket than does a necessarily larger note. The smaller note requires less folding. This saves wear on an ordinary envelope. So the Federal Reserve banks reported unanimously in favor of the new size.

At the bureau of engraving and printing the change was favored. Economy recommends it. Since 1912 notes were printed on paper of the former size produced by it. It is apparent that a saving of one-third would be made in paper purchased. So great is the quantity of paper money bought every year that this saving alone would amount to $100,000,000.

All the denominations are to be redesigned in such a manner as to reduce the degree of counterfeiting. The present pictures on the bills got there quite by accident. On the $100 bill, for instance, the picture of a man known to the public. The same picture appears on a $1 bill and on a $5 bill. This new design eliminates that picture of the president only.

Navies to the general. Treasury experts find that roughly there are about a billion bills in circulation. On the average, those bills last a year before they are worn and have to be replaced. The bills naturally wear out most quickly. A billion bills would weigh about 200 tons. With six months in a year, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving must turn out about five billion new paper money every year. The money is properly put in packages and shipped to banks. These packages are about a big 30x40x10 inches worth of ink and weigh twelve pounds. Each of them contains 4,000 bills.

FLIGHT OVER OCEAN PROPOSED BY BARNUM MORE THAN 50 YEARS AGO

Fifty-five years before Captain Charles A. Lindbergh accomplished his feat across the Atlantic from New York to Paris, that illustrious aviator, P. T. Barnum, started the country with a scheme in France to attempt a balloon voyage to Europe and there by obtained wide publicity for himself and his museum.

Barnum was a really first-rate person and when he started his scheme of a European trip in 1872 he called in the newspaper reporters to tell them about his proposed overseas balloon voyage. Barnum said he had no personal desire to cross the Atlantic by air and he would not encourage others to make the voyage. He was reasonable and he said it could be made with safety by the use of the new balloons.

A Philadelphia accident named "Wife and her son" was cited by the press, as well as other accidents in Europe. One afternoon an official in the English unit, had written to Barnum stating that he would like to see the balloon trip in a balloon if it were proposed as he desired. Barnum was really modest and had no desire to cross the Atlantic by air. He would have been very glad to have the press year 1872 in a balloon, and he would have been very glad to have the press year 1872 in a balloon, and he would have been very glad to have the press year 1872 in a balloon.

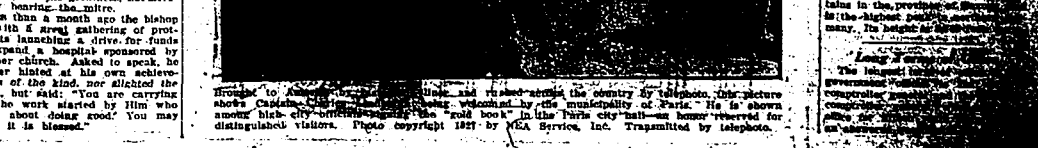

Hedda Hoyt Tells About Black and White. (Editorial by Hedda Hoyt) NEW YORK.—The Vogue for black and white is a streamer for sports clothes as well as for dresses and for afternoon costumes this season. One sees many white jersey dresses as well as sporty black and white Jersey appliques of modernistic type used on the bodice portions. A touch of black trimming on the collar, the smartest and most effective sports suit or frock is black and white. The hat should be black and white. The stockings should be black and white.

Omaha National Advertising. "What National Advertisers Want to Know About the Small-town News Paper Market" will be discussed by George W. Cushing, manager Detroit office, American Press Association, on Tuesday afternoon, 7:30. Mr. Cushing will present an elaborate program for entertainment for the visitors.

Omaha automobile owners will provide transportation for the visitors while they are in the city. "Hop over," free ride signs will placard hundreds of cars. Downtown streets will be appropriately decorated in honor of the visitors.

Earliest Speed Laws. The first speed laws were enacted at Frederick, Va. in 1858 according to an answered question in Liberty. The law stated that anyone who pulled out with an open carriage if a free man, should be fined a slave, should be given 20 lashes at the public whipping post.

Of Unknown Origin. The question as to what country the Baucars are from is still unsettled. There is no doubt as to the Baucars' ancestry at the Baucars in the Baucars. It is now generally believed that the Baucars is connected with the Baucars of the Baucars, and that they descended over the districts named Baucars.

STROMBERG DEVICE MADE LINDY SAFE

George O. Wallace, local distributor of Stromberg carburetors and Anti-Slip, was today proudly exhibiting a copy of a telegram received by the Stromberg company from the Wright Aeronautical corporation, in which the following statement was made:

"Reliability and fuel economy in his Wright Whirlwind engine were essential to Captain Lindbergh's success in his astounding non-stop flight. No one factor contributed more to his safety than the Stromberg Carburetor on his Whirlwind engine."

