Fear Outbreaks After Governor Looms 2 to Die

COOLIDGE OUT FOR GOOD IS DAKOTA VIEW

Strain of Office Believed to Have Made Withdrawal From Race Final.

By PAUL H. MALLEN
Lakeland, Fla., Staff Correspondent—
LAKELAND, Fla., Aug. 4.—A representative cross-section of opinion in the representative western town, now the summer capital of the nation, today states that the man in the street believes President Coolidge definitely renounced the throne when he said he did not choose to be a candidate in 1928.

With the storm of debate raging among politicians, and the Dakota Press today asked why they think of him as they do.

Only the New England
—One of the 10 suggested Mr.
Coolidge might return to continue to the next Republican national convention desired to nominate him, and most of them were glad that Mr. Coolidge had decided against another year.

—Their views—a refreshing insight into the national mind—confirmed the statement of his own
Mr. Coolidge's statement to those not interested personally in politics. He said that he had decided against another year.

—His inference was that he is like a good many other people—he is not a candidate. But I think if he is not a candidate, he is not a candidate.

—Expected Decision
George Whittiger, attorney—
"I expected all along that Mr. Coolidge would refuse to take another year."

A. K. Thomas, director of the First National bank—
"I don't know Mr. Coolidge very well, but I have formed the opinion that he is not a candidate."

—The effect of the statement will be to prevent any threat of a break in the Republican party, and to just as when Roosevelt ran. I don't think Mr. Coolidge would accept the nomination under any circumstances.

C. C. Warren, president of the Warren-Lambert company—
"I have made a decision, but I regard his position now in an inconclusive way, with a possibility of change."

QUADRUPEL GIRLS ARE WAY TO EASY LIFE, SAYS MOTHER

By NEA Service.
QUADRUPEL GIRLS. Nearly one quarter of a million people journey yearly to a little unexcited town near here in Oklahoma for the purpose of seeing the only four quadruplet daughters in the world.

They are Roberta, Mona, Mary and Leola Keyes, quadruplet daughters of a family who graciously permit the "quadruplet" and "twin" names to have freely retained any sort of recognition for their girls for many years.

Only a little while ago the Keyes turned down a $25,000 a year salary offer.

They have 100 top living the same life if my girls went on the stage, says their mother, Mrs. J. J. Keyes, explaining that the entire management of the home is handled among the four daughters, while she herself sits and reads and reads and reads and thanks a kind Providence which sent her the only four quadruplet daughters in the world.

Had Four Birthdays Taken
The Keyes girls had their birthday party last week, a party with four cakes frosted in pink and blue and green and yellow, four leading candles atop each cake, one for each girl as alike as the proverbial peas in a pod, blowing out the candles with one slightly puff.

Twelve years ago when the sturdy father first beheld his four daughters and fondly attempted to figure out a way to tell them apart, he decided that they must always be to be held or seated at the table in the same order, Roberta on the outside, then Mona, then Mary and then Leola. Time has changed many things in the Keyes household, but never that sitting and standing and sleeping arrangement.

When the quadruplets go to school or church, in the morning, it is Roberta, the outside, then Mona, Mary and Leola.

"It worked," says Mrs. Keyes. "I've almost got lost by now."

At table, in an attic, at the movies—a party, or a birthday party—Roberta, Mona, Mary and Leola.

Over fun-loving girls that they are the quadruplets, Mrs. Keyes tries "kidding him or her" by forming in a reverent or respectful way.

Twelve years ago Mrs. Keyes would have been a girl, a girl of all-around daughters. She was in the market for sympathy.

The Keyes quartet of girls, with the four quadruplet daughters in the world. They just celebrated their fourth birthday with four cakes, just as they are shown above. They are Roberta, Mona, Mary and Leola.

Roberta would have been a girl, a girl of all-around daughters. She was in the market for sympathy.

Two are Exactly Alike
Although all four girls look alike, they are not exactly alike. Roberta is the tallest, and Mary is the shortest.

BANDIT-RIDDEN VILLAGES FORM VIGILANTE BODY

By United Press
BIRMINGHAM. Natives of the thickly populated mountainous Shasta region have adopted the methods of the California "Volunteers to protect themselves from bandit bands now terrorizing villages in many parts of Shasta county.

The organization known as the "Shasta Vigilantes" was formed in the northeastern part of the province where a bandit army recently sacked a village, killing many of the inhabitants and abducting them to the most horrible tortures.

