THE way to keep your car young is to keep it properly lubricated.
And the sure way to know that it will be properly lubricated is to specify Conoco Motor Oil.
It never pays to feed your car unbranded "mystery" oils. They may cost a little less than Conoco and they're worth a great deal less.
You play safe when you insist upon an oil that has proved its merits by passing every lubricating test. That oil is Conoco—fiction's deadly enemy.

Unkept Hands Spoil Entire Effect

Every woman should have soft, white, youthful hands to complete the picture of daintiness and grace. While eating, dabbing, playing cards, in fact, whatever you do, your hands are noticed as much as your complexion. You can't neglect them without spoiling the impression you make by being well groomed in every other detail. The easiest way to keep your hands so white and fresh is to massage them with the dainty lotion you can make by simply squeezing the juice two months into a bottle of Osmol-Walka, which you can get from your favorite dealer. It clears and refines the complexion, softens and smoothes hands, and makes them like a queen's.—adr.

BYRD AWAITS CLEAR WEATHER

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 22.—Storms prevented the American departure for Europe again today, and Commander Richard S. Byrd planned to take advantage of the delay to receive another college degree by mail within the week. Byrd will make the commander a master of arts at its commencement exercises this afternoon. Byrd will return to Roosevelt Field in the late afternoon in time to take off for Paris should the weather clear by then, but reports this morning indicated the start would be delayed until tomorrow at the earliest. With Harold Gatty, New York pilot, radio operator, navigator and general utility man, definitely announced as the fourth man on the trip and Byrd officially sworn in as an air mail pilot, nothing remained to do when the weather cleared, but add a few more gallons of gasoline, fuel for the provisions and take off. Lt. Col. George O. Norville, Bert Adams and Herbert J. Hall were ready to leave on short notice when the storm arose in the Atlantic disappeared.

NOT SURPRISING

The first thing England and Japan attempted to put over at the tri-power disarmament conference being held at Geneva was a plan whereby those nations would gain through naval construction while the United States would not be much ahead of Japan and vastly inferior to Great Britain.

Without going into details regarding the proposals of the London and Tokyo governments, it is certain that the United States government will not sanction them. The old world and some of her allies still cling to the idea, that America is asleep, or believe that she should be, and it takes an occasional jolt on the jaw to cause the other powers to realize that the United States will not be any other than the first.

While England and Japan, no doubt, will insist upon terms which will curtail American naval construction to some extent, this nation cannot afford to drop too low in the matter of preparedness.

As a matter of comparison, attention is called to the statement issued at Washington yesterday in which it is shown that the present American modern cruiser tonnage, hull and machinery, is only 85,000 compared with England's 204,250 tons.

This is a condition which would place this nation in danger in case of war, in view of the fact that ratios of other craft are virtually the same, and goes to show the United States still must face the threat of war despite all of the agreements which other powers have made and which they will continue to make through their so-called diplomatic experts.

AN EXAMPLE OF INJUSTICE

Yesterday's reports from the Chicago Board of Trade told how wheat prices made poor response to news which should have resulted in increased quotations because of developments at Springfield, Ill., where the Illinois legislators passed on third reading the Kissinger bill which has as its object, according to the editor's understanding, some sort of curb upon the trading in futures on the market.

To the people outside of the state of Illinois, it seems an injustice that a measure in the legislature of one state should be allowed to adversely affect the prices which they receive for wheat.

The provisions of the Kissinger bill may be proper so far as they affect the people of Illinois or even a large section of the middle west, but when the conditions brought about by political action cause a loss to the growers of Idaho, for instance, it seems that the whole system of legislation regarding markets is wrong.

The Chicago Board of Trade is an institution which has vital effects upon the prosperity of the entire country and such being the case the correct solution of such conditions as that mentioned above would appear to be for government laws to control the markets. In that way the people of Illinois, in common with the people of other states affected by legislation of any kind, would have an equal voice.

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE by Anne Nichols

AN IRISH STORY

"Somebody's got to be the one to do it," said the old man to the young man who was sitting at the head of the table in the dining room of the hotel. "You've got to be the one to do it, and you've got to do it right."

CHAPTER I

And while they were talking, the door opened and a young man in a dark suit and a white shirt and tie came in. He looked at the old man and the young man who were sitting at the table and then he looked at the woman who was sitting next to the old man.

Three again, the boy stirred faintly, as though in vision. The fingers of one weak hand rose slightly, and the chaplain saw that they were holding the metal identification tag which the gray light, like a hand, had laid upon the table. With a quick movement he bent forward and caught it, saw what it was—the metal identification tag which he had given every enlisted man.

He took the tag from the boy's hand and looked at it. He saw that the metal chain was too short, the blunt tin can, and as he sat there, looking at it, he saw the young man's eyes and saw that the other's eyes did appear, were fastened on him. A hoarse voice, distinctly clear and loud, said: "Dunn, six days' pay, Dunn's company." Working hard, he said, "Some scrap."

