How to Get a Million Votes by Saturday Evening

Four NEW SIX-YEAR subscriptions, including "clubs," count 2,800,000 votes. Five NEW SIX-YEAR subscriptions, including "clubs," count 3,600,000 votes. Eight NEW SIX-YEAR subscriptions, including "clubs," count 5,760,000 votes.

One hundred and twenty dollars (ten clubs of 100,000 votes each) made up of any size subscriptions, means 1,000,000 votes besides the regular number of votes credited to each subscription.

A million votes can easily be secured by any candidate after the SECOND PAYMENTS—that is extensions of subscriptions received earlier in the campaign. Thousands of extra additional votes can be secured in this way and many new "clubs" made up. This arrangement of "Second Payments" will not be in effect the last week of the campaign.

Shell

The Longsought "dry" gas

SHELL 400 is "dry" gas
"WET" GAS wastes power

EVAPORATED droplets mean waste of power... waste of power for starting, waste of power for pick-up, waste of power for acceleration, waste of power for mileage.

SHELL 400 evaporates completely to a dry gas at every point in the cycle of combustion from low initial point to low end point. It enables you, for the first time, to get the full power out of your gasoline.

It insures complete combustion
SHELL 400 has eliminated motor knocks in the most logical way. It contains no chemicals; it needs none. It is a pure hydrocarbon fuel.

A DOUBLE CELEBRATION

The south Idaho district this year has cause for double celebration on July 4. The various entertainments throughout this district are intended primarily, of course, as an observance of the birthday of independence for the United States but for the people of this area there is double cause for rejoicing at this time.

The agriculture outlook for south Idaho never was better, according to reports from every source, and it would seem that every citizen should take time on July 4 to gather at the various towns, exchange greetings and join in a general celebration for the prosperity which is likely to be theirs this year.

That business in this area is prosperous is proved when one observes the tremendous crowds which visit Twin Falls on Saturday nights. The traffic here last Saturday night both at the automobile races in the streets and people on the sidewalks and in the stores was so dense as to make passage in any direction extremely difficult.

With the full development of the crops it is very possible that business will continue to increase throughout the summer, reaching the climax late this fall.

It therefore would be entirely proper for all citizens to join in a general celebration of this condition on July 4.

AIRLINES COMING

Now that the first spontaneous welcome for Colonel Lindbergh has settled down to a more comprehensive and sober consideration of his accomplishment, predictions made some time ago that the flight from New York to Paris would inaugurate the establishment of passenger lines for flying to come true.

Saturday it was announced that various big financiers of the east were planning to establish companies to launch continental and trans-oceanic passenger and freight routes.

When the day of air travel becomes general, many of the country's transportation problems will be solved.

Coincident with the beginning of plans for the air lines, the government announced that the new flying field and air terminal buildings connected therewith throughout the west had been turned over to the cities where they are located.

The transfer of the properties is the first step by the government to turn the transportation of mail over to private enterprise. Several large concerns operating airplanes will benefit under the new program and the government will derive returns in that it will be able to obtain the transportation of mail by air under competitive bids and save thereby.

Charming Wedding Solemnized Sunday

Sunday evening, June 26 at the Murray home, 1123 Ninth avenue east, occurred the marriage of Miss Elsie Harmon Murray, daughter of Mrs. Beaul Murray and Lawrence Payne Murray, of Norwood, Idaho, to the Rev. H. O. Humphrey of the First Methodist Episcopal church officiating. Only immediate relatives and close friends were present. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses and her gown was of white crepe silk, ornamented with milk lace. The floor and ceiling were banked with pink and white roses and the altar was formed with baskets of pink and white roses. Following the ceremony an appetizingly appointed wedding supper was served. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Everett Griffith of Burley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pat of Jerome, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Whitney and children of Kimberley, Misses Irene and Marcella Whitney of Norwood, Idaho, Mrs. Alma Jarvie of Cobles Springs, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Patz, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Whitney, Miss Julia Whittle, Mr. and Mrs. William Deagle, Mr. and Mrs. John Grimsick, Mr. C. D. Weaver, and Mrs. Beaul Murray of Twin Falls. The bride is a well known Twin Falls girl, having attended at Washington school. She is a graduate of Albion state normal and also studied at the University of California. ## Petty Patchers Have Park Meet

Miss Opal Meekins entertained the Park Patchers at a meeting in the city park. Following the business session an hour of tennis was enjoyed. The refreshments were served at Plixton's.