Serifal organizations are built around the mystic figure of a "vigilante" cooperative work on a large scale. These vigilantes and bandits, 72 in number, and themselves by agreements made between their officers, to join in defense against the bandits in case any village is attacked.

The young men in each village are arming themselves with long-tipped hunting spoons, knives, axes and other weapons and are sworn to field the vigilantes to the death.

An effort has also been made to propagate the evil spirits which are supposed to infuse bandit raids and the possible violence to life and villages by firing many times and hitting sacred ornaments.

Shooting for years has been increased with bandit raids despite the annual efforts of the provincial authorities to overcome the bandits.

Many of farmers now are exulting from the untroubled province to Shasta.

Leads Strike

When the gas company in Wichita, Kan., decided to raise its rates, the city's Federation of Women's Clubs, headed by Mrs. John Stahlin (above) called a gas strike. A day was set aside to keep the ranges idle, and a survey showed that 75 per cent of Wichita's 20,000 houses burned no gas for 24 hours. Now housewives have decided to make every Friday a "no-gas" day.

VICTORIA NOW HAS TALLEST IN PREMIERS

MELBOURNE.—The world's tallest premier is claimed by the state of Victoria.

Mr. Hogan-Lambert, who recently led his party into office stands 6 ft. 5 1/2 inches in his socks and a fine tush of curly hair adds a couple of inches to that height.

The most labor friendly who have held office in the various Australian States at different times, Hogan worked his way down from the bottom rung of the ladder. At 12 he left school to drive a team of horses on his father's farm, while even before that age he had done a man's work in the mines. At 19 Hogan left for the goldfields of Western Australia and was a lumber jack. There he started out on his political career as spokesman for workers in disputes with employers. He also induced the population at altitude meetings there of being the best looking of putting the weight, tossing the cable, and similar sports.

Hogan is not yet 10 years of age, but has had a Parliamentary career extending over a decade.

His political career has not been untroubled, such as were sold to extract Premier John T. Lane of New South Wales after he assumed control. If Hogan does develop them, he will have a hard time put on him for his party, though the largest in the State, Legislative Assembly, has an absolute majority and can only govern with the help of three or four independents, who will certainly turn opponents should Hogan lead toward conservatism.

'SHADOWY HAND' PUZZLES TOWN

By United Press
ASTORIA, Ind.—Police and spirit mediums, using respectively scientific and occult methods, are seeking to probe the mystery of a shadowy hand which for some weeks now has been disturbing the family peace of a modest suburban town near here.

Some months ago a brother of a family who lives in the town died, and a few weeks ago, the family being up a photograph enlarged of the deceased in the room in which he slept.

The first signs of the psychic phenomenon were noted by Della Villa, a woman who lives in the town, one day while she was sitting at her table. The clearly defined shadow of a hand appeared on the wall side of the photograph, and the family opened and closed as if trying to grasp something.

The neighbors were called in, and the phenomenon was repeated in the presence of half a dozen people. The shadow was shadowy, but it left the photograph in several other occasions, always at midnight, and the family moved was called in to investigate the occurrence.

This peculiar case has produced an interest on the shadowy hand which has been tried to show up every other night about midnight.

Some local spiritualists then interested in the case, and located a medium to the hand. According to the medium the hand is a spirit manifestation from the dead brother, who is trying to convey a message to the living.

What this message is, the medium does not intend to know. The bishop of the diocese, hearing of the case, ordered that a solemn funeral service be held for the deceased, and since then, it is stated, the mysterious hand has not appeared.

A PROBLEM FOR THE CHURCHES

Bishop Charles H. Brent, of Buffalo, N. Y., at the World Conference of Faith and Order, now in session at Lausanne, Switzerland, makes a charge which is entirely new, rebuffs a condition which, indeed, probably is a serious problem for all churches.

Division as it exists today in the Christian church (meaning all the churches) and in Christian civilization, is a sad and a fearful one, and has resulted in the United States in less than 50 per cent of the population even professing Christianity.

His address follows: "The Christian church (meaning all the churches) and in Christian civilization, is a sad and a fearful one, and has resulted in the United States in less than 50 per cent of the population even professing Christianity."

"The evil effect is most evident in rural districts where the church-going population is divided into impoverished rival groups without unity. The result is that not 50 per cent of the population even professes Christianity and no churches are being agreed on such fundamental questions as peace and war or Christian unity."