Chaplain Samuels felt the tag fall, a dry thing falling to his throat at the boy's gaze. With an effort he smiled and smiled. "Wonderful scrap! Will an effort be made and smiled. "Wonderful scrap! Will an effort be made and smiled. "Wonderful scrap! Will an effort be made and smiled."

There was no response to this. "I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face. "I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face. "I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face.

"I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face. "I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face. "I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face.

"I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face. "I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face. "I'm not sure," said the chaplain, looking at the boy's face.

prayer of the young chaplain. "You thought I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I shall fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me." (Psalm 138)

HEDDA HOYT TELLS ABOUT SLEEVES

ABOUT EVENING STYLE BY HEDDA HOYT. (New Press Fashion Editor) 'NEW YORK'—The straight-line gowns in fashion are made of a full skirt and belted waistline. The waistline is usually placed at the top of the hips although some of the slender girls wear normal-waisted frocks.

More while evening gowns are seen at present than any other single color. Black gray and modulated colors with a child's waist and a child's skirt are the fashion. In a moment, by some strange, sweet miracle, all the bitterness, all the horror, all the loss of pain and struggle had been sponged away, in a new peace transcending life.

The three eyes of the chaplain closed, too, at that. Far away in the distance, he saw the next hour like the daylight was growing stronger; at any moment now it might break again—a chaos of shells from some hidden battery, a rain of bullets from some unseen emplacement. There he saw the next hour like the daylight was growing stronger; at any moment now it might break again—a chaos of shells from some hidden battery, a rain of bullets from some unseen emplacement.

For the very young girl, full frocks with semi-fitted bodices and flaring skirts are the prettiest thing of the season. Saturated necklines and tiny puffed sleeves give even a more youthful effect.

Twin Falls Daily Times

THESE are the days that will test the resourcefulness of the candidates. Here it is where their courage upholds them and makes them fleet or, lack of it takes the stiffness out of their knees and leaves them trailing in the dust—an "also ran." There are times, too, when supreme courage urges them on when they tire, and that is the GALLEY FIGHT OF ALL.

Votes will pile up rapidly during the next ten days—that is while the "Second Period" schedule is in effect. While the second period schedule is less than the first, votes are so liberal that any candidate can take advantage of it and win. The decrease in the whole schedule between the first and second periods is not to be compared to that between the second and final periods.

100 PER CENT EFFICIENCY COUNTS HIGHLY NOW

From now on until the finish is the time when one hundred per cent efficiency counts.

'Tis the coward who quits to misfortune
'Tis the knave who changes each day;
'Tis the fool who starts like a whirlwind,
Then throws all his chances away.
The time to succeed is when others
Discourage, show traces of tire;
The battle is fought on the home stretch,
And WON twist the flag and the wire.

During the "Second Period" (these next ten days) subscriptions will count big; in fact, they count for almost as many votes now as during the "First Period" just closed. For example—one six-year subscription (if new and carrying with it 120,000 EXTRA BONUS VOTES) counts 420,000 votes now, where formerly 840,000 votes were given. Yes, and there is the club of 100,000 extra votes for every $12 in billfaced secured.

Think and plan accordingly for this means success. Figure ways to win, and always remember that your adversaries, as keen, perhaps, and as successful as yourself, are racking very acute brains for the same purpose.

It means something to win in a competition of this kind—IT MEANS $1,000, $1,000, $1,087 and up to $1,745 for each of the four different persons. It is extraordinary. To win proves a winning personality. Some times a campaign of this nature proves up the "yellow" in your "baker" friends, and it always tests your "nettle" and measures your strength.

CANFIELD AND O'NEILL IN MOUND BATTLE IN OPENER AT SALT LAKE

Rosenberg Returns to Game and Gets Double; Twin Falls Hurler Allows 11 Blows While Locals Touch Opponent for Only Six.

Special Dispatch to The Times
SALT LAKE CITY, June 22.—Pitchers Canfield, for the Twin Falls Bruins, and O'Neill, for the Salt Lake Bees, engaged in a pitchers' duel here yesterday and O'Neill and the Bees came out on the base end of a 5 to 3 score, the latter team being more effective in the strikes.

The Salt Lake team made six hits and Salt Lake found the ball for a total of 11, the total of hits being a two base blow by Rosenberg, Twin Falls shortstop who returned to the game after a long absence on account of a cold, and two singles by J. J. Rose and O'Neill of Salt Lake.

Although the Bees made six errors, Twin Falls was unable to take advantage of the mistakes because O'Neill tightened in the pinches and started superbly here.

Twin Falls scored first in the inning with a single from and fielder's choice until the third when Salt Lake put over another in the fourth and Canfield, but held the Bees in hand until the seventh when they counted two more after Twin Falls had scored one in their half of the ninth.

Manager Apperson led the hitting for the Twin Falls team with two singles out of three there in the home, Alloway, who mixed left field, Rosenberg and Kroschel gathered the other Bruin singles.

The same teams play again today. The box score of yesterday's game follows:

Willsure's IONACO
Dear Mr. Willshire:
I have been using the Willsure's IONACO with my patients in the Oreganitic Hospital and have to report exceptionally good results in all cases of Insomnia.