YOU SHOULD

When others are still thinking about what others are still thinking about.

Anyone who sets to work to make the most of the present big vote, includes in his program the results. Each year's subscription that you secure sends you flying along to success. Your Opportunity Is Here. So, you see, you haven't very much excuse for not including your name if you have any desire to help your city. Certainly you haven't any reason to oppose with yourself or impugn the fact that you have not a chance. You have a chance if you will take it. Of course, you would hardly expect to make the grand party without some effort on your own part.

The vote schedule is almost now. It decreases next Saturday night. For those who, so far, have only promised their big vote and not made good on it, the kind of compelling argument needed to bring their friends to them. When you see how much their subscriptions will help you, you are right now, they will no longer be able to make a good record for you when they can give you. Can you afford to miss such an opportunity as this? Not if you mean to hold your position right up to the top of the mountain. Remember the entire race comes to a final end in a slushy short time and there will be no second chance in this big vote period. You can now campaign as you never have before and with results that you have only hoped to attain before. Tomorrow and Wednesday, as well as this entire week, will be the time to make your chance their votes materially this week. Will you?

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE by Anne Nichols

AS THE STORY GOES and Abie went named Rose-Mary, which seems to them a miracle, though their parents would have called it Abie. He was a very handsome young man, watching the Abie-Rose-Mary celebration. They had met the night the coronation's coronation was in St. Mary's, church, where by Rose-Mary's efforts as an entertainer, and again, in the house where he took from delirium to find her as he nursed, later, in Rose-Mary's hospital leave expired at midnight; she was catching an afternoon train. The answer seemed to please her, but she resumed, still serene: "No, you're not here by your father's letters. I know you are."

It was Abie's turn to grow solemn. "Well, mine is just plain." "What I've got to do," said Abie, smiling. "Is to start in and educate Dad."

"Well, why not?" "I know you had?" "I'm not Dad. It isn't the name that's at all, Dad—Dad!"

"Miss Edith," said Rose-Mary, laughing a delicate little laugh. "That they can be used, if they're given their proper treatment."

"Oh, it isn't so hopeless a case as you're making it out to be," said Rose-Mary. "Do you know any such cases?" "I can imagine how they'd come out," murmured Abie, smiling slightly.

"That's it—they don't smile. Not to speak of their eyes, neither." "I turned up here last week. Of course she had to see her daughter. And she saw that she was the daughter. Her father didn't go to the night—"

"Don't you think the mother had better be more educated?" "Well, perhaps she had," laughed Rose-Mary. "But it just proved what can be done—don't you think?"

"Able—oh, have I been too stupid?" "He succeeded her love." "Of course not! No—it's just that in the case you've described the official prejudice was not so narrow. Your friend's mother didn't have to forego her religion to forgive her."

Dr. John H. Morgan left Sunday evening for Salt Lake City to attend his own case. Miss Parvo Hubbard, who is critically ill, if Miss Hubbard's condition permits, Dr. Morgan will attend the Salt Lake Thursday for Boise to attend the state medical meeting.

BYRD CONTINUES TO WATCH SKIES

ROOSEVELT FIELD, NEW YORK, June 27—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his important crew, looking into inspections of adverse weather reports today and hoped the series of southerly flying conditions seemed fairly good along the prospective route of the America across the Atlantic, and there was a chance that the flight could start within 24 hours. Weather observers considered it more likely, however, that a condition of this kind would not develop under Wednesday.