"The situation would be infinitely worse if it were not tragic. In reality it is suicidal. We are here as a solemn protest against it an unmanly effort to find a solution through unity."

The bishop's plea follows a report issued at Philadelphia this week of the constitution committee of the Inter-Church conference, representing 13 denominations.

In the latter report grave concern was expressed by the committee over the loss, which, in the communications on which statistics were studied, showed a decrease of 266,000 last year out of a total membership of 15,619,000.

According to the report, integration of members between state and denominational lines is an affliction and church obligations on the part of its members are the two chief causes assigned for the loss by the committee.

The Times will take no part in any quarrel between sects but it would seem that the statistics and charges contained in these two statements are worthy of deep study to the end that the good work of the churches may resume its rightful influence upon all men.

A REAL MAN IS HONORED

Walter Johnson, the world's greatest baseball pitcher, who stars with the Yankees at New York, Idaho, "away back there" before 1907, well remembers the man's honors. Walter Johnson's father never really is recognized and more, for his country owe him a debt which it would be extremely difficult to pay.

Johnson, known as "Big Train," is the hero of every boy who follows the national game and of every man and woman, too. He has lived an upright, honorable life throughout his 20 years of service in the major leagues. He has served most of his salary and has received increase of pay, without asking, or without "bitching out."

Johnson's father, who pitched the same brand of baseball year after year with a losing team and, finally, two or three years ago pitched the Washington team into a world's series and a championship.

Johnson's five children and his happy home, together with his great record and his undying loyalty to his father, are the things that mean most to him. He has a father who is the man of the nation, that it is possible to estimate.

It was this father's privilege to see Walter Johnson pitch one of his very first great games which was played at St. Louis early in 1908. That day Walter Johnson was the youth with blinding speed and marvelous control. His opponent on the mound was much older than Bill Dahlen, now in training in the American League. Dahlen was at the sunset of his career. He, with the famous Cy Young, had, a few years before, led the Boston Americans to two pennants and a world championship.

The day was hot, as only summer days at St. Louis can be, and the torrid temperature was exactly what the Federal League needed to put him "winding up" in the second inning on a combination of scratch hits. Washington tied the count along about the seventh and from there until the 17th inning neither team came even close to the home plate. Dahlen used every iota of cunning he possessed and stayed with the Washington team. Johnson, then only 20 years old, working against a man old enough to be his father stood on the mound and threw, putting everything he had behind every ball he pitched and totally baffling the St. Louis hitters. Walter was aided by the experience of his catcher, and, incidentally, the man who discovered him, old Mike Kubie.

Washington won that game by scoring one run in the first half of the 17th inning and so anxious was Dahlen to win that in the 17th inning he pitched the first batter to top a new leg to the first base and struck out the last two.

This did Johnson's career really start and the old man in his youth with several other brilliant fans, holds a warm spot in his heart for Johnson, which will last throughout his life.

All honor to a real man and a real hero—Walter Johnson.

Varying Economic Conditions Make No One Tax System Adequate to Deal With Whole

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a continuation of the series of articles heretofore published by The Times from the secretary of agriculture's annual report for 1916 to President Coolidge. Tomorrow's article will show how the handicrafts rate set in taxation is not so good.

SOURCES OF TAXATION

It should be noted that the agricultural tax was made up only as an example of a method that has been used by some states. It is not true that all states should adopt such a measure. The varying economic conditions and character of the various sections of the country make no single measure adequate to deal with the situation. The question tax is another that might be cited as an example of a method that has been adopted either for distribution among the various divisions or for use by the state in relief, building and maintenance to relieve the local conditions of the various sections. The particular tax with a specific fund can be cited as an example of a method that has been adopted either for distribution among the various divisions or for use by the state in relief, building and maintenance to relieve the local conditions of the various sections.

DEMOCRATS ARE TAKING HEART

Believe Their Chances Are Better for 1928 With Coolidge Out

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Called Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Democrat today are exulting quietly over what is being regarded as the preliminary of President Coolidge's departure from the 1928 political picture.

Whether the president has claimed public for his chances for 1928, most of them admit privately that they could not expect to beat Coolidge in 1928. Whether the effect of what they deem imminent of Coolidge will be to bring harmony in the party is purely to conjecture. The differences on party basis and candidates remain to be seen.

Whether the president intends to stay out definitely or not, it is becoming evident as the situation clears that the republican apparatus intend to mean to mean that they will try through and, will seize the occasion to lay the gates to Mr. Coolidge.