This telegram stands an interesting light on Captain Lindbergh's conquest of the air. For it calls attention to care with which every detail of the "Spirit of St. Louis" had to be looked after before the now famous aviator was ready to "challenge alone the perils of the broad Atlantic." Probably no other single item in his equipment was more important than the carburetor of his airplane which had to give perfect engine operations at all speeds, at altitudes as high as 10,000 feet, and at every extreme of temperature.

THE TIMES

And rather than admit their deficiency they'll come in or write in and say "I find I haven't the time." Others will be content to let their friends vote for them when they turn in their subscriptions over the counter at The Times office. Some will start, but not finish.

Delay No Longer

If you have not sent in your nomination, send it in today and participate in one of the greatest prize giving campaigns ever inaugurated in this section. If you have been nominated but so far have failed to notify the campaign department of your acceptance of your interest, make known your interest immediately.

This campaign has progressed to the point where the management must know who means business. And the way to find out seems to be to put the proposition up to you fairly and squarely. And if you have the real ambition to progress in this campaign you will respond with a determination of subscription getting actively.

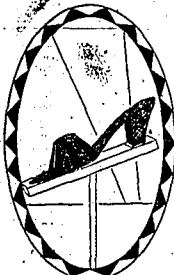

The period for the biggest votes will soon be a thing of the past, with the whole campaign over in just a few weeks, and with candidates still slow in starting—well, if you could see farther than the end of your nose you would be getting into this campaign and picking your own prize, or if you are in, you would be clinching the prize you want. If candidates could only realize their opportunity, if they could only see that one subscription today is worth up to 13 subscriptions at the end of the campaign. The Daily Times feels sure they would exert more effort.

The man or woman who has longed for the win-withal to acquire that neat little home, that start in business, that "something necessary" which requires money, provides now with the opportunity to make the dreams come true.

The way is open for more active men and women to participate in this thrilling race for reward and honor. The race in which "Everybody Wins Something." Is your name fit the list of candidates? Will it be sure with a good prize total when the next standing is printed in Tuesday's paper. If not put it there. Opportunity knocks at your very door. It asks you to be prosperous—to enjoy the riches you deserve. It beseeches you to share in the magnificent prizes that are soon to be distributed. Can you afford not to take advantage of this marvellous offer? There is $1,025, $1,050, $1,057 and up to $1,745 here for you.

PAIGE HAS IT, ASSERTS QUEEN

DETROIT, Mich., June 11.—The Paige car has the "IT" of motorcar comparable to the "IT" in human nature made famous by Eleanor Glynn, according to LeVerne Reynolds, the Detroit girl who won the title of "Miss Michigan" in a beauty and charm contest conducted by a Chicago newspaper.

"To me Paige has that almost indefinable spark of personality which fascinates and enthralls," the beauty winner declared. "What is it—well, I am sure that I cannot say, but it is there nevertheless."

The car gives the necessary thrill as it responds to my light touch on the accelerator. It slips by and through traffic with an ease that wins complete admiration. And we all know that woman must admire to be won. It completes the charm with beauty. If there is "IT" in motor cars, I know that Paige has "IT."

Bears and Baptism

The chief social event in human life in the days of Old England had naturally some curious superstitions and quaint customs associated with them. When children of different sexes were brought to the font at the same time the baby boy must always precede the girl, otherwise she was in danger of having a beard when she grew up, while the boy would have none.

GOODYEAR FIRM RECORD UNIQUE

"The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., at Akron, Ohio, is one of the most unusual industrial institutions in the country," declared C. E. Lind.

"The Goodyear family of Tire Builders includes an army of some 15,000 men at the parent plant in Akron, and between 2,000 and 3,000 each at the factories in Los Angeles and Toronto.

"Stimulation is given to the men to give their best efforts and intelligence. Awards are paid for suggestions and improvements, the men are encouraged to use their initiative and brain power.

"Goodyear's form of shop council, the Industrial Assembly, represents the men in the shop in all questions arising, ironing out problems with the management."

"From Goodyear's general philosophy of industrial relations have evolved Sutherland Field, an athletic field of 23 acres, with ample space for football, baseball, tennis, soccer, track and play grounds for children, and Goodyear Hall, a monument to Goodyear's belief in education, a six-story building in which is a normal university, a theater, gymnasium, bowling alleys and men's and women's community rooms."

A Nash Sedan of SUPREME Luxury

—in Appearance— —in Performance—

When you see—and DRIVE—this Special Sedan, you'll instantly rank it among the market's COSTLIEST cars.

Here is luxury of appearance, luxury of appointment—and BEST of all—matchless luxury of PERFORMANCE! Yet it's priced at a figure amazingly low.