The Pooker plane remained ready for an hour, but a condition of this kind would not develop under Wednesday. Lloyd Beraud, who at one time was expected to accompany Clarence Chamberlin on his flight, today was advised of Paris, or Chamberlin returns to New York by air.

"I think we ever thought about his being an Irishman or I a Jew? Not over here, but it might be to that way at home." "Of course it should!" and Rose-Mary's shoulder moved close against his. "I stand of her hair brushed his cheek. Abie said suddenly, in a new and different tone: "Look here! Do you know what I think I'll have to do, Abie?" "I'll have to do it, Abie?" "I'll have to do it, Abie?" "I'll have to do it, Abie?"

Abie slipped one arm along the back of her chair and drew her against him, as if to make for an instant, by the mere touch of her, the deep throb of his heart. "I'll have to do it, Abie?" "I'll have to do it, Abie?" "I'll have to do it, Abie?"

WILSON MAKES ROSY REPORT ON RENO MEET

Believes That Federal Aid for Highway Twin Falls Road Will Come Within 30 Days.

Returning from a road meeting in Reno, Nev., with C. E. Lind, chairman of the Twin Falls chamber of commerce road bureau, Arthur H. Wilson, president of the local chamber of commerce, declared that he is of the opinion that the federal government will approve of the $15-Twin Falls road that work will start in time to have the highway ready for use next season.

Mrs. Wilson pointed out that a federal government road bureau, San Francisco is withholding its approval until it gets advice from a committee of men who are examining various road projects before advising federal aid. United States Senator Odell, Republican of Nevada, says Mr. Wilson promises that he will take Nevada's problem up with the federal bureau at Washington, in an effort to secure faster action.

Construction of the $15-Twin Falls road over a distance of 240 miles would secure a direct route between Idaho and southern California. It is believed that each year the highway would see a heavy volume of traffic.

WILD MORNING GLORY IS ONE OF IDAHO FARMERS' WORST ENEMIES

(Editor's Note—This vicinity has half a dozen or more weeds that are causing farmers much trouble. In this article a short description of each of the plants and an explanation of how best to control the weeds will be beneficial to readers.) Idaho The Times is beginning a short series of articles on this subject. The consideration of one weed will be taken up each day until the worst ones have been discussed.)

Blindweed or Wild Morning Glory, another name: Small flowered morning glory; blindweed, archery morning glory.

DESCRIPTION—This variety is the most destructive of the morning glory family. It is an introduced perennial, which spreads by means of fleshy cord-like running stems and by seeds. The stems are branched and form at frequent intervals and start new plants, making a thick mat upon the ground, or twining about any upright plant or object present.

The leaves of the plant are arranged in a fan shape, some are thick and somewhat similar to those of some morning glories, about an inch long and one-half inch wide, others are white or light tinged with pink. The seed pods are spherical, air-colored, papery, contain one seed, and are roughened seeds about one-eighth of an inch in length.

CONTROL

Blindweed is one of the most serious weed pests in the United States. It is found in all sections of Idaho and in many cases has overrun whole fields so that they are practically useless for crop production. Since it has caused so much damage, the Idaho state university has been carried on by the department of agronomy in the last five or six years.

For these reasons, recommendations include two methods, one for large areas, and the other for small scattered patches. For the larger areas, some herbicide is the most economical and satisfactory means of control. Such cultivation which is done shortly after the seedlings of the plant are first appearing should be followed by frequent cultivation for the remainder of the season. For the smaller scattered patches, the weeds should be pulled up above the surface. A few farmers have experimented with cultivation with deep plowing three or four times during the season.

Results of experiments carried on in Latah, Kootenai, and Twin Falls counties show quite conclusively that the weeds are not killed by plowing. The best means of eradicating small patches of the weed.

Carbion bliniphilia is a heavy liquid which evaporates rapidly upon exposure to the air. The gas formed is heavier than air. The liquid is very inflammable and it must not be brought near fire of any kind. In the field it should be kept covered with wet sacks. The chemical is quite expensive, even when purchased in large amounts, and consequently can be economically used on only small