For this Nash—EVERY Nash—has a 7-bearing crankshaft motor—with a bearing on each side of every connecting rod. That means super-SMOOTHNESS and silence.

You'll notice at once how it sweeps into action, the instant you step on the accelerator. POWER—so smooth, so quiet, so responsive—you'll find a new thrill in motoring. It has more bearing surface than any other

Six in its price-class. And that means SMOOTHNESS, too.

It has 4-point motor suspension and rubber cushions insulating the engine from the frame at every single point. That means SILENCE and front-end STEADINESS.

Then, bear in mind these OTHER Nash advantages—straight-line drive for EXTRA power and longer life; tubular-trussed frame for greater resistance to road shocks; Nash two-way 4-wheel brakes for quicker, SAFER stops.

Bring in the car you now drive. Use it as part payment on a new Special Sedan. Among fine sedans at this price, you'll never find anything to equal this Nash. Come in—TODAY—and see.

(The Nash price range on 25 different models extends from $865 to $2090, f.o.b. factory.)

Explaining The Times' $8,000 Campaign

Question: What is your $8,000 Free Gift Distribution?

Answer: It is a circulation sales campaign in which you sell The Daily Times a portion of your spare hours in return for a guaranteed compensation of 10 per cent cash commission on your gross subscription sales—if you do not earn a gift. You are afforded the opportunity of participating in a mammoth gift list which totals $8,000.

Question: What does your gift list consist of?

Answer: Gifts valued at $8,000, including purses of gold coin and automobiles valued as high as $1,735. There is a $1,735 Buick Master Six, Four-door Sedan; a $1,087 Nash Light Six, Two-door Sedan; a $1,080 fully equipped Wilpuff Six Touring; a $1,029 fully equipped Pontiac Six, Two-door Sedan; three cash prizes of $100.00 each and a sum has been set aside in cash to be paid ACTIVE non-gift winners on a 10 per cent basis.

Question: What are the three districts in which the territory is divided?

Answer: The districts are purely for the purpose of affording an equitable distribution of the gifts. You may secure subscriptions anywhere, however, a car and a set of gifts and cash awards are assured for each district.

Question: How is compensation determined?

Answer: The basis of the distribution is 10 per cent on every dollar you collect if you do not earn a gift, providing you remain ACTIVE in the campaign, making a regular weekly cash report.

Question: How are votes obtained?

Answer: A certain number of votes are given for subscription payments as shown by the vote schedule and by coupons which appear in each issue of the paper.

Question: Are more votes per subscription given in the last part of the campaign?

Answer: No. The campaign is on a decreasing schedule, divided into four parts or periods. Biggest votes are given in the first period, which is now in effect. Votes decrease with each period.

Question: May subscriptions be taken from persons now subscribing to The Times, as well as from new subscribers?

Answer: Yes. All subscriptions count according to the vote schedule. A vote bonus is given for new subscriptions in each period excepting the fourth.

Question: May I secure subscriptions outside my own district?

Answer: Yes. You may secure subscriptions anywhere.

Question: May I take subscriptions to be started in some future date?

Answer: Yes. Simply make a notation on the stub in your receipt book to that effect.

Question: How is the campaign brought to a close?

Answer: Under the sealed ballot box system. During the entire 2nd period the box, locked and sealed, will be at a local bank, where participants and their friends will deposit their subscription collections and votes. This precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.

Question: When is the best time to accept The Times' offer and make a start?

Answer: Now, while subscriptions count for most votes. Largest vote credits are given during the first period which is now in effect.

Question: How can I participate in the Gift Distribution?

Answer: Fill out the nomination blank elsewhere on this page and bring or send it in, or call at The Times office.

Question: Does it cost anything to enter or participate in the gift list?

Answer: Not one cent now or ever to enter and earn any of the gifts.

Question: Am I assured of any compensation for my time?

Answer: Every participant who does not earn one of the gifts will be paid in cash the sum of 10 per cent of his or her total subscription sales, if they remain ACTIVE in the campaign, making a regular weekly cash report.

Question: Will subscriptions be worth more to me later in the campaign than they are now?

Answer: Subscriptions are positively worth more during the first period of the campaign than at any other time.

Question: Who will earn the four big automobiles and the three cash prizes?

Answer: The seven people who realize that the good things in life have to be gone after. Nothing worth having was ever gotten without some effort. If you have determined to say to yourself, "I am going to participate in this big gift list," your battle is half won.

EVERY PARTICIPANT COMPENSATED

All gifts to be awarded absolutely free to men and women, boys and girls, residing in Twin Falls and this territory. You are welcome to share in this distribution. It costs you nothing now or ever. It is not even required that you be a Daily Times subscriber. Every active participant is guaranteed either a cash gift or an automobile.
